DO YOU AGREE
That Problem Solving,
Personal Investigating, Thinking Creatively,
Rational Decision Making, Writing, Speaking, Science and Life Skills Should Happen In A Math Class?
WE DO, TOO!
They happen in The After-School Classroom, an enriched after school educational program, focusing on mathematics that is systematically integrated with writing and science.

Learn to Think
Learning to think, analyze and draw conclusions are important attributes that youngsters in grades 4 through 8 should develop. One of the goals of our teaching philosophy is to instill independent thinking.

Students Actively Participate
Students will explore math as a standard curriculum and create a firm foundation in basic skills. These basic skills will be incorporated into problem-solving and life-skill situations, such as cooking, balancing a checkbook, playing the stock market, or finding mathematical short-cuts, in an integrated and a hands-on learning environment. Students, in two-person teams, will predict, estimate, collect and record data, analyze, draw conclusions and justify their positions.

No Qualification Exam
Enrollment is open to all students in grades 4 through 8. Registration is strictly "first come, first served".

Placement by Talent and Capability
Your child will be placed in a class based on their individual talent and capability rather than age or grade level.

Small Classes
Class enrollment is limited to 8 students to ensure maximum access to our instructors.

2 Days a Week
Classes meet two afternoons a week for about 50 minutes. One group will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays, the other on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Generally, each session will last eight weeks.

Low Tuition
Tuition is $200.00 per session ($25.00 per week) when paid in advance, or $30.00 a week when paid in weekly installments.

2 Free Seats
Based on teacher recommendation, the After-School Classroom Room is making two free seats available in each class after a minimum of six paid enrollments.

Information and Enrollment
Classes start April 27th at the First Baptist Church, (Mann Lot and Country Way), Scituate. Call Fred Dorr at 544-3300 between 2 and 7 pm, or write to The After-School Classroom, 9 Riverview Place, Scituate, MA 02066 for further information and enrollment.

The After-School Classroom is an exciting academic adventure in a non-threatening environment. Your child will discover that learning is fun!

Gray guards

Sitting in the back row of the Cohasset High auditorium, we couldn't help but notice as the hours of town meeting rolled by the number of gray heads in the room.

Upwards of 200 folks attended the first session. And Monday night, just over 100 decided to come.

But the group in attendance did not represent a cross section of the town. There are 4,700 registered voters in Cohasset. We've heard there are 1,500 senior citizens in town and just over 1,100 kids in the schools.

The parents of school kids didn't go to town meeting. And neither did the grown-up kids in their 20's.

We were a little disappointed not to see high school students in attendance. We're sure the social studies and history programs at the high school are top notch. Cohasset kids score well on their S.A.T.'s and they get into the best colleges.

But it doesn't hurt to have classes go to town meeting for extra credit — as a learning experience to see how this old fashioned form of town government works. We've seen it in other towns — and at the very least it brings more people to the forum.

Yet, Cohasset senior citizens were there in greater numbers than any other group. They stood up and spoke out on issue after issue. Some walked to the microphone slowly. And others were vehemently outspoken. But they took part — they were town meeting.

Some will say, seniors have a lot of time on their hands and that's why they come.

We don't think that's the reason.

The first day of town meeting, we talked with a woman from Scituate who sat in the back row reserved for non-residents. She had come just to see what was happening; town meeting interested her. Before the session got underway, she shared some of her experiences with us about World War II. She'd served in the Army and was stationed in England.

And that got us to thinking. We think the gray guards came to town meeting because they know the price of democracy. Simply put, they care.

Our senior citizens are treasures to Cohasset and to its old-time public forum, which we fear is slipping away.

We salute them for their participation. We hope they will continue to share their wisdom because we don't know the price.

We thank them for standing guard for us.

High noon

Noon Tuesday is the Cohasset Mariner deadline. Editorial copy can be dropped of at Colonial Pharmacy or Cohasset News up until that time every week.

But meeting the deadline doesn't guarantee that an item will appear in the Mariner. In a perfect world, we would get each and every piece of news in every week. But newspapers have space limitations which can be as frustrating to us as they are for you.

We try to log items in and indicate the ones that are about to happen to make sure that item gets in the Thursday issue before the event. If space allows, we will publish the preview item for two weeks before the event.

But if something has already happened and you tell us about it, sometimes that news item is held for a week or two.

We do make mistakes and welcome your calls if you think an item has been misplaced — things do get lost, especially in the computer age.

Please call us at 837-3500 if you have questions. The Mariner plans to have Cohasset covered. You are important to us.

'Thanks' for help with penny drive

letters

To the Editor:

The members of the Teen Depot advisory group would like to express its thanks and appreciation to all who contributed time and effort to our penny drive last weekend, especially to Lara Martin and her group of teens who worked so hard and long to make the "dump your pennies on us" campaign a success.

Thanks to Dave Christoffel, Holly Russell, Allie Ritts, Devon Noonan, Jessica Sullivan, Danielle Shaughnessy, Allison Ludlow, Meka-Marie Laugelle, Jed Terry, Jenn Knowles, Max Nivaud, Scott Theriault, Mary Ellen Rayment, Ryan Sawchuck, Erica Hettstrom, and Sam Goedecke.

We would like to thank the Bank of Boston for providing us with the counting and wrapping machine, without which we could never have "wrapped up" our work in such good time, the Stop & Shop, Joe Laugelle, and the Town of Cohasset for providing us with the space for our "dump sites" Saturday and Sunday.

We would also like to give a special "thank you" to all of our friends and neighbors who took the time to remember us and to donate their pennies to our fund drive. Each and every donation keeps the Depot open a little longer, and thereby provides our kids with a place of their own.

If anyone who missed the fund drive would like to donate their pennies or change to the Depot, they can call the Depot at 383-1177 or Keith Knowles at 383-1331 to arrange for pickup, or bring them down in person during our open house this Saturday, April 11, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Checks may be made out to "The Teen Depot/CCC," and mailed to us c/o Box 902, Cohasset, 02025; and contributions of any kind can always be left at the Teen Depot during the hours that it is open.

Again, our heartfelt thanks to all who contributed to our drive.

Scouts invade Museum of Science

To the Editor:

A museum at night — open only for you! Imagine! There were seven of us from Cohasset Pack 38, along with 293 other Cub Scouts from Cranberry Harbors Council, who on Saturday, night, February 22, invaded the Museum of Science, Boston. Our evening of high adventure began at 5 p.m. as we entered the belly of the Museum - depositing our sleeping bags, "buddied-up" and got our schedules: Cubmaster Jeff Forsdick, myself, my son, Paul, John Paul Laugelle, Brian Wasp, Jay Rasmissen and Brian Krupczak.

For most of the evening, we were able to freely explore — to wreak havoc, to inspect with quiet curiosity: tarantulas, bears, volcanos, rain forests...Our evening's theme was flying. We first attended a stage demonstration and they watched a lucky young Cub from the audience hover inches over the stage sitting on a circular piece of plywood. After this, a hands-on workshop to reinforce what we'd learned about why things fly — "go up" and we made our own paper plane wings and proceeded to fly them in a scout-crowded corridor (junior aviators!).

At 11:30 p.m. we all filed into the Hayden Planetarium to gaze at planets, stars and a few den leaders took a quick snooze (I won't mention any names, but he does snore!) By midnight (midnight??) we staggered back to our "designated sleeping area." Sleeping bags and pillows were nested up and whispers were stilled by 1:15 a.m. — only to awaken the next morning at 6:45 a.m. to pack up our gear, eat breakfast, and attend a thrilling Omni Theatre show which made us all close our eyes and grab the arms of our chairs — we were flying, I'm sure.

In retrospect, in the opinion of this 40-year-old Den Mom — I was thrilled we had carpet to sleep on (thank you great scout leader in the sky); I'd do it again tomorrow — the boys were terrific and it was a special privilege to experience a museum with such intimacy and freedom.

And last but not least, for all you Moms out there, were the toothbrushes ever used?

A special thanks to Pack 38!

VOTE ... that's it. Just vote. Saturday, April 11 ... Town Hall.

Selectman candidates: Merle Brown, Diana Kornet, John McNabb, Michael Sullivan, two seats open. School Committee candidates: Ralph Kidder, Owen O'Malley, Kenneth Wilcox, two seats open. Board of Health candidates: Terrence Cook, Robert Davenport, one seat open.

Read their literature, think about what issues interest, infuriate, frighten or amuse you, and find out where the candidates stand on them. If you don't know what a candidate thinks about an issue, call him or her at home. That is still an accepted practice here. Cohasset is a small town, and most candidates and elected officials are listed in the phone book. They have learned to expect calls from the voting public. Some even solicit them.

Please do not vote blind. Decide who, in your mind, is best suited to govern our town, handle its problems and decide its future — at least for the period of one term of office.

Tickets to the April 14 "Chamber Unity Breakfast," featuring members of all town boards and benefiting the Cohasset Lightkeepers Corp. (the Government Island renovation) are on sale now. Tickets are $10 each and include breakfast and a $3 donation to CLC. Tickets are available from any chamber board member, Joe McElroy and the CLC members, or by calling 383-1010. Gerard Keating also has a few, if you see him around town. Everyone is invited and encouraged to attend.

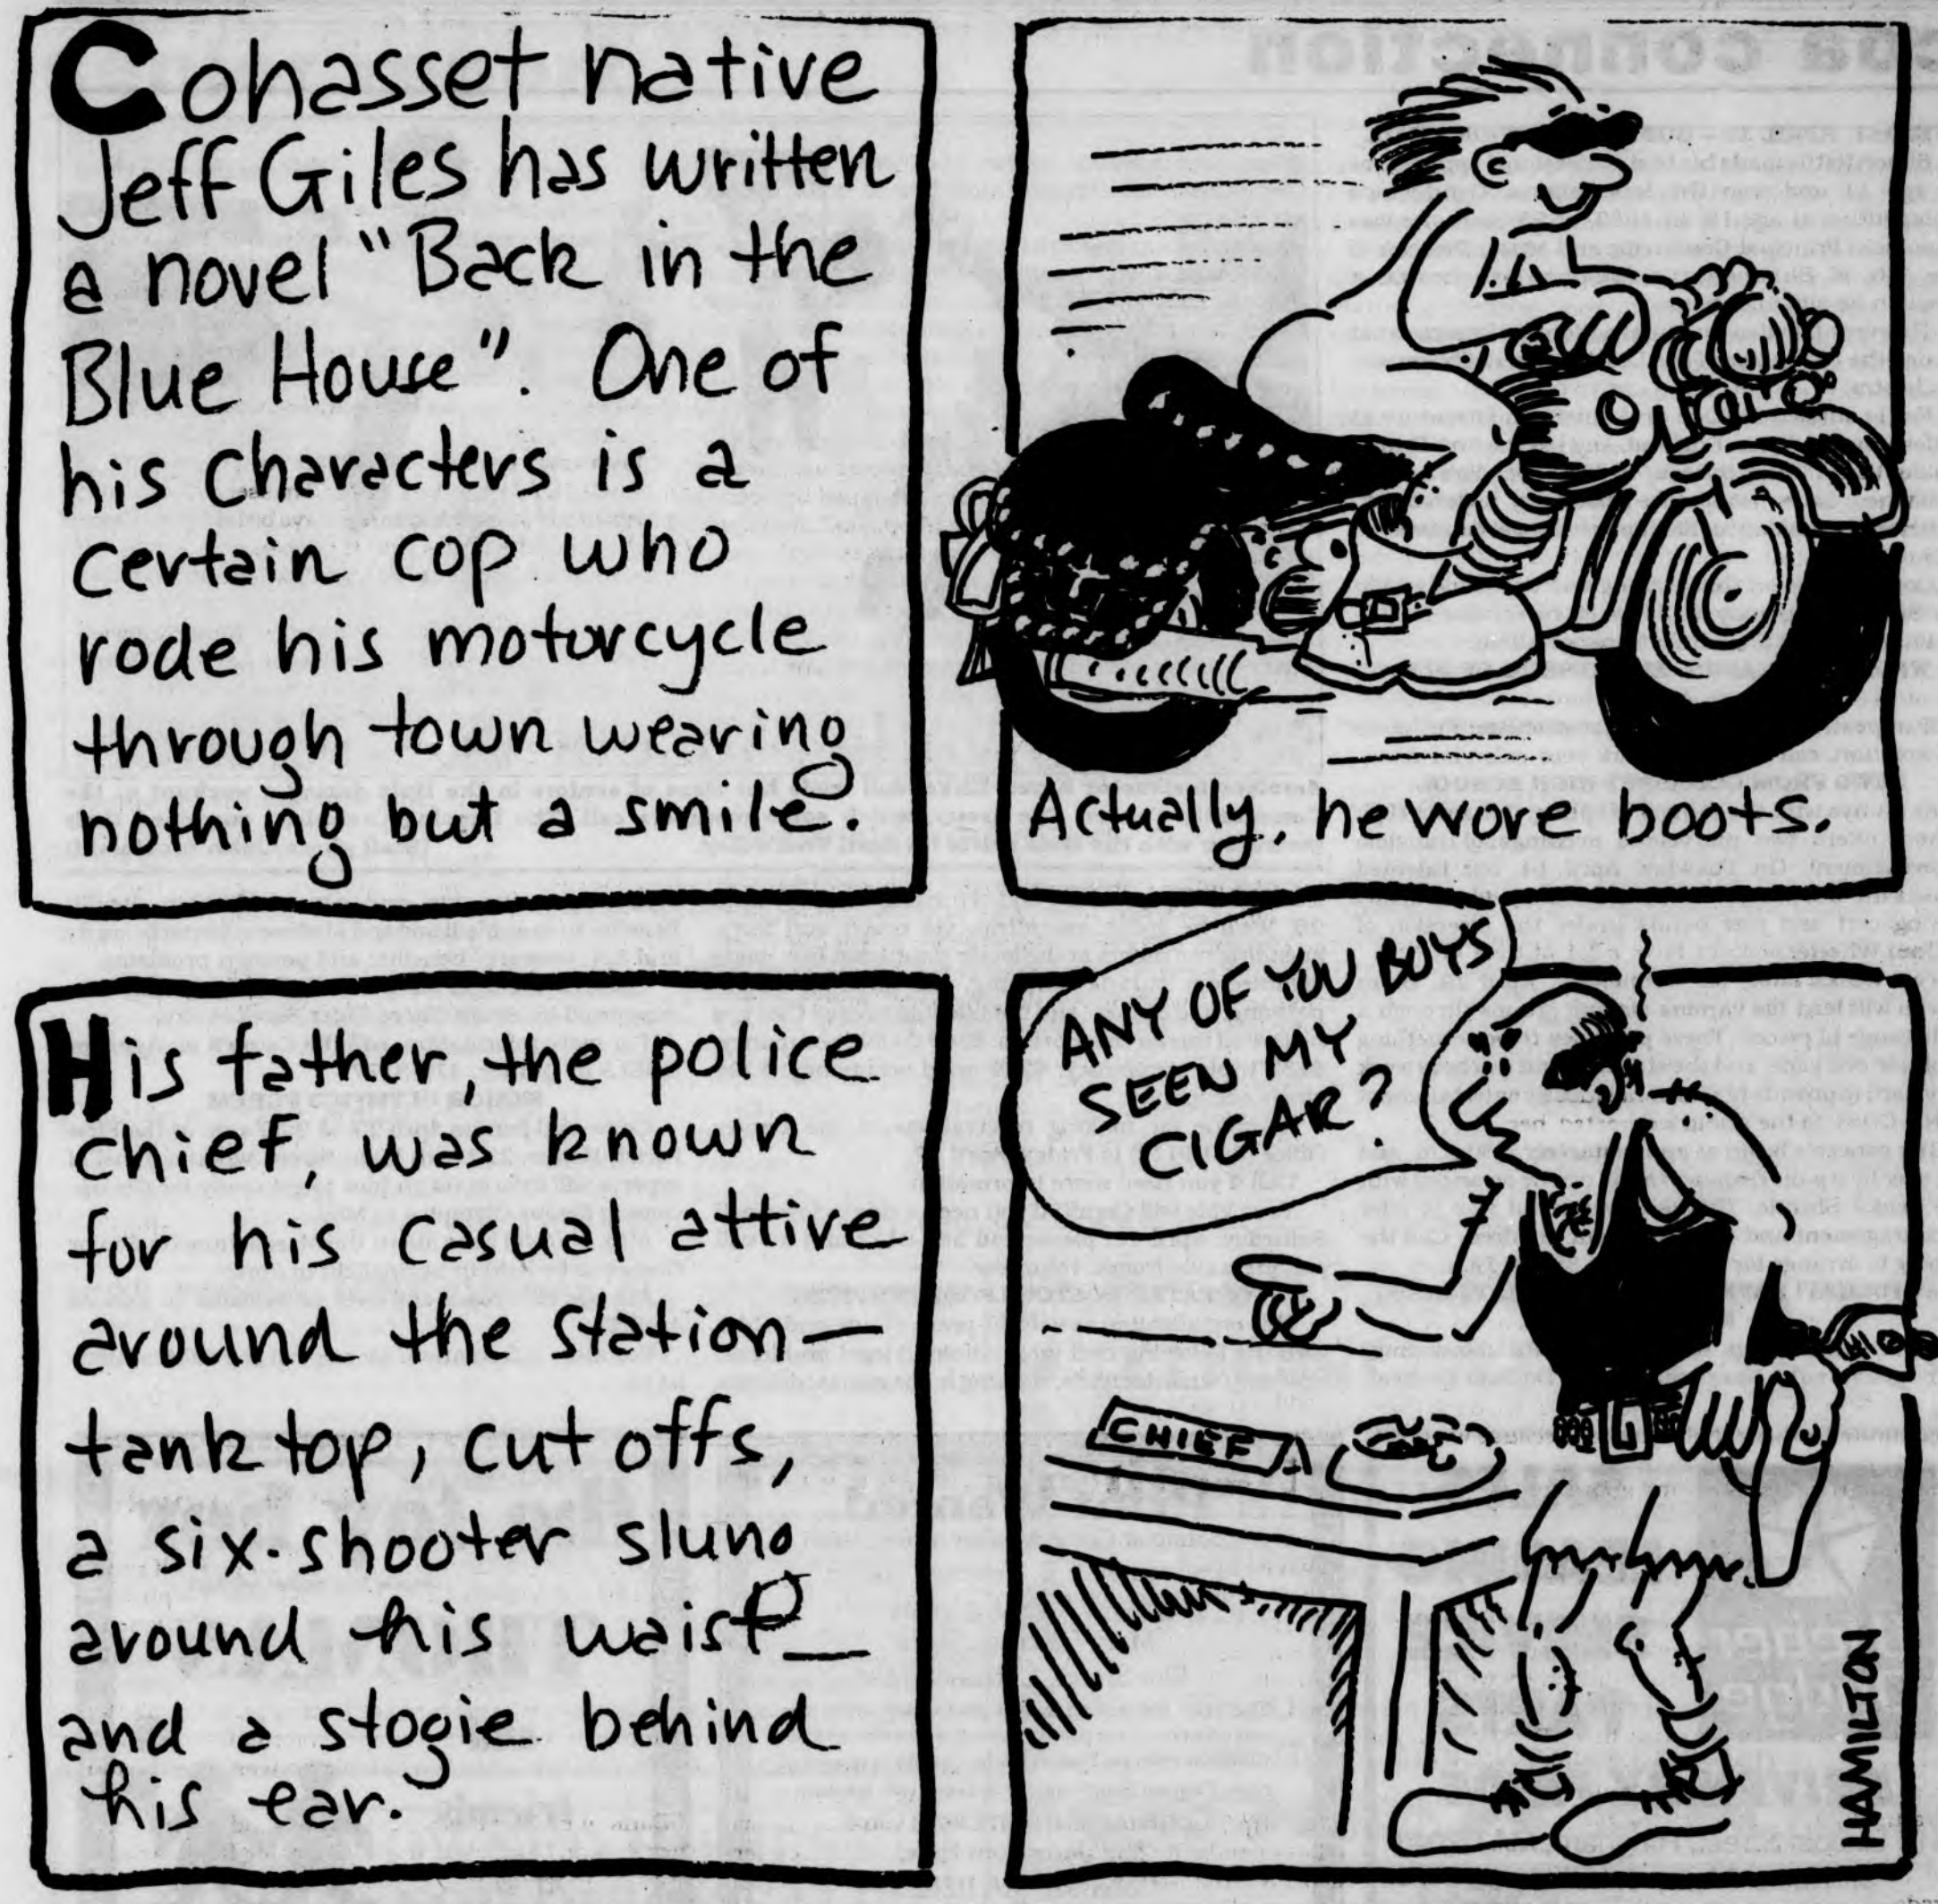
Mark June 24 on your calendars, all you golf nuts. That is the day of the first annual (I hate that phrase. Second annual, ok. But first is just ... first. Period.) Harborfest Golf Tournament sponsored by the South Shore Art Center and Cohasset Chamber of Commerce, to be held at the South Shore Country Club. Call the chamber or art center for more information or entry forms. And ad space is available on tees, greens and hazards.

Bank of Boston has been busy around town lately. They donated $2,500 to the CHS writing lab, loaned a counting machine to the Teen Depot for their penny drive last weekend, and have offered to put on their dynamite "Supersavers" program for our third graders. This is a course of six, 45-minute classes teaching basic economic principles in a way that is interesting to and understandable for the younger set. They even explain compound interest, and how it is figured. That's a course that I could use. Now if they would just explain mortgages and points. ...

Now that spring is here, at least two or three days out of seven, anyway, don't forget to look to your local stores and greenhouses for indoor and outdoor spruce up needs. Remember, if you don't see it, ask. Most businesses will be glad to order what you need and get it to you quickly and at a good price. Don't waste time going out of town. Shop locally and save yourself the hassle.

Derby third graders donate to Wellspring

By Danny Siber and Lisa Lombardi
Derby Third Graders
Special to the Mariner



The third graders at Derby Academy in Hingham have been saving up their money from bottle deposits. They have been collecting the money in a large plastic Coke bottle belonging to Cohasset resident and third grader, Morgan Pierson. The money collected is being given to charity.

"We voted for Wellspring," says Cohasset resident, Marc Verrochi. "We had to choose from among eight different groups," adds classmate Corinna Noering, also from Cohasset. "Like the other groups on our list, Wellspring, located in Hull, helps homeless people, people with disabilities, and people who don't have enough money to maybe pay their taxes."

The idea for this project came from an Ecology Calendar that their teacher, Mr. Bartholomew, presented to the class when school resumed after December vacation. Each day on the calendar presents an idea to help make the world a better place.

It was when the class emcee for the week read about saving money to give to a worthwhile cause that Morgan volunteered the use of his huge bottle bank from home. So the 19 third graders eagerly started bringing in their dimes, quarters, and dollars — all from the deposits collected by recycling cans and bottles at home. The collection started in late January, and when they counted the coins and bills at the end of February, they found they had collected a grand total of $45.

"I am really proud of the kids for the enthusiasm with which they began this project," says Mr. B. "During March and April we plan to pick another project to which our money will go. A few of the students are used to collecting their deposit money to help supplement their allowances, but now they are bringing at least some of that money to help others. These kids really DO care about the world around them!"

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
HOUSE AND SENATE EARLY RETIREMENT (H 5394)—House 149-0, Senate 23-9, gave near final approval to slightly different versions of the early retirement bill for state workers. The measure would encourage about 200 state workers to retire early by allowing them to increase their pensions by adding five years to their length of service or age when computing benefits. Supporters said the bill will eliminate thousands of workers from the state payroll, avoid layoffs and save millions of dollars. Opponents said the bill is vastly different from the original one filed by Governor Weld designed to save $50 million. They claimed this one would cost $21 million over the next 15 months. The House and Senate later agreed on a version and sent it to Governor Weld. (A "Yea" vote is for the early retirement bill. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N	Y
HOUSE CLERKS (H 5394)—House 82-65, rejected an amendment allowing court clerk magistrates appointed by the Governor to be eligible for the early retirement program. Amendment supporters said this only applies to six people and claimed the bill's prohibition against clerks was designed by Democrats to prevent the Governor from filling these positions. Opponents noted these clerks, along with judges and legislators, are prohibited because they would all have to be replaced. They noted the purpose of the bill is to reduce the work force. (A "Yea" vote is for allowing clerks to be eligible. A "Nay" vote is against allowing clerks to be eligible).		Y
HOUSE EDUCATION (H 5394)—House 89-59, rejected an amendment allowing state colleges and universities to fill faculty positions open as a result of the bill provided that the total annual cost of salaries and benefits for the replacements does not exceed 75 percent of those of the retiring employees. Amendment supporters said the bill allows only 15 percent of all early retirees' positions to be refilled and only if the public safety or health are at risk. They said without the amendment, few if any higher education positions will be refilled and an already declining education system will get worse. Opponents argued higher education and other exceptions are unfair and will erode the bill and defeat its purpose. They argued the legislature retains rehiring oversight within the 15 percent and can ultimately refill these positions if necessary. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment allowing the positions to be refilled. A "Nay" vote is against the amendment).		N
HOUSE REORGANIZATION (H 3486)—House 107-36, rejected Governor Weld's reorganization plan consolidating the Office of Telecommunications and the Office of Information Technology into a new Office of Information Technologies. Supporters said this consolidation will save money by creating a single, streamlined office to deal with the state's telecommunications and data communications. Opponents said the concept may be a good one but argued the Governor's office has not responded to requests for any dollar information on the potential savings. They urged the House not to approve the plan until that information is provided. (A "Yea" vote is for the reorganization plan. A "Nay" vote is against it).		Y

Further details will follow later.

'Designated driver' program

The Plymouth Philharmonic Orchestra will pilot a new program beginning with its April 11 concert. Borrowing a well-known phrase, the symphony is calling this answer to senior citizens who need transportation to and from concerts its "Designated Driver" Program.

The program was developed through the orchestra's Long-Range Planning Committee. Explains James Corbett, committee co-chair, "Over the past several years, a number of senior citizens have said how much they miss PPO concerts because they are uncomfortable driving after dark. The orchestra is addressing their need through this new program."

For every group of three or more seniors who purchase tickets to the April 11 concert and who need transportation on concert night, the Philharmonic will provide, at no cost, one additional ticket for the group's "Designated Driver."

"The group finds the driver, the Philharmonic provides the ticket," explains Corbett.

For best seats and to avoid lines at the box office, seniors wishing to participate in this program are encouraged to purchase their tickets in advance by calling the Philharmonic office during business hours at (508) 746-8008. This offer is only available through the PPO office or at the box office on concert nights.

Tax credits detailed

Persons 65 or older and some disabled persons may qualify for an "elderly or disabled" tax credit.

Generally, this tax credit (for U.S. citizens or residents), of up to $1,125 for the 1991 tax year, is based on the taxpayer's filing status, age, and income.

To take the credit, the qualifying person must be either:

65 or older by the end of 1991, or under 65 at the end of 1991. They must be retired on permanent and total disability; not of mandatory retirement age before January 1, 1991; and a recipient of taxable disability benefits in 1991.

"A person who is married at the end of the tax year usually must file a joint return to claim the credit unless the spouses lived apart for the whole year," said Boston District Director Gerard R. Esposito.

Publication 524, "Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled," provides a table that lists the various filing status guidelines, nontaxable income limits, and adjusted gross income limits for determining eligibility.

For additional information about this credit, call IRS toll free at 1-800-829-3676 and ask for free Publication 524, "Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled."

Happy Hearts Club

The next meeting of South Shore Hospital's "Happy Healthy Hearts Club" is scheduled for Wednesday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Emerson Conference Room.

Kathryn Kelly, RD, MS will address the topic "Taking Control of Your Cardiac Diet." Kathryn Kelly will discuss ways to make your diet fun while keeping it heart healthy. For more information, call the hospital's Cardiac Rehabilitation Center at (617) 340-8824.

'Godspell' performed

The Gospels of Christ are as important today as when they were first spoken. The popular musical "Godspell" takes the words, stories and lessons of the Gospels and makes them sing! As the message of the good news unfolds, a happy but sometimes confused band of disciples do their very best to live the Gospels, as the show's hit song declares "Day by Day."

Share in the fun as Archbishop Williams High School performs "Godspell" April 10 and 11 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students (under 18) and senior citizens.

The auditorium, which is handicapped accessible, is at 80 Independence Avenue, Braintree. Call 843-3636 for information.

CANDIDATES FOR SELECTMAN

Merle Brown
Address: 546 Beechwood St.
Age: 59
Education: Cohasset High School; degree in mechanical engineering, Northeastern University
Occupation: Mechanical engineer with Air-Draulic, Randolph
Community service/elected offices held: Conservation commission, 11 years; recycling committee, 10 years; map study committee; post Explorer advisor with Boy and Girl Scouts.
Family: Married, two children.
Years in Cohasset: 59

Merle Brown said Cohasset has something for everyone.

"Our school system is one of the best in the state. Cohasset is a quaint town with minimal crime and good police and fire protection. The Council on Aging and Social Service League do a lot for the senior citizens," he said. "And the recreation department does a lot for the kids."

Brown sees managing the budget as a priority.

"Without much of a tax base, I would work all year on budget issues and not wait until the end of the year."

He said he thinks failure of overrides have a negative impact on schools.

"The easiest way for most people to go is to increase class size or have fewer teachers and older books. But there is only so much public safety you can cut."

Brown sees Prop. 2-1/2 law as a positive thing.

"Maybe we need to change it but I still think we need a cap on spending.

"I do think we need Prop. 2-1/2 overrides at times. I would give more information to the people on why we need an override," he said.

A life-long resident of Cohasset, Brown said if elected he would work hard to improve communication among town departments and elected officials and the voters.

"I would let the voters know I work for them."

Diana Kornet
Address: 29 Nichols Rd.
Age: 48
Education: Masters School, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y.; bachelor of arts, Connecticut College.
Occupation: Office manager, Global Perspectives in Boston, an investment, management consulting firm.
Community service/elected offices held: Board of selectmen, three years; school committee, 10 years; active in Parent School Organization (PSO).
Family: Married, four children.
Years in Cohasset: 16

Diana Kornet said "it is rewarding to live in Cohasset" because the town is small enough "to get to know a significant portion of citizens."

She cited the town's commitment to a high standard of education; and its varied programs and clubs as pluses.

"As a selectman, I am very supportive of legitimate expenditures on schools," she said.

Kornet is also in favor of open town meetings.

"Many towns have representative town meeting. Here any voter can go speak his or her mind on any issue that comes up," she said.

Kornet is not a proponent of Prop. 2-1/2.

"The public has to realize they need to pay more in taxes not less," she said.

Kornet said the 2-1/2 percent tax cap hurts local government, which "by definition is the most efficient." She added that paying for education through the property tax is "totally inappropriate" and hurts the less affluent areas of the country.

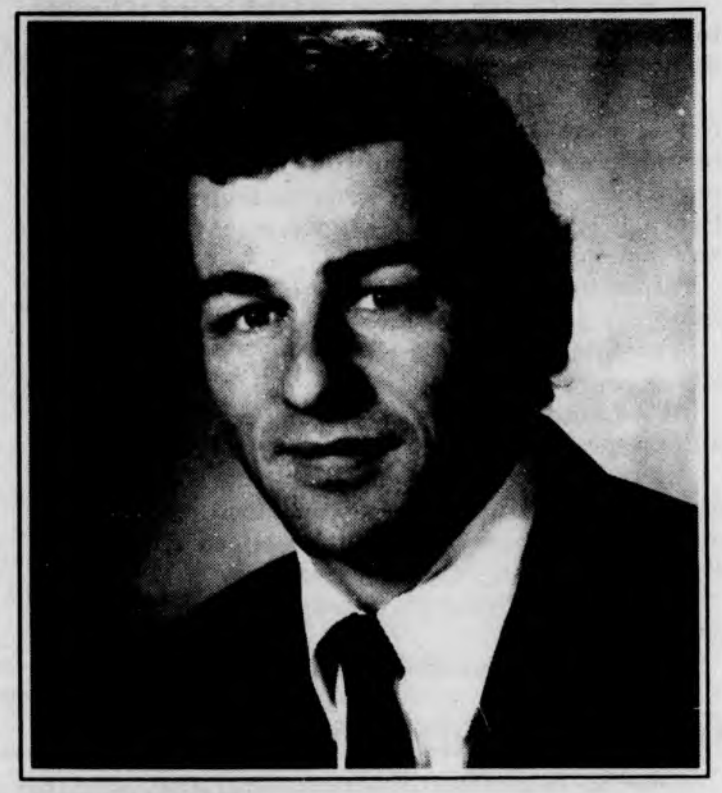
Kornet, who is seeking a second term on the board of selectmen, said she has learned a lot .

"I did not have a particular agenda when I started," she said. "But one learns a lot and if able and willing to run again, it makes good sense to offer oneself for a second term."

John K. McNabb, Jr.
Address: 53 Pond St.
Age: 36
Education: Cohasset High School; bachelor of arts, Bowdoin College.
Occupation: Environmental consultant; primary business is McNabb Associates.
Community service/elected offices held: Groundwater protection committee; town government structure committee; Paul Pratt Memorial Library Board of Trustees.
Family: Single
Years in Cohasset: 36

John McNabb said the town's quality school system; its good water supply; its location on the ocean; and the town's historic image are big draws for Cohasset and keep the property values high.

"But the down side is there is not much affordable housing in town." He added that often people, who grew up in the town, can't afford to live in Cohasset.



McNabb does not see yearly override ballot questions as a negative occurrence.

"I think they are a normal part of the process" which allows people to decide on a budget higher than the 2-1/2 percent cap.

"Overrides do not mean we are spending exorbitantly. With 3.9 percent inflation, we'd have to grind town government to nothing unless we have overrides," he said. "If town officials are doing their job in trying to provide effective town services then there is no alternative (but overrides) to keep things on a level field."

McNabb said he can bring "effectiveness" to the board of selectmen.

He cited his leadership in S.A.F.E., a community action group opposed to the expansion of the Cohasset Heights Landfill, in which he helped to "come up with a proposal and get the forces together" to work to make positive change.

Michael Sullivan
Address: 21 Gammons Rd.
Age: 36
Education: Wellesley High School; bachelor of science, Bryant College
Occupation: Founder, owner of Search Services Inc., an executive search firm.
Community service/elected offices held: Board of Health, four years.
Family: Married, four children
Years in Cohasset: Six

Michael Sullivan said Cohasset one of the best towns in which to raise children. He noted the town's proximity to the water; its extensive programs for children; and its fine school system as attracting families to the town.

But the budget is of big concern to Sullivan.

"It's a problem that every town is dealing with. But if we as a town, state, country don't focus on the budgetary problems related to education, we'll be in serious trouble," he said.

Sullivan said continual overrides — if not approved — deteriorate the educational system.

"We need to re-look at Prop. 2-1/2 and look at how education is funded at the state level," he said.

"I think there are pluses and minuses to Prop. 2-1/2 overrides. It certainly causes people in elected positions to be very frugal in the way they manage funds. But on the negative side, 60-to-70 percent of your budget is tied to employees with cost overhead associated with benefits. It's difficult to stay within Prop. 2-1/2 and not impact employees."

Sullivan said selectmen need to better inform Cohasset citizens so voters can "make decisions with more data."

Sullivan said if elected his experience in business and budget management coupled with his entrepreneurial skills will be an asset to the board of selectmen as it confronts major issues.

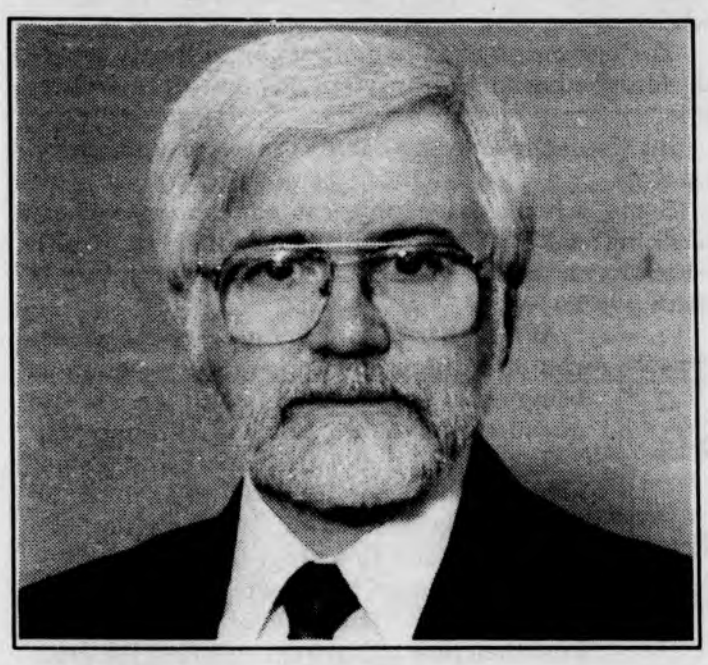
The Mariner has strived to be evenhanded and fair to all candidates in the news coverage it provided prior to the election. The following Candidate Profiles include brief biographies and comments made during telephone interviews. Because of space limitations, the candidates' comments have been condensed. Candidates for the board of selectmen and school committee were all asked the following questions:



- Pretend you are talking to someone considering buying a home in Cohasset. How would you convince them to make the move? Talk about the schools, budget problems, economy, crime, be honest.
- Prop. 2-1/2 override ballot questions have become a tradition in Cohasset's annual budget process. Do you think — if overrides fail, or if they pass — this harms or helps the town? Does this affect the schools more or the town side of local government more?
- Why are you running for this office?

Board of health candidates were asked the following:

- What do you think is the most important issue facing the board of health?
- What do you hope to do if elected?
- Why are you running for this office?

CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Ralph Kidder
Address: Two Cushing Rd.
Age: 45
Education: South Hills High School, Pittsburg; bachelor of arts, Lehigh University; masters degree, Duquesne University; masters in business administration, Boston University.
Ocupation: Director of finance at Boston University School of Law.
Community service/elected offices held: School committee, three years; drug alcohol committee; Winterfest drug-free weekend committee; former P.S.O. fundraising chairman; coached Little League.
Family: Married, three children.
Years in Cohasset: seven

Ralph Kidder said the "quality of Cohasset's education and the cost of that education" are assets to the town. He cited community spirit; quality of services offered by the town; and Cohasset's beauty contributing to maintaining and enhancing property values.

Kidder said when Prop. 2-1/2 overrides pass, "it speaks well of the town.

"It says the town is concerned with maintaining the quality of life as well as the schools."

He said when an override fails it means officials either shouldn't have asked for an override or there has been poor communication so people are are not clear on the issue.

Kidder said he is seeking a second term on the school board because there is still work to be done.

"I would like to build a public/private partnership in the next few years.

"Leadership in American business in the future will come from suburban areas," he noted.

If re-elected, Kidder said he would try to integrate more technology into the schools.

He added to stay competitive, students also need to spend "more time on task."

Kidder favors extending the school day, school year or both.

Owen O'Malley
Address: 29 Sohier St.
Age: 54
Education: B.C. High; bachelor of arts, Boston College; masters, Boston College; law degree, New England School of Law.
Community service/elected offices held: Volunteer at St. Anthony's Occupation: Teacher, Boston Latin School Family: Single
Years in Cohasset: 54

Owen O'Malley said Cohasset's schools are an asset to the town..

He noted one measure of the schools is the students' performance on S.A.T's, which is high.

But O'Malley said, he is troubled by "disproportionate town spending."

He noted that the Council on Aging operates on a shoestring.

"And we have 1,500 retired people and 1,100 -plus students in the schools," he said.

A life-long resident of the town, O'Malley said, "you might say I have a commitment to the town."

He is dismayed that people move into town "while their kids are in school — and run the taxes up and then run out."

O'Malley said Cohasset is "a beautiful town by the ocean" but added that he is not against development.

He is not a fan of overrides except in emergencies.

"I am against overrides," he said. "I am against continual tax increases. What about the older people? We have to work within the budget."

O'Malley sees his teaching experience and training in law as an asset to the school committee.

"I finished law school. I went later in life. Now I have extra time on my hands and would like to share my wisdom with the schools.

"I can find waste in any schools and I can help with legal matters like contracts," he said.

Kenneth Wilcox
Address: 388 Beechwood Rd.
Age: 44
Education: Northern High School, Flint, Michigan; bachelor of arts degree, Oakland University in Michigan; masters and Ph.d., Ohio State University; M.B.A, Harvard Business School.
Occupation: Banker, Silicon Valley Bank, Wellesley
Community service/elected offices held: Capital budget committee; garage study committee; financial planning committee First Parish Church; former treasurer, First Parish Church; active in raising funds for Children's Museum.
Family: Married, two children.
Years in Cohasset: 10

Kenneth Wilcox said after a decade in Cohasset his family "has roots we never want to pull up."

He said the town is small enough to provide a sense of community. Wilcox said Cohasset High students' S.A.T. scores and college admissions show the schools "clearly do very well."

Wilcox said the dedication of the administration, teachers and the P.S.O. all contribute to the quality of the schools.

However, he warned that the school system can deteriorate in the face of Prop. 2-1/2 and the fiscal crisis at the state level. With increasing enrollment, "schools will have to be more creative than ever in dealing with the scarcity of resources," he said.

Wilcox said although Prop.2-1/2 has "forced us to greater efficiencies, the problem comes when every inefficiency is wrung out and inflation is more than 2-1/2 percent."

With experience in business and teaching, Wilcox feels he is "uniquely qualified" to serve on the school committee.

"And as a father I want quality education; and as a taxpayer, I want low taxes."

Wilcox said he values education.

"Our children's lives depend on education; our property values depend on it; our quality of life depends on it; and our sense of community depends on it."

CANDIDATES FOR HEALTH BOARD

Thomas Cook
Address: 281 King St.
Age: 42
Education: Springfield High School (Vermont), civil engineering degree, University of Vermont.
Occupation: Civil engineer with Stone and Webster Engineering Corporation.
Community service/elected offices held: Drainage advisory committee, watershed protection study committee.
Family: Married, two children.
Years in Cohasset: 16.

Thomas Cook said the most important issue facing the board of health is monitoring the operation and maintenance of the Cohasset Heights Landfill to insure the town's water supply is not affected.

"If elected, I will deal with C.H.L. to make sure the water supply is protected. And I will evaluate the users' fee structure at the town's recycling/transfer facility and make modifications to make it more equitable."

Cook sees his technical training as a plus.

"I believe my technical background will be of benefit to the board in addressing significant issues that face the town over the next three years," he said.

Robert V. Davenport
Address: 135 Sohier St.
Age: 48
Education: Cohasset High School
Occupation: Owner, Elena Sestito Florist, Cohasset Greenhouses, Inc.
Community service/elected offices held: Cemetery study committee, fire/police station study committee, volunteers time to televise selectmen's meetings.
Family: Married, two children.
Years in Cohasset: 48

Robert V. Davenport said the biggest challenge facing the board of health is protecting the town's water supply, including privately owned wells.

He said although issues involving the Cohasset Heights Landfill are important, he would also work to improve the overall environment."not just one part of it."

He said he would bring "a common sense approach" to town government.

"I always want to hear both sides in any issue and I will listen to the taxpayers," he said.

AIDS education part of health curriculum in Cohasset

By Mary Calandrella
Mariner staff

In area towns — Cohasset, Scituate and Hull among them — AIDS education is a portion of formal health education programs which begin in kindergarten.

Cohasset High School students have the equivalent of a health education library on the second floor. Tables and shelves are covered with pamphlets on marijuana, inhalants, crack, alcohol, cigarettes and chewing tobacco, breast exams, latch key children, on lesbians and AIDS and gays and AIDS.

Students have information from the National Commission on Drug Free Schools, Alanon, on peer education on sexuality and health, and books on coping, stress, health, muscle building, marriage, psychology, human sexuality and child development.

One section of the room is devoted to films and videos.

"I want to know they (the students) understand the information, but my ultimate goal is behavior change," Michael Gill, Cohasset health coordinator, says.

Information is not enough and research done in California indicates information alone still isn't enough to change behaviors, he says. Research indicates information with fear is needed to make significant changes in behavior.

As an example of instilling fear, Gill sites an activity in which students are given pieces of folded up paper, of which all are blank except two which are marked with an X. Students then are asked to act out a social situation in which they are being introduced to each other, shaking hands.

At the end of the vignette, students are asked to open the papers and told the two Xs indicate an easily transmitted serious illness. The lesson is made, Gill says.

He believes health education is vital. Without good health or well being, little learning can take place, Gill said. Health education can increase self-esteem, enhance decision making skills and contain assertiveness training, Gill says.

"We're not going to cure children from alcoholic homes but, through our program, they get a better understanding of the disease."

There's no question parents do provide some health education, Gill says. His research back to 1915 done during his doctorate studies showed parents aren't the primary providers.

PEERS AND T.V.

Kids get their information from their peers and TV or other media and parents are generally the third, fourth or fifth on the list, he says.

"I found most of the sexual discussions happens between mothers and daughters about menstruation. It troubles me when I hear people say it belongs in the home."

"Parents are sex educators of their children. But it comes down to whether they're helpful or not.

"I don't personally think most parents are equipped to deal with health issues," Gill said. "Most parents welcome a professional approach."

Cohasset has "tremendous support for health education," Gill says. "I've only heard two or three people in my 12 years here object to any programs we're doing and they were objecting to AIDS education.

"I work for the community and the community said to me, rather than promote abstinence first and foremost, we also want to protect the lives of those kids who have other behaviors...We have to educate to the wide range of behavior exhibited by the kids I'm looking at. We've got to say if you've made one mistake in judgment, protect yourself before the second mistake. Let's not compound it which increases the likelihood of hurting someone."

The community has to make a commitment, has to decide whether this is important. In most of the country it is.'
— Michael Gill, Cohasset schools health coordinator

When, working with parents, he was developing the AIDS curriculum, he was considering instituting AIDS education in the 2nd grade. Some parents disagreed, saying AIDS education should start in the 5th grade; others said to wait till the 10th.

Gill had found the subject for his doctoral dissertation — "Parental Assessment of Child Knowledge and Beliefs about AIDS."

Because parents, other than school committee members, influence curriculum, Gill believed it was important to learn "what parents know about what their kids know."

INCORRECT PERCEPTIONS

What he found is 60 percent of the time parental perceptions are incorrect.

"I think the kids know more than parents ordinarily think. I'm of the philosophy health education's been present in the hallways, locker rooms, playgrounds and buses.

"The providers of information have been kids. That's dangerous. Do you want it done correctly or incorrectly?"

He can understand parental concern when their children are taught about safe sex as a means to prevent AIDS, Gill says.

"There is a mixed message when you say don't do something but, if you do, do it this way. It's the same thing when you say don't drink, but if you do, don't drive afterwards. To a certain extent it gives a small sense of condonement."

Gill, his wife and their children, who are still too young to attend school, live in Marshfield. In this economic climate, communities without health education will have a tough fight to establish a program while cutting others, he says.

"The community has to make a commitment, has to decide whether this is important. In most of the country it is."

But Massachusetts lags behind the rest of the country, he says.

"Some schools have physical education teachers teaching health education and it's very different. Health education is based on the sciences. The training is more psycho/social."

Although there are things a school system can do without spending money — such as bringing in speakers on health issues, Gill questions the value of a hit and run approach.

"I really feel that's inadequate and it's not about to do the job that should be done. To me, that's supplemental. It's not a plan, it's what you'd add to a program."

Kids also learn better working with other kids, he said. "They probably learn better from their peers than from authority figures."

Gill was hired by Cohasset in 1980. Prior to his employment, a committee had worked for years to get a health education program in the schools.

Cohasset's program is not ideal, but it's better than most, even though it has been adversely affected by budget cuts, Gill said.

The cost of Cohasset's program consists of Gill's salary and roughly $3,500 in materials.

Originally Gill had hoped to hire an elementary health education teacher, but that was scrapped when Prop. 2 1/2 went into effective. Now, through in-service programs, Gill trains elementary school teachers to teach the health program.

Although there are disadvantages to that — elementary teachers are not generalists, in-service training must be ongoing and some teachers are more interested than others, there is an advantage, Gill says. The elementary teachers are with the students all day and can take advantage of incidents that occur to reinforce a health lesson, he says.

K-6 PROGRAM

The K-6 program consists of five sections a year. Parents are notified of the sections being worked on by letters on the back of the school menus.

- Safety which incorporates child abuse prevention, bus, water and bicycle safety.
- Emotional health which deals with self esteem, individual uniqueness and understanding human differences such as mental retardation and blindness.
- Personal health issues, including nutrition, grooming, spread of viruses and germs.

AIDS education in Cohasset schools . . .

• Substance abuse. In the first grade, it deals with respecting medicines and chemicals and is built on every year.

• Growth and development. In the 4th, 5th and 6th grades it deals with emerging adolescence, menstruation and development of secondary sex characteristics. The information is presented in terms of growth, rather than sex.

The earlier kids start learning about health education, the more comfortable they are talking about sex, Gill says.

All 7th graders must take a half year health education course, which meets every other day. Because that doesn't allow enough time some of the program is incorporated into other departments where peer educators may be brought into a class to discuss AIDS or substance abuse.

"Maybe we're only taking one class per semester, but that's an additional three classes." Gill says.

At the high school there are elective courses and more integration into other classes. AIDS education is taught in 10th grade biology and social studies classes.

The health and human development course deals with drug, alcohol and suicide prevention, diet and weight loss and stress management.

The family and social health issues course deals primarily with sexuality issues. Parental approval is necessary for registration.

It takes a long time to make behavior changes, Gill says. He monitors Cohasset through a yearly survey of student behavior and focuses where he believes there is the greatest need that year.

It will take a long time for kids to realize that suburban heterosexual kids who don't use drugs can get AIDS, he says.

JV girls give fans something to smile about

By Paula Knowles
Mariner correspondent

The CHS J.V. softball team started their season last week with two non-league games against a much stronger Scituate J.V. team.

Using the two scrimmages to get a first look at his team of seventh and eighth graders, first-year coach Ron Ford mixed his players to find the right balance, and to give his team some playing experience before the start of the regular season April 6.

The first scrimmage on Wednesday was, for most of the team, very obviously a first time start in the "big leagues", and the final score reflected their nervous condition.

The return match in Scituate Friday was a closer game; but the lack of experienced players still took its toll. On Monday, however, in the league opener against Hull, the young Cohasset team began to jell.

After a scoreless first inning, Hull found the groove in the top of the second, and pounded in 10 runs in the next three innings.

But Cohasset never gave up.

They chipped away at the Hull lead inning after inning, while relying on a defense that improved with each play.

Spearheaded by the consistent play of shortstop Kathleen Fitzsimmons and catcher Amy Theriault, the young Skippers began to demonstrate just how much coach Ford had taught them, with heads-up plays at first and third, a runner thrown out trying to steal second, another gunned down at home.

By the top of the fifth inning, the scared young neophytes of the week before were becoming a team. And the fans sitting on the hill were getting excited right along with them.

A four-run explosion with two outs in the fifth brought Cohasset within three runs of the powerful Hull team. But that was as close as they would come, as a two-run rally in the bottom of the seventh fell short and the Skippers lost 14-10.

Although this first game will be written into the loss column in the stats, it was far from a defeat in the minds of those present.

Coach Ford had nothing but praise for his players and the kids themselves were grinning from ear to ear.

And the fans, the parents, usually the toughest group to please, had nothing but good words to say about the team, the coach and the game.

"Exciting", "terrific", "great" were the words heard over and over as the crowd waited for the team to exit the field.

Pride and enjoyment shone from the eyes of these parents as they watched their kids gather bases and equipment at the end of the game.

If talent, determination, steady improvement, and a never-say-die attitude are some of the qualities that produce a good J.V. team, coach Ford may just have another winner on his hands.

Race-by-the-Sea draws largest field ever

Nearly 800 competitors finished the 16th Annual Cohasset Roadrace-by-the-Sea, sponsored by the Cohasset Rotary Club, Sunday.

Town streets were blocked to traffic along the 6.2 mile course, which featured its own heartbreak hill on Forest Avenue. The race attracted local runners and some from as far away as Kennebunk, Maine.

The Nate Hurwitz Trophy was awarded to the first Cohasset resident across the finish line, Matt Collins, 24, who completed the distance in 35:21. Collins' average pace was a brisk 5:42 per mile.

In a time of 40:59 Joanne Connor, 27, was the first Cohasset woman to finish.

The day also included a fitness walk that included 300 participants.

"It was the best turnout overall we've ever had," race organizer Peter Logan said.

All proceeds from the $10 entry fee for the race and walk benefit the many town charities the Rotary Club contributes to.

Golf tourney, June 24

In conjunction with the 37th annual South Shore Arts Center Art Festival and second Harborfest, the SSAC and Cohasset Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring a June 24 golf tournament at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham.

The tournament fee of $100 includes greens' fees, cart, dinner, and prizes. Dinner reservations for non-golfers are $50.

The deadline to sign up is June 5.

Opportunities for sponsorship of greens, tees, hazards, and carts are available.

For more information, call the SSAC at 383-9548.

CHS lacrosse wins

Cohasset High opened its 1992 lacrosse season with a surprisingly easy 12-1 win over Masconomet Regional at Milliken Field last Friday.

The Skippers scored five quick goals in the first quarter, and were never threatened by the Division II school from Topsfield.

"They gave us two tough games a year ago," said coach Ken Ekberg. "I was surprised at our domination."

Five players — midfielders Will Adams, Doug Ellinger, Brooks Doten and Charlie Smith, and freshman attackman Chris Adams — led Cohasset with a pair of goals apiece. Attackmen Charlie Endris and Chris Goodman added single tallies.

The Skippers faced Salem High Monday in a game postponed by the late March snow, and travel to Boston College High in Dorchester April 13.

The lacrosse junior varsity won its opener last week, too, topping Cape Cod Academy 13-10 behind eighth-grader Chris McKenna's JV record six goals.

The special guest at the luncheon was Carole Smith, the DAR Good Citizen award recipient from Cohasset High School.

The award is presented annually to a student selected by the faculty and the senior class who displays qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

Smith will be attending Williams College in the Fall.

Dog obedience classes

The Cohasset Recreation Department will accept telephone registrations for beginner and intermediate dog training classes to be taught by Laurie Cleveland.

Classes will be held Tuesday evenings at the G.A.R. Hall, Scituate, beginning Tuesday, April 14.

Beginner classes will be from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. and the intermediate-advanced class will be from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The fee for the eight-week program will be $40. Checks made payable to the Town of Cohasset, may be brought to the first class.

Participating dogs should be a minimum of three months of age.

The purpose of the beginner classes will be to teach novice pet owners basic obedience and responsible pet ownership. Subjects to be covered are proper use of voice corrections, stay commands, getting the dog to come and heel.

The intermediate-advanced class is designed for dogs that have completed the Recreation Department beginner class.

For the above classes, owners are required to have their dogs equipped with a humane choke chain. The proper size of the chain is determined by measuring the dog's neck and adding four inches.

Absolutely no spike collars allowed. The handlers should wear comfortable shoes and clothes for this session.

To register, please call the Cohasset Recreation Department at 383-6791.

Sisters publish a yellow pages for women

By Andrew MacLellan
Mariner staff

Two sisters, Jane Glancy and Susan DiPesa, have published a women's yellow pages, a directory designed to assist women in business.

"It's a directory of women-owned businesses and women professionals," said marketing director Nina Belsan.

"The book is composed of a listing and resource guide, but inside is all the kinds of information you could possibly want to know. It's not just a telephone book."

'I see women in business very much like the immigrants who came into this country. They didn't speak the language, and they didn't have the money or the contacts.'

Nina Belsan

The 64-page booklet covers the entire Route 495 beltway, listing everything from tax abatement services to venetian blind cleaners.

It also includes a resource guide which lists numbers for consumer protection, battered women hotlines, abortion information and employment services.

It lists the telephone numbers of local state legislators in a separate section and includes more than 35 women's organizations, including the League of Women Voters, the Women's Bar Association and the National Organization of Women.

The directory has a section profiling several women professionals and is filled with words of wisdom from Janis Joplin to Mary Pickford.

In the back is a marketing survey DiPesa and Glancy hope will provide some direction in targeting growth industries among women.

The first 30,000 copies of the Greater Boston Women's Yellow Pages were distributed last November to area women's clubs, colleges and universities, the state house and to several government agencies.

DiPesa, who lives and works in Cohasset, owns The Gabrielle Company, a heavy equipment leasing firm. She pursued the directory with her sister after seeing a similar publication put out by the National Association of Women in Construction.

"Ours is a little bit bigger and in a slightly different format," Glancy said from her Scituate home.

She and DiPesa consulted with the several of the 15 chapters of the National Association of Women's Yellow Pages, picking and choosing marketing ideas and coming up with some of their own.

"We're in the growing stage right now," said Glancy, who has had recent inquiries from women in central Massachusetts and New Hampshire interested in similar ventures.

"We'll get calls from people saying, 'Where have you been? We've been looking for something like this for so long.' "

"It's seems that ever since the book has come out there is more interest," DiPesa added.

Belsan, who owns a marketing communications firm in Scituate and is a consultant speaker at Boston College's small business development center, hopes to triple the directory's size next issue.

"We've given a lot of publicity for the new book," she said, "and we've been inundated with calls.

"We're becoming a women's center here, a support system as well as a telephone directory."

Belsan recently held a free business seminar at Chestnut Hill's Pine Manor College for 50 advertisers and plans to hold a similar program in May.

"One out of every four businesses is being started by a woman.," she said. "I see women in business very much like the immigrants who came into this country.

"They didn't speak the language, and they didn't have the money or the contacts. We have to stick together."

"It's more of a tool for women in business than (the NYNEX yellow pages)," DiPesa said.

In a series of networking attempts, Belsan has found a painter for a lawyer and an electrician for an insurance agent. The need to pool resources is especially relevant today, she said.

"When you're selling in the midst of a depression, anyone in business sees a real need to support each other, especially women."

Despite the lean times, Women's Yellow Pages is taking off.

With 250 advertisers, the interest is exceeding everyone's expectations.

"I'm even flabbergasted, and I knew it was a winner," Belsan said.

Part of the success formula has to do with prices. At $120 for a 15-word business description and $225 for an eighth-page ad, the directory is competitive.

A yellow pages news letter is forthcoming, according to Belsan, and DiPesa and Glancy hope to add a new section to next year's issue.

"Jane and I talked about putting in something we would call the family section," DiPesa said.

"There are a lot of women I come in contact with who would like to use other women in business, but they're not in the business world, they're at home."

The two sisters feel their Women's Yellow Pages is following the trend the South Shore Women's Business Network established last spring.

"They started with 35 people having a monthly breakfast," Glancy said.

"They're up to 135 now. It just goes to show you women are looking for those kinds of things."

DiPesa agreed. "A lot of women are home-based, and they feel the need to get out."

'Charity never faileth'

LDS women on the South Shore are celebrating the Sesquicentennial of the Relief Society, the women's organization of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. From all corners of the earth some three million women are joining forces for righteousness in what is called "the largest and most effective organization of its kind in all the world". (Gordon B. Hinckley).

The Relief Society began its celebration March 14 with an international satellite broadcast originating from Salt Lake City. Some 150 local women gathered at the LDS chapel in North Dartmouth to enjoy a brunch that preceded the telecast.

A week later members of the church in Hingham met to pay tribute to local Relief Society leaders who have presided over the past 30 years. Some of these women were: Helen Call, formerly of Weymouth, Harriet Horton of Quincy, Marcia Collins of Abington, Louise Arkell of Hingham, Joan Chatfield of Norwell, Maija McLean of Duxbury, Mary Dresser of Duxbury, Rosemarie Johnson, formerly of Hanover, Diane Mangum of Norwell, Marcia Lauretto of Hanover, and Linda Hallen of Quincy, the current head.

The Relief Society's motto has been Charity Never Faileth. "Perhaps the heart of the celebration of 150 years of service," Linda Hallen said, "is by doing more service.

Anyone interested in more information about the Relief Society and its future plans may call Polly Doggett at (617) 383-1847.

Cohasset's Michael Kennedy gives charity a capitalist spin

By Dori Dwyer

Michael Kennedy enjoys his life in Cohasset, despite his family's prickly history with the town.

The late Joseph P. Kennedy, Sr., a former ambassador to Great Britain and Michael Kennedy's grandfather, bought a house in town in 1922. He immediately applied for membership to the Cohasset Golf Club, where problems ensued because of Kennedy's Irish heritage. After months of time-delaying tactics, his membership request was rejected.

mariner visits

"When he was denied access to the club, he went to Hyannis," Kennedy said.

Michael Kennedy, son of the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy and Chairman of Citizens Energy Corporation, said his grandfather's experience with Cohasset is far removed from his own.

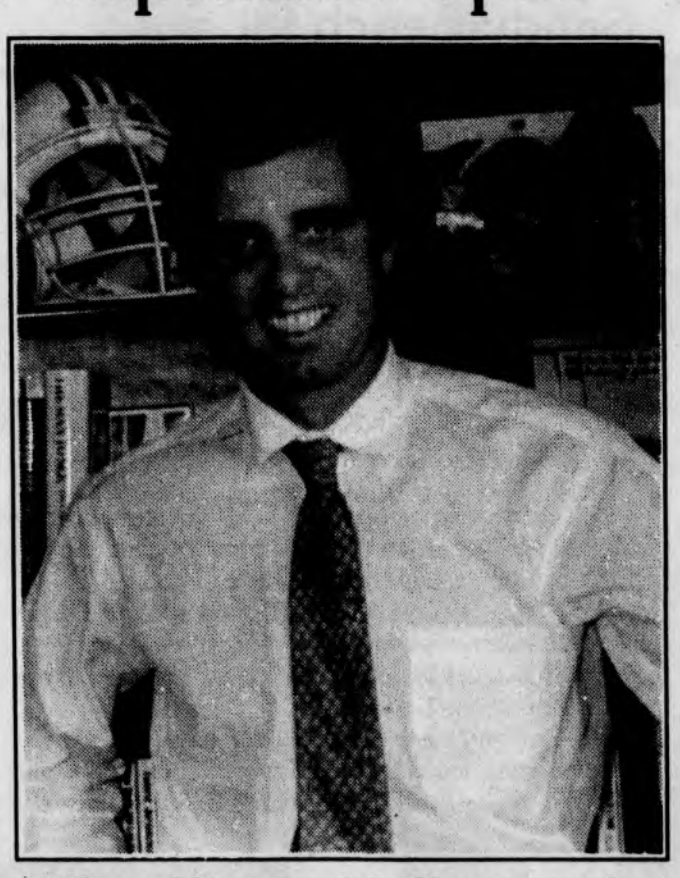
"The people in town have been very nice to Vicky and me, and the kids."

In fact, Kennedy cites the good life he has in Cohasset as one of the reasons he recently decided not to run for the 11th District seat being vacated by Congressman Brian J. Donnelly (D-Dorchester).

"I talked about it with my family and we just decided the timing wasn't right.

"We just moved to a new house and if I won it would have been too disruptive," Kennedy said.

His two eldest children, Michael and Kyle, attend the Osgood School and Rory attends the Unitarian Nursery School.



Kennedy, 33, moved to Cohasset eight years ago to be near his older brother, Joseph P. Kennedy II, now a U.S. Congressman.

"Joe lived in Marshfield in '84 and asked me to come work at Citizens.

"I had just graduated from law school and wanted to practice out west, but he convinced me to work with him and I moved to the South Shore."

Joseph Kennedy founded Citizens Energy, a non-profit energy company, in 1979. When Michael joined the company in 1984, he said there were four or five full-time employees.

Citizens Energy Corporation currently employs approximately 75 people across the United States and Europe and is a billion dollar enterprise.

'We could be a model of how to conduct business in a socially responsible manner in the future.'

—Michael Kennedy
on Citizens Energy Corporation

Much of the corporation's expansion occurred under Michael's stewardship because his brother left the corporation in 1986 when he was elected to the House of Representatives.

The mission at Citizens also expanded beyond the initial goal to provide affordable oil to the poor.

For the past three years, Citizens has distributed at-cost AZT, and other AIDS medications, to low-income and uninsured patients.

The Citizens Energy Shelter Assistance Program began in 1987 and provides free heating oil to 100 homeless shelters across Massachusetts.

Through Kennedy's initiative, the corporation also expanded its humanitarian efforts beyond United

Schools may charge fees if override fails

By Dori Dwyer
Mariner staff

Public education in Cohasset may not be free of charge next year if the override fails.

Monday night the school committee discussed measures which might be taken if the May 16 override fails, including the adoption of a fee-based extracurricular program.

Supt. Stephen Hart warned of the burdensome effects this program could have on parents of active students.

"Say we charge $200 per sport. If the child plays all three sports, that's $600," Hart said.

"Then there is the issue of if we charge for sports do we charge for other extracurriculars, like the debate team?" he asked.

Hart said it is conceivable under a fee-based plan to have a parent of two or three children paying $1,200 to $2,000 a year to the schools for fees.

School committee member and newly-elected vice-chairman Nancy Sandell said the effect of the override on households would be nominal compared to the effect of fees on parents.

"At a cost of $125 a year, the charge for the override is insignificant," she said.

The override amount is $387,000. If the override passes, taxes on a $300,000 home would increase about $120.

Newly-elected school committee member Ken Wilcox said he disagrees with a user-fee philosophy.

"I'm not prepared to say we are going to 100 percent user-fee basis. It's like saying we need a user-fee for the police department. It should be a community endeavor—

Lobbying for health board vacancy begins

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

The official town election is over. But another might be starting behind the scenes.

Michael Sullivan won of one of two seats on the board of selectmen Saturday. His victory leaves a vacancy on the health board.

Thomas Cook and Robert V. Davenport vied for a single, three-year, open seat on the board of health. Cook beat Davenport by 175 votes at the town election last week. The seat was open because health board member Sharon Becker did not run for re-election.

However at Monday's selectman's meeting Sullivan said that he and William Baird, who is on the board of health, had discussed who should fill the new vacancy.

Sullivan said he spoke with Becker and she was interested in filling the post.

Reached by telephone, Becker confirmed that she was asked about a month ago if she would step back in,

Selectmen say 'no' to override menu format on May 16 ballot

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

The override season has begun.

Selectmen made it official Monday when they voted to place five Prop. 2-1/2 override questions on the May 16 ballot.

The board was split on how to present the general override question for $377,416.

Citing possible divisiveness among town departments, senior Selectmen Jane Goedecke, Martha Gjesteby, and Rocco Laugelle favored a single question.

Newly elected Selectmen Merle Brown and Michael Sullivan, who were out voted on the issue, wanted the figure split three ways between town government, public safety, and schools to give voters more of a choice.

"I feel the electorate should have the decision," Brown said. "I think it will have a better chance (of passing) if we break it out."

But Chairman Goedecke said splitting the general override might "decimate" certain budgets and not others.

If we break this up, one area of town will get a whole loaf while another part gets nothing.

— Jane Goedecke
Selectmen chairman

"If we break this up, one area of town will get a whole loaf while another part gets nothing.

"Government doesn't work piecemeal. Our lives aren't piecemeal," she said.

If the general override passes, a home with an assessed valuation of $300,000 would see a property tax increase of about $120 in FY'93.

Advisory Committee Chairman Nan Roth said the advisory board favors a single question. A representative from the Parent-School Organization (PSO) said the PSO also endorses the single-question approach.

Resident Robert Martin, 259 South Main St., said the board should do what they were elected to do.

Cohasset's week

Unsafe parking at Osgood.

Safety Officer Clifton B. Jones notified selectmen about an unsafe situation at the Joseph Osgood School.

In a memo to selectmen, Jones noted there are two walkway/bicycle paths at the entrance to the school on Ripley Road.

"When parents drop their children off at school in the a.m., and pick them up in the p.m., parking at this time is a premium," Jones said. "Parents occasionally arrive late and use these two walkways (bicycle paths) to park their vehicles."

Jones said a problem exists when the cars back up to exit the walkways.

"Children that attend this school are obviously very small in stature and cannot be seen through the rear vehicle mirror," he said.

Jones asked selectmen to install 'No Parking' signs be at the two walkways.

But selectmen may go one better.

Selectman Michael Sullivan said putting the curb cuts back in should eliminate the problem.

"It wouldn't be expensive to put them back in," he said.

Selectmen said they would wait until they heard from the school board before acting on this issue.

Renew dog licenses

Animal control officer Bill Quigley warns that dog owners must renew their dog licenses by May 1 or face a $25 fine.

Quigley said he sent out notices to dog owners Tuesday (April 14).

Residents can renew licenses at town hall. For more information please call Quigley at 383-0037.

Taxi service ongoing

Selectmen issued a license to Joseph M. McMath of Cohasset Taxi-Limo to operate a taxi/limo service in Cohasset.

McMath, who has been operating the service in town for some time, was apparently unaware he needed a license for the business, Executive Secretary Greg Doyon said.

McMath had a license for the vehicles and drivers through the police department and did not know he needed a license from the board of selectmen itself, Doyon said.

Pomarico is acting chief

Selectmen approved the appointment of Sgt. David Pomarico as acting police chief while Chief Joseph M. Kealey takes a week's vacation starting April 27. Kealey recommended the appointment.

Sandy Beach lot snag

Newly elected Selectman Merle Brown had some possibly disconcerting news about the Sandy Beach parking lot, which was damaged in the surprise October storm.

Selectmen hope to get the parking lot repaired and open before beach weather.

But Brown is concerned that because the actual repair work has not begun, the state DEP may require a notice of intent.

After the storm the DEP allowed a grace period until Dec. 31 for towns to do emergency repairs.

If a notice of intent is required — the red tape, including hearings and filing forms — would set the project back.

The subject came up when selectmen approved $600 Monday to be paid to Civil Designs Inc., an engineering firm, for technical specifications.

Executive Secretary Greg Doyon said the town has requesting contractors' quotes for the repairs which are expected to cost less than $10,000. The quotes are due back this week, he said.

The design phase cost $9,000, Doyon said.

Selectman Rocco Laugelle favored opening the parking lot with signs installed warning people about the pot holes.

But Town Counsel Richard A Henderson said warning signs would not remove the town from possible liability if there is an injury.

Brown said he would ask the conservation commission to pursue the issue with the DEP.

Mosquito control help

The Mosquito Control Committee is requesting the assistance of all Cohasset residents in preventing the need to treat mosquitos with pesticides. Mosquitos breed in standing water. Residents are encouraged to survey their properties for sources of standing water such as clogged gutters, old tires, wading pools, and wheelbarrows.

Additionally, if there is a large area of standing water on your property or in your vicinity that cannot be drained, please let the committee know that location. Mosquitos can be treated in their larval stage with environmentally safe methods.

The Mosquito Control Committee can be reached by mail c/o the Cohasset Town Hall.

we all need the police department," Wilcox said.

Hart added that the school committee needed to convince voters that maintaining quality schools directly impacts the value of the community, and more directly the value of homes.

He said the committee should think of effective marketing devices to promote passage of the override.

"I know this has been used, but for less than the cost of a cup of coffee a day" voters could absorb the override amount, Hart said.

The committee discussed cutting elementary school teachers, eliminating the writing lab, group testing and proposed maintenance positions to meet a possible $191,000 cut.

"All options include cutting staff," Hart said.

Ken Ekberg, Principal of the Deer Hill School, said class size would increase at least 30 percent if just one teacher at his school was laid-off.

"It could go from 23 students per class to 30 or higher," Ekberg said.

Chairman Barbara Bliss said sports might have to be eliminated if the override fails.

Of the proposed $387,000 override amount, the schools need $191,000 to keep their proposed 1993 budget balanced.

School committee member Ralph Kidder, who won his bid for re-election last week, said he fears being asked to cut more than $191,000 from the school department's proposed budget if the override fails.

"I'm concerned whether the advisory committee can find 50 percent on the other half of the budget," Kidder said.

He added that further cuts in other town departments could render those departments useless, and force the advisory committee to turn to the schools to absorb more than 50 percent of the override amount.

"If this fails, it's going to be ugly," he added.

Hart said there is a remote possibility the schools might receive additional revenue from the governor.

"Governor Weld said he was willing to fund the difference between what schools are funded at now, and the recommended four-percent increase," he said.

Hart added that it was unlikely the governor would find the money for the difference by next year.

"The people spoke. They elected you as leaders. Step up to the plate and say, 'we need this money. We've gone over the figures, we've done our homework. This is what the government needs.'"

The following override questions will appear on the May 16 ballot:

• Question 1: $377,416 (includes an FY'93 projected budget deficit of $348,948; plus $13,498 for non-union employee increases; $11,442 to pay for contractual increases for police; and $3,528 for elected official pay. This type of override is a permanent tax increase).

• Question 2: $15,000 for a hazardous waste collection day (Goedecke said because the town is not authorized to borrow for this event, it is appearing as a general override question and if approved will be a permanent tax increase).

• $9,000 for a hydraulic sand spreader (capital outlay exclusion and will increase levy limit for just one year).

• Completion of final phase of glass block wall and windows at front section of north wing at Junior/Senior High School (debt exclusion question which raises funds for debt service costs and could be a different amount each year until it goes away at end of the term of debt) estimated costs of repairs is $95,000.

• Purchase and equipping of a new ambulance (debt exclusion question) estimated cost of ambulance $90,000.

AdCom game plan

Advisory committee chairman, Nan Roth, said if the general override fails the advisory board "will go back over every line item in every budget and brainstorm."

She said "although it's not set in stone" the schools will probably be asked to shoulder 1/2 of the cuts; and town government the other half.

Roth said the board would meet with department heads to determine the affect of cuts and any possible legal expenses involved.

A full explanation of the advisory committee's recommendations including the override's impact on property taxes is contained on pages three and four of the town warrant. Extra copies are available at town hall.

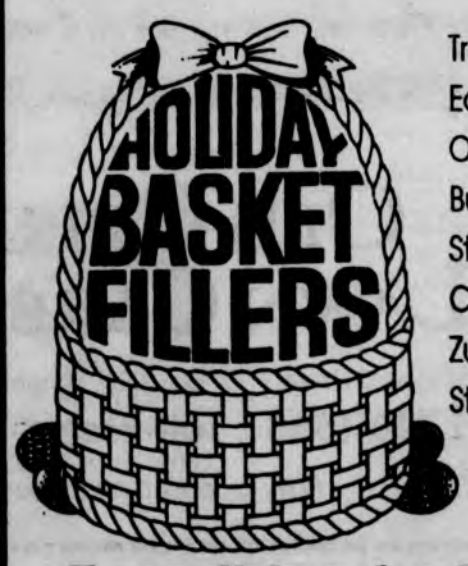
REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Philip Murphy, CRS, GRI

OVERPRICING CAN BE COSTLY



QUESTION: Several REALTORS have told me that my house is overpriced by about 20% and, in the long run, could cost me money. How can this be?

ANSWER: Because overpricing stops buyers from considering your home. No matter how much is spent on advertising, an overpriced home will not sell. Prime prospects who should have bought, have gone elsewhere to buy. When a home remains unsold too long, interest stops because buyers become wary. Eventually your house will sell, but for less than you could have realized had you priced it realistically. Use extreme caution in pricing your house more than 5 percent above its market value.

If you plan to sell your home soon and are unsure about its value, please call me today.

Kornet ousted; Sullivan and Brown are in Selectman Martha Gjesteby said voters have been throwing incumbents out for years.

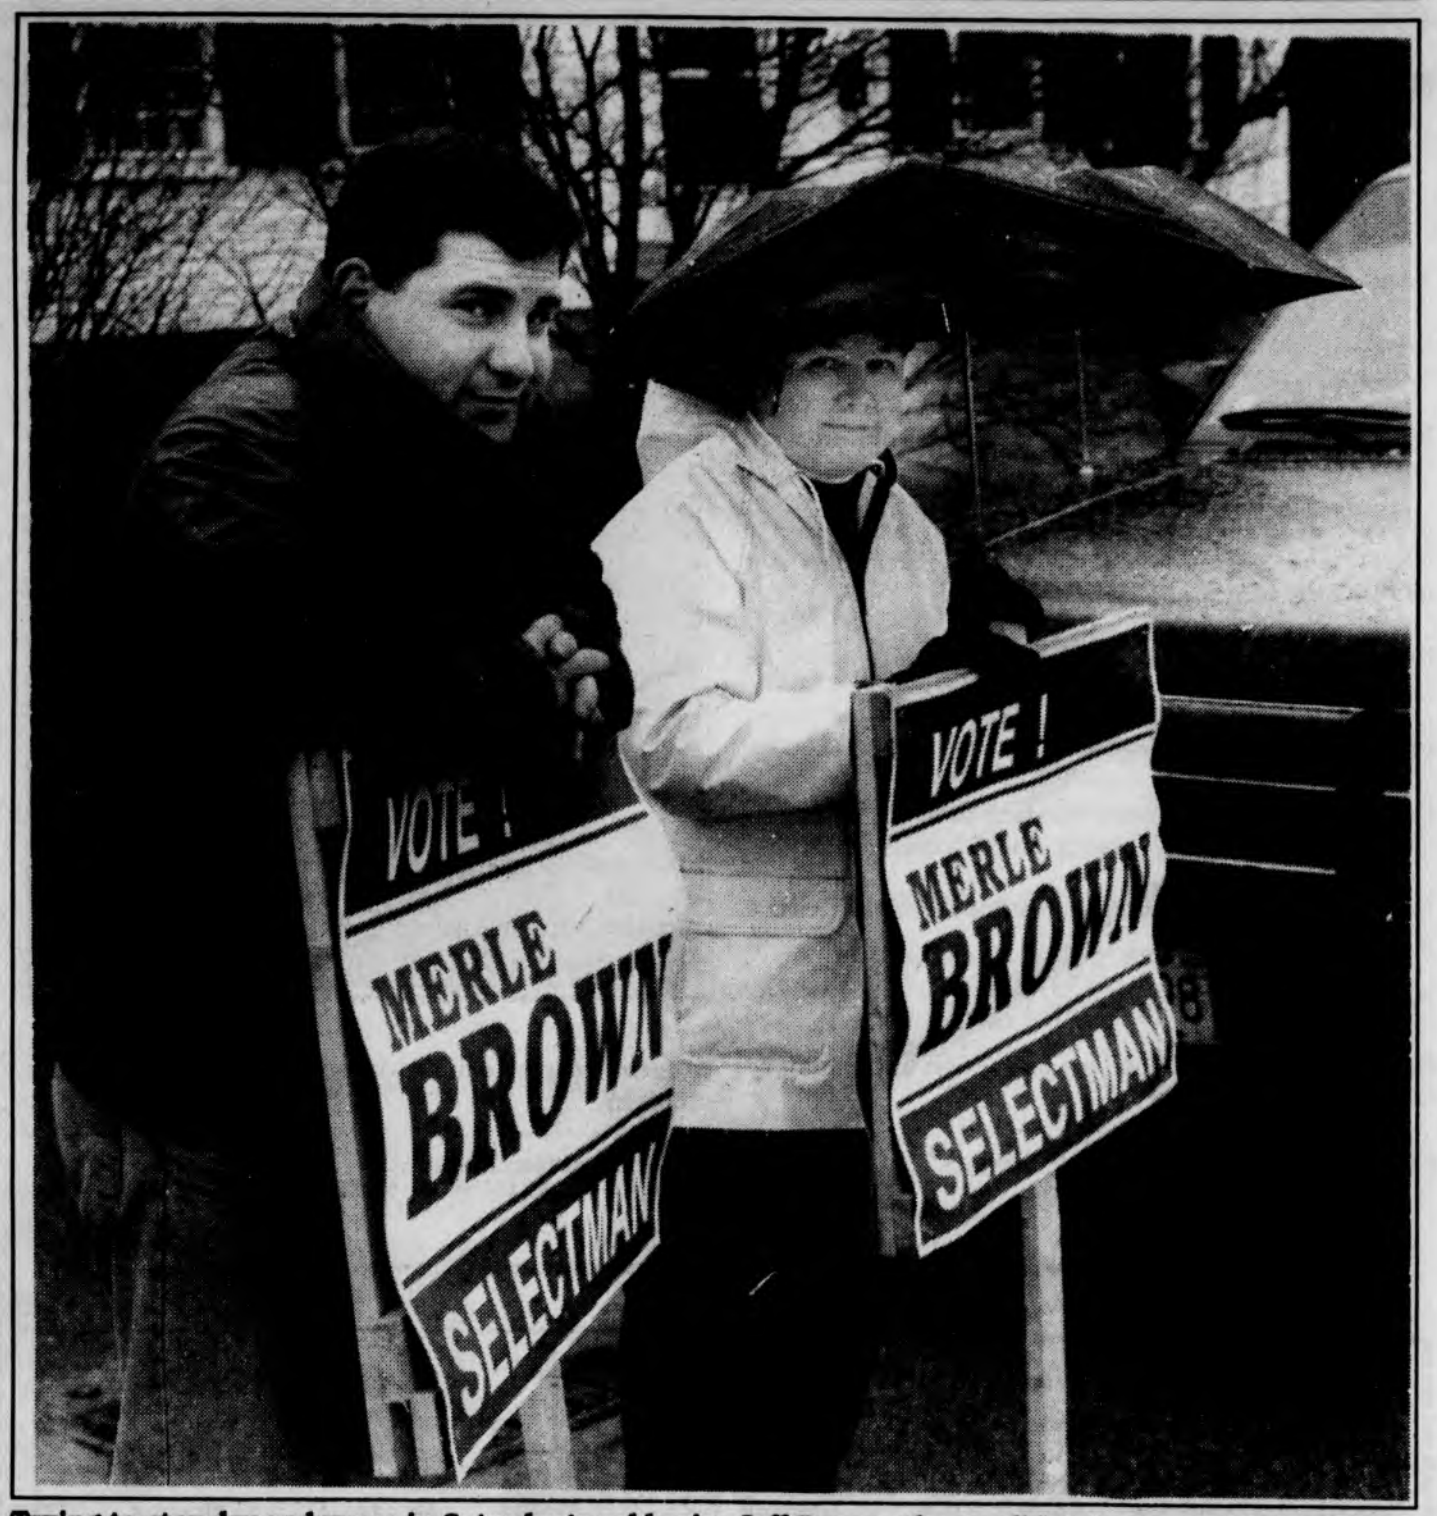
And Saturday's election was no exception.

"There's an anti-incumbent fever," Gjesteby said.

Gjesteby's comments came after the news that Diana Kornet lost her bid for re-election to the board of selectmen.

Kornet, who received 20 percent of the vote, came in last in a four-way race for two seats on the board.



Garnering 29 percent of the vote, former conservation commission member, Merle Brown, finished first in the selectman's race. Finishing second, former board of health member, Michael H. Sullivan, received 26 percent of the vote. And 23 percent voted for John K. McNabb Jr., who came in third.

On the board of health Thomas C. Cook defeated Robert V. Davenport for a single open seat on that board. Cook and Davenport received 55 and 44 percent of the vote respectively.

Kenneth P. Wilcox, with 41 percent, and Ralph D. Kidder, with 37 percent, won election to the school committee, defeating Owen L. O'Malley in a three-way race for two seats. Kidder was seeking re-election to the board.

Both Brown and Sullivan turned in their resignations from their prior boards to selectmen Monday.

Town Clerk Marion Douglas said 40.4 percent of the town's 4,700 registered voters turned out. In Precinct I, 917 people voted; and 1,008 voted from Precinct II, Douglas said.

Trying to stay dry and warm in Saturday's cold rain, Jeff Brown, the candidate's son, and Pat Buckley, campaign outside town hall. (Staff photo/John Stobierski)

❑ Victoria Gavaza called last week, she says she just cannot believe that her Mom turned 40! Joanne, welcome to the Flintlock "over 40 Group."

❑ Another very special Cohasset gal will be celebrating her birthday this week. Happy Birthday greetings go to Jill Shockman, whose birthday is April 17. She's still young enough to love birthdays, so be sure to extend greetings if you see her "around town."

❑ We congratulate Amy Lincoln, a student at Russell Sage College majoring in Sociology. Amy made the Russell Sage Kellas Scholar's List, which means she has been on the Dean's List for three consecutive semesters!

Amy is the daughter of Carol L. Flaherty and John W. Lincoln.

❑ On the subject of college students, we heard great news from Emmanuel College regarding two Cohassetites...Denise L. Murphy was selected for the 1991 fall semester dean's list. She is the daughter of William and Marjorie Murphy, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Louise Murphy of Worcester. Denise is a junior majoring in art therapy and is the activity director at the Ripley Road Nursing Home. Whew, talk about a hard worker!

Jacqueline Lydon, also a junior at Emmanuel who is majoring in rehabilitation psychology and a member of PSi Chi, the national honor society of psychology, also made the Dean's List for the fall semester.

❑ The South Shore Art Center and the Cohasset Chamber of Commerce are going to jointly sponsor the First Annual Golf Tournament at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham. The tournament will be held in conjunction with the 37th SSAC Art Festival and the 2nd Harborfest. You can play a game of golf with a friendly foursome while supporting the Art Center and the chamber.

It will be held June 24, the fee will be $100 which includes green fees, cart, dinner and prizes. You can just attend the dinner if you aren't a golfer. You can also be a sponsor. Get in touch with a member of the Harborfest committee for more details.

Junior gardener Pamela Wessling works with Joseph Cabral on an Easter flower arrangement at the Cohasset Knoll Nursing Home. The special workshop with junior gardeners and the elderly was sponsored by the Community Garden Center. (Staff photo/Laura Hyland)

❑ Speaking of making plans ahead of time, Ed Kasses, the producer at the South Shore Music Circus, has been in town and making lots of dates for the schedule. Names like Olivia Newton John, Bill Cosby, the Temptations, and "Phantom of the Opera" to name a few, plus "The Elephant Show" and a circus to get the kiddos excited...watch for the complete schedule!

❑ Great news this week, Kelli (McAuliffe) Dockendorff and David had a baby boy, born Friday, April 3 at South Shore Hospital. Grandparents are Bill and Jeanne McAuliffe and Mr. and Mrs. David Dockendorff of Scituate. And, of course, Great-grandmother Shirley Laidlaw. Enjoy him everyone (lots of us got a peek at him at the election check-out, where grandmother Jeanne showed pictures! Adorable!)

❑ Special Happy Birthday greetings to Tommy Coburn who will be a year old Saturday, April 18. Have a great day!

❑ Laura Andress, daughter of Horace and Frances Andrews of Black Horse Lane, was selected to pursue and independent study project during the winter term at the Taft School in Watertown, CT. Laura is studying sign language and the deaf community. She has learned to sign the alphabet and several words.

Laura is a senior at Taft, and is a member of the track team, photo editor for the school newspaper, a community volunteer and a member of the Taft Environmental Awareness Movement.

❑ Staff Sergeant Ralph Fisher received a letter from Paul E. Blackwell, Brigadier General, U.S. Army. Paul is due to retire, and has been invited by the Brigadier General to attend the military retirement ceremony followed by a reception to pay tribute to those retiring from service to the U.S. Army. Paul has been in the Army for 20 years, was an officer during the Gulf War, and is now in Germany. Needless to say, his dad, Edward Fisher of 40 Norfolk Rd., is pleased and proud of his son and his efforts. Paul was born and educated in our town, and we all salute him! Hopefully we will get a full report of the ceremony that is to be held May 1.

❑ Hope all of you have seen the model of the proposed plan of the Minot Lightkeeper's residence, and that you will do your part to make the dream a reality. The Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation objective is to raise funds to rehabilitate the building, making the first floor into a meeting room for functions and group meetings, complete with a commercial kitchen; a second floor with two income-producing efficiency apartments and exterior improvements including front and rear terraces, area beautification, picnic grills, benches and tables, walking trails, and improved parking.

It is history being preserved for us, folks, and for future generations! Lend your support, you can do so by going to The Chart House Sunday, June 28 to watch the Blessing of the Fleet and enjoy a sumptuous meal. They are asking a $30 donation ($15 meal/$15 to CLC). DO YOU AGREE
That Problem Solving,
Personal Investigating, Thinking Creatively,
Rational Decision Making, Writing, Speaking, Science and Life Skills Should Happen In A Math Class?
WE DO, TOO!
They happen in The After-School Classroom, an enriched after school educational program, focusing on mathematics that is systematically integrated with writing and science.

Learn to Think
Learning to think, analyze and draw conclusions are important attributes that youngsters in grades 4 through 8 should develop. One of the goals of our teaching philosophy is to instill independent thinking.

Students Actively Participate
Students will explore math as a standard curriculum and create a firm foundation in basic skills. These basic skills will be incorporated into problem-solving and life-skill situations, such as cooking, balancing a checkbook, playing the stock market, or finding mathematical short-cuts, in an integrated and a hands-on learning environment. Students, in two-person teams, will predict, estimate, collect and record data, analyze, draw conclusions and justify their positions.

No Qualification Exam
Enrollment is open to all students in grades 4 through 8. Registration is strictly "first come, first served".

Placement by Talent and Capability
Your child will be placed in a class based on their individual talent and capability rather than age or grade level.

Small Classes
Class enrollment is limited to 8 students to ensure maximum access to our instructors.

2 Days a Week
Classes meet two afternoons a week for about 50 minutes. One group will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays, the other on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Generally, each session will last eight weeks.

Low Tuition
Tuition is $200.00 per session ($25.00 per week) when paid in advance, or $30.00 a week when paid in weekly installments.

2 Free Seats
Based on teacher recommendation, the After-School Classroom Room is making two free seats available in each class after a minimum of six paid enrollments.

Information and Enrollment
Classes start April 27th at the First Baptist Church, (Mann Lot and Country Way), Scituate. Call Fred Dorr at 544-3300 between 2 and 7 pm, or write to The After-School Classroom, 9 Riverview Place, Scituate, MA 02066 for further information and enrollment.

Us and Them

We want to congratulate all the candidates — winners and losers — in the recent town election.

Today when town governments are under fiscal stress and leaders are under more scrutiny than ever before, it takes commitment and courage to serve.

It was refreshing to have races on three boards. We hope the losers can take satisfaction that they stood up, spoke out, and put it all on the line. And we hope they try again.

For those who won, it's going to be a tough spring. An override election looms.

In our experience these times are hard on a community. At the very time a town should band together, it often pulls apart.

We hope that doesn't happen this spring in Cohasset.

And the leadership that you, as elected officials, provide will be critical in seeing that it doesn't.

As Cohasset citizen, Bob Martin of King Street said at the selectmen's meeting Monday — "The people spoke. They elected you as leaders. Step up to the plate and say, 'we need this money. We've gone over the figures. We've done our homework.' "

We hope that voters will become informed. A good place to start is the town warrant, read it. The advisory board explains the town budget on pages 3 and 4. If you have any questions, call a member of the advisory board, school committee, or selectmen.

Don't make this the 'us' and 'them' season.

Roll call votes

Many constituents have spoken to state Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray regarding Beacon Hill Roll Call.

According to Rep. Murray some constituents don't understand why sometimes Senator Robert Hedlund votes four times and she only votes twice or visa versa.

We apologize to those who find roll call confusing. But because Rep. Murray and Sen. Hedlund are in different houses of the legislature, they rarely vote on bills at the same time. If you look more closely, you will see that some of the bills are house bills and some are senate bills and occasionally bills are both.

We think this new feature will provide you with a convenient and sure way of knowing just how our local lawmakers stand on the issues.

Cartoon sends the wrong message

letters

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter to express my anger and disappointment at the recent cartoon that appeared in the March 26 issue of the Cohasset Mariner.

I was appalled at the insensitivity and poor taste displayed by the artist and the editor for printing that cartoon.

Since when is robbery or attempted robbery humorous? How funny would it be if it was your brother/sister or husband/wife who was the victim of that robbery attempt?

In today's tough economic times, with robberies and other related crimes on the rise, to portray such events in a humorous light, sends the wrong message. That crime does pay! And what of the victims of this attack, how do you think they feel? Or was that even a consideration?

Annual roadrace was best ever

To the Editor,

On behalf of the roadrace committee, I want to express our most sincere gratitude to the residents of Cohasset for their assistance and cooperation in making the Sixteenth Annual Race the best ever. Numerous runners commented on the warmth and concern accorded them during the race.

Special thanks to the police and fire departments for the safety provided. As well as to the highway and park departments for their pre-race preparations and continued assistance.

These departments provide us with services we can all take pride in.

Heartfelt thanks to the countless volunteers without whom the event could not have happened.

Our sincere appreciation to all the businesses for their gifts and financial support.

For their endless efforts my personal thanks to the Muncey family, Andy Hailer, Don Harrold, Teen Depot, Rick Curtis, Sharpless Jones, Roy Fitzsimmons and the entire Rotary Club.

I know all the Walkers join me in thanking Normandie Nighe and Bob Devin for their organization of the walk.

Again, our gratitude to everyone who makes Cohasset the special place it is.

Peter J. Logan
Roadrace Director

'Thanks for your election support'

To the Editor:

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the many people throughout town who supported my candidacy for the school committee.

Your opinions and ideas are important to me and it's essential that we continue to talk so that I can adequately represent you for the next three years.

I'd also like to thank the Mariner for allowing candidates to publish brief releases germane to the contested races for elected office. It is a wonderful opportunity for the readers to get to know more about the candidates.

I look forward to working with parents, students, teachers, administrative people, and other citizens.

chamber chatter

by Paula Knowles

The Easter Bunny's coming! The Easter Bunny's coming! Run, buy, hide, eat! Who gets what, what goes where? What to wear, what to cook, where to eat, who to visit? H E L P !! I've turned into the wicked witch and I'm meltiiiiiiiing!

Sound familiar? Definitely rivals the dreaded yearly "Cleaning out your rooms before Christmas" fiasco. I have never gotten over the year—somewhere around 1975—when the temperature at store closing time on the night before Easter was 85 degrees, and in the closet where a little boy's candy was hidden it must have hit 110 just before all of the candy melted. The lengths that I have gone to since that year to make sure that the Easter Bunny arrives unharmed, unhampered and intact would make a lunatic look like King Solomon the Wise. But, I have learned over the years. For one thing, I now stay in town when I shop for Easter.

I ease into candy hunting around the first of February. That may seem a little early to some, but those of you who start Christmas shopping on Dec. 26 will understand. I have to hit each store as the candy begins to come in.

The first clue? Cadbury Creme Eggs (oh~ delight of delights) at Tedeschi's and Walgreens. Buy some at 2/$.99 one week, and 3/$.99 the next. If CVS or Woolworths has them cheaper later, no problem. I've already eaten the others anyway.

Then come "Peeps", mini eggs, bubble gum eggs, hollow and solid chocolate bunnies, marshmallow eggs and figures and malted milk "Robin Eggs"—in the carton, of course. Stop & Shop, Cohasset Colonial Pharmacy, Hennessy News (the paper store, to us)....they're every where.

When my daughter sees the bags arriving, her list goes up on the board. I pop into second gear and add Reeses' peanut butter eggs, jelly beans (only one kind will do) and more "Peeps". The gears are starting to grind, the frenzy has started to take hold.

That stupid rabbit leaves gifts too, doesn't he? Why didn't anyone tell me that a silly set of plastic bowling pins for a two-year-old in 1975 would lead to rollerblade wheels for a Marine Commando in 1992?? Zoom!..into third..to The Good Sport, Woolworth's, CVS, Cohasset Hardware, Cards & Shards, Walgreens, Nobles. Presents, doodads, toys, cards.

Now I'm shifting into fourth and really cruising into the stretch. It's time for...clothes. Appleseeds, The Children's Exchange, EIEIO (Doris Golden, of course), the Consignment Shop, my closet...to Alt 24 for "adjustments" and "easements", to Kings and Cohasset Jewelers for just the right earrings or bracelet—all so that kids large and small can cover themselves with chocolate and goo and I can wear an old sweatshirt most of the day as I cook, and cook, and cook.

But wait, that's what fifth gear is for. Depress the clutch, shift into fifth, and roar into Stop & Shop for the roast, to French Memories for rolls, to Village Gourmet for that heavenly coffee (no, not Chock Full O'Nuts), and the Bread Shop for the perfect dessert. Now downshift into the turn and roll toward home.

Maybe this year say, I'll take it easy after the Bunny gets here. Maybe I won't have to work so hard after all....NOT!

Now if I can just get the Post Office to assure me that the candy I'm sending won't get tooooo warm...Well, here we go again!

Afterthought: We had a call from a shopper asking for an area business that repairs VCR's. If that is you, call us at 383-1010.

McNabb says thanks

John K. McNabb, Jr., who recently lost a close race for board of selectman, thanked the entire Town of Cohasset for their attention and for their support, April 13.

"I deeply appreciate the support and assistance of the many Cohasset residents who helped me in my campaign," McNabb said. "We could not have done as well as we did without their efforts."

"I am not going away," he said. "I will continue to be active in town government, to help protect our water supply through SAFE, and to promote open town government - which must include live cable TV coverage of selectmen meetings."

Beacon Hill Roll Call

(House and Senate) SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET (H 5464) - House 102-43, Senate 30-4, approved the House Senate conference committee version of a $297 million fiscal 1992 supplemental budget. Provisions include $22 million for courts, $11 million for mental health and a provision to insure that communities receive the full $306 million promised in local aid lottery fund distribution, despite a projected state lottery shortfall. Supporters said this was a fiscally responsible plan necessary to fund essentials for the remainder of fiscal 1992. Some opponents said the package was irresponsible and spends new money in areas in which the state had made responsible cuts last year. Others said they opposed a section stripping local boards of health of nearly all control over hazardous waste facilities. (A "Yes" vote is for the budget. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N	N
(House) CENSUS (H 3355) - House 94-55, refused to discharge the Ways and Means Committee and bring to the House floor for action the bill conforming the state's laws to the recent constitutional amendment abolishing the state census. Discharge supporters said the measure is necessary to require all communities, including Boston, to redraw precincts and conform to the federal census. They argued quick action is needed to begin state legislative redistricting for 1994. Discharge opponents said the bill creates many problems for Boston and will cost the city time and money. They said the committee is waiting for input from Boston officials and urged the House not to rush action. (A "Yea" vote is for discharge. A "Nay" vote is against it).		Y
(House) UNEMPLOYMENT (H 2935) - House 107-36, rejected Governor Weld's bill to tighten unemployment benefits eligibility and standards and reduce the number of weeks jobless benefits can be collected from 30 to 26. Weld proposed this bill to replace the one approved by the legislature hiking the unemployment insurance tax on employers by 30 percent. The legislature's bill hikes the average payment from $363 per year per employee to $474 through 1993 and to $680 in 1994. The state's unemployment trust fund is running at a deficit and the state is borrowing $5 million a day from the federal government to pay jobless benefits. Supporters of Weld's bill said it will save $200 million annually without affecting any people currently collecting unemployment benefits. They argued his version does not hike the tax and will not drive employers out of state. Opponents of Weld's version argued it does not stop the massive state borrowing and argued the legislature's version is the only responsible way to bail out the fund's deficit which could climb to $900 million by year's end. (A "Yea" vote is for Weld's version. A "Nay" vote is against it).		N
(House) TURNPIKE (H 2926) - House 103-39, refused to reconsider its earlier defeat of a bill abolishing the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority and transferring its operation and holdings to the State Department of Public Works. Bill supporters said this independent authority is a political patronage haven which lacks accountability and noted it was promised that the tolls would be abolished once the original bonds to fund the turnpike are paid off in 1993. They argued the Authority's plan to sell $500 million in new bonds for a five year construction program is unnecessary and is simply an attempt to extend the Authority's life. Opponents said the bill is irresponsible and will weaken the ability to sell the bonds at a good rate. They argued the Authority does a great job with the turnpike and claimed it is accountable to the state's motorists. (A "Yea" vote is for reconsidering defeat of the bill abolishing the Authority. A "Nay" vote is against abolishing the Authority).		Y
(Senate) WATERSHED (H 397) - Senate 31-4, gave near final approval to the bill restricting development around the Quabbin, Wachusett and Ware reservoirs and authorizing the state to borrow $135 million to buy undeveloped land nearby to protect the reservoirs. Supporters said the bill will protect these reservoirs which feed the drinking water supply for over two million metropolitan Boston residents. They claimed inaction will cost the state up to $1.5 billion in expensive filtering systems. Opponents said the bill is flawed, costly and full of overregulation. They said the $135 million is not guaranteed and that the bill deprives landowners of property rights without proper compensation.	Y
(Senate) COMPENSATION (H 397) - Senate 22-11, rejected a watershed amendment prohibiting the restriction in the bill from taking effect until an affected property owner is compensated for the difference between the value of his or her land prior to and following the restriction. Amendment supporters said the $135 million is not guaranteed because of limited state funds and bond caps. They argued the amendment is the only way to guarantee compensation. Opponents said the $135 million is reasonable and argued the amendment will delay implementation of the bill and set a bad precedent.	N
(Senate) LANDFILL (H 397) - Senate 28-7, rejected a watershed amendment prohibiting the site assignment of a regional landfill within 2500 feet of the Wachusett or Quabbin reservoirs. Amendment supporters said a landfill is being considered within 1700 feet of a reservoir and will cause major problems by attracting pollutants and rats. Opponents said the site is downstream from the Wachusett reservoir and argued pollutants will not flow uphill. They also argued the amendment sets a bad precedent and undermines the process of solid waste siting which was set up to deal with these issues. (A "Yea" vote is for the 2500 feet prohibition. A "Nay" vote is against the prohibition).	N

Monthly parties at the Chart House

The Baer philosophy puts singles at ease

By Patty Hayes
Mariner correspondent

There's something new for singles on the South Shore. It's not a fancy new club or an expensive dating service—it's a party which emphasizes spontaneous fun and friendships rather than love and romance.

Mike Baer, founder of Baer Events, said that singles from Plymouth and Hingham were going to his parties in Wellesley, complaining that there was nothing for them to do on the South Shore.

So, Baer Events, specializing in parties for singles ages 30-45, has come to Cohasset. Baer is now hosting parties monthly at the Chart House on Border Street, in Cohasset Harbor.

For $10 admission, you get hors d'oeuvres, entertainment, and a comfortable, friendly atmosphere. There's a cash bar; parking is free; and dress is jacket and tie.

The Chart House, with its picturesque view of Cohasset Harbor, is a perfect setting for the parties. Each table is decorated with a candle and a teddy bear and the music is soft, "so people can get to know each other without having to shout," Baer says.

The next party at the Chart House will be on Friday, May 29. Baer hasn't yet decided what the theme of this party will be, but, be assured, it will be fun and unique.

Baer Events parties in the past have featured live Jazz music, an oldies night with a live Elvis show, a Marilyn Monroe Night, Karaoke, and a Ventriloquist who entertained each table individually.

BREAKING THE ICE

The last Baer Event at the Chart House on April 10 was "Clowning Around Night," featuring Ro-Ro the Clown as the evening's entertainment.

Baer says that his favorite part of planning the parties is finding the entertainment. He makes a point of choosing entertainers who will interact with the guests and break the ice between them.

Baer says that many of his guests are often intimidated by meeting new people and that the first hour of the party is usually very hard. He uses techniques such as the clown to "try to create a relaxing atmosphere for people."

"People seem to be more at ease when you do something silly," he says.

The number of single people has skyrocketed within the last decade, Baer says, and the older those singles are, the more difficult and awkward it is for them to go out.

"Going out can be really traumatic for someone who's been married 15 years," he says.

"There's a lot of nice people out there," he says. "You just need to create a nice atmosphere."

Baer says he looked at a lot of locations on the South Shore to hold his parties, and chose the Chart House because it's "comfortable and classy."

"It had to be someplace where people would want to go," he said.

Baer says he chooses to hold the parties in "classy" establishments so that the parties will attract "intelligent, interesting professional people.

"We've never had a situation where someone had too much to drink, is being obnoxious, or a guy is coming on to a woman," he says.

THE BAER PHILOSOPHY

Recognizing how difficult it is for people to meet each other, Mike Baer, a mailman by profession, began hosting singles parties at the Wellesley Inn three years ago. The events have been tremendously successful, and usually attract as many as 200 people.

Baer says that singles today really don't have a place to meet each other. Office politics make it difficult for people to meet at work; and dating services can cost as much as $1,500, and may have disappointing results

Although they're aimed at singles, Baer stresses the fact that his parties are not "meat markets". In fact, his intent is not to form romances, but to encourage friendship among single people.

"A woman may attend an event and not meet a man of interest to her, but could meet a great new female friend to play tennis with," he says.

Too many people get caught up in the search for the perfect date, Baer says, and expect to find happiness in a new love interest. But, he says what they should really be looking for is friendship. "You're not going to meet Mr. or Ms. Wonderful. Just come for a few hours to have a good time."

Baer events also holds gatherings on Sunday afternoons, allowing guests to see friends "under different circumstances than a darkened ballroom." Aside from the Baer Events (dances) are the Baer Affairs, which are smaller gatherings, of skiing, tennis, golf and day trips.

Mike Baer has found a local theater group which will participate in a "Phantom of the Opera" Party in the Fall.

He's also got the Hingham Militia to agree to an appearance at the Fourth of July Party that he's planning for Cohasset.

Baer is also planning a "City Slickers" party, inspired by the movie. He'll have a corral around the dance floor, hay, cowboy hats for the guests and a band with 2 guitars and a fiddle. "The fiddler will fiddle to everyone" he says.

"Future Night" is also in the works. This party will feature a palm reader, a handwriting analyst, and a tarot card reader.

Afternoon Baer Affairs being planned include a chocolate tasting party and participation in the Boston/New York "Tomato War" in Vermont.

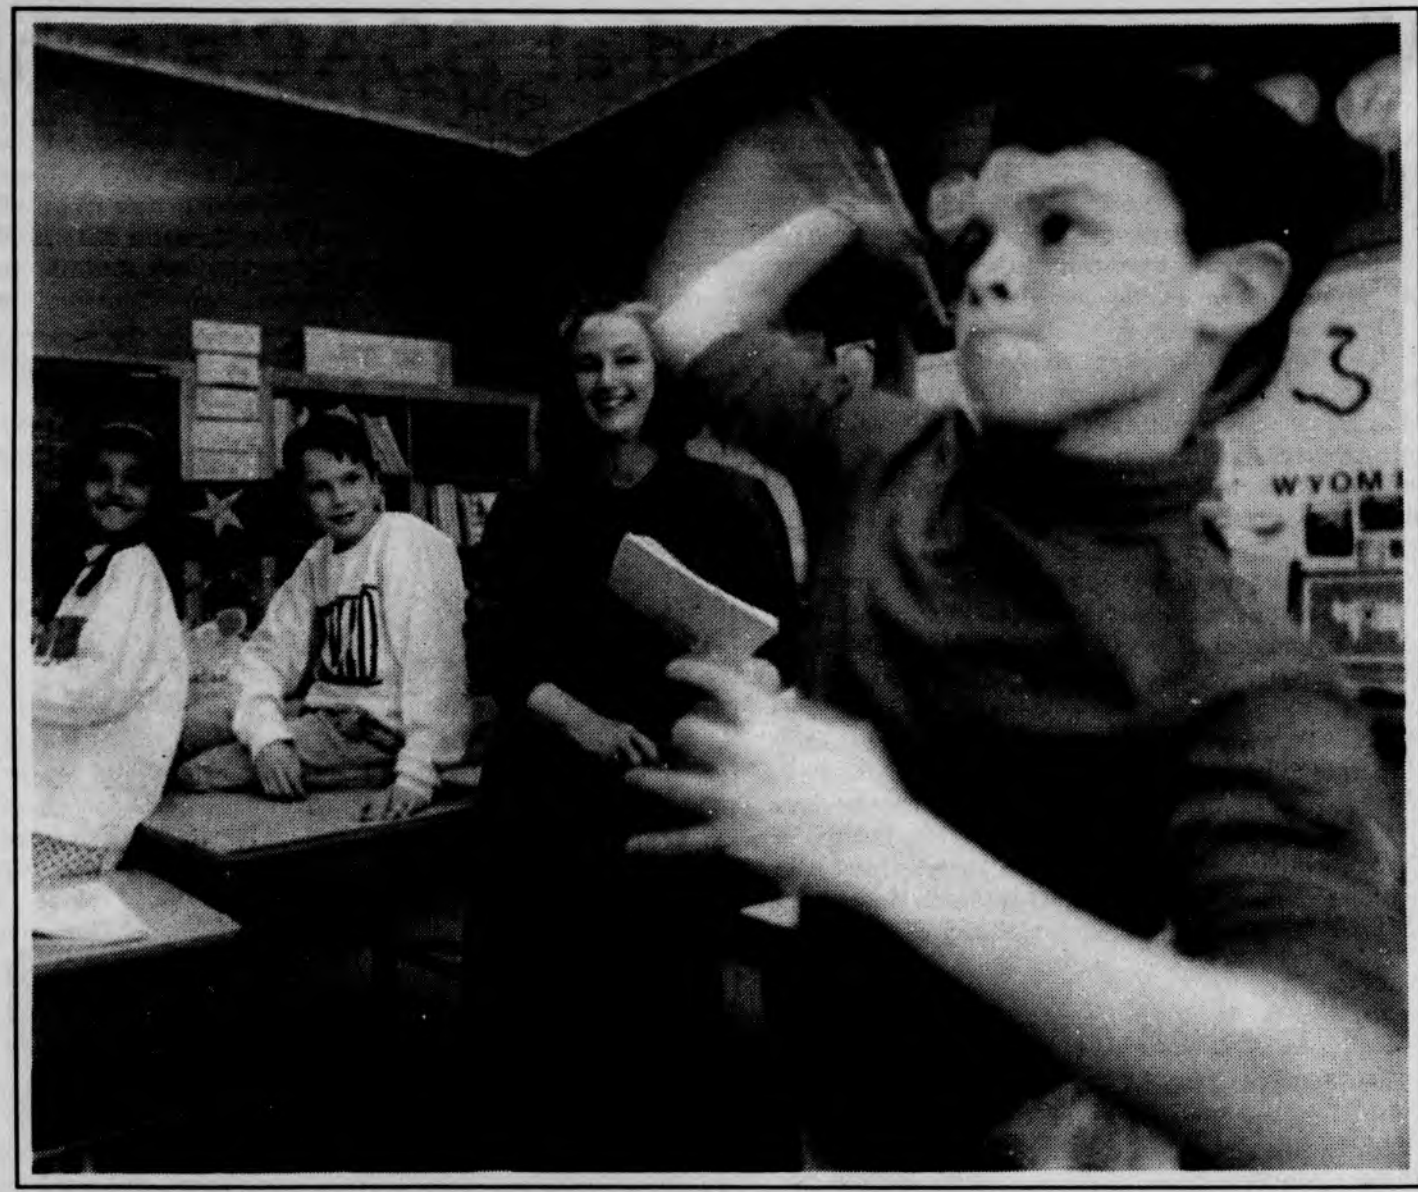
Mini-Metric Olympics add up for fourth graders

It was no ordinary Olympics.

Using straws for javelins and paper plates for the discus, fourth graders at Deer Hill conducted the first annual Mini-Metric Olympics last week.

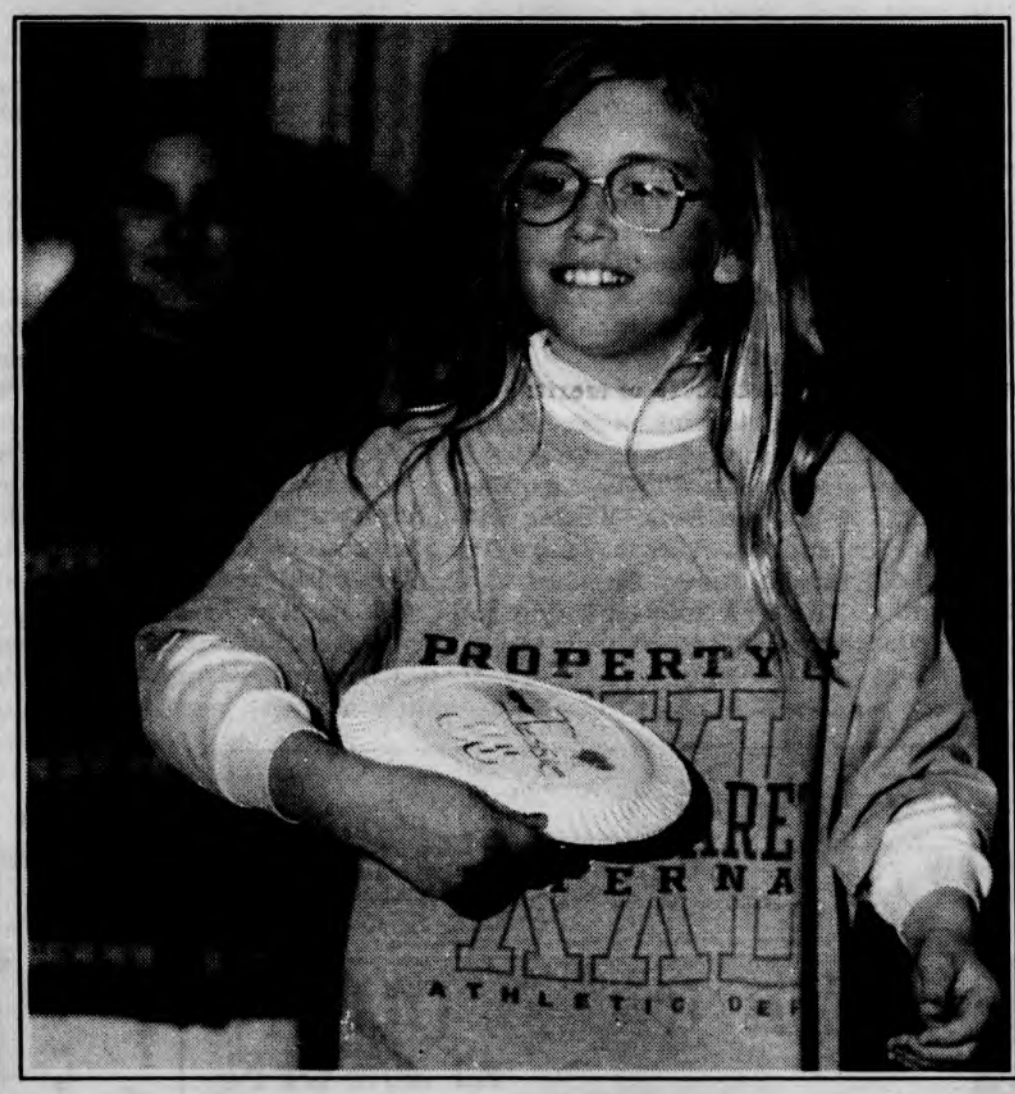
It's all part of a special program that ties math and science together.

Teacher Dorothy MacDonald attended a workshop last summer. She shared what she learned with her fellow teachers and got them enthused.

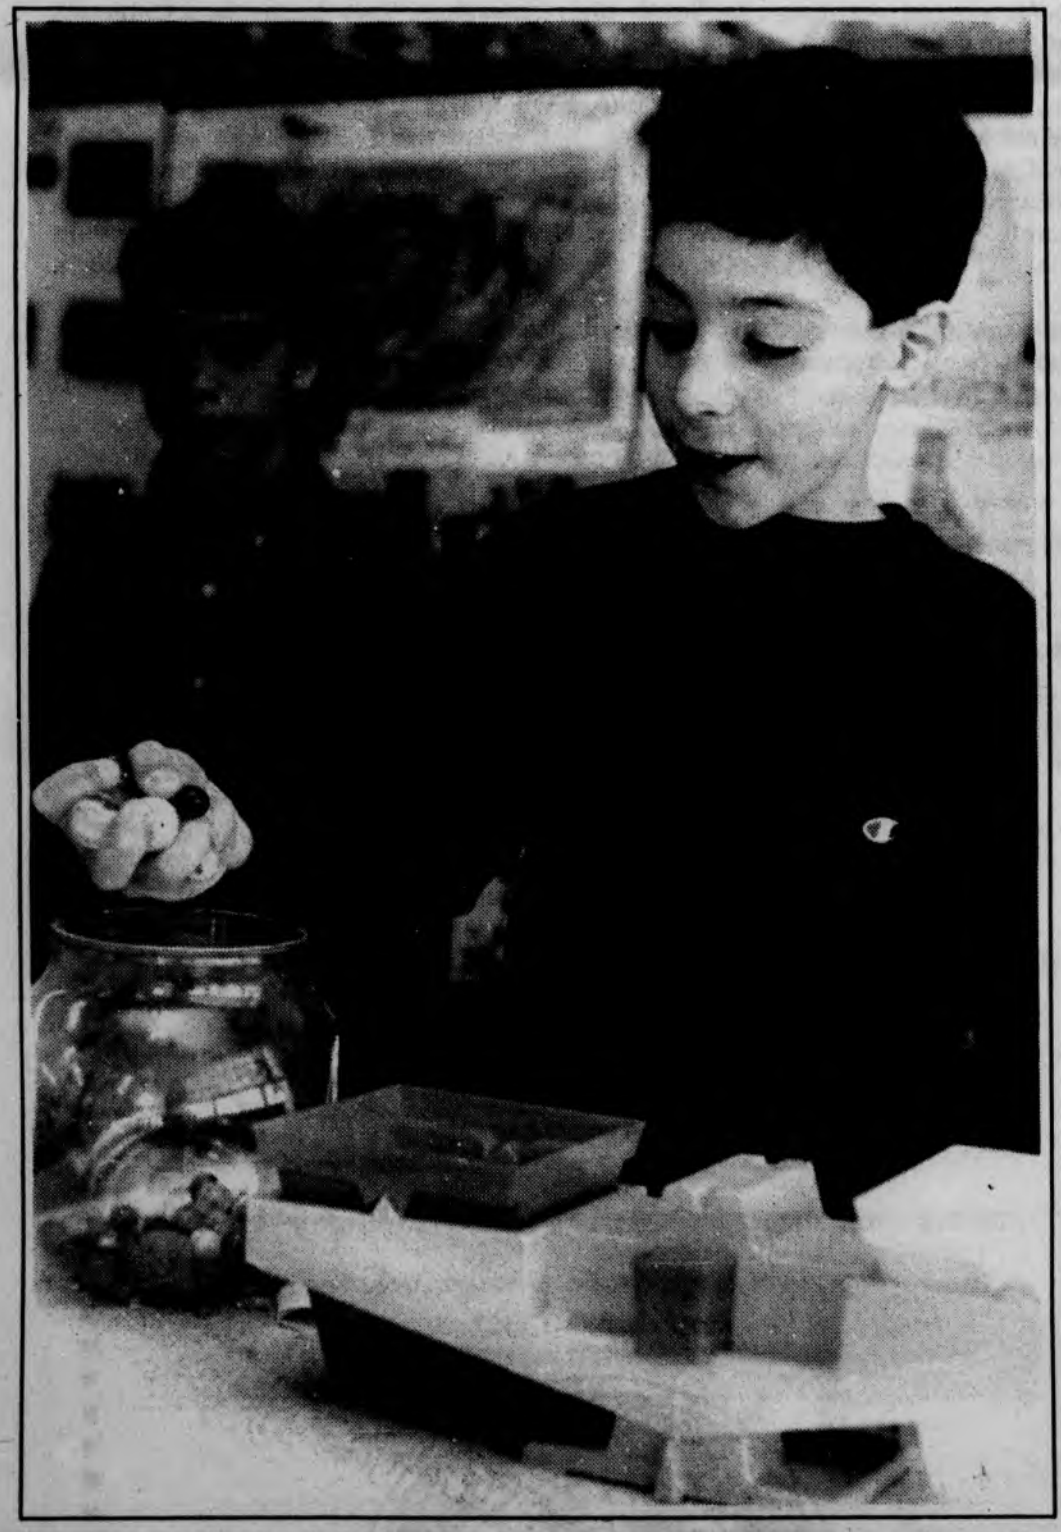


All year kids have been conducting hands-on experiments and the Mini-Metric Olympics were the culminating activity, MacDonald said.

In the right-handed marble grab, for example, kids first grab a fistful of marbles. Then they place the marbles on a balance scale; and estimated (in grams) the mass of marbles. They record their estimate. And then measure and record the actual results and compute the difference.



Other events included the cotton-ball shot put; the left-handed sponge squeeze; the paper plate discus; and paper straw javelin throw.



And in the 'big foot was here' event, kids traced around their foot on square centimeter graph paper. They had to estimate and then figure the area of their foot prints.

MacDonald said to get into the Olympic spirit, the kids wore red, white, and blue all week.

Danny Sullivan competes in the soda-straw javelin toss, one of the events in the Mini-Metric Olympics at Deer Hill School, as teacher Susan Horigan looks on.

How much will a fist full of marbles weigh? B. J. Butman has to estimate the answer before weighing them on a metric scale. (Above right) Jessie Zerendow tries her hand at the discus during the fourth-grade Mini-Metric Olympics at Deer Hill.

Mary Benbow

Benbow provides training

Mary Benbow, MS, OTR, an occupational therapist specializing in education related therapy at Cohasset Public Schools for 15 years presented an institute on Hand Development and Kinesthetic Handwriting at the American Occupational Therapy Association's 75th annual conference held at the Brown Convention Center, Houston, TX.

Benbow developed an efficient training curriculum, "Loops and Other Groups," for learning disabled and normal students to learn to write in an integrated classroom setting.

Interestingly enough about one half of the practice is done with eyes closed to speed motor learning of the letters.

Benbow was one of 12 Institute speakers chosen to provide a two-day indepth training session in her specialty area at this year's conference. Over 5,000 therapists and other health professional attended the Houston event.

Agati to speak

The Cohasset PSO is hosting its General Spring Meeting Thursday, May 7 at CHS.

Guest speaker will be Jack Agati who spoke last year on birth order. This year's topic will be "The Goals of our Children's Misbehavior."

Refreshments will be at 7:30 p.m. Jack Agati speaks at 8 p.m.

Special needs screening set

The Massachusetts Special Education Law (Chapter 766) provides for the screening of three and four-year-old children whose parents feel may have a special need which might interfere with their future educational progress. The screening process includes a parent interview as well as a health, vision, hearing, motor and language screening.

Parents who feel that their child might have such a special need should call John J. Leary, Jr., Director of Student Services, at 383-6104.

Courtney is remembered

The Friends of Courtney Allen have proceeded with plans for the landscaping of the Outdoor Classroom at the Osgood School, in Courtney's memory. Plans include the construction of a simple fence with a walk-through trellis and the planting of some perennials.

Volunteer work on the project will begin at 1 p.m. on May 3. All are welcomed to participate in this project which is not only to remember Courtney, but to enhance the playpark as a place for all children to play and learn and grow.

Committee chairwoman Sheri Anderson said, "Besides help with the construction and planting, donations of any amount are welcome. We are hoping that those interested in contributing to the project will make their donation or their pledge soon so that we can finalize the plans for the project."

A dedication ceremony is planned for May 17 at 2 p.m. at the playpark, and is open to the community and all friends of Courtney. Contributions may be sent to Friends of Courtney Allen, c/o Cohasset PSO/METCO, Box 30, Cohasset, MA 02025.

Cohasset spring soccer season in full bloom

By Joan Kovach
Special to the Mariner

Cohasset began its spring soccer season Saturday, April 4, in beautiful weather. The town has fielded 29 teams and about 417 players, girls and boys from 6-to-19 years of age. So far there have been a number of terrific games, many heroic performances and a few sweet surprises. At least two teams who hung on through a tough winless season in '91 (Girls 14-2, and Boys 8-3) savored the taste of victory their first time out in '92.

TOUGH START

The newly formed Girls 14-1 team coached by Nino D'Urso and Sandy Theriault had a tough start April 4 with a 1-6 loss to Scituate. Catie Campbell and Megan Fahey performed well in offense and Melinda Johansen and Rebecca Jenkins worked well in defense.

Despite preseason injuries and team of only ten players, this team came back in its second game to defeat a full 18 member Hingham squad 2-0, with Campbell scoring the second goal unassisted and Tammy Maitlin, assisted by Holly Russell contributing the first. Sharing center position as halfback and fullback, Amie Theriault and Johansen did an outstanding job leading the team.

The bright determination and skill of these players shined through the chilling rain especially in the performances of Stephie Lubitz, Lauren Devito (fullbacks) and Emily D'Urso as goalie.

TENACIOUS DEFENSE

Goals by Cara McKenney, Megan McNamara, Emily Henderson and Ali Ritz for the Girls 14-2 team coached by Brian McKenney combined with the tenacious defensive performances of Shelley Vanderweil and Maureen Murphy and produced the sweet 4-0 victory against a gutsy Middleboro team for the season opener. Despite the horrendous weather, the team again took four goals and a 4-3 victory, this time against a well coached and formidable Plymouth team for their second game. Kelley O'Donnell, McKenney and Henderson put the first three goals in for Cohasset. The fourth and winning shot was Liz Bestick's set up by Kathleen Fitzsimmons and Henderson. Ashley Brister and Jessie Sandell provided tough and talented defense for this happy 2-0 team.

PROMISING OPENER

Nino D'Urso's girls 12-2 team opened with a 0-0 game against Hingham in which Lydia Crafts and Eileen Ridge played well on offense and Annie Palone and Kyralea Cogill held tight on defense. Against Scituate the next week, Alyssa McNamara's goal and good offense by Stefanie Noering worked with Alexandra D'Urso and Katie Brister's defense for 1-0 win. Girls 10-1 team, coached by Rose Kahn played a promising opener against Scituate, with goals by Jacquelene Kahn, Ari Afshar and Emily Libby, while Caitlin Donovan, Betsy Anderson and Jennifer Meehan combined in goal for the shutout.

FIRST WIN

This year there are twelve eight and under teams. Boys Team 8-5 coached by Terry Kahn took its first victory with superb defensive work by Troy Cannistraro and Curtis Kahn, and scoring by Paul Previte (3), Kahn (2), and Ross Lieb-Lappan. Team 8-3 coached by Dick Grinnell and George Kovach saw a budding defenseman in new player Andrew O'Keefe and some super scoring and assist work by Peter Kovach, Dan Littauer, Kyle Weber, and Dean Grinnell. Nick Cavanaugh played well and Eric Libby was a formidable opponent. Other eight and under reports will be published as they come in.

TIED OPENER

Boys 10-1 coached by Paul Cotter and led by Evan Cutler and Mario Bruzzone on offense tied their opener with Scituate's only goal coming from a penalty shot. The defense was anchored by Andrew Kinch and Matt Santoro and Doug (The Denier) O'Brien, and the superb play in goal of Chris Caron. In dreary weather they traveled for their second game and gave a solid defensive performance but lost to a seasoned squad from perennial powerhouse Duxbury. Cohasset saw strong efforts from midfielders Ronan Buick, Brayton Pearsall and Geoff McWilliams.

Sailing team will try to double

By Paula Knowles
Mariner correspondent

The Cohasset HS Sailing Team showed up at the community boating facilities on the Charles River Thursday, April 9, ready and able to start their quest for a second undefeated season.

Unfortunately, the weather forced them to postpone their season opener until Tuesday, April 14.

But Cohasset coach/advisor Marylee Murphy and the team members didn't let their trip to Boston go to waste. The team got a few hours of practice in, and Coach Murphy and league officials were able to go over the coming season one more time before opening day.

Team members Joe Menis, Tim Herzog, Dave Nothnagle, Chloe Chittick, Nicole Peterson, Jessie Sammons, Becky Calantine, Jamie Kondrat, Chip Kennedy, Charlie Shields, Lauran Almeida, Dave Christoffel, and John Murphy will sail against Windsor Tuesday, April 14, and Lincoln Sudbury Wednesday, April 15.

All races are sailed from community boating on the Charles River.

Boys' Tennis Team Takes Opener

The boys' tennis team started their season off with a bang by defeating Rockland 4-1. The team pairings are:

- First singles: Tim Brister
- Second singles: Dan DeMichele
- Third singles: Bill Jordan
- First doubles: John Brister, Joe Slotnick
- Second doubles: Jim Yess, Mac Campbell

They will be at home against Norwell Monday, May 13; and away against Scituate the 14th, and Abington the 16th.

Varsity Softball

Cohasset's rally in the bottom of the seventh fell just short, as they lost to Rockland 10-8, April 9 at home.

The game was marred by a first inning ankle injury to third baseman Heather Bass; but was also highlighted by the return of junior catcher Jenn Knowles behind the plate, and the steady pitching of senior Linda Hague, returning to the mound after a two-year absence.

The Skippers will take on Norwell Monday, and perennial powerhouse Abington Thursday, April 16.

Library vacation week

On Tuesday, April 21, and Friday, April 24, artist Nancy Connolly will present two different workshops in the children's room of the Paul Pratt Library.

The first, on Tuesday, will be a "work-in-progress." Nancy will demonstrate a cast of characters she is sculpting, based on the Russian folktale "Baba Yaga." Ideas and images are taken from books, reprocessed in the artist's imagination, then constructed from a surprising assemblage of household and natural materials.

The second workshop, on Friday, is "hands-on" for those who have pre-registered with the children's librarian. Using clay, fabric and wire, children will create their own tiny folk figures, dressed in the style of a Russian story character.

These presentations are designed for children in first grade and older. Parents or other interested adults are welcome on Tuesday.

This project is supported in part by funding from the Massachusetts Arts Lottery, as administered locally by the Cohasset Arts Lottery Council. Thanks also to the Friends of the Paul Pratt Library.

Times of the workshops are: Tuesday 10 to 11 a.m. (no pre-registration necessary) and Friday 10 to 11:30 a.m. (call the library to pre-register, 383-1348).

Brian Buckley, Director of the Quincy Council on Aging, will inform us about the requirements for those who go from the Quincy program to the Massachusetts Senior Games and this will follow with a question and answer period.

Dr. Susan C. Emmer, Chiropractor who did undergraduate work in nutrition, will speak on nutrition and in particular how it relates to participants.

Come on the 23rd and get first hand information on the qualifications to become a participant. It would be wonderful if we have a good representation from Cohasset.

Incidentally, registration forms are available at the COA Office. The registration deadline is Monday, April 27.

In addition to the above speakers, Mr. Joseph Martino, Associate Executive Director of the Lowell YMCA, and a YMCA Fitness Specialist, will also speak on exercise, nutrition and weight. He will have a slide presentation on physical training for those over 50 years of age who have been active or innactive.

APRIL 22 MUSEUM TRIP

April 22 - Wednesday - A trip to the Museum of Fine Arts is available to those interested. Call the senior center for details and for reservations.

APRIL 21 - At our regular Tuesday luncheon, Ellen Woolf, a former volunteer for the Senior Luncheons, will be our guest speaker. Woolf will share her experiences on the River Nile as she presents a slide presentation on her trip to Egypt.

BIRTHDAY OF THE MONTH

April 28 - "Birthday of-the-Month" celebration. This month our birthday luncheon will be hosted by Rockland Trust Company. Joseph Norton of the Scituate Branch will discuss "How Safe is Your Money?" Be sure to come and let us help you celebrate your April birthday.

All of the cakes that have been donated by our local banks have been "good to look at and good to eat!!"

The Cohasset Council on Aging is most grateful to the banks for the generosity they've extended and continue to extend. Our seniors really appreciate it.

States borders.

In 1989, he coordinated and escorted a relief mission to West Africa which brought 25 tons of supplies to people of the Congo, Namibia and Angola.

Kennedy said he is proud that the corporation is self-sustaining: the divisions of Citizens Energy which make money subsidize the company's philanthropic pursuits.

"We could be a model of how to conduct socially responsible business in the future," he said.

Though Citizens started as a non-profit, the founders discovered IRS rules limited the amount of money the corporation could make, and therefore distribute. Kennedy said the realization prompted a move toward a "for-profit" status for several of the corporate divisions.

Operating without profit restrictions enabled Citizens to be become an international trader of crude oil and crude oil products.

"We are a major player in the oil market," Kennedy said.

The corporation also seeks out new oil sources, as well as natural gas gathering systems. In addition, it is an independent marketer of electric power.

Kennedy cited Citizens Conservation Corporation, an energy management services company founded in 1981, as one of the company's best investments.

"It's the company I first ran when I came here from law school.

"Conservation just signed a contract for the biggest public housing project of its kind— 6,400 units in Chicago," he said.

"We bid for the project with HUD as an independent contractor of energy-saving services."

Kennedy's enthusiasm about Citizens Energy Corporation is infectious. His loyalty to the corporation contributed to his decision to forgo a run for the 11th District seat.

"There are a lot of things going on here and financially a lot of it is tied to my presence," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said he is gratified that he is able to affect so many lives through his involvement with Citizens.

He added that although he is not pursuing a career in politics at the present time, he does not exclude the possibility in the future.

"I will seriously consider any opportunities out there to impact the lives of others in a hugely significant manner," he said.

Kennedy is one of 11 children, two of whom have already run for political office.

While brother Joe won his bid for Congress, sister Kathleen did not fare as well. She ran for a seat in Virginia and lost.

Asked if other siblings might enter the political arena, Kennedy said,

"I wouldn't be surprised."

if Sullivan won the selectman's race.

"I said I'd be willing to continue to stay on for a while until the new member (Cook) is more familiar with the way the board of health works," she said.

Becker did not run for re-election to the board because she and her husband, who is retired, are trying to sell their home. She said they "might be moving" and hope to live half the year in Florida. She noted that if she is appointed it would be with the understanding that she might have to step down.

Town Counsel Richard Henderson said that by statute a vacany on the board of health, which is an elected board, can be filled by an appointment.

He said the board of health must notify selectmen of a vacancy within 30 days. Once selectmen receive the notification, the board must give a week's notice of a combined meeting with the two boards.

"Once the board's convene they take a roll call vote on any nominations," he said. The nominee receiving a majority vote of all those entitled to vote would fill the position.

That person would serve until the next town election in April 1993, Henderson said.

There is a petition circulating around town asking the appointing authority (selectmen/board of health) to name Davenport, who received 44 percent of the vote Saturday, to fill the vacancy.

Richard Barrow, 283 King Street, said he has one of the petitions if anyone wants to sign it. He said a group of concerned citizens started the petition.

Davenport said he is interested in being appointed.

"You can be damn sure if I had won (the election), Tom Cook would have been appointed," he said.

McNabb vies for health board vacancy

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

John K. McNabb Jr. is the latest resident to throw his hat into the ring for the vacancy on the health board.

In an April 20 letter to Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke, McNabb asked to be considered for the position.

McNabb came in third in a four-way race for two selectmen seats in the April 11 town election.

Robert V. Davenport also said he will seek the appointment. And former health board member, Sharon Becker has already been nominated to fill the spot by Board of Health chairman William E. Baird and clerk, Thomas C. Cook.

Davenport recently ran for the open health board seat vacated by Becker. Receiving 790 votes or 44 percent of those cast, Davenport lost to Cook, who got 966 votes.

Becker said she did not run for re-election because she and her husband plan to move away once they sell their house. But in a recent telephone interview, she said is willing to step back in to provide continuity to the board until Cook learns the ropes.

The new health board vacancy was created when former board member Michael H. Sullivan won his bid for one of the two selectmen's seats.

Newly elected selectman Sullivan stated at the April 13 selectmen's meeting that he and Baird had previously discussed nominating Becker if he should be elected selectman.

Although Town Counsel Richard A. Henderson said the process to fill a health board vacancy is quite simple, it is not clear just how the health board and

Food Mart fire closes local shopping plaza

By Dori Dwyer
Mariner staff

A two-alarm fire broke our early Tuesday morning at the Jonathan Livingston Seagull Plaza on Route 3A destroyed one business and forced two others to relocate temporarily.

The cause of the fire is under investigation. The Fire Marshall's Office will inspect the plaza on Friday, Fire Chief John Nadeau said.

He added that the Fire Marshall's Office is routinely called upon to investigate "large" fires.

The Seagull Plaza fire caused no injuries, but damaged more than $150,000 in property and merchandise.

According to Nadeau, flames broke out at about 2:00 a.m. in the rear of Robert's Food Mart, a store occupying the far end of the commercial shopping plaza.

William Roberts, owner of the mart, said his store was almost completely destroyed.

"It was devastating. Especially since we just did the store over," he said.

Since the store was purchased in 1989, Roberts said he has been upgrading equipment and renovating the store.

He had installed new deli countertops, set-up a self service area and upgraded the check-out counters.

"The only thing that we were waiting on was the floor."

Water bubbler shut down at Cohasset High School

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

There's going to be a whole lot of flushing going on at the town's three schools for some time to come.

Although tests for lead contamination yielded good results in that only one bubbler had to be shut off — all schools are running bubblers for five minutes before school as a precaution.

"Basically after running the water fountains for five minutes, only one had any level of lead and that was below the maximum contamination level," health agent, Joseph R. Godzik, said. The bubbler in question is at the high school.

The current standard set by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is .05 milligrams of lead per liter (MG/L) for drinking water. But by the end of the year, the EPA will set a more stringent standard of .015 MG/L.

"There is no indication there is anything in the system," Godzik said. He said isolated problems could be due to plumbing within the feed lines. Lead can leach out in pipes with solder fittings when water stands over night.

Chrome-plated brass plumbing fixtures can also be a source of lead, according to the EPA. Brass is eight percent lead.

The state is mandating the tests under the federal Lead and Copper Rule, which becomes effective Dec. 7.

Hubbard says composting in Cohasset can be easy

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

If Jack Hubbard has his way Cohasset folk will take to composting.

"It takes something you want to get rid of and puts it to use," notes Hubbard, a member of the town's recycling committee, about turning grass clippings and garbage into nutrient rich 'black gold.'

Hubbard braved the chilly temperatures Saturday at the Cohasset Recycling/Transfer Facility to explain composting and some of the new equipment that can make recycling yard and kitchen wastes a snap.

Another on-site composting workshop at the transfer station is set for 10 a.m. to noon, Saturday, May 2.

Dozens of residents sauntered over to the town compost pile to look at some newfangled gadgets for the homeowner.

Composting is a "controlled process of decomposition of organic material", according to the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). And organic material can be anything from autumn leaves to banana peels and corn cobs. What happens is the organic material breaks down into a dark humus which can be used to improve soil quality.

The state no longer allows yard waste to be added to the waste stream. So residents either must bring their leaves and clippings to the town compost pile at the recycling/transfer facility or keep them in their own backyard.

In addition to two machines which turn leaves and twigs into mulch, there were bins made out of recycled rubber tires for the kitchen or gourmet gardener on display.

The black bins, which look like trash barrels turned

Request for variances

At 8:30 p.m., April 28, the board of health will consider two requests for variances from the Jerusalem Road Limited Partnership for the installation of septic systems at 17 Black Rock Rd. and 600 Jerusalem Rd.

Health agent, Joseph R. Godzik, said prior septic system permits were granted for the structures before the land was subdivided. The structures were originally part of the Curtis Estate.

Under state law, old estates can be subdivided into non-conforming lots as long as one pre-existing structure remains on each subdivided piece.

But now the septic systems planned do not meet the town's set back requirements, Godzik said.

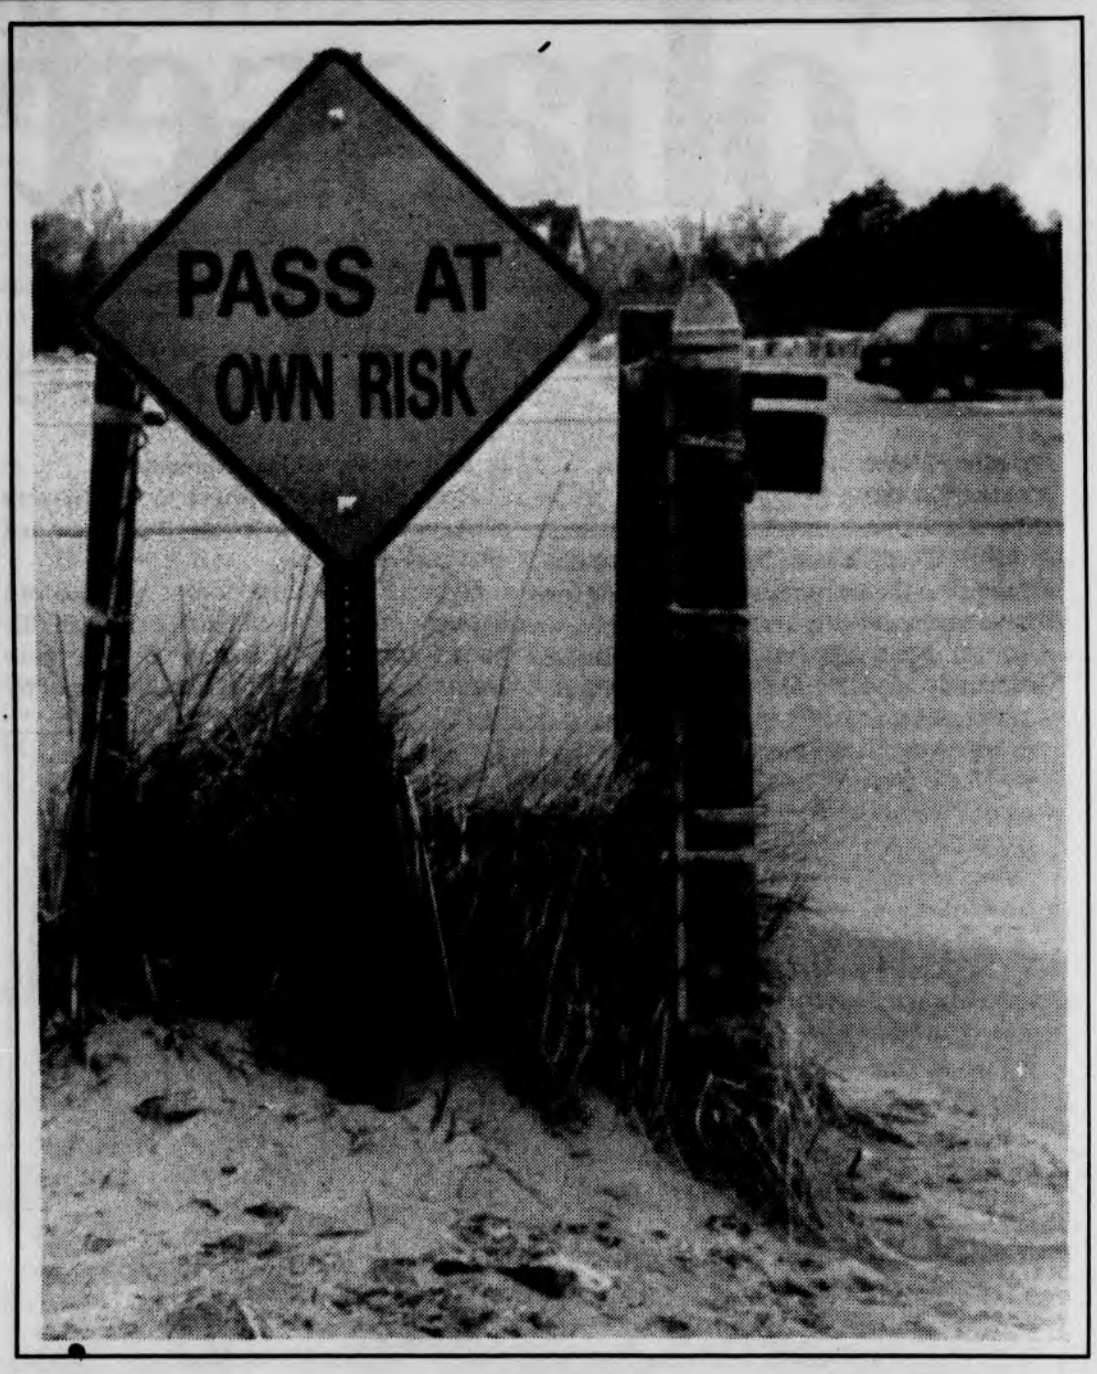
Town boards reorganize

The recreation commission elected Richard P. Barrow as chairman; Thomas Wigmore as vice-chairman; and Terry E. Duggan as secretary.

The planning board elected Alfred S. Moore Jr. as chairman; William J. Good as vice chairman; and Jean H. Simonds as clerk.

And the board of health elected William E. Baird, chairman and Thomas C. Cook, clerk.

The new Selectmen Chairman is Jane Goedecke and the vice-chairman is Martha Gjesteby.

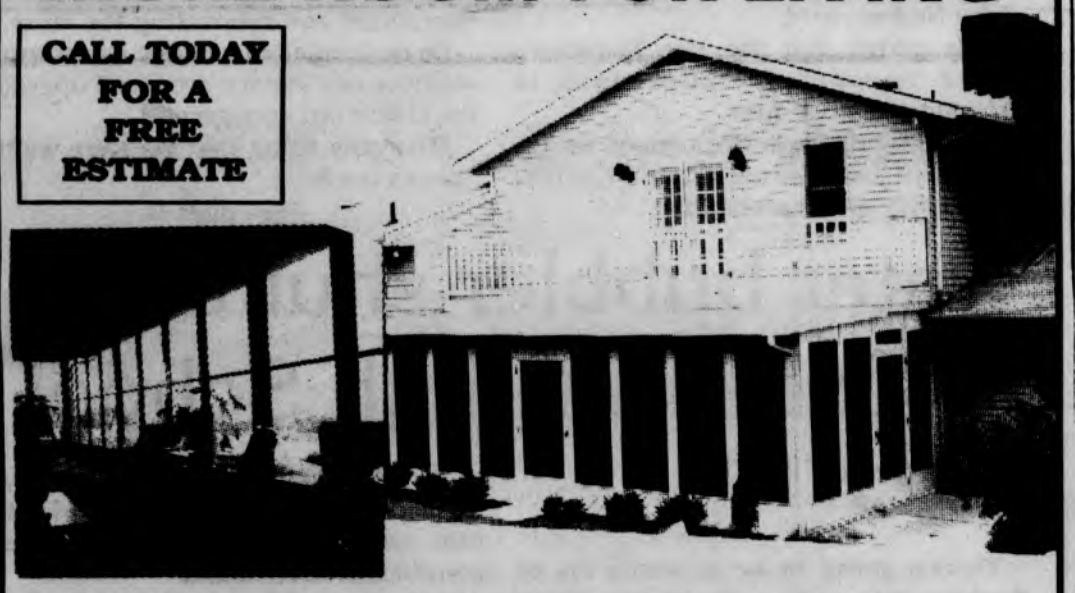


Safe boating course slated

Telephone registrations are being accepted for a spring Safe Boating Course to be conducted by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary (USCGA).

The six-lesson certification program, which is open to youths and adults, begins at 7:30 p.m., May 19 in Room 206 at Cohasset High School. The course meets Tuesday and Thursdays evenings through June 9.

The cost of the Safe Boating Course is $15 which covers a textbook and materials supplied by the USCGA.



To register and for more information, please call the Cohasset Recreation Dept. at 383-6791.

Highway Supervisor Harold Litchfield installed this sign at the entrance to the Sandy Beach parking lot last week. Selectmen voted to open the parking lot to residents even though the damage caused by the surprise storm last October 30 has not been repaired. The board decided to open the lot only during daylight hours and have signs posted telling people to use the lot at their own risk until the repair work is completed. (Staff photo/ Mary Ford) selectmen will proceed.

At last week's meeting Goedecke said anyone interested in serving on the board of health should notify selectmen by phone or in writing.

But in a letter to selectmen detailing the procedure to be followed, Henderson wrote that by statute the vacancy is filled by roll call vote at a joint meeting between the two boards.

"It seems to me that once a name is put in nomination by any member of either Board and seconded, a vote should be taken. As soon as a nominee receives a majority vote of those present, that person would be elected to the vacancy," Henderson said.

The appointee would hold the position until the next town election.

Although the health board has 30 days to notify selectmen of a vacancy, the board sent a letter to selectmen alerting them of that fact on April 13 — before Sullivan had officially resigned. The same letter also asked selectmen to conduct a formal meeting between the two boards Monday, April 27.

Selectmen accepted Sullivan's resignation from the health board at their April 13 evening meeting. The formal resignation is apparently a formality because town by-laws don't permit a selectman to hold another office.

And in a letter dated April 16, health agent Joseph R. Godzik said the board of health unanimously voted at its April 14 meeting to nominate Becker to fill the current vacancy.

So three votes (Sullivan, Cook, and Baird) of the five needed for a majority of the two boards— appear already to be cast.

Henderson said selectmen should give one week's notice of the joint meeting after receiving the notification of the vacancy from the board of health. He said although the statute is "silent" on what type of notice should be given — "a copy of the notice should be posted where all other notices are commonly posted for public meetings."

It is not clear when the joint meeting will be held. But as of Tuesday, April 21, no joint meeting was posted and filling the health board vacancy was not included in the selectmen's agenda for April 27.

There is a petition circulating around town asking the appointing authority (selectmen/health board) to name Davenport to the post.

Henderson said the fact someone has run for election for the board does not give them any special standing.

"Someone can nominate him (Davenport) and he can attend. But all citizens not serving have the same standing now," he said.

Pellets damage storefront windows

Someone armed with a pellet gun shot holes through windows in at least four businesses in Cohasset Village last week.

Police said the vandalism took place early Friday morning.

Det. Brian Cogill said seven windows were damaged in all. He said police are investigating the incident.

Cogill said police determined the holes were made by a pellet gun because one pellet went through an awning before penetrating a window.

"It had some power behind it," he said.

Pellet guns differ from BB guns because the pellets are propelled by a gas cylinder and BB guns use air.

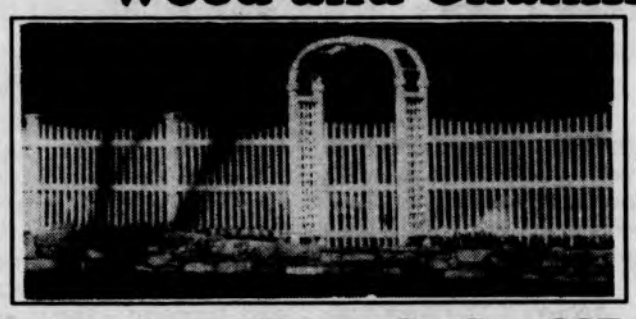
Cogill said a rifle shot would have shattered the windows.

Norma Kravette, who is an owner of Carousel Antiques (across from the Post Office), said several windows were damaged at that store.

"It's sad," she said. "I sat down and cried over it.

"I feel so bad that people have nothing better to do. This is not a kid prank," she said. "We've been here 17 years; this is a small business, we work hard. This is costly."

Kravette said the entire window panels would have to be replaced at Carousel at a cost of about $500 each.



Windows were also damaged at Smith Place, French Memories, and the offices of Petersen, Mahoney & Wright.

upside down, are available at a reduced rate through the Cohasset health department.

The bins retail for $60-$80 and can be bought through the town for $30-$40, Hubbard explained.

One of the bins, which has holes on its sides to allow air in, has a trap door at the bottom for convenience.

The shredders start at about $400. The DEP says shredding leaves before adding them to a compost pile will shorten composting time.

Hubbard says compost, which has some fertilizing effects, can be spread on the lawn or raked in.

About 20 percent of the waste stream is made up of leaf and yard waste so recycling them helps the environment.

Compost provides a healthy environment for earth worms and other beneficial soil organisms, the DEP says.

Materials which should not be composted include meat, bones, fatty food wastes (cheese, grease, oils) dog and cat litter and diseased plants.

To order a backyard composting barrel, please call the health dept. at 383-9900 or sign up at the May 2 workshop.

Howie Motenko and Arthur Lehr get some tips on composting from Jack Hubbard, Saturday at the town recycling/transfer facility. Hubbard will conduct another workshop May 2. Special composting bins can be ordered at a reduced price through the health department.

Train study group to meet

The MBTA will hold a public meeting to discuss the Old Colony Rail project at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 29, at the Braintree town hall.

Although the focus of the meeting will be on the Plymouth and Middleborough lines, the Greenbush line may be discussed.

"We'll be there to answer questions," said MBTA spokesman Peter Dimond.

The final environmental impact statement for the project was published in early April, starting a 30-day public review period which ends May 11.

This period provides the public an opportunity to review the final environmental impact statement, attend the meeting and make comments on the project to the T, the Federal Transit Administration and or the Massachusetts Environmental Policy Act unit.

Completion of the environmental review process sets the stage for federal approval of the $480 million project and subsequent detailed design engineering and construction of the Plymouth and Middleborough lines.

The Greenbush line, the third branch of the Old Colony system, is still undergoing environmental study.

IMPORTANCE OF COMPARABLES

QUESTION: I understand the most important task in selling a home is deciding on the right sale price. How do you come up with the best price?

ANSWER: This is not done by looking into a crystal ball or consulting with a guru. The most important factor is the price of comparable sales in your immediate area. These are sales which have already been completed of homes as nearly like yours as possible. The sales should also be near in time, for five-year-old sales have almost no meaning in today's volatile financial market. Also, the homes should be similar in style, size, and condition as your property – the closer the better.

Name: Marion Douglas.

Occupation: Town Clerk.

Best day of your life: Day my daughters were born.

Most embarrassing moment: Addressing people by the wrong name. I've done it a couple of times.

Goal: To gain acceptance for disfigured and disabled people in a society that emphasizes beauty so much. I'm a burn survivor, and although I don't have any facial disfigurement, I belong to a group where many people do. It's very difficult for them.

Favorite season: Fall.

Best vacation: Niagara Falls.

Favorite holiday: Christmas.

Pet peeve: People who don't give a straight answer to a question.

Favorite book: "Gone With the Wind," by Margaret Mitchell.

Favorite movie: "The Color Purple."

Biggest worry: That I will be able to send both daughters to college.

Favorite place: Epcot Center in Disneyworld.

Food Mart. . .

He said there was little if any equipment in the store that could be salvaged.

Roberts said the fire probably started in an electrical unit at the back of the store.

The food mart should be operational in 60 days, according to Roberts, who also owns a store in Hanover.

Although the fire was limited to the food mart, an adjacent antique store and insurance agency sustained substantial water damage.

Owners of Cohasset Antiques, which is beside the Food Mart, said the ceiling of their store gave way under the weight of the water used to combat the flames.

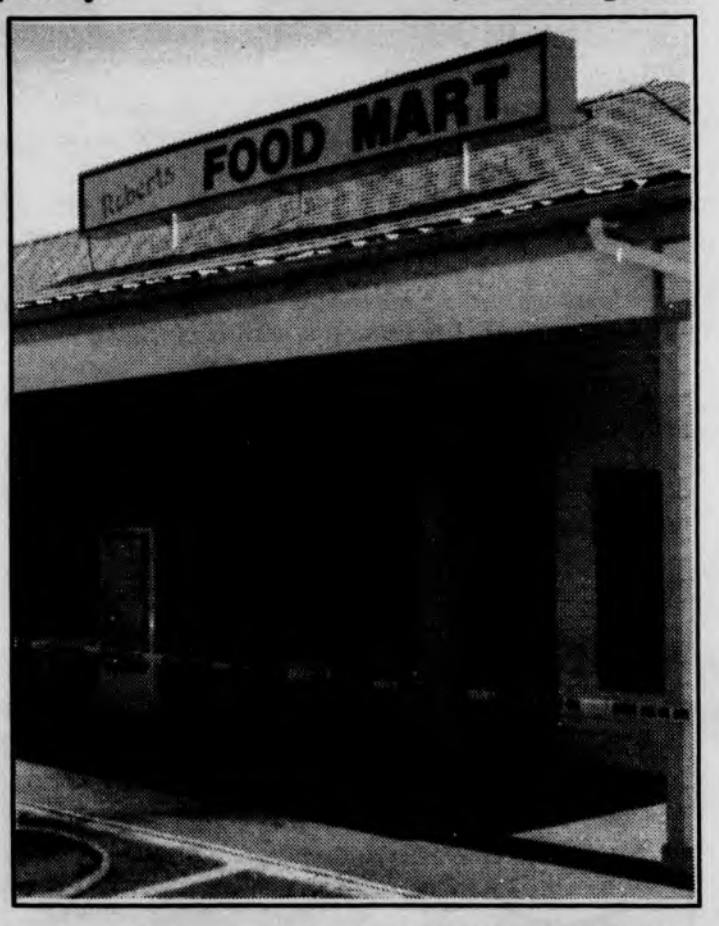
They said the crash of the ceiling, and the water which brought it down, destroyed much of their merchandise.

"There's extensive damage throughout," co-owner Richard Ogden said.

"It's pretty devastating."

Co-owner Nancy Pereto said replacing the lost inventory would not be easy.

"It's taken us years to get it to this level," she said about the store she opened in 1986.



"This is not a business where you can just order new School bubbler shut down . . .

Hamilton said the water department is required to test for lead contamination at 40 sites around town, including some private homes.

Hamilton said the number of sites to be tested is determined by the town's population.

The water department will then determine what the problems are and what protective measures can be taken, he said.

Although the state is mandating the tests, the town must pick up the tab.

Hamilton said the water department will schedule some tests each week and hopes to have all the required testing completed by July.

He said a cross section of homes with new and old plumbing would be tested.

As a public service, once the required testing is complete—the water department also plans to stockpile sample bottles for residents who want their tap water tested. For about a $10 fee (the municipal rate) the town will send the samples to the laboratory for testing.

Even at low levels lead can be harmful because it accumulates in the body, Hamilton said.

After random testing several weeks ago one laboratory sink at the high school showed low levels of lead. The water department then tested all sinks and bubblers in the town's three schools.

The USEPA handbook, "Lead in School Drinking Water," says that overexposure to lead can permanently impair a child's mental and physical development.

"Comparatively low levels of exposure have been linked to damage to the central and peripheral nervous system, learning disabilities, shorter stature, impaired hearing and formation and function of blood cells," says the EPA.

Ellie Kwong, environmental scientist with the EPA, says the goal is to have a zero-level of lead in drinking water.

"Lead is considered very toxic," she said. About 20 percent of lead exposure in people comes from drinking water.

Kwong said children are the most vulnerable and low-levels of lead can have "subtle effects". But older people may also be at risk.

She explained that although there is no firm data yet, lead — which has similar properties to calcium — may be related to osteoporosis.

things," Ogden added.

Cohasset Antiques will temporarily be housed in a vacant part of the plaza for the next 30 days.

"The owners said they would have our store ready by that time," Ogden said.

Plaza owners Thomas and Paul Cummings said they expect to have the Lamb Insurance Agency office, which is beside Cohasset Antiques, ready for occupancy within the next 30 days also.

Lamb Insurance is temporarily operating out of its Braintree branch.

There are eight businesses in the plaza and all were affected by the fire.

In addition to the three businesses directly affected, the fire forced the plaza's five other businesses to close on Tuesday because electrical power was shut-off.

All commercial establishments in the plaza sustained extensive smoke damage.

However, Nadeau said the damage to the building could have been much worse.

He credited the first firefighting team on the scene with containing the fire.

"There were only four guys, and they did a great job—and they did a lot."

Thomas Finnegan, William Sestito, William Litchfield and Hap Pompeo are the firefighters who responded to the 2:09 a.m. call. Nadeau also commended the work of dispatcher Eric Winslow.

"Hap was the senior firefighter and he was just filling in for a captain who was sick," Nadeau said.

Hingham and Hull responded to the fire, while Scituate covered the station because all the town's available firefighters were at the fire.

DO YOU AGREE
That Problem Solving,
Personal Investigating, Thinking Creatively,
Rational Decision Making, Writing, Speaking, Science and Life Skills Should Happen In A Math Class?
WE DO, TOO!
They happen in The After-School Classroom, an enriched after school educational program, focusing on mathematics that is systematically integrated with writing and science.

Learn to Think
Learning to think, analyze and draw conclusions are important attributes that youngsters in grades 4 through 8 should develop. One of the goals of our teaching philosophy is to instill independent thinking.

Students Actively Participate
Students will explore math as a standard curriculum and create a firm foundation in basic skills. These basic skills will be incorporated into problem-solving and life-skill situations, such as cooking, balancing a checkbook, playing the stock market, or finding mathematical short-cuts, in an integrated and a hands-on learning environment. Students, in two-person teams, will predict, estimate, collect and record data, analyze, draw conclusions and justify their positions.

No Qualification Exam
Enrollment is open to all students in grades 4 through 8. Registration is strictly "first come, first served".

Placement by Talent and Capability
Your child will be placed in a class based on their individual talent and capability rather than age or grade level.

Small Classes
Class enrollment is limited to 8 students to ensure maximum access to our instructors.

2 Days a Week
Classes meet two afternoons a week for about 50 minutes. One group will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays, the other on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Generally, each session will last eight weeks.

Low Tuition
Tuition is $200.00 per session ($25.00 per week) when paid in advance, or $30.00 a week when paid in weekly installments.

2 Free Seats
Based on teacher recommendation, the After-School Classroom Room is making two free seats available in each class after a minimum of six paid enrollments.

Information and Enrollment
Classes start April 27th at the First Baptist Church, (Mann Lot and Country Way), Scituate. Call Fred Dorr at 544-3300 between 2 and 7 pm, or write to The After-School Classroom, 9 Riverview Place, Scituate, MA 02066 for further information and enrollment.

The After-School Classroom is an exciting academic adventure in a non-threatening environment. Your child will discover that learning is fun!

Where Learning. . . .is fun!

around town

Ryan Barrow gives the Easter Bunny a big hug during the annual egg hunt sponsored by the recreation department Saturday. For more photos, please see page 12. (Staff photo/Alan Chapman)

❑ We must begin by congratulating Jean and Manuele Salvador. They celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary at the wonderful Disney World very recently. A great couple and we certainly wish them the best!!

For the down side of their story, Manuele is going to have to undergo surgery and will need blood donations...anyone with Type-B blood is urged to respond to their plea, get in touch with him and let him know if you are able to help, or know someone who can.

❑ The Easter Bunny made a special trip to Forest Avenue last week. Emily and Dale Malone had a brand new baby girl that he had to visit. She was born on April 2 at South Shore Hospital and you know it was an exciting Easter for the Malone family.

❑ Kelli and David Dockendorff also made the Easter Bunny's list. They had a baby boy on April 3, who was born at South Shore Hospital. What a busy bunny; we sure hope that the babies had as much fun as the bunny!

❑ In the world of politics, Suzanne Kecskemety will come to mind for all of us. Suzanne was named Senior Mayor of the Student Government Association at Nichols College. She is a junior majoring in public administration at Nichols, is a graduate of Cohasset High School and the daughter of Jack and Susan Kecskemety of 7 Nichols Road in Cohasset. We hope you love politics, Suzanne. Our town can always use a politically active figure!!

❑ The Edward E. Tower Columbarium at Cohasset Central Cemetery will be dedicated at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, April 26. All cemetery members and friends are cordially invited to attend.

❑ Congratulations go to John and Beth Kelly on the birth of their son, born on April 2 at South Shore Hospital. We know that you will enjoy that baby boy.

❑ Spring certainly has sprung, but nothing looks as youthful and happy as Charlie Sover and his wife, Barbara. Shane Paul Cummings has made his entrance into their life, as of April 10. Shane weighed a healthy 9 lbs. 5 ozs. and was 21" long. You had better believe that his Mom and Dad, Paul and Lori (Stover) are thrilled, to say noting of Charlie and Barbara. CHS gets to view yet another grandchild...what fun it will be...

❑ Speaking about being thrilled, you can bet that Staff Sgt. Ralph A Fisher is just that. He received a letter from Paul E. Blackwell, Brigadier General asking him to attend a retirement ceremony May 1. Proud Dad, Edward F. Fisher wants everyone to know Ralph's news!

Ralph has been in the US Army for 20 years. He was a part of the Gulf and is now stationed in Germany. We salute you, Ralph, and hope that the party on May 1 is a great one. Fill us in upon your return.

❑ We welcome with pleasure another new addition to town. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Holland gave birth to a little girl born March 27 at South Shore Hospital. Best of luck and lots of love to all of you!!

❑ Happy birthday greetings to Craig Mulcahy, may you have many more, and all of them happy ones.

❑ David and Kathleen Anderson certainly are a happy pair, a pair that has an add-on that is!! They had their little baby girl on March 31 at South Shore Hospital, and you can bet their life has been enriched ever since. Congratulations.

o Attention Seniors...the Senior Olympics are going to be held next month from May 11 to May 18 in Quincy and the Mas.s Senior Games will be held the last week in June. Anyone 55 and older is eligible for bowling, boccie, golf, pool, track and field events, swimming, walking, horseshoes and other contests. Get ready, get set, and good luck!!

Done deal

The latest mishmash created by the behind-the-scenes election for the new health board vacancy smacks of an inside deal.

Here's what happened:

Two Cohasset citizens recently campaigned for a single, open Board of Health seat vacated by Sharon Becker.

Thomas C. Cook won the spot with 966 votes to 790 cast for Robert V. Davenport.

But no sooner was the election over when another spot on the health board opened up because board member Michael H. Sullivan won a selectman's seat.

Now were told that Mrs. Becker, who did not run for re-election has been asked to fill the new vacancy. And in fact, the decision to nominate Mrs. Becker was made by the health board a month before the election even took place.

We want to make it clear that Mrs. Becker, who has served the town well, is not the issue here.

We would take the same position if the situation were reversed — and Mr. Davenport were being asked to step back into a spot he'd voluntarily relinquished.

But the fact of the matter is Mrs. Becker decided not to run for re-election. That was her choice.

And frankly, it was surprising and we think inappropriate to hear Mr. Sullivan unofficially nominate Mrs. Becker to fill his former post at his very first selectmen's meeting the Monday after the election.

Present at the same meeting, Mr. Davenport stood in his usual spot behind the cable-TV camera while not a single selectman mentioned his name.

Since then Board of Health Chairman William Baird and newly elected health board member Mr. Cook officially notified the board they are nominating Mrs. Becker.

There's been lots of hearsay in the past week. People say it has to do with who can work with whom and just whose side people are on regarding the private landfill in town.

It seems to us that personalities and positions on issues should not prohibit someone from filling a vacancy because a few public officials think they know what's best for the town.

To do so is skirting the democratic process. If those in office can't work with particular individuals, they ought not to hold public office at all. Differing opinions and equal representation are what democracy is all about in a pluralistic society.

No one said governing would be easy.

Mr. Davenport's 790 votes in the recent town election are clear evidence of public support. Can elected officials totally ignore and dismiss those voters?

We hope not.

The vacancy will be filled in a joint meeting with selectmen and the health board at a date yet to be set.

Town Counsel Richard A. Henderson said at that meeting the first nominee to get a majority vote of the combined boards should be appointed to fill the position.

As is his right, John K. McNabb, Jr. has now added his name for consideration.

But it appears that three of the five votes needed to win a majority have already been cast for Mrs. Becker and the meeting hasn't even taken place. Therefore, we think Mrs. Becker ought to take her name out of contention and allow the process to open up.

And selectmen and the health board should beware — there may be a lot more at stake here than a health board vacancy.

Easter visit brings back memories

To the Editor,

April 7, the Amateur Gardeners of Cohasset honored the residents of Ripley Road Nursing Home with their presence for an Easter Tea.

letters

The residents were in their glory having their every need waited on.

The amateur gardeners came with their silver tea service, china, finger sandwiches, desserts, and little Easter bonnets for the Ripley Road women.

The afternoon was very enjoyable for all. The Easter/springtime sing along brought back a lot of fond memories for the ladies and this Easter Tea will be a lasting memory for them as well.

I would like to extend a grateful thank-you to all that were involved in making it a great afternoon and they were: president Martha Hertig, Lynn Eisenhauer, Sue Fone, Dorothy Lincoln, and Alicia Seavey.

Clean-up help was a neighborly act

To the Editor:

On Sunday, April 12, some residents neighboring Straits Pond on the Cohasset, Hull and Hingham line attempted to "clean-up" the pond edge.

A large amount of debris was deposited in the pond during the No-Name storm of October 1991.

Paul Barry, owner of Cohasset Heights Land Fill, donated two 40-yard dumpsters. He not only had them delivered on a Sunday but he picked them up and disposed of their contents at Cohasset Heights Land Fill at no cost to us.

His cooperation made our difficult job one heck of a lot easier.

We all read about his land fill operation in your newspaper.

Paul Barry possibly considered the "good will" this action may create but we think he did this to be a good neighbor and we would like to publicly thank him for being a good neighbor.

'The appearance of wrong doing remains'

To the Editor:

Although I had already heard about the travesty being foisted on the public in regard to the vacant seat on the Board of Health, I was outraged anew when I read in last week's Mariner that the plan to nominate outgoing board member Sharon Becker to Mr. Sullivan's unfinished term was planned and put in motion a full month before the election even took place.

I realize that neither Mr. Sullivan nor Mr. Baird felt that they had done anything wrong by taking part in this scheme; but the appearance of wrong doing remains, none the less.

Because Mr. Sullivan refused to relinquish his seat on the Board of Health when he decided to run for selectman, the public was denied its right to determine, by free election, who would hold that office for the next year. Although not morally correct, perhaps, this decision was, however, legally allowable.

But when Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Baird met to pick a possible successor who would think and vote "the right way," the line was crossed. What ever happened to the Open Meeting Law?

Surely board members can't just pick and choose when a board majority, meeting and voting on board issues, will and will not constitute a meeting?

When Sharon Becker was approached with this fait accompli and agreed to be a part of it, weren't two members of a three-member board still considered a majority?

What gave the three of them the right to take that decision out of our hands in the first place? I am sure they felt that they were acting in the best interests of Cohasset; but the appearance of collusion and subversion of the democratic process lingers on.

When, I wonder, did the selectmen stop listening to the "voice of the people" they constantly invoke whenever the Bates Building issue crops up?

If a non-binding referendum at Town Meeting that receives approximately 150 affirmative votes is a sacred mandate, what do you call 790 votes cast in a legal election for BOH candidate Bob Davenport?

Let's face it. The vacant seat belongs to him, if he chooses to apply. He took out nomination papers, put himself before the public, ran for the office, and garnered 790 votes. And it does not matter whether present members think he will agree with them on all issues, or not.

Sharon Becker chose not to run for reelection, not to put her name before the public. She has served the town long and well, and should be remembered as a hard-working public official. She should not, however, be reappointed to a position that she has just given up.

I sincerely hope that Mrs. Becker will decide to remove her name from consideration. I also strongly urge that, for the good of the town and the credibility of the Board of Health, Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Baird disqualify themselves from voting on the appointment on May 4. And I urge the taxpayers and voters of Cohasset to make their feelings known. Call the selectmen, write letters, sign petitions. Use your voice now, while you still have it; that voice is what they are trying to take away from you, right now.

Grant money awarded

Senator Robert L. Hedlund (R-Weymouth) announced recently that the Massachusetts Cultural Council granted $1,344 to Cohasset's local arts groups this fiscal year.

Local grants support community arts and provide cultural enrichment programs for all residents. The grants contribute to the non-profit cultural industry by stimulating tourism which is Massachusetts' second largest industry.

The Cohasset Arts Lottery Council accepted applications in February and carefully reviewed requests for compliance with State guidelines and local priorities.

"I want to commend all the volunteers of the Cohasset Arts Lottery Council, especially James Contis, their chairman, for their dedication and hard work," Hedlund said.

(House and Senate) SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET (H 5464) - House 118-27, Senate 28-5, gave final approval and Governor Weld signed a $247 million fiscal 1992 supplemental budget. Provisions include $50 million for Medicaid payments, $22 million for courts and $11 million for mental health. Supporters said this fiscally responsible plan is necessary to pay bills and fund essentials for the remainder of the fiscal year. Some opponents said the $247 million is too much money and noted the original bill was for $100 million. Others objected to a section stripping local boards of health of control over hazardous waste facilities. (A "Yes" vote is for the budget. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N	N
(Senate) LOTTERY (H 5449) - Senate 29-0, gave near final approval and sent to the House a bill prohibiting the sale of lottery tickets by telephone. The measure would make the current 900 Lottery-By-Phone service illegal. Supporters said the game is illegal and was instituted without proper legislative review and without an open bidding process. They argued it violates several state laws including ones prohibiting betting by minors and betting by telephone. (A "Yea" vote is for the bill).	Y
(Senate) HEALTH INSURANCE (S 316) - Senate 19-12, refused to postpone for two weeks resolutions urging Congress to enact legislation creating a national health program containing the principles established by the American Public Health Association. Postponement supporters said they have not had an opportunity to study the resolutions. Opponents of postponement said a comprehensive national health program with universal coverage is needed to help Americans including the estimated 37 million who have no coverage. (A "Yea" vote is for postponing action. A "Nay" vote is against postponing action).	Y
(Senate) EARLY RETIREMENT (H 5394) - Senate 35-0, approved an amendment to the bill providing incentives for some 7000 state workers to retire early. The bill excludes judiciary and higher education employees. The amendment requires the Secretary of Administration and Finance to prepare and file with the legislature a plan for early retirement of judiciary and higher education employees. Amendment supporters said this will allow passage of the bill but also ensure later consideration of the inclusion of these employees. They argued the bill is unfair to college faculty members who should have the same early retirement options as other state employees. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment).	Y
(House) WATERSHED (H 397) - House 93-48, rejected the Senate version of the bill restricting development around the Quabbin, Wachusett and Ware reservoirs and authorizing the state to borrow $135 million to buy undeveloped land nearby to protect the reservoirs. Supporters of the Senate version said it is the lesser of two evils and is fairer than the Hose version on many issues including compensation to landowners. Opponents said there are so many Senate amendments that the House should reject this version so that a conference committee can work out a compromise plan. (A "Yea" vote is for the Senate version. A "Nay" vote is against the Senate version).		Y
(House) CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION - House 137-0, approved resolutions calling for a constitutional convention on May 13 to consider proposed amendments to the state constitution. Supporters said it is important to call the convention to consider many amendments including one proposing term limits for elected officials. (A "Yea" vote is for the resolutions).		Y

Cohasset's Chartis Langmaid is alternate delegate

Chartis Langmaid of Cohasset, candidate for the State Senate for the Norfolk/Plymouth district, was unanimously elected as the alternate delegate to the National Democratic Convention at a caucus held Saturday, April 4.

More than 170 Democrats convened at the Old Rockefeller Jr. High School in Mattapoiset to choose a slate of delegates from the 11th congressional district pledged to Paul Tsongas. Even though Tsongas has suspended his campaign, his delegates will attend the convention which will be held in New York City, July 13 to 16. They will be able to carry his message of economic development and expansion, social consciousness, and environmental concerns to the other delegates from across the country.

The 11th district was able to choose five delegates and one alternate delegate for its slate, with three of the selected coming from the South Shore. Along with Langmaid, Philip Johnston, former State Representative and Secretary of Human Services, and Caroline Stouffer, former State Representative from Hingham, were elected to be delegates.

Annual Easter egg hunt is pure pandemonium

In keeping with a town tradition, hundreds of Cohasset youngsters created pure pandemonium Saturday.

The kids, divided into age groups, scoured the lawn at Deer Hill School in search of hundreds of Easter eggs.

Fifteen lucky youngsters found special eggs wrapped in masking tape with a number which could be exchanged for an Easter basket full of goodies.

Town recreation director, John M. Worley, said the annual event is sponsored through donations and is conducted at no cost to the town.

Chilly temperatures and threatening skies couldn't keep about 300 hungry kids from braving the weather for the event.

Worley said on a good day, the hunt is "a real mob scene" and attracts as many as 700 youngsters.

But Worley wasn't complaining. In the hunt's 16-year history, it's only been postponed three times because of inclement weather.

"Three times in 16 years isn't bad," he said.

Tough loss for high school lacrosse team

Cohasset's varsity lacrosse record fell to 2-1 last week, following a tough 10-7 loss to Boston College High. The Skippers, who'd beaten Salem High March 31, face two non-league opponents next.

Against Salem, midfielder Doug Ellinger led Cohasset with a pair of goals in the 8-3 victory at the North Shore school.

"Our defense—Max Nivaud, Dave Leahy and Sean Milligan—played very well," said coach Ken Ekberg, who hosts Salem May 8 at Milliken Field.

Boston College High, to whom the Skippers had never lost, took advantage of Cohasset injuries and illness in the April 10 upset. Missing starters Ellinger and Brooks Doten, coach Ekberg's makeshift midfields didn't begin to click until the second quarter, when BC held a 3-0 lead.

Attackman-turned-midfielder Charlie Endris scored four goals, a personal high for the four-year starter. Sophomore Chris Goodman added three.

"I'd rate our performance fair to poor," said Ekberg. "We didn't back each other up effectively."

Sophomore goalie Brandon DeVoe, Ekberg said, had an outstanding game in the nets.

The Skippers travelled to non-league opponent Wellesley Tuesday, then go to another non-league foe, Marshfield, today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m. Cohasset returns to official MIAA play Monday, visiting Brookline High at 11 a.m. and hosting Boston College in a return match at Milliken Wednesday, starting at 10 a.m.

Cohasset's junior varsity remained undefeated, trouncing Falmouth Academy 20-2, as 10 different players scored. Attackmen Ben Redfield and Chris McKenna had four goals each, and Matt Morris added a hat trick.

Support CHS sports

Mariner correspondent

Did you know that: "Doubles" has a second meaning for Cohasset High School tennis coaches and players? Siblings Tim and John Brister and Joe and Laura Slotnick have taken to the courts for their respective teams and families. And Laura, who won her final match before vacation, is only an eighth grader!

Softball pitcher Linda Hague has come back after a three-year absence?

No one who heard her ankle snap during a gymnastic meet in her sophomore year ever thought she'd be back on any playing field. But she came back to the soccer field this fall, and now to the mound for Mike Gill's Lady Skippers.

And joining Linda, in her own mini-comeback to the sport, is starting outfielder and ninth grader Erin Murphy, who, until spring try-outs, hadn't picked up a glove or bat since she was ten years old. But don't expect the opposition to believe it once they fall prey to her glove and throwing arm.

Lacrosse coach Ken Eckberg considers young goaltender Brandon Devoe one of the best in eastern Mass, and he keeps getting better and better?

Boys track is finally back at CHS? And wrestling sensation Ray Jones is busy putting the "new" team on the map?

That assistant track coach, Mr. Antolini, is giving some of our future marathoners, like triple threat speedsters Kate Carroll and Corinna McMacken (soccer, basketball and track, for both girls) a tremendous life skill as well as great sports training. Stop in to the woodworking shop at the high school some day—the fine furniture these kids are making will knock your socks off.

That sailing team members arrange for and pay for their own transportation to and from Boston, three times a week? Yup; parents drive them to the "T" station after school, and pick them up again at night. That is real dedication to the sport—especially for the parents. At least they get a student fare discount if they show their Teen Depot ID!

That there is no admission fee to spring sports games and meets?

They are great fun to watch, and on a nice day you can choose between boys or girls, home or away, varsity or JV, tennis, lacrosse, track, softball or baseball.

If you are in Boston, you can even slide over to the Charles River and watch our kids sail. Schedules are printed on the PSO calendar most people have somewhere at home, and are also available from the high school.

Think back to your own high school and college days, how much a cheering section and support meant to every team, group and player. Support your high school sports. Take in a game if you can.

Youth soccer comes on strong

By Joan Kovach
Special to the Mariner

More talented Cohasset soccer teams reported in this week on their efforts and victories. The new 10-2 team coached by Kevin O'Donnell played a valiant game April 11 against an overwhelming select Norwell team which has been together for years. Though defeated 0-9, the score did not reflect the effort and spirit of these newly assembled players. Goalies Roy Cavagnaugh and Jay Rasmussen saved many shots from being goals.

Boys 10-3 team coached by Rick Shea and Michael Kennedy took on Scituate this past week for a 2-1 win. The tenacious defense was keyed by strong stints in goal by Craig Parker and Carter Noon and anchored by the team's most improved players Michael Sanchez. Nicholas Pestone contributed a hard-nosed two-way effort. Offensive pressure was kept up throughout the game by Ryan Hubley and Stefan Vanderweil. Michael Kennedy scored a late game-winning goal on a feed from Erik Shea set up by Ben Bixby's aggressive play. Scituate's scrappy defensive pressure kept the game close, but Cohasset's balanced attack proved to be too much to contain.

Coach Cotter's boys 12-1 took on Halifax for their opener. This team, like a well oiled machine, produced a 6-0 victory and a dazzling display of fire power with goals by Greg Bilton (3), Matt Verrochi, Jamie DeMichele and Andrew Ross. Brilliant playmaking by Morgan Sandell and a textbook demonstration of midfield support by Derek Bugley figured greatly in the production of the scoring chances. With their next effort, throughout the drizzle at Plymouth, this team took their second victory (2-1). Goals by Noel Grinnell and DeMichele resulted from excellent ball movement and passing with assists on the goals by Patrick Hurley, Bilton and Nate Cotter (2). The defense was secured by the rock solid denial of many scoring opportunities by titanic trio of Leigh Atherton, Brian Walsh and John Kasamayer.

For their third game, this team gave Marshfield a 5-2 win but cannot wait to meet them again. This was a valiant effort by a hustling Cohasset whose biggest opponent was a dearth of substitutes. Marshfield supplied a well-coached squad who scored all their goals late in the game with crisp passing and hard accurate shooting. For Cohasset, Morgan Sandell finally cashed in after setting up many teammates in earlier games. DeMichele also scored again on a great individual effort. Andrew Laney was tireless at midfield. In defense, Paul Sheerin and Bilton, in unfamiliar roles gave a solid effort with Kasameyer anchoring this last line of goal prevention.

Boys 12-3 (a.k.a. Cohasset Hotspurs Football Club) coached by Charlie Dean, Mike Sceery and Rob Whelan, warmed up against a Marshfield team for their opener (0-5) and went on to defeat Pembroke last week in what was described as a blowout. The only goal the "Hotspurs" needed was scored in the first two minutes by left striker Charlie Dean who converted a perfect cross from left halfback Jake Motley. That started a torrent of scoring that stunned a cold and undermanned Pembroke #2 team, who with only nine players managed four shots on goal saved consistently by Jay Whorisky. Besides Dean (2) and Motley (4) goals came from Kevin Devito (3), Ted Goff (2), Carl Dean (1), and with the lucky #13, Ben Littauer. Assists were a total team effort including Ben Smoot, Steve Sceery, Mark Equi, Mark Caristi, Nick Mincolla, Hunt Pile and Morgan Bigley.

For their next game The Hotspurs traveled to a freezing Texas sized field in Carver where they were outnumbered 15 to 9 but won 3-2. Mincolla came into his own and Devito was splendid on offense. Ben Smoot in goal, looking like Andy Moog, made a heroic save on a breakaway scoring attempt by Carver when he challenged his opponent at the 30 yard line and dove fearlessly, face first for the save.

Meanwhile, boys 14-1 team's Eric Henry claimed two points against Norwell, while Jamie Kondrat and Kevin McKenna had one apiece in their 4-1 victory over Norwell's 14-2 team for their opener. Defenders Matt Rossi and Matt Belson played solid defense for a good win. Boys 14-2 took Duxbury 1-0 for their opener, but were handed a loss by Scituate in their second game. Boys 16 and under chalked up wins against Kingston (1-0) and then Plymouth (6-0) or their first two and the 19 and under team took a loss to Plymouth (1-3) for their first game, but rebounded with a 3-0 win over Marshfield April 11.

Softball evaluation set

There will be a softball evaluation session for all girls registered for the girls' softball league on May 2 at the high school field. The purpose of this evaluation is to assess each girl's strengths and weaknesses in order to form teams.

Due to expansion the Cohasset girls' softball league now consists of two divisions: Division I, grades 4-6 and Division II, grades 7-9. Softball season begins the second week of May and ends the last week of June. Games will be played once a week or on occasion twice a week at the Barnes Field, Beechwood Ballpark or the high school fields.

The purpose of our league is to first have fun. We also plan to provide the girls with basic softball instruction and teach or improve their softball skills. The team concept and good sportsmanship will also be stressed.

Remember to attend the May 2 evaluation session beginning at 2 p.m. If you have not already registered, forms will be available at the high school field during the evaluation session. For further information please call 383-2510 or 383-0760.

Dedication of the Edward E. Tower Columbarium will take place at 1:30 p.m. at its hilltop location just off Joy Place.

Rev. Edward T. Atkinson of the First Parish will speak during the dedication ceremony, as will Central Cemetery Association President Mary Jane E. McArthur.

Call force is critical to the fire department

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

Don't let Fire Chief John Nadeau's cool exterior get you wrong.

He's a nervous guy.

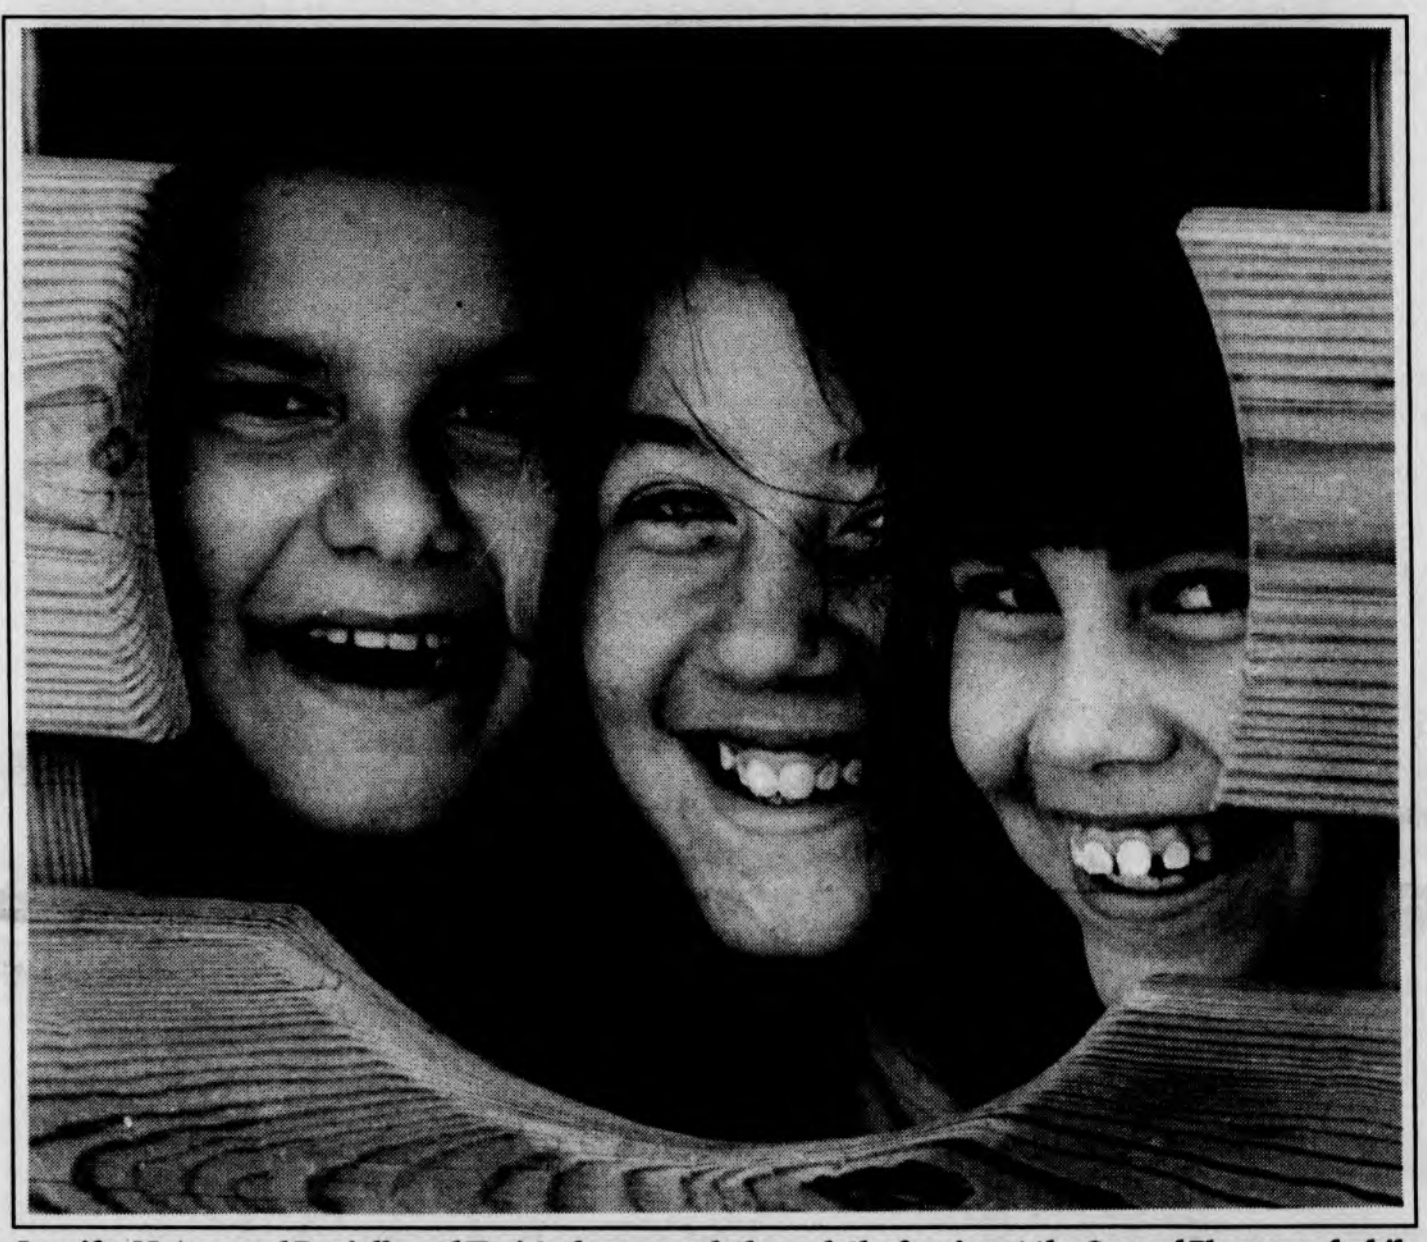
Numbers roll around in his head — the critical kind.

Response time, which is described in numbers of minutes, can mean the difference between life and death. Available firefighters — who are counted in numbers needed — are what a fire chief thinks about.

And worst-case scenarios, with only five men on shift — can give a guy nightmares.

It takes 13 people to battle a "working" structure fire, like the one at Roberts Food Mart off Route 3A last week. And it takes at least two firefighters to man an ambulance.

"Right now our offensive attack capability is 1,000 square feet," Nadeau explains about structure fires. "But the average structure in Cohasset is 1,755 square feet."



So Nadeau is looking for a few good men and women — 21 to be exact — to augment the full-time force. They must work cheap, be physically fit, and be willing to be trained.

The on-call firefighting supplemental force that Nadeau envisions is highly trained and highly structured.

The Cohasset Fire Department answers an average of 1,000 calls a year — or three a day.

A call firefighter must be willing to go out on the

New selectman Sullivan lashes out at Mariner

Four selectmen sat stone-faced Monday night while one of their newly elected counterparts read a two-page statement slamming a Cohasset Mariner editorial.

Selectman Michael H. Sullivan called the April 23 editorial — which criticized his actions — as "biased, unfounded, and poorly researched.

"It exposes an obvious lack of credibility and professionalism on the part of its author," he said.

Sullivan read the statement following the board's discussion on the procedure it will use to appoint Sullivan's replacement to the health board.

A health board vacancy was created when Sullivan, who was serving an unexpired term on the board of health, won a selectman's seat in the April 11 election.

Controversy over the vacancy began when Sullivan stated at the April 13 selectmen's meeting that he and health board William E. Baird had discussed nominating former board chairman Sharon Becker if Sullivan won the selectmen's race. The Mariner carried that story on page one, April 16.

Becker did not run for re-election. Thomas Cook won the open health board seat, vacated by Becker.

Monday, selectmen said they would interview all

Judy Fitzsimmons recalls life in the Peace Corps

By Dori Dwyer
Mariner staff

mariner visits

Judy Fitzsimmons was the exception at the hospital: she was a real nurse.

Although many women acted and dressed like nurses, Fitzsimmons quickly discovered that at this hospital women attained the position of "nurse" through promotions, not training.

"Women started in the kitchen, and then the laundry room, and watched the older women who acted as nurses," Fitzsimmons said about her Peace Corps days in Brazil.

"One day they just put on a cap and uniform and took the title, quote, nurse."

Fitzsimmons now shares her medical talents with the Social Services League and the board of health, but in 1964 she worked for the Peace Corps in Brazil.

Fitzsimmons said she was inspired to take her nursing expertise abroad because of Dr. Thomas Dooley, a famous physician in the sixties who established clinics throughout Southeast Asia.

"I read his book 'Deliver Us from Evil,' and I said That's what I want to do.'"

She tried to join Dooley on his medical ship Hope that sailed around the world until she was told there was a two-year waiting list. She then looked toward the Peace Corps.

The Hyde Park girl who had never left Massachusetts was sent to work in a rural hospital in Recife, Brazil.

As soon as the "nurses'" lack of medical knowledge was revealed, Fitzsimmons initiated a teaching program.

"I was shocked there were no trained personnel," she said of the nurse shortage at the hospital.

"I made some headway, but it was very difficult. Many of the women were unwilling to change."

Her efforts to educate the "nurses" were also hampered by the hospital's presiding doctor, who perceived himself as owner of the facility and resented her input.

"I was teaching very basic sanitation techniques, like the importance of washing your hands and changing the sheets," she said.

Pellet gun vandal strikes Scituate too

In a one night spree of destruction April 17, someone shot out at least 11 plate glass windows on Front Street in Scituate Harbor and in Cohasset Village.

Armed with what Cohasset police say was a gas powered pellet gun, the vandal targeted the largest windows in both towns' shopping districts, firing one round at each.

The damage, which police say occurred early Friday morning, was not discovered in some cases for more than a week.

Front Street jeweler Bill Vergé was away on vacation and noticed holes in two of his windows when he returned April 25.

A subsequent search by police revealed a pellet hole in a Welch Co. window.

Front Street Book Shop owner Pam Giovannini, whose store also was shot at, reported the incident April 17 as did Cohasset Village businesses Carousel Antiques, Smith Place, French Memories and the offices of Petersen, Mahoney and Wright.

"There a bunch of jerks," said Vergé of those responsible for the damage.

"I'm somewhat speechless over it. It's one of those things that happens from time to time, but it's an extremely costly thing to do to a small business."

Norma Kravette, owner of Carousel Antiques, estimated it will cost $500 to replace each window.

Vergé incurred additional expense as he will have to repaint his logo and rewire the alarm system.

"Glass insurance is expensive," he said. "In some cases it's as expensive as the windows themselves."

Both Scituate and Cohasset police are investigating the incident.

Cohasset's week

Renew dog licenses

Animal control officer Bill Quigley warns that dog owners must renew their dog licenses by May 1 or face a $25 fine.

Quigley said he sent out notices to dog owners Tuesday (April 14).

Residents can renew licenses at town hall. For more information please call Quigley at 383-0037.

No munchies at town hall

Citing what goes for one must go for all — selectmen turned down a request from the Cohasset Dramatic Club to serve popcorn and lemonade in a cabaret-style setting at town hall during the group's next production.

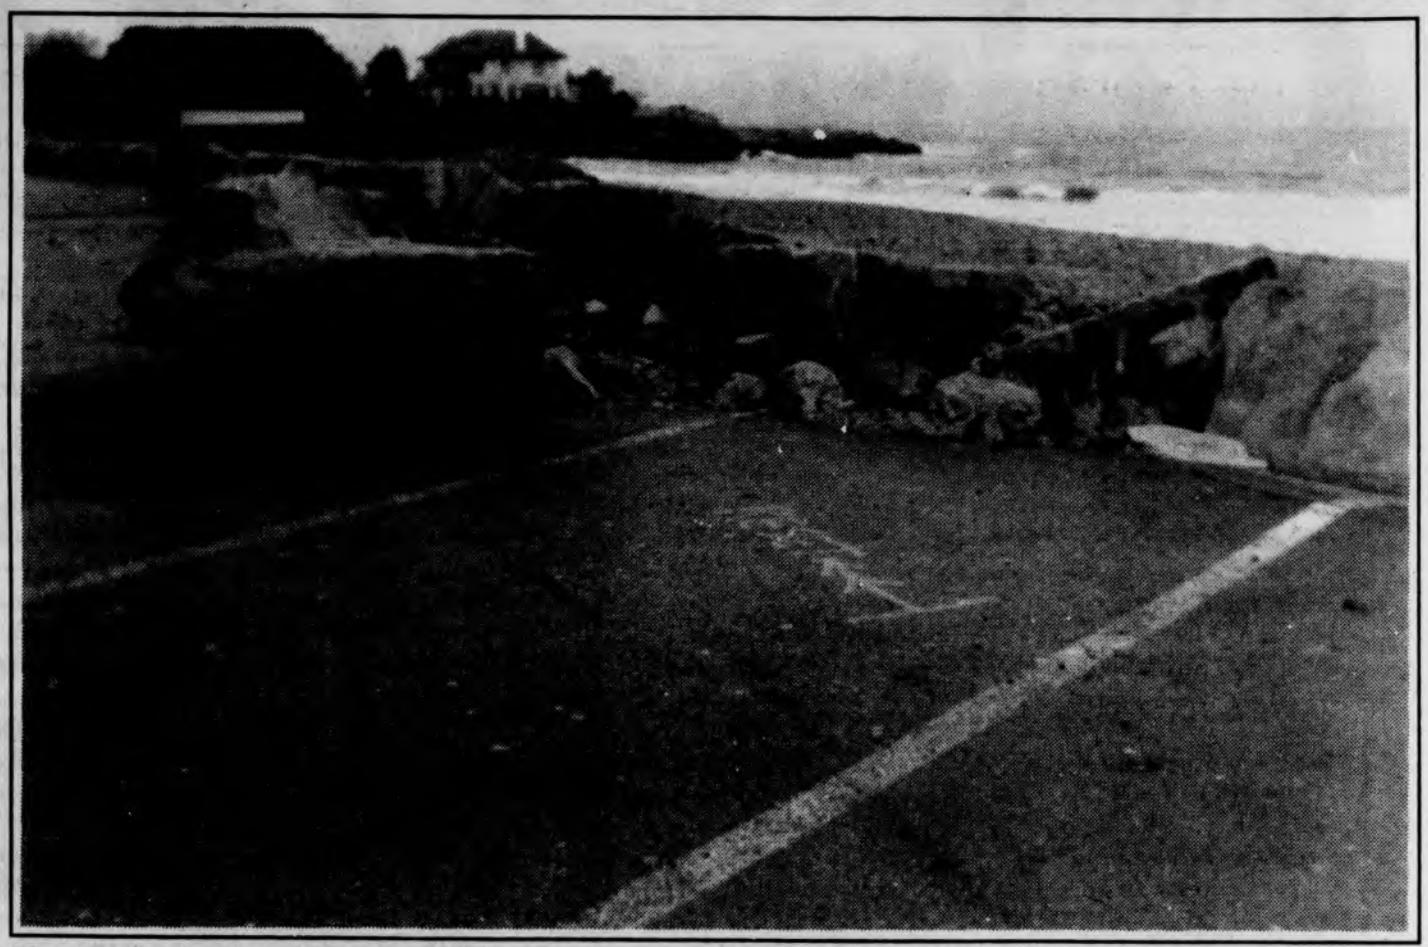
Executive Secretary Greg Doyon explained that while the board's policy had been not to allow food inside town hall, selectmen could grant an exception.

But Selectmen Rocco F. Laugelle said it might set a precedent.

Selectman Merle S. Brown pushed the discussion by noting that he'd seen people eating as they left town hall bake sales and asked why the policy existed. He said if people cleaned up after themselves there would be no problem.

Laugelle said — not having permission and what actually takes place — are two different things.

"We don't give them permission to do it. We can't sit there and watch every person take a piece of cheese and nibble on it," he said.



Laugelle added that "if everyone did that (served food) the floor would be ruined."

He complimented the drama club and said he was "always in favor of the Cohasset Drama Club" but said he had to say no to lemonade and popcorn.

Selectman Martha Gjesteby said she was also worried about a precedent.

"If we allow one, we have to allow all," she said.

The board did approve the drama club's use of the town hall from June 10-to-14 for its upcoming show, "1959 Thunderbird."

The Sandy Beach parking lot, which was damaged during the 'No-Name Storm' in October will soon be fixed. Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon said the town has contracted for the repair work to be done for $1,700 and work should begin this week. (Staff photo/Mary Ford)

Sunday license withheld

Selectmen withheld approval of a license to be open Sundays to French Memories, a bakery in Cohasset Village until the town gas/plumbing inspector signs off on the application.

The bakery has not obtained the signature of the town plumbing/gas inspector, which is a requirement of the license, because of a venting problem, selectmen said.

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle said he could not understand why the town's health agent signed off on the application if there were problems.

The board decided to ask the bakery to inform them of the status of the venting problem and submit a document detailing steps to resolve it by the May 4 selectman's meeting.

White & orange stickers

Sandy Beach/Government Island parking stickers this year are white with orange print, according to the recreation department.

The color is selected so that Cohasset's stickers do not duplicate the colors of those in Scituate, Hingham, and Hull.

The sticker price of $7 per vehicle for residents and $3 for senior citizens is the same as last year.

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke asked the board to "brainstorm" to come up with a way that stickers could be distributed by mail.

"It seems to me to be very labor intensive and cumbersome way to conduct business," she said about the current way of obtaining stickers in person at the recreation department office.

Selectman Michael Sullivan suggested that the hours that stickers can be purchased be cut back.

"To get into the mail issue is really problematic especially when you have to verify registration," he said.

Goedecke said she was concerned about labor costs.

"We should find a way to do this without hiring so much labor," she said. Goedecke noted that having recreation director John Worley sell stickers "at the rate he makes per hour is not a good use of time."

However, the board did not vote to change the time available to purchase stickers, which will be sold at town hall starting June 15.

Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon said residents should be reminded that a sticker is for the entire year.

"Police are apt to be in there (beach parking lots) tagging any time of year," he said.

Talk on procedures

There are plenty of volunteer board positions open on unelected boards, selectmen said Monday.

They discussed the procedure they should follow for new appointments and for those seeking reappointment to a board.

The board agreed that individuals, who want to serve another term, should be reappointed to a board automatically if the particular board chairman agrees.

Selectmen also agreed they would interview all prospective new candidates.

Harassment policy ok'ed

At the suggestion of Selectman Martha Gjesteby the board unanimously approved a town harassment policy Monday.

Although Selectmen Rocco F. Laugelle said he felt the policy is unnecessary, he was not opposed to it.

"I think we should let a sleeping dog lie," he said. "To my knowledge no town employee here has ever been harassed."

But Gjesteby said the town "needed to have something in place to alleviate problems.

"We should be part of the 20th Century," she said.

Legal issues raised again

Selectman Martha Gjesteby said she'd like to see the entire issue of legal costs for town counsel and assistant town counsels discussed openly "once and for all.

"We should discuss how the whole situation is operating and find out just how much legal issues cost," she said.

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said the board needed an ad-hoc committee to formulate and receive questions on the issue.

Gjesteby and Selectman Michael Sullivan agreed to form the committee and to compile the questions.

"The two of you package this and you decide when (it should be) on the agenda," Goedecke said.

Gainor on mosquito board

Selectmen unanimously appointed Charles Gainor, 168 Sohier Street to the Plymouth County Control Project (PCMCP).

"We are fortunate to have someone of this caliber apply," Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said.

Ahearn on garage board

Selectmen appointed Austin L. Ahearn, Jr., 41 Clayspring Rd. to the public works garage study committee.

Call force is critical . . .

chimney fires or when a power line is down — as well as a working fire, Nadeau explains.

"Can we realistically expect volunteers to roll out of bed or leave their jobs three times a day? It takes a lot of people to do that," he notes.

Nadeau doesn't plan to replace the full-time firefighting force with a call department. He says a combination of the two "is the best of both worlds — assuring an adequate level of service at a reasonable cost."

"A career firefighter is available to respond immediately" to everything from an alarm or car fire to a structure fire, Nadeau says.

"They assure immediate response to minor incidents without too much burden on the call force.

"And they can respond immediately to fires with the equipment which will already be on the scene when the call firefighters arrive," he said.

It can take six minutes for an on-duty career firefighter to reach the scene. If a call firefighter must report to the station first — that time is doubled. That can mean, for example, the window of time needed to save someone suffering from cardiac arrest is lost.

Right now, the Cohasset Fire Department consists of a 24-member full-time force (including officers) augmented by 14 call firefighters of whom only seven are outfitted properly.

Most of the current call force must take a supportive role at fires because of inadequate training and equipment.

"The way we're currently staffed we can respond to a fire or ambulance call but not to both," Nadeau explains.

What happens now if the station gets a fire call — four firefighters leave and the fifth remains to act as dispatcher. If an ambulance call comes in — then the dispatcher transfers the phones to the police department and takes the ambulance. The department tries to mobilize an off-duty career firefighter to respond to the scene.

Nadeau estimates is will cost about $60,000 to outfit and train the a full complement of call firefighters — something he plans to complete by January. He has included that figure in his FY'93 budget which was approved at town meeting.

But Nadeau is concerned about the Prop. 2-1/2 override election set for May 16. He knows those numbers well — and what could happen if he must cut his budget.

"There's a lot of talk about cutting costs but not much talk about saving money," he says.

And a call firefighting division can pay off in the long run with quality and delivery of service, he says.

Varied skills are needed

Any doctors out there who would like to work for free?

Cohasset's Fire Chief John Nadeau hopes so. He needs a doctor to volunteer to administer physical exams to the new call firefighting division.

He also needs another social worker to be on call as a back up.

"We deal with critical incidents, SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome) cases and some guys have kids at home," Nadeau explains about why a social worker is needed.

He'd also like a food service business to volunteer to supply some coffee to the troops at the scene — like at the Roberts Food Mart fire last week.

"When the crew starts at 2 a.m. and works until 10 a.m. (at a fire), they are physically exhausted. We need fuel for our people," he says.

Any computer literate people out there with a few hours to give?

Nadeau needs someone to help out with ambulance billing a couple of hours a week. He says the fire department is keeping up with the current bills — but needs help cleaning up the backlog.

Other services needed are: Chaplains, nurses, marketing specialists, recruitment specialists, secretaries, desk top publishing experts, insurance claim managers, public information specialists — and more.

If you can help, please call the fire department at 383-0260.

Sullivan lashes out . . .

potential candidates starting at 8 p.m., at their May 4 joint meeting with the health board.

Anyone interested in the position must submit a card or letter to the board stating they would like to be considered by the close of business today (4:30 p.m., April 30).

"We must get something in writing expressing interest in being considered," Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said.

Once the interviews are completed, the board will take nominations from board members, Goedecke said. The first candidate to get a majority by roll call vote of the two boards will be appointed.

But it appears that three of the four votes needed for a majority between the two boards have already been cast for Becker.

In an April 16 letter to selectmen, health agent Joseph R. Godzik said Cook and Baird voted at the board's April 14 meeting to nominate Becker to fill the vacancy.

As of Tuesday April 21, John K. McNabb Jr. of Pond Street was the only person to officially notify selectmen of his interest in filling the health board seat. Becker and Robert V. Davenport, who ran against Cook for the seat vacated by Becker, have both said they would apply.

The full text of Sullivan's statement starts on page 10.

NOW talk on battering planned for May 17

Every nine days in Massachusetts a woman is murdered in a domestic dispute. Last year it was every 16 days. The year before — every 20 days.

Domestic battering is the leading cause of injury to women in the United States and the leading cause of birth defects in infants. What can be done to stop the violence?

Sunday, May 17, 2 p.m., Sarah Buel, Assistant District Attorney at Quincy District Court, and supervisor of domestic violence prosecution at the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, will speak at New North Church, 1 North Street, Hingham Square.

Buel, a powerful speaker and a survivor of domestic abuse, will tell first hand of the horrors of domestic abuse and what can be done to stop it.

The talk is sponsored by the newly-formed South Shore N.O.W.

Also featured will be the Plymouth County Clothesline. The Clothesline, a visual representation similar to the A.I.D.S. quilt, is made up of t-shirts designed by victims of battering, sexual abuse and incest.

Representatives from battered women's shelters on the South Shore will also be on hand to answer questions and give information on what we can each do to stop the violence.

The $3 suggested donation will benefit South Shore N.O.W. and area battered womens' shelters.

S.S. NOW to meet May 3

The South Shore Chapter of N.O.W. (Natl. Organization for Women) will be having a meeting from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 3, at the Hingham Public Library, Route 228.

Regional chapter meeting will include a "welcome back" for chapter members and friends who marched in the April 5 Washington, D.C. "March for Women's Lives" and committee reports.

The general public is encouraged to attend. For more info call (617) 925-8563, or send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: So. Shore NOW, P.O. Box 353, Hull, MA 02045.

Fitzsimmons recalls life in the Peace Corps

Fitzsimmons continued teaching her unwilling pupils until she saw an area where she could have greater impact— a maternity hospital. Fitzsimmons said although the methods she taught at the maternity hospital were very simple, the results improved the health of the infants immediately.

"For instance, every baby in the nursery used the same bottle and the same nipple. If one baby had thrush, they would all get it."

Fitzsimmons explained the importance of sterilizing bottles and nipples and anything else that went into the babies' mouths.

She also included mothers in her education classes. One area she immediately tackled was feeding the babies.

Most of the women used formula, Fitzsimmons said, instead of breast milk because formula was considered a status symbol. The problem with the formula method, according to Fitzsimmons, was that it needed to be mixed with water, and at the time the available water was dirty.

Many babies died because of the diseases passed onto them through the water in their formula.

Fitzsimmons began a campaign at the hospital for breast-feeding, and increased awareness at the hospital. In the cases where the mothers insisted on using formula, Fitzsimmons' simple instruction to boil the water before mixing it with the formula saved many babies from illness and likely death.

Not one to bask in her achievements, Fitzsimmons asked for another assignment to teach women about prenatal care— this time away from the structure, and comfort, of a medical facility.

"I saw that the greatest need was outside the hospital, where women were giving birth in their homes."

She said the majority of the women in the area couldn't afford to go to the hospital for check-ups or to give birth, so she went to them.

Transportation was a problem, until Fitzsimmons was given a horse.

"I never rode a horse in my life, but I needed it to get around," she said.

"I went to farms and taught pregnant women lessons on nutrition and sanitary habits."

Fitzsimmons said helping the women on the farms was so rewarding, she signed up for another year with the Peace Corps. She returned home in 1967.

She continued to practice community nursing in Boston, with an emphasis on treating pregnant women.

"I worked with other nurses and set up neighborhood clinics" which "taught women pre-natal care" among other things, Fitzsimmons said.

'I never rode a horse in my life, but I needed it to get around.'
— Judy Fitzsimmons explaining that she had to learn to ride in order to bring her nursing skills to rural areas in Brazil.

Babysitters take course

Ten Cohasset students recently completed the Cohasset Community Center's babysitting course.

The group included: Alissa Conley, Megan Connolly, Scott VanHartesvelt, David Payne, Ronnie Aicynski, Katie Snow, Caroline DeRose, Jessie Zenendou, Emily Keefe and Hannah Bloom.

The course leader, Linda Farrag, taught child development; first aid; how to entertain children; qualifications of a babysitter; and nutrition.

Clifford Jones, Cohasset Police Dept. Safety Officer visited with the group. He spoke about the sitter's check list and showed a video.

Two members of the Cohasset Fire Department answered many questions for the class.

Health fair is slated for May 7

Judy Fitzsimmons now shares her nursing talents with the Social Services League.

The League, in conjunction with the board of health and the Council on Aging, is holding its annual Health Fair Thursday, May 7 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 p.m to 7 p.m. at the Second Congregational Church.

Available health services include eye exams, skin damage assessment and screenings for glaucoma, oral cancer, cholesterol and diabetes.

A mobile hearing van, sponsored by the South Shore Elders, a chiropractor, oncology nurse and a podiatrist will also be on hand at the fair.

Representatives of the American Heart Association, Hospice, Council on Aging, SHINE, Cohasset Commission for the Handicapped and Cohasset Drug and Alcohol Committee will also attend.

The League asks that all attendees bring any old eyeglass frames they may have for donation to the Lion's Club which will send them to third world countries for distribution.

Special town meeting warrant opens

Selectmen voted to open the special town meeting warrant for one week through Monday May 4. The special town meeting is planned for June 1.

The board also voted to recommend the only two articles that are in the warrant so far.

The first article asks voters to rescind their action under Article 21 of the annual town meeting and to appropriate $15,000 from surplus revenue to pay legal fees for environmental advice relating to the solution of the town's waste management problems.

At the annual town meeting voters approved the $15,000 appropriation but from available funds.

The second article asks the town to authorize the treasurer to borrow $175,000 in anticipation of a state reimbursement for reconstruction of the Doane St. culvert.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

THE COUNTER OFFER

QUESTION: I received a written offer to purchase my property. What happens to the original offer if I make a counter offer?

ANSWER: A counter offer is a combination of a rejection of the initial offer and a new offer by the seller. When the seller demands a higher price, more down payment, or different terms, the buyer's original offer is, in effect, cancelled. Unfortunately, this may burn bridges behind you. If the buyer refuses your counter offer, there is no way you can force him to make good on the original offer because it will have been wiped out with the rejection and counter offer. This is a tricky area of negotiations that calls for expert advice.

❑ Two Cohassetites that are enrolled at Dartmouth College are "out of the country" right now. Juliana Chittick, daughter of Joanne and Stanley, is spending an academic term studying French in Blois, France; Diana Kornet, daughter of John and Diana Kornet, is studying environment in Nairobi.

We will look forward to full reports upon their return!

❑ P.S. Apologies to the Guemere family. I reported that Kathleen Guemere has been accepted at Berklee College of Music. While she would probably be thrilled by the honor, it is her daughter Julie who will be going! Sorry about that!

❑ Hats off to the Community Garden Club, who distributed 1,155 trees to students in celebration of Arbor Day. We can expect Cohasset to expand its roots greatly through this gesture. Grand idea!

We should also mention that the members took lots of honors during the New England Flower Show. Tish Grinnell won second place in the design section, Boo Leach and Annette Sechen won first place in the amateur horticultural section, Lois Weltman won second and Hickey and Charlotte Thompson won third. Thompson won three ribbons in that division and Annette Sechen also won honorable mention.

The Community Garden Club also welcomes Junior Members, ages 10 and up. Many of them also did well at the flower show. Pam Wessling, Whitney Cook and Alexandra D'Urso won first-place ribbons in the junior division of the amateur horticultural section.

Pam also received the Becket Lang Award for horticultural excellence and a Cultural Certificate. Andrea Wessling won a second place ribbon, D'Urso and Jessica Neissink won thirds, and Niessink also got an honorable mention. We do congratulate you all.

❑ Ellery Clark continues to keep his Father's memory alive, this time through our youth. He is going to have a trophy awarded to the outstanding track star, one for a boy and one for a girl, in memory of his father. A wonderful tribute, and we all benefit. Thanks to Ellery!

❑ George Haley found a jacket recently, now he would like to find its owner. It is a Seahawk's jacket, and the name Carter is embroidered on it. Anyone whose name is Carter and is missing it, call George.

❑ Every basketball fan in Cohasset remembers the great Bryan Edwards and his feats as a basketball star...every record that is held at CHS is held by him! Bryan is now a student at James Madison University and is still going strong. He is a member of the first team in the CAA, and is a member on the first team All-State Richmond Times Dispatch. Perhaps he will be one of the first when it comes to Pro Basketball draft picks someday. Wouldn't that be special...continued success to you, Bryan, you sure work hard for it.

❑ The reviews are out, and its said to be grand. "Steppin Out," the production put on by the Hingham Civic Music Center, a musical tour of four different types of nightclubs, each featuring its own style of entertainment. One of the stars of "Steppin' Out" is Cohasset's own Mary Grayken, said to be great!

If you missed last weekend's performances there is still May 1 and May 2 to catch it. It is held at Brandon Woods (formerly the Maryknoll Seminary), 110 Charles St., in Hingham at 8 p.m. Seating is cabaret style and tables of six or individual seating may be reserved. Beer, wine, soft drinks and cheese and fruit trays will be available. Tickets are $10 ($8 for senior citizens), proceeds to benefit the Scholarship Fund. editorial

The messenger

Now wait a minute — this is getting interesting.

Just to bring everyone up to speed — and even at risk of being called inflammatory — there's a brouhaha in Cohasset over a vacant board of health seat.

Here's the background:

Former health board chairman Sharon Becker did not run for re-election because she is selling her house which may or may not sell during the next 12 months.

Former board member and newly elected Selectman Michael H. Sullivan did not resign from the health board when he decided to run for selectman — although his resignation would have allowed the people of the town (whose best interest Sullivan continually asserts he is trying to protect) to choose his successor.

Two citizens ran for Becker's open seat at the April 11 town election. Thomas C. Cook won the spot with 966 votes to 790 for Robert V. Davenport.

Now we are told that in the "best interests of the town" (in fact the survival of Cohasset may hang in the balance) Becker should be appointed to fill the health board seat, vacated by Sullivan.

In fact Sullivan, Baird and Becker were all so concerned about what would happen if Sullivan left the board — that they decided among themselves that Becker should step back on board well before the town election even took place.

The new health board consisting of Baird and Cook officially notified selectmen last week that they are nominating Becker.

At a joint meeting May 4 a majority of the combined boards of selectmen and health will appoint someone to fill the health board seat. It doesn't seem fair to us that three votes (Baird's, Sullivan's, and Cook's) have already been cast. And we wonder if the boards can ignore the 790 Cohasset citizens who voted for Davenport.

In last week's editorial, we took a stand. We think Becker ought to take her name out of consideration and open the nomination process up.

Needless to say our April 23 editorial did not make Sullivan's day. So he made a public statement in his defense of his actions.

Current health board chairman Baird wrote a letter defending the board's actions and listing Becker's qualifications. And Becker wrote us defending her decision and listing her qualifications.

And we've had a letter or two about how the democratic process is null and void once an official election is past.

Baird, Becker and Sullivan all state their unofficial election-before-the-election is due to worry that a health board with two new people would be tantamount to disaster.

By the way, we did not get any letters this week with Cook's qualifications. So here is a brief synopsis:

Cook is a civil engineer with 20 years experience with water resources projects. He has worked extensively with federal and state environmental agencies. And he served on the drainage advisory committee for ten years (six as chairman) and the watershed protection study committee which developed a water resources district for the protection of the town's water supply.

But we're told that it will take at least a year to bring Cook up to date on health board procedures and regulations.

It gets a little hairy when we get into the where-was-this-all-discussed issue. The Mariner has never stated that the discussion took place behind closed doors.

But Sullivan admits that it may have been — contradicting new Chairman Baird who says it certainly was not.

Sullivan also assures us that his motives have nothing to do with a person's views on issues like private landfills.

Yet he states he was so worried about the possibility of his seat opening up — that he asks Cook at a gymnastics meet if he was planning to run for Becker's seat — not to fill his own. And at that time, Sullivan recalls, Davenport was the only candidate for Becker's seat.

Mr. Sullivan, this is a classic case of shoot-the-messenger.

And you know what usually happens when a public official tries to shoot the messenger?

He shoots himself right in the foot.

Board details cuts if override fails

letters

To the Editor:

The School Committee at its recent meeting considered a number of budget cuts to achieve the $230,000 reduction requested by the Advisory Board and which will be necessary should the override on May 16 not be successful.

Superintendent Stephen Hart informed the committee that, whenever possible, reductions in staff positions were avoided in order to maintain the quality of the educational program. He did point out, however, that cuts of this magnitude would undoubtedly impact students and their families. This is particularly true because of the modest 1.8 percent increase in the school budget during the present year.

Although cuts were made to minimize staff reductions, a total of 1.6 teaching positions would be eliminated through this reduction process. One elementary teacher at the Osgood School would be eliminated and this could result in a pupil/teacher ratio approaching 30:1 in the third grade. At the high school level partial reductions would occur in the Home Economics, Sciences and Math Departments. These reductions would limit the course options available to students and in some cases increase class size beyond desired limits.

Educational supplies would be reduced by 12 percent at all schools resulting in a $10,000 reduction. Materials including science and spelling workbooks, crayons, markers, composition books and science laboratory supplies would be limited. Students could be required to supply these materials.

The user fee presently assessed to each student athlete would be increased dramatically. In order to achieve an additional $25,000 reduction in the athletic budget, it is anticipated that the fee would be raised to approximately $115 per participant per sport. For a student participating in the three athletic seasons, the fee would be almost $350. A user fee of this magnitude would undoubtedly result in decreased participation in the athletic program, an important adjunct to the academic program.

An additional $25,000 reduction in the transportation account would mean that approximately 200 students presently being provided bus transportation would be required to walk or be provided some other form of transportation by their parents.

Much needed capital purchases at the elementary schools would be curtailed. Included in this reduction are replacement of classroom chairs and desks for both schools as well as blackboards, window shades, clocks and carpet all of which have exceeded their useful life and have a negative impact on the learning environment.

The operation of this writing lab at the high school would be limited due to the lack of computers available for student use. The writing lab provides needed development in writing skills which will enable Cohasset students to compete successfully in post school environments.

Group testing, which provides crucial diagnostic information to teachers regarding students' academic strengths and weaknesses as well as possible curricula deficits would be eliminated during the next school year. This is one of the few quality control measures available to our school system.

Without a maintenance assistant to complement our sole maintenance worker, much needed maintenance projects identified through a survey of each building will be further delayed. Not funding the position of Technology Assistant will slow the introduction of new computer technologies within the classroom and teacher training and support will be severely limited. Preparing students for the 21st century should be a prime goal of the schools and community.

All of these reductions, coupled with additional cuts to reach the $230,000 target, will have a direct impact on our educational programs. Members of the School Committee expressed the hope that citizens will realize the effect of these continuing budget cuts not only on the quality of education in Cohasset but also on the value of real estate within the community and will vote positively on the override questions.

School cuts mean higher user fees

commentary

In the Spring of 1990, 10 young men tried out for the CHS baseball team. There were days that season when no one knew whether the team could even field enough players to start the game. Boys track had been discontinued, and in the fall of that year, varsity football, too, fell by the wayside.

But 1991-92 brought a change to Cohasset sports. Fall soccer teams, expected to field 12-15 players each, had to cut players to bring their rosters to 20. J.V. teams were full, a junior high team was once again added, and varsity football returned. Winter sports teams were packed, and parents and coaches began lobbying for junior high teams in both boys and girls basketball. When Spring sports began, the Athletic Department decided to try a "no-cut" policy in some sports, counting on a fairly low turnout. But, once again, reality did not mesh with expectation.

The softball teams began the season with 34 players. Baseball not only made a comeback at the varsity level, but at the JV level as well. The sailing team, started a few years ago by Coach Mary Lee Murphy, has 15 hardy members, the tennis teams have 12 players each, the lacrosse program has talent enough for two teams, and the girls' track team has been joined by a species not seen in Cohasset track circles in years—boys.

Ask the coaches for an assessment of their teams, and one word pops out time after time. "Young."

Perhaps not a great word for this year's teams, but a terrific one for the future. More and more young athletes, seventh, eighth and ninth graders, are coming out for high school sports. The recreational leagues—soccer, basketball, little league, and now softball are paying off. The talent is there, and the kids love to play. All they need is a chance.

There in, as they say, lies the rub.

At Monday's School Committee meeting Superintendent Stephen Hart presented a contingency plan for possible cuts if the May 16 override should fail. He didn't use any scare tactics, no threats of massive teacher layoffs or program cuts. Just a simple one page list. Each cut was explained—the why's, who's, how's and whatever's: needed maintenance postponed, equipment purchases put off, a retiring teacher not replaced, elementary class sizes increased, standardized testing curtailed, bus routes dropped, a secretary/clerk position cut...and $25,000 cut from the athletic budget.

Athletic Director Clark Chatterton explained that this should not mean a cut in sports teams. The numbers were up, kids wanted to play. But the $25,000 shortfall would have to be made up somehow. The only alternative to cutting programs—an option vehemently rejected by the committee—would be to increase the user fees.

What exactly would this mean to the average parent? Approximately $115 per child per sport. Two sports, $230. Three sports, $345. Two children, playing three sports each, would be $690, and so on and so on.

For most families, the users' fee would be higher than the yearly tax increase if the override should pass.

While very concerned about the numbers of children who might not be able to play sports if the fee were to be increased, neither Mr. Hart nor the School Committee could come up with a more acceptable alternative. Except, of course, the obvious one: the passage of the override budget question. But that is not in their hands. It is up to the parents, neighbors, friends and fellow townspeople of the kids who want to play sports. The School Committee will release the facts and figures, and explain again what they mean. But it is up to the voters on May 16 to make the final decision. Who plays, who doesn't. And fair or not, that's what it all comes down to.

Sullivan objects to Mariner editorial

(Selectman Michael H. Sullivan read the following statement at the board's April 27 meeting).

At the time that I first gave serious consideration to running for the Board of Selectman the only candidate for the Board of Health was Robert Davenport. I was not aware of anyone else even giving consideration to the opportunity.

As a matter of fact, I ran into Tom Cook at a gymnastics meet during the time he was writing a rebuttal to the draft Environmental Impact report relating to Cohasset Heights. I asked Tom if he was going to give consideration to running for the Board of Health and he said no.

With no one else showing any interest in the position I felt it was important for me to see if anyone would consider filling out my term. I spoke to Bill Baird about the possibility of Sherry Becker staying on to fill the vacancy. (I don't recall if I mentioned this to Bill in a public meeting initially or not but it certainly was discussed in a public meeting during that period of time.)

Sherry would provide continuity to the Board and give the new member the opportunity to get up to speed

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
THE HOUSE The House and Senate met only in brief, informal sessions last week as is often the case during April school vacation week. This week, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local representatives' votes on additional roll calls from recent sessions.
(HOUSE) CLERKS (H 5394) House 92-57, refused to reconsider its prior defeat of an early retirement bill amendment allowing court clerk magistrates appointed by the Governor to be eligible for the early retirement program. Amendment supporters said the bill's prohibition against clerks is simply a partisan move by Democrats to prevent Governor Weld from filling these positions. Opponents said all the retired clerk's positions would have to be refilled and argued the purpose of the bill is to reduce the workforce. (A "Yea" vote is for reconsidering defeat of the amendment allowing these clerks to be eligible. A "Nay" vote is against allowing these clerks to be eligible).		N
(HOUSE) HAZARDOUS WASTE (H 5317) House 83-61, rejected an amendment eliminating a section of the supplemental budget dealing with board of health control over existing hazardous waste facilities in local communities. Amendment supporters said this special interest section will take most powers away from local boards of health and is a blatant attack on home rule and the ability of communities to protect themselves. Opponents said the section strikes a balance between the need for retaining existing facilities and the needs of local communities. They argued boards of health will still have the right to regulate these facilities under other statutes. (A "Yea" vote is for giving boards of health the power. A "Nay" vote is against giving boards of health the power).		Y
(HOUSE) MORE HAZARDOUS WASTE (H 5317) House 79-61, rejected an amendment striking another supplemental budget section dealing with board of health control over all hazardous waste facilities. Amendment supporters said this section takes powers away from all local boards of health and removes their ability to enforce even nuisance statutes to protect the public. Opponents said more state control is necessary or there will be no facilities in the state. They argued this will lead to midnight dumping by businesses and will endanger citizens and the economy. (A "Yea" vote is for giving boards of health the power. A "Nay" vote is against giving boards of health the power).		Y
(SENATE) WATERSHED (S 1462) Senate 30-4, rejected a new version of the bill restricting development around the Quabbin, Wachusett and Ware reservoirs and authorizing the state to borrow $135 million to buy undeveloped land to protect the reservoirs. Supporters of the new version said it is a better way to solve the problems and protect these reservoirs which supply drinking water to 3 million Greater Boston residents. They noted the new version allows certain areas to have sewers installed and changes setback requirements so they are site specific. They also argued the new version is fairer on compensation to landowners. Opponents said the new version is seriously flawed and strips the original bill of many of its strengths. (A "Yea" vote is for the new version. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N
(SENATE) WATERSHED COMPENSATION (H 397) Senate 24-12, rejected a watershed bill amendment providing that a proposed amendment hiking the watershed management fee include a provision that the increase be used to compensate landowners. Amendment supporters said a reasonable hike in this fee, paid by water users in the Greater Boston area, will help ensure compensation of landowners. They argued the bill itself does not include any compensation guarantees. Opponents said this is an unnecessary $7 million annual increased burden on ratepayers who will already be paying millions for the $135 million bonding designed to compensate landowners. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment requiring money from a hike be used to compensate landowners. A "Nay" vote is against the amendment).	N
(SENATE) UNEMPLOYMENT (S 1461) Senate 17-8 refused to postpone and 19-11, refused to table the bill hiking the unemployment insurance taxes on employers by 30 percent. The measure hikes the average payment from $363 per year per employee to $474 through 1993 and to $680 in 1994. Tabling and postponement supporters said they wanted more time to read this bill and an alternative one proposed by the Governor. They said the Governor's version will not hike payments and claimed the version under consideration will drive businesses out of state. Opponents said the state is borrowing $5 million daily to fund unemployment benefits and said the bill has been around for a while. (On the first roll call, a "Yea" vote is for postponement. A "Nay" vote is against postponement. On the second roll call, a "Yea" vote is for tabling the bill. A "Nay" vote is against tabling).	Y/Y on the issues. I had no idea if Sherry would consider this but I certainly felt having two people on the Board that are well versed on the issues while the new member learned the ropes would be in the best interest of the town.

This in no way was done because of how someone may vote on the issues. At the time there was only one candidate who would have been elected if things had not changed.

For the Mariner to infer that a vote was made a month before the election is totally inappropriate. It was discussed as an option if I was elected. We had no authority to make the final decision and had no knowledge of the feelings the new board member would have. This was an option. We were being pro-active—what a crazy thing to do.

For the Mariner to write an editorial based on hearsay that a few public officials made decisions based on an individual's position on issues without ever discussing the subject with the so called elected officials is one-sided, uninformed journalism that clearly lacks professional standards.

I find it most interesting to have a journalist accuse me of skirting the democratic process without ever discussing the issue with me in order to understand both sides of the issue. Has the Cohasset Mariner redefined the definition of democracy?

The Mariner also stated that I unofficially nominated Mrs. Becker at my first selectmen's meeting. During the discussion on the issue of the Board of Health vacancy and who may have an interest in the position I stated that we had discussed the situation with Mrs. Becker. I don't consider that a nomination.

The Cohasset Mariner's editorial in the Thursday, April 23 edition is biased, unfounded, inflammatory, and poorly researched. It exposes an obvious lack of credibility and professionalism on the part of its author.

The Town of Cohasset does not need their local paper inflaming the citizens of this town with accusations that are untrue and one-sided.

The election is over. The fact that someone lost an election does not qualify them to be the obvious person to be appointed to fill a vacancy on that same board. It is now an appointment and it is the responsibility of the elected officials involved in the vote to select an individual who is the most qualified for the position and will serve in the best interest of the town.

Becker says one-year commitment is 'comfortable'

To the Editor:

There is no "travesty being foisted on the public in regard to the vacant seat on the Board of Health," no "collusion and subversion of the democratic process," as Paula Knowles suggests in last week's Cohasset Mariner.

The simple truth is that at one of our Board of Health meetings, Bill Baird expressed concern about the fact that if Mike Sullivan wins the Selectmen's seat there would be two brand new members on the three-member Board of Health. Bill, Mike and I are well aware that it takes at least a year to become familiar with Board of Health procedures and regulations. Since Bill's profession requires frequent travel, there could be times when two new members make decisions without historical perspective or an experienced voice. My agreeing to be nominated for the potential vacant position was to provide continuity and a smooth transition.

It is true that our house is for sale and there is a possibility we may move; there is as likely a chance that I will be able to serve for many months or the full year. Meanwhile, new member Tom Cook gains experience.

Three other reasons motivate my decision:

1. I am Cohasset's representative on the Massachusetts Bays Program Local Governance Committee — a voluntary, regional organization of local governments that expedites and implements sound environmental regulations that protect and enhance Massachusetts and Cape Cod Bays. I am dismayed each year by the increasing acreage of shellfish bed closings, and the Mass Bays Program works to reverse this trend. I have been active in the Mass Bays Program for over three years.

2. I am one of three Cohasset Task Force members appointed to the South Shore Coalition's Solid Waste Committee, which is presently forming a Regional Refuse District to address solid waste problems and to establish permanent Household Hazardous Waste facilities. I have been active in the South Shore Coalition for six years.

3. I am Public Education Chairman and a Director of the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society. I recently became a Smoking Prevention Initiative Speaker for the Massachusetts Coalition for a Healthy Future, whose primary goal is to prevent young people from smoking. I am a member of the Local Regulations Subcommittee of the American Cancer Society Division Public Issues Committee. I have been active in the American Cancer Society for four years.

Cohasset's Town Counsel has ascertained the appropriate procedure for filling the vacant Board of Health position. I chose to not run for the three-year term because of uncertainty, but feel quite comfortable with a one-year commitment.

Baird lists why Becker should stay

To the Editor:

If reporters of the Mariner attended Board of Health meetings, you would know the following:

1. In a public meeting, before the Town election, the potential vacancy on the Board of Health was discussed. The vacancy would occur only if Mike Sullivan was elected to the position of Selectman.

2. In that meeting I asked the chairman, Sharon Becker, to fill the void on the Board of Health in the event Mr. Sullivan were to be elected. A Selectman cannot serve on two Boards.

3. Mrs. Becker did not immediately say yes, but has since consented to serve on the Board of Health until the next election.

In order to be appointed to the Board of Health, a majority of the Board of Health and the Board of Selectmen must vote a nomination.

The following are my reasons as to why Mrs. Becker should remain on the Board of Health:

1. Experience: Mrs. Becker has six years experience as a member of the Board of Health. Whoever set up Town Government determined that the Board of Health should always have experienced members as one member is elected every three years. In the event of an absence at a scheduled meeting, Mrs. Beckers' appointment would assure an experienced member was always present.

2. Continuity: The Board of Health is a quasi-judicial entity which enforces State and local laws and regulations. It is therefore very important that a consistency of performance be maintained so that all citizens are treated in a like manner. Consistent enforcement of Town By-laws and regulations also helps to prevent law suits against the Town.

3. Service: Mrs. Becker is an officer of the Massachusetts Association of Boards of Health and the South Shore Coalition Committee on solid waste and recycling. She has also spent many, many hours working on special projects and assisting the Board of Health staff in the execution of their duties.

Give the above, I chose to nominate Mrs. Becker to continue to serve on the Board of Health. As the two members of the Board of Health have voted in open meeting to nominate Mrs. Becker to fill the vacancy, I hope the Selectmen will agree with our decision and do the same.

Best qualified person should be appointed

To the Editor:

Monday, May 4 at 8 p.m., the boards of selectmen and health will meet to appoint one person to serve one year until the next election. This appointment was created by Michael Sullivan's winning a seat as selectman and thus creating a vacancy on the board of health. While I agree with Paula Knowles' assessment in her April 23 letter that Michael Sullivan should have relinquished his health board seat before running for selectman, the deed has been done; and Ms. Knowles says "Although not morally correct perhaps, this decision

Most able should be selected

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the editorial "Done deal" and the letter "The appearance of wrong doing remains," both which appeared in the April 23, 1992 edition of the Cohasset Mariner.

Both Mrs. Knowles and the editor seem to have taken the position that, when things are going in a direction with which they do not agree, then there must be something un-democratic occurring. One calls it a "subversion of the democratic process," while the other refers to "skirting the democratic process."

The democratic process and the "rule of law" go hand in hand. Without the latter, the former is impossible. We must be bound by law — the bylaws of the town, as well as the laws of the Commonwealth and of the Federal Union.

In the opinion of Town Counsel, the law is clear that the vacancy on the Board of Health is to be filled by appointment; that appointment being made jointly by the Board of Selectmen and the Board of Health.

Whether or not the candidates for the vacant seat had run for that position or any other position, is immaterial. It is the combined board's collective responsibility to select the most able candidate. To do less would amount to misfeasance on their part.

To those crying "democratic process," I submit that the process is open to them and all of us. If we, the voters, want to change the way vacancies are filled, we should mount an effort to change the law. Likewise, if we think it better that candidates for office resign their current office before running for the next, then we should change the lawful process.

I think that such changes would be unwise, however. Any process that excludes incumbent office holders from seeking higher office will eliminate most of the qualified candidates, locally and nationally.

was, however, legally allowable."

The position to the board of health will be made by choice and not by default. The combined boards have a duty to the town to appoint the best qualified person to this important position. Whether we care to admit it or not, we are held hostage by the effluence of toilets and trash. These issues must be continually addressed with strong leadership and good management. This is not a popularity contest. This is an appointment.

The combined boards have the opportunity to choose the most qualified person for this position. They should not be swayed by political numbers for this appointment but by the applications and resumes of those seeking to serve.

On May 16, Helen Babis-Licare introduces students to Pastels. Drawing experience is helpful for this workshop ($35M/$45NM). Before you redesign, redecorate or repaint that room, take Jane Viator's Color Theory workshop May 30 ($65M/$75NM). Learn about color schemes, custom mixing and matching paints to fabrics and wall coverings. And to bring some music into art, Judith Raiffa offers Sound Creation Gongs June 6. Participants will learn basic gong-playing techniques on 12 hand-hammered bronze gongs for $40 for members, $50 for nonmembers.

The Saturday workshops are just one aspect of the Art Center's spring term. Adults may also choose from intensive three and four-day workshops, four-week classes and eight-week courses in watercolor, drawing, painting, clay, photography, calligraphy, portraiture, garden sculpture, monoprint and advanced oriental brush painting are also offered.

Photographs, better weather ahead for soccer teams

By Joan Kovach
Special to the Mariner

Soccer team and individual photos are scheduled for May 2 and 9 at the high school field, in the right field area of the baseball diamond, or if raining, in the gym. About half of the squads, including all Boys U 8 teams, will be photographed this Saturday, May 2, starting around 10 a.m. For the exact time for your team, consult your coach.

Coach Cotter has said a dearth of substitutes can be a tough opponent. That situation combined with bad weather has created challenges for Cohasset teams and their competitors over the past two weekends, but in the spirit of the Cohasset Soccer Club, they have prevailed and played well.

Girls 8-1 met 8-3 in unseasonably cold weather this past Sunday, but both teams were on fire and eager to play after two rainouts. Light Blue (8-3) was leading at the half with a goal from Siobhan Hart-Kelly and able goaltending by Caitlin Flint. The Green Machine (8-1) came roaring back and delivered goals from Kyle Kennedy who hit for three and Jeanna Lanata who had one. Tara Mangan and Caroline Carr ably provided green's defense and Johnna Redick made awesome saves for Light Blue.

Spectators who braved the cold were treated to a super soccer match. Rose Kahn's Girls 10-1 team was one of the few to brave the rains of this past Saturday. They handed Duxbury a cold, wet 3-0 defeat. Lilly Maltz debuted as a strong fullback and strikers Jennifer Meehan, Caitlin Donovan and Brie McKenney helped their team to a third shutout. Their second came when they met Hanover April 18 and fullbacks Maura Duffy, Kate Henderson and Ashley Van Hartsvelt assisted goalie Betsy Anderson in keeping the opponent scoreless. Ari Afshar, assisted by Erica Dean scored both goals.

Coach Brian McKenney cites Ashley Brister's phenomenal defensive performance and Kelly O'Donnell's stellar goal tending in the Girls 14-2 shutout over a talented Duxbury team, whose skill was not reflected in the 4-0 score. Cohasset endured with no subs for this game in which Kathleen Fitzsimmons (2), Athena Dedes (1) and Cara McKenney (1) scored.

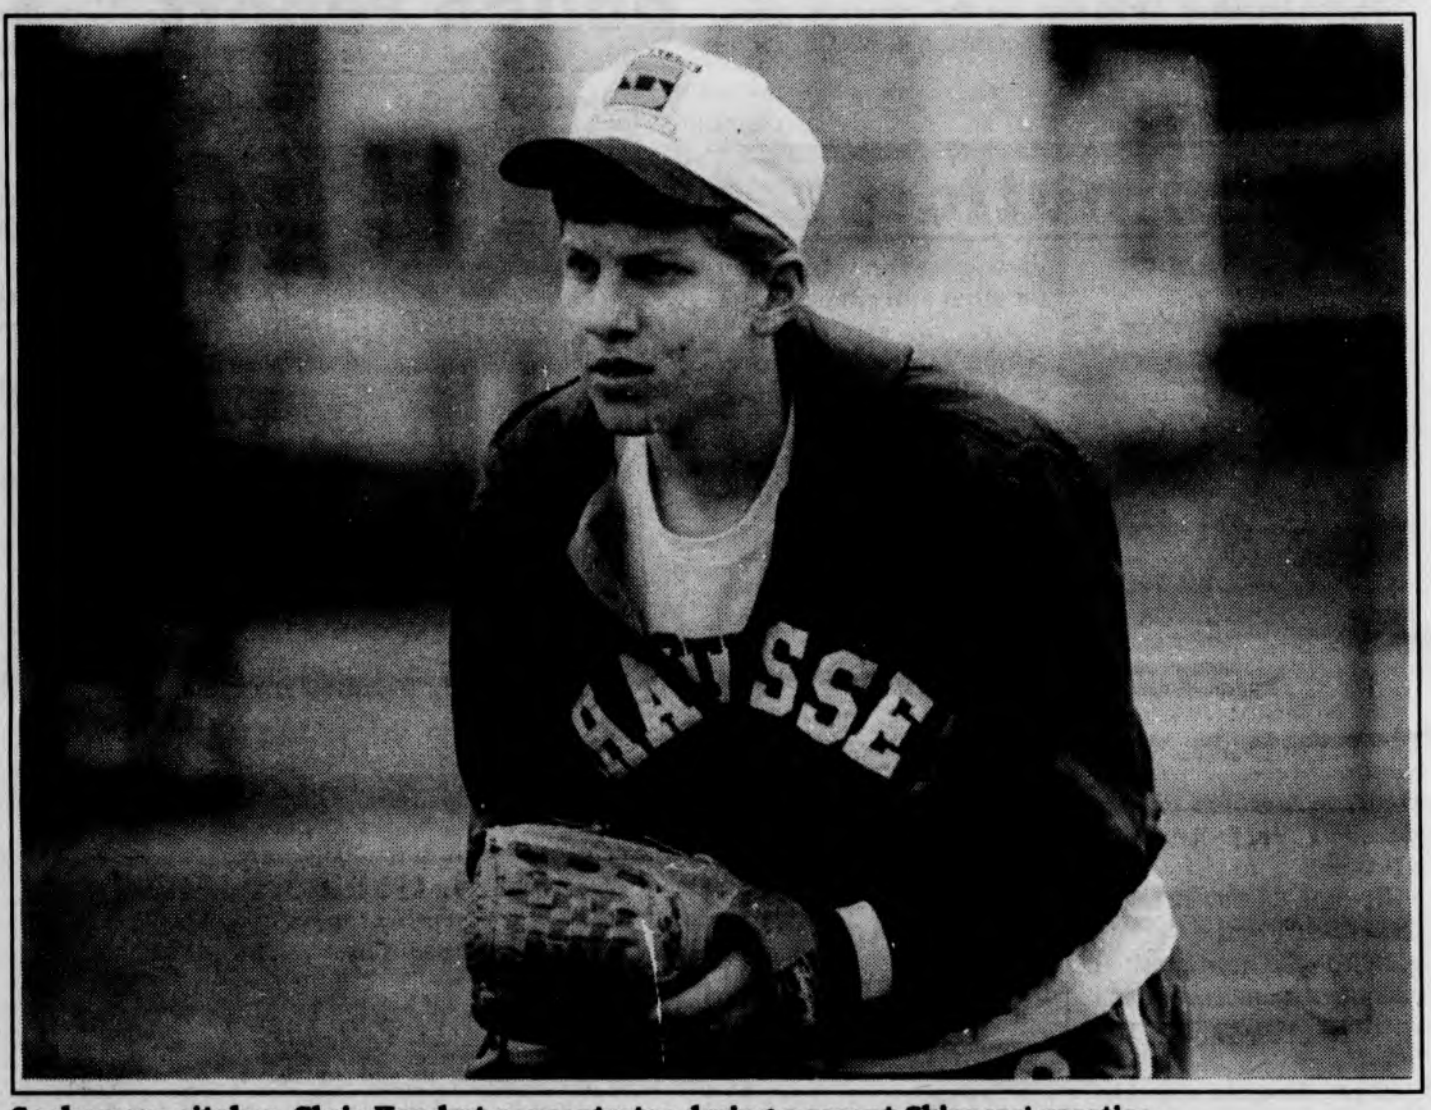
Terry Kahn's Boys 14-1 were rained out this week but handed Marshfield a 2-0 loss last week, playing with no subs and making their record 2-1. Kevin McKenna and Ely Kahn tended the goal for this shutout. Eric Henry and McKenna scored in the second half.

Meanwhile, Coach David Buick's Boys 12-2 were not rained out and struggled through the mud and wet for a 4-1 victory over a strong Duxbury team this week. Kyle Bunstein had a superb hat-trick and Colton Ralston added one. Brave fans saw excellent passing and teamwork, with Mike Rossi hustling for every loose ball, and tireless work in midfield by Devin Buick and Adam Sheerin. Dave Payne was rock solid in the middle of the defense and Pat Murphy and Tom Leahy were strong as fullbacks. In goal, J.P. Laugelle was as reliable as ever.

Boys 10-1 team was well matched with Pembroke for a game in which excellent goaltending by Pembroke was a main reason for the final 0-2 score. Effervescent Evan Cutler again provided the spark with aid from midfielders John Colter and Marc Verrochi who played with intensity at both ends of the pitch.

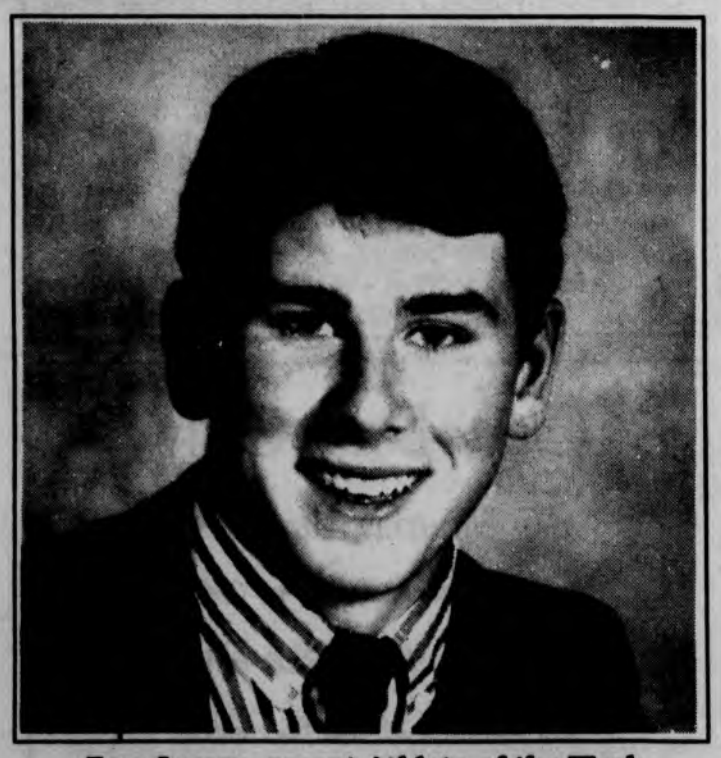
Eager 8 and under boys teams nearly danced on to the field this past Sunday to play makeup games after two weeks of rainouts. When 8-3 met 8-1, the high powered scoring machine in blue produced double hat-tricks by Kyle Weber and Nicholas Cavanaugh with timely assists from Dan Littauer, Andrew O'Keefe and Craig Laugelle. Peter Kovach added two quick goals in the second half. In defense Laugelle made a memorable debut with some hard nosed play. Both O'Keefe and Littauer contributed mightily to the effort.

Weber's stellar performance in goal in the second half prevented a romp by 8-1 who poured on the pressure when they returned from the halftime huddle. In the end 8-3 won, 8-3. Jake Morgan and Greg O'Connell had excellent scoring bids, and Paul Cotter and Jimmy French played tenacious defense in this game dubbed one of the most exciting, so far, this season. Look for more U8 news in upcoming reports.



Softball evaluation set

A softball evaluation session for all girls registered for the girls' softball league starts at 2 p.m., May 2 at the high school field. Rain date is May 3.



The purpose of this evaluation is to assess each girl's strengths and weaknesses in order to form teams. Gloves are required.

Due to expansion the Cohasset girls' softball league now consists of two divisions: Division I, grades 4-6 and Division II, grades 7-9. Softball season begins the second week of May and ends the last week of June.

If you have not already registered, forms will be available at the high school field during the evaluation session. For further information please call 383-2510 or 383-0760.

Tom Larson, recent Athlete of the Week

Larson is hoop star

Tom Larson, formerly of Cohasset, was named 'Athlete of the Week' recently at UMass Dartmouth.

Larson scored 24 points against the USM Huskies for the UMass Corsairs. He went 10-13 from the floor and 4-5 from three-point land.

A CHS graduate, Larson was co-captain of the 1987 Skippers with Bryant Edwards.

Larson's mother is Pat Bourque, formerly of Cohasset. And his grandmother is Elizabeth Spaulding of Elm Street.

Local gymnasts compete in Pembroke

Sunday, March 8 the Level 5 Center Gymnasts traveled to Pembroke to perform with Gymnastics Plus. The Cohasset Center performed well.

Carolyn Pratt performed very well on the balance beam, horse and bars. This was Carolyn's first competition at this level.

Alison Kinchlas performed the handspring over the horse for the first time without spotting assistance which was a great accomplishment.

Nine to 11-year-old girls who placed are listed below: Kerry Dwyer placed sixth on the balance beam (6.90). Lauren Genovese placed fifth on beam (7.0) and fourth on the floor exercise (8.0). Kristen Reynolds placed sixth on bars (7.30) and fifth on vault (6.75).

Twelve to 14-year-old girls who placed are listed below: Megan Pratt was the first placed all around champion followed by teammates Erica Hettstrom with a third, and Julie Smith with a sixth place all around finish.

Julie Smith took fifth on bars (7.20), sixth on beam (6.65), fifth on vault and floor (6.90 and 7.90).

Erica Hettstrom took second on bars (8.30), third on beam (7.80), fourth on vaulting (7.20), and fourth on floor (8.20).

Megan Pratt took first on bars (8.70) and vault (7.60), second on beam (7.85), and sixth on the floor exercise (7.80).

This was Level 5 Compulsory Gymnastics Competition.

Gymnast goes on to finals

On March 7 Tara Gallagher and Ruthann Sargent went to the Cape Cod Gymnastics AAU Gymnastic Qualifier meet where Tara was representing the Cohasset Community Center.

Tara placed first on uneven bars (7.45, second on balance beam 7.20,) and second on the floor exercise with a score of 7.35.

Tara will go on to the finals held at Merrimack Valley Gymnastics in Methuen in May.

All systems go for Little League season

Peter Laugelle of the Tree and Parks Department has the Little League Field in tip-top shape. The police and fire departments are geared up and ready to go. State Representative Mary Jeanette Murray has been loosening up her arm and this year's first pitch will be a wing-dinger.

The kids have dusted off their cleats and dug out their gloves, and the Deer Hill Band is tuned to perfection and ready to boogie. Ken Coleman, who will always be "The Voice of the Red Sox," will make room in his busy schedule to address those in attendance.

It's baseball season and this year's Little League parade promises to be the best ever.

All players (in uniform) and coaches are to meet at the Red Lion Inn parking lot Saturday, May 2 at 8:30 a.m. sharp, to march up Main Street to Barnes Field. After the opening ceremony, Leo's Exxon Red Sox will play the Cohasset Fire Department Dodgers.

Chorus to perform

The long-anticipated collaboration between the South Shore Junior Voices directed by Margo Euler, and the Mt. Holyoke Children's Choir from Amherst and So. Hadley, MA led by Cathy Melhorn, will take place next weekend at Brandon Woods of Hingham.

The 90 children ages seven to 12 will present a concert Saturday afternoon, May 9 at 2:30 p.m. which will follow a full day and evening of rehearsal and fun for the children of both groups.

The concert promises to be an excellent family activity for elementary school-aged children, and will include rounds and well-known songs for the audience to join in singing. There is no ticket needed to attend the concert, but because space is extremely limited, those planning to attend should call 749-6561 to make a reservation before next Friday, May 8.

Chorale concert, May 1

The Broad Cove Chorale will perform in concert this Friday evening, May 1 at 8 p.m. with the North River Trio, at Broad Cove House in Hingham.

A festive reception for performers and audience will follow the hour-plus musicale.

Directed by Margo Euler, the program includes some delightful settings of William Blake's "Songs of Innocence," as well as gutsy South African chants, duets from Bach Cantatas for voices and instruments, and a sumptuous trio by Clara Schumann for piano, violin and cello.

Tickets must be purchased in advance, and are still available at Noble's Camera in Hingham Square or by calling 749-6561.

Russians are coming

A choral group from Russia will perform at 8 p.m., May 1 and 2, at the Nickerson Theater, Norwell. The group hails from Omsk (Siberia).

Tickets may be purchased at the theater, or call Mary Lou Walden for more information at 837-0254.

Local members of "Sharing A New Song," will host the Omsk group of 30 young men and women in their homes during the group's stay on the South Shore.

Love a parade?

Then join ours! The Harborfest parade, to be held June 28, wants you. Already, 13 individuals or groups will be marching from the harbor to the common in celebration of Cohasset's gala weekend.

If you or your organization would like to join them, call Keith Knowles at 383-1331. A pick-up band of musicians who have always wanted to be in a marching band is needed.

Units with kids or adults in costume are always a hit. Make a float or just walk in the parade.

Actors on cable show

Tonight, April 30, host Wigmore Pierson's first segment guests on Pierson to Person will be Danny Hatt and Marjorie Ahlin of the Downriver Theatre Company, Machias, Maine. They will "spoof" the Person to Pierson show a la "Saturday Night Live" and discuss theatre in rural America.

The second segment guests will be Thomas Hoffman and Kevin Scott who will discuss estate and tax planning in the 1990s.

The Pierson to Person television show is broadcast live each Thursday, 8 to 9 p.m., from the North Scituate studio of Continental Cablevision. The show airs on Channels 3 and 53 in Cohasset and Scituate.

'Is killing the answer?'

Sam Sheppard, whose father was tried, convicted, and nearly executed for a crime which he did not commit, will speak and lead discussion at a special program focusing on the death penalty, from 3:30 to 5 p.m., May 3 at Glastonbury Abbey.

Nona E. Walker, a criminal defense attorney, will introduce Sheppard, who spoke against the death penalty before the Joint Committee on Criminal Justice of the Massachusetts State Legislature in 1990. Sheppard is an ardent proponent of help for the families of murder victims and opponent of the death penalty.

Governor William Weld recently filed legislation which will reinstate the death penalty in Massachusetts.

Both Sheppard and Walker are members of Massachusetts Citizens Against the Death Penalty.

Call 749-2155 for details.

Junior cotillion slated

Sixth, seventh and eighth-grade students from South Shore towns are invited to participate in the Junior Cotillion program, which features etiquette and ballroom dance training. The program includes six classes and two balls over an eight-month period. The classes will be held from September through April, one evening a month, in Cohasset, Duxbury, Hingham and Milton.

Classes will be held Friday evenings in Cohasset. Enrollment is limited to 25 boys and 25 girls per class.

The purpose of the two-year program is to give young people instruction and practice in the courtesies that make life more pleasant for them and those around them and to provide opportunities to practice and enjoy these skills at memorable classes and balls. The social behavior component of the program ranges from making proper introductions to table manners and, among other topics, includes posture, receiving lines, telephone etiquette and how to write proper thank you letters. The classes also involve training in the waltz, fox trot and beach shag, as well as the usual courtesies associated with dancing. The students are taught that good manners are not just for occasional use. They are meant to be used with friends and family every day.

An informational parents' coffee will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, May 7, at the Cohasset Community Center, 3 North Main Street. For more information, please call 383-0088. Registration ends June 1.

Jason Braun leads his partner during the foxtrot during the junior cotillion.

Brown proposes election change in town by-law

If Selectman Merle Brown has his way, then recent problems surrounding appointments to elected boards will be put to rest once and for all.

Brown proposed a warrant article for the June 1 town meeting that would change the town by-laws making it impossible for an incumbent with an unexpired elected term on one board to run for a different board.

The article which selectmen voted to include in the warrant, asks voters to amend the town by-law so that any person who holds an elected office and seeks to run in an upcoming election for a different elected position will be required to step down from the current position no later than seven days prior to the closing date for nomination papers.

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle said he was "surprised at something like this coming from you, Merle."

Brown, who was serving on the conservation commission while he was a candidate for selectman, noted that the article deals with elected offices.

Selectmen voted 4-0 to accept the article in the warrant. Selectman Michael H. Sullivan, who held an unexpired seat on the board of health until he was elected selectman April 11, abstained.

Davenport wins board seat

The town election ended Monday nearly a month after voters went to the polls.

In a majority vote between the boards of selectmen and health, Robert V. Davenport was appointed to fill the health board seat vacated by Michael H. Sullivan.

Davenport will hold the position until the annual town election next spring.

His appointment came in the wake of three weeks of controversy surrounding the open health board seat.

The boards heard from both sides Monday. Those supporting the appointment of former health board member, Sharon Becker, presented their case; as well as those who supported Davenport.

John K. McNabb Jr., who lost his bid for one of two selectman seats in the town election, also applied for the vacancy on the health board.

Davenport ran for the health board seat vacated by Becker. He received 790 votes to 966 for Thomas C. Cook.

"You want to know the thoughts of the people when you formulated the override question," said Robert Martin, 259 S. Main St. "I don't see how you can disregard the thoughts of the 790 people who said Bob Davenport is qualified for the board of health."

About two dozen citizens attended the selectmen's meeting which was held in the town hall auditorium. Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke allowed comments from the floor after the three candidates for the vacancy were

All Paws Rescue helps homeless pets

By Mary Ford

Although the women are from Hingham, they say theirs is a Cohasset story too.

Judy Troiano, Jennifer Lewis, and Kathryn Linnehan are full of the type of enthusiasm and energy that comes with a cause.

They speak from the heart. For years, the women have been dealing with other peoples' cast-offs — the furry kind.

But the recent onslaught of homeless dogs and cats has propelled them along with two other local women to form a non-profit organization called 'All Paws Rescue.'

"This is volunteerism in action," says Linnehan, one of the directors. "We perceived a need: and we've formalized to raise money."

As its first fundraiser, All Paws Rescue will hold a yard sale at from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., May 23 and 24 at Kressingham Kennels, 261 Gardner St. in Hingham.

Donations are needed of everything from "attic treasures to cash," notes Linnehan.

The directors of the new organization have obtained

Board approves articles

Selectmen approved placing the following articles on the warrant for the June 1 town meeting:

• to see if the town will vote to extinguish an easement no longer required by the water department across the property now owned by Mr. John Connell, 25 James Lane. The easement granted many years ago has not been used and should revert to the homeowner, Jim Sherrin, vice-chairman of the board of water commissioners explained.

• to see if the town will transfer from available funds the sum of $1,000 for the purpose of installing a drainage system under Linden Circle. Town Executive Secretary Greg Doyon said the article will allow the town to accept the additional money, which will be provided by abutters, for the increased cost of extending the drainage line. The April 4 town meeting approved $2,000 of funds to be transferred from an account maintained by the treasurer and containing funds deposited by abutters for the purpose of paying the cost of materials relating to the construction of the drainage system.

Appointment clarified

A brief item on page 3 in the April 30 Cohasset Mariner mistakenly implied that selectmen appointed Charles Gainor to the Plymouth County Mosquito Control Project.

The board endorsed Gainor's application to fill a vacancy on the PCMCP. A final decision to fill the vacancy will be determined by the commissioners and superintendent of the PCMCP from a potential list of applications submitted by 25 member municipalities in the Plymouth County Mosquito District.

Hiring freeze in tact

Selectmen did not grant any exceptions to the hiring freeze approved by the board last week. The freeze is in effect until the May 16 override election.

Town Executive Secretary Greg Doyon asked the board Monday if casual, seasonal labor was excluded from the freeze.

Doyon said he had received inquiries from various town departments about hiring seasonal help.

After some discussion, the board decided to keep the total hiring freeze in tact until the results of the override are known.

New manager approved

Selectmen approved a change of manager on the wine and malt beverage license held by Papa Gino's at the Cushing Plaza from William Craig to John McNulty.

McNulty, a Whitman resident, said he has had seven years experience as a restaurant manager.

"I don't forsee any problems in Cohasset. I am aware of the liquor laws," he said.

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle asked if McNulty had any experience with minors attempting to buy alcohol.

"I refused to serve them," McNulty said.

Bakery gets Sunday okay

French Memories in Cohasset Village will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Sunday.

Selectmen unanimously approved the bakery's license for Sunday openings at their Monday board meeting.

Last week, they held off approval until they received notification that an outside venting problem had been resolved.

Town Executive Secretary Greg Doyon said the bakery had "the work done a couple of weeks ago" and he had not been informed.

Parking restrictions lifted

Selectmen gave Executive Secretary Greg Doyon the authority to waive parking restrictions for events such as the Black Rock Beach clean up planned for 10 a.m., Saturday.

Selectman Michael H. Sullivan asked that Doyon keep the board informed when he does waive restrictions by adding a note to that effect to the selectmen's packets.

Committees disbanded

Selectmen voted to disband the transfer station study committee and the map committee, which are obsolete.

They held off disbanding the Milliken/Lillard Field Study Committee until they determine if that group wishes to continue as a committee.

McNabb is top spender

Candidate John McNabb Jr. spent $593.76 on his race for one of two open seats in the April 11 town election.

McNabb was one of only four candidates — who ran in contested races — to file a preliminary campaign finance report. He received $1,270 in contributions and expended $593.76.

The state Campaign Finance Law requires candidates and political committees to file a pre-election report on or before the eighth day preceding the town general election. It also requires a post-election report to be filed 30 days following the election. Candidates must file whether or not money has been raised or expended and whether or not the candidate is elected.

Thomas Cook, who won his bid for the open seat on the board of health reported he raised $370 and spent $324 on advertising and general expenditures.

Former selectman Diana Kornet, who lost her bid for re-election reported $225 in general receipts and school committee candidate Owen L. O'Malley reported he spent $93.52 on signs.

Health board candidate Robert V. Davenport reported that he received no contributions.

School committee members Ralph Kidder and Kenneth Wilcox; and selectmen Merle Brown and Michael Sullivan did not file reports.

interviewed by the two boards.

Becker, who did not run for re-election because she is selling her house and may leave town, was asked to consider stepping back on the health board by members Sullivan and William E. Baird at a meeting prior to the election. Becker, who had served two terms, said she would bring continuity to the board and could help out while newly elected member Thomas Cook gained experience.

However, she did say during the interview that she could not commit to a full year.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," Becker said about the possibility of moving. "But I'll be here a few months."

Becker explained that when the potential board vacancy was discussed at a health board meeting before the election, her staying on "seemed the logical thing to do."

Joseph McElroy, 59 Windy Hill Rd., said in his view "continuity is very important."

And Edward Guild, 365 Jerusalem Rd., cited issues surrounding the fate of the old Curtis Estate which has been subdivided and drew a number of abutters to a recent health board meeting — as an example of times when experience counts.

"That project goes back many years," Guild said. He noted that with a small board it is "very important" that the board have two experienced members.

Daniel Leahy, 215 Forest Ave., said if Davenport had won Becker's seat in the annual election, then Cook would have been appointed.

"Cook would be whisked into place," he said. Leahy said said the health board is "not a club" where members sit around and decide how it's to be run.

Goedecke allowed 15 minutes for each interview; after the interviews she called for nominations from the members of the combined boards. After the nominations closed, she called for a roll call vote.

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle nominated Davenport; and Baird nominated Becker. McNabb did not receive a nomination.

Davenport received yes votes from Selectmen Merle Brown, Martha Gjesteby, Rocco F. Laugelle, and Goedecke. Baird, Cook, and Sullivan voted no.

"Bob Davenport receives a majority that ends the election. Bob Davenport is hereby appointed to the board of health," Goedecke said.

Laugelle, who complimented Becker on the work she had done for the town, was most outspoken about the process.

"If you wanted the job, you should have run for it," he said.

Baird countered that Becker is "invaluable to the board" and the fact that she had been elected twice qualifies her to serve another year.

Davenport thanked both boards for "the time they took on the board of health issue."

By-law change . . .

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke did not ask the board to recommend the article. She said the board needed a week to think it over.

Brown said it's a matter of choice.

"I think people have a right to vote for elected offices," he said.

Town Counsel Richard A. Henderson said Monday that he had "no comment at this time" on the article.

All Paws Rescue helps homeless pets . . .

the pro bono services of an attorney and plan to incorporate.

Lewis, who manages Kressingham Kennels — a business that has been in her family for generations — explains that the kennel and All Paws Rescue are separate entities.

The new organization will be run like any humane society, she says.

Up until now, Lewis has supported homeless dogs (the kennel currently has eight) with money from her own pocket.

But due to the economy, some people can no longer afford their pets so the numbers of homeless dogs have become overwhelming.

"It's incredible," Lewis says, who can do up to 15 wash loads a day cleaning up after puppies.

"Our main concern is saving the animals' lives. But the vets' bills are so big," she notes.

Although the kennel business and organization are separate — the facilities will be used for both. For example, Lewis boards dogs picked up by the town of Hingham. And by statute, the town must pick up the tab for ten days.

"After ten days, they are mine to place," she notes. That's when All Paws Rescue takes over.

Although they see the down side of pets' lives, the women are careful not to blame the people who give their animals up.

Sometimes it can't be helped, notes Troiano, who is in charge of dog placement.

She said one recent homeless dog came from a couple who had to move to a nursing home. Others come as the result of divorce or other lifestyle changes, like moving to an apartment complex that doesn't accept pets.

People who want to adopt the dogs are carefully screened, Lewis says.

"We ask questions about small children, if the yard is fenced; and we make sure they're not going to leave the dog outside," she says.

All Paws Rescue plans not only to provide reception, care, custody, protection and placement of abandoned pets but it will offer veterinary subsidies with spaying and neutering and shots; and educational programs.

Linnehan speaks from experience when she recommends adopting an older pet.

She has provided a home for three abandoned, adult dogs.

"Puppies always get homes," she says. "But if someone is willing to give an adult dog half a chance, they can have an exquisite pet."

For more information about All Paws Rescue, please call 749-1914.

Jennifer Lewis, vice president of All Paws Rescue, poses with Sampson, a one-year-old shepherd mix. Sampson has been neutered and has his shots and is waiting for a new home. For more information about Sampson and other homeless pets, please call 749-1914. (Staff photo/Mary Ford)

Sam Sheppard speaks out against the death penalty

By Patty Hayes
Mariner Correspondent

When Sam Sheppard was seven years old, his mother was bludgeoned to death in the family's home in Ohio as he lay sleeping in the next bedroom.

"Fortunately, I didn't wake up," he says 38 years later. "If I had, I probably would have been killed, too."

The next ten years of Sheppard's life were spent not only grieving for his mother and the five-month-old fetus she was carrying, but also for his father, Dr. Sam Sheppard, a prominent brain surgeon who was wrongfully convicted and incarcerated for the crime.

After spending 10 years in prison, Dr. Sheppard was granted a new trial when the U.S. Supreme Court found 27 points of unconstitutionality in his first trial. This time, he was exonerated.

But even though he had been exonerated of his wife's murder, Dr. Sheppard didn't get his life back. The state of Ohio had revoked his license to practice medicine and he had to fight long and hard to get it back. And after he was licensed and practicing again, the prejudice that his conviction had created persisted. He was constantly being sued by patients, and couldn't get insurance coverage.

"His livelihood was taken from him. Four years later, the man's spirit was broken and he died," Sheppard said.

Sam Sheppard spent the next ten years trying to go on with his life and recover from the tragedies he'd experienced as a child. "I did some writing, some music," he said.

But about four years ago, "as our country slowly went back to the mode of killing," Sheppard thought it was time to speak out. Sheppard, who now lives in Cambridge, became involved in organizations such as Amnesty International, the National Coalition to Abolish the Death Penalty, and Massachusetts Citizens Against the Death Penalty, and became an ardent and outspoken opponent of the death penalty.

In testimony in 1990 before the Joint Committee on Criminal Justice of the Massachusetts State Legislature, Sheppard said, "If my father had been executed, I would not be alive today. The death penalty spreads into the souls of the innocent, the children and mothers of offender and victim alike. The Penalty of Death propagates hatred and poisonous revenge in the hearts of the victim's relatives.

"Our society offers no help to alleviate the crippling effects of violence and murder in one's personal life. We must heal our society, not further rip it asunder with state-sanctioned torture and killing.

In response to Governor William Weld's recent filing of legislation which will reinstate the death penalty in Massachusetts, Sam Sheppard was invited to speak on the issue at Glastonbury Abbey.

Sam Sheppard, whose father Dr. Sam Sheppard, a prominent brain surgeon who was wrongly accused and convicted of murder, speaks out against the death penalty at Glastonbury Abbey, Sunday.
(Staff photo/Alan Chapman)

"We feel that this is not only a political issue, but a religious, social, and ethical one too," said Father Thomas of Glastonbury Abbey, who introduced Sheppard prior to his May 3 speech.

The death penalty, Father Thomas said, is also an issue of Christian forgiveness and human dignity.

Sam Sheppard came to Glastonbury Abbey last Sunday to speak against the death penalty, not only as the son of a man wrongfully convicted, but as a child of a murder victim. The death penalty, he says, inspires feelings of hatred and revenge in the families of murder victims.

There are no statistics, he added, that show the death penalty acts as a deterrent.

"By the time they're 18, children in the US see over 20,000 murders on television. Every 19 minutes in our country, a gun is manufactured. These are the kinds of values our country is about right now."

Sheppard says that his mother's murder case was similar to the recent Carol Stuart murder in Boston. Murder of a pregnant women is a crime that inflan es society and panics society as well as law enforcement officials, he says.

The morning after his mother's murder, the coroner's report listed as the cause of death, "domestic murder".

Like the Stuart case, Sheppard said, the media put a lot of pressure on authorities to make an arrest in his mother's murder case. A prominent area newspaper, a week after the murder, began a 100-day long editorial campaign to have Dr. Sheppard arrested. One of the front-page headlines read: "Quit stalling and bring him in." Sheppard said his father was arrested on

Train plans hinge on Hingham

By Andrew MacLellan
Mariner staff

The Greenbush train layover is strictly conceptual and does not include plans to run diesel engines at night.

But until problems with the Hingham historic district are resolved, Cohasset is no closer to realizing restored service, according to John E. Powers, the MBTA's assistant director of design and construction.

Two weeks ago, the MBTA's project manager for development, Peter Calcaterra, informed the Hingham historical commission it had completed its historic survey of properties along the Greenbush railroad right-of-way in Hingham.

Thirty-six of the properties were found to be eligible for designation on the National Register of Historic Places.

Calcaterra pointed out that the MBTA was not responsible for nominating those properties or districts to the National Register; rather it wsa the purview of the state and local historical commissions.

Last Friday, responding to concern about the final environmental impact report regarding restoration of train service to Plymouth and Middleborough, Powers assured the Old Colony Railroad restoration committee that the Greenbush project "is a go."

Plans to include 42 employee parking spaces should have read 24, he said, and the MBTA has a strict policy which prohibits idling engines for more than five minutes.

Instead, electric heaters will keep the diesel fuel viscous enough to power the locomotives. The only time engines would run is when the temperature drops below 5 degrees Fahrenheit — about seven days a year, Powers said.

Although he acknowledged the other two lines were receiving more attention, Powers said details would be forthcoming pending results from a 4(f) study of historic Hingham village.

"Many times people are asking us what color tiles we're going to put in the bathroom," he said. "We're not at that stage yet.

"We're not there in Plymouth and Middleborough, and we're even less so in Greenbush."

The next step toward Greenbush construction is the release of four "technical memoranda" which address six alternatives to rail service.

The MBTA and Federal Transit Administration will look over the proposals and determine the feasibility of the line by September at the earliest, Powers said.

Powers assured the board the MBTA would provide relocation assistance to displaced businesses but did not make any promises regarding a proposal to build a new commercial district in North Scituate near the Cohasset town line.

The Plymouth and Middleborough lines should be operational by late 1996, he said.

"In my best judgment (Greenbush) is a year behind."

At 65 decibels from 50 feet away, the train will be as loud as a blender or about half as loud as the old train, Powers said.

The cost of construction is expected to be $480 million for the Plymouth and Middleborough lines, $126 million for Greenbush.

"I feel if we get these other two lines going, there will more impetus" behind the Greenbush line.

"If the Hingham historic district didn't exist, I think it would be safe to say we'd be looking at a (decision) by June. . . I'd say that's the only threat I'd see."

The committee will meet again at 3 p.m. May 21 in Scituate.

❑ Laurie Teixiera, Recruitment Specialist, Donor Services for the Red Cross, sent a letter to the Blood Drive Committee c/o Carol Ciciotte stating their thank you for an outstanding drive in the high school this year. Thirty-three students offered to donate blood. There were two deferred, and 31 successful donations, with 19 first-time donors. Those are results to be proud of and we all salute Cohasset High School Students.

❑ George Haley is happy to report that the jacket that he found has found its rightful owner, and you can bet that Carter is mighty happy that George let us know he found it. As soon as the Mariner came out, so did Carter — everyone is happy.

❑ Happiness is Larry and Darilynn (O'Neill) Evans...they are the parents of a baby boy, Geoffrey Lawrence Evans, born April 23. Geoffrey's grandparents are Anne and Frank Evans and Don and Sally O'Neill. Geoffrey has two sisters, Corey, who is six and Marissa, who is four. "For years, I tried to do it on my own, at home. But it got to the point where...with work, taking care of the kids, and everything else... I just couldn't handle it on my own anymore.

Believe me, it was the hardest decision I ever made. But it was the right decision. For all of us.

Now Mom's getting the care she needs. Care for all her needs. Care I could never give her enough of, or get her enough of."

Numbers nightmare

It's nothing new. It's the same old dream that comes back year after year. Except this time, the sheep you're counting are going backwards.

It doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that Cohasset, your town, doesn't have enough money to keep services at their current level. The same thing is happening to every town in the Commonwealth. Inflation coupled with Prop. 2-1/2 restrictions and decreasing receipts like local aid add up to a budgetary nightmare.

We all manage budgets.

We have homes to run and children to raise in these tough times. And some of us don't have jobs to pay for the basics. That's the tough part, we don't want to pay more taxes. And in many cases, we can't afford to pay more.

For the next two weeks until the May 16 override election, we'll be hearing a lot of numbers. Numbers don't make a lot of sense on their own — but when coupled with something like a fire truck they become crystal clear.

We know a study committee compared the amount Cohasset spends on its fire departments with towns of similar size in other parts of the state with eye-opening results.

It's no secret with Cohasset Fire Department's $1 million-plus annual budget, local taxpayers are paying for a Cadillac in a town the size of a Volkswagon.

After covering Hanover — which has about a 1/3 larger population than Cohasset and operates a fire department on half the budget — we know it can be done. But a closer look tells us, change in Cohasset will take time.

For one thing Hanover never stepped back from its call department, which numbers 85 men and women. Six unmanned fire stations dot the town, so no call firefighter has to travel far to access an engine.

Cohasset has 14 call firefighters, half of whom aren't even outfitted properly.

Systemic change in the fire department is needed. Increasing the number of volunteer firefighters and regionalization through the formation of fire protection districts may be the answer for towns like Cohasset.

The town has a new fire chief who's doing his best to attract men and women to form an on-call firefighting force to augment the career force. He is also seeking volunteers with skills ranging from social work to marketing to assist the fire department.

But changing the culture, as Chief Nadeau calls it, won't happen overnight. Town officials should pursue options which will trim the fire department budget in the long run as quickly as they can — but the kind of change needed is not going to happen this spring.

The possibility of moth-balling the town's ladder truck has been raised as an option to cut costs by the advisory committee. It's being discussed and that doesn't mean it will happen.

But if it does — taking the town's ladder company out of service will effectively cut the firefighting force by 25 percent at the time when Cohasset's current call force is under-equipped and under-trained.

And those of you who assert that Cohasset doesn't have enough tall buildings to warrant a ladder truck should understand a ladder truck is used for its horizontal not vertical reach for homes and businesses that are set back from the road.

At town meeting voters authorized the formation of two committees one to study regionalizing schools and the other to study the structure of public safety services. The latter's mission is to determine the most effective and efficient means, locally or regionally, by which the town can provide public safety services.

The findings of the public safety committee are to be presented at the April 1993 town meeting and in the interim they will report their findings to selectmen and the advisory committee.

So we all need to think long and hard before we vote May 16. We need to think about cutting costs and saving money.

And as Chief Nadeau says — they are not necessarily the same thing.

Rodney King decision was wrong

To the Editor:

It would be easier to say nothing. Even in the small and beautiful town of Cohasset, I might offend someone whose help I might need later on.

I'm tired of lawlessness and second/third generation welfare recipients who don't try to help themselves. I share the frustration of Brockton policemen who recount nauseating scenes of drug abuse while we work out at the Brockton YMCA. The violence in Los Angeles was inexcusable.

However, I'm also ashamed of the numerous times I've ignored ethnic slurs and missed small opportunities to promote basic social justice for all.

Even from a strictly pragmatic point of view, we must value each person objectively. In business, we need the best possible workforce to survive international competition. Almost 50 percent of our country population is of non-European extraction. Everyone's talents must be developed and used productively. During 20 years of military service, I always wanted the best person available beside me. It's no different in civilian life.

The Rodney King decision was wrong and no rationalization can change that fact.

Joseph R. McElroy
59 Windy Hill Road

Officials must be open-minded

To the Editor:

It was interesting to note in last week's Mariner the report on the Cohasset School Committee's response to a failed override vote. Mr. Kidder again stated that they would have to fire teachers and cut into programs. None of the members of the committee wanted to consider Administrative cuts.

The Massachusetts Department of Education issued a report in July of 1991, using figures from 1989 to show the average amount spent on administration in Massachusetts schools. The amount stated was 4.4 percent. If we use Mr. Wilcox's inflation figure for 1990 of 3.9 percent and last year's inflation figure of 3.1 percent, the percentage grows to 4.7 percent. If you were to review this year's warrant you will find that Cohasset will spend 10 percent on administration, more than twice the state average for administration expenditures. Since we can cut our administrative costs in half, we could save approximately $290,000. This exceeds what the advisory board would be asking the schools to do, when and if the override fails.

Another area that should be reviewed is the fire department. The Board of Selectmen oversee and are responsible for the operations of the fire department. We presently have six men on a shift. Minimum manning, which is controlled by the "Run Card," requires five men on a shift. If the "Hook and Ladder" truck was made a secondary response vehicle, as the town of Reading has done, we would only need four men to meet the minimum manning requirement. Selectmen could therefore, phase out from four to eight personnel and increase the number of "Call Men" to offset the downsizing of the full time force, and maintain an acceptable level of protection for the town. They should also review privatization of the basic ambulance service and thereby, relieve the Town of having to purchase a $90,000, 12 plus tons, diesel ambulance.

I feel that our elected officials must be open minded and willing to explore all suggestions. More money is not the answer. In education, the federal, state and local governments across the United States have spent more money, teachers are getting more money and our children are still trailing in education on the world stage. There has to be a different way to maintain services without causing our neighbors to lose their homes, or our elderly on fixed income to have to make hard choices between services and living.

F. Roy Fitzsimmons
116 Doane St.

What override means to Cohasset

To the Editor:

To keep Cohasset the beautiful town we know, the Advisory Committee urges you to vote Yes on the General Override on May 16.

A Yes vote will mean:

Town services will be maintained at approximately the same level, and our good schools, parks, highways, library, fire and police services will continue at their current level of excellence.

A No vote will mean:

Loss of town services and jobs; cuts in every department including the Council on Aging, recreation; tree and park, highway, police, fire, and schools; elimination of an elementary school teacher; 200 more children walking to school; increased fees for high school athletics to $115 per sport; reduction or elimination of the wire department; and no replacement of a worn-out police cruiser.

Why do we need this override?

The FY 93 budget, $13,304,609, has increased over last year's budget by only 2.3 percent. However, over the last few years we have lost a large amount of state aid. Costs, especially pension and insurance costs, continue to rise. Inflation, at nearly 4 percent, erodes buying power. In past years we have used funds from surpluses and cut the budget. This year's budget has no fat. We have no additional money to draw from, and we cannot make cuts without a large impact on town services.

What the override will cost you:

The base tax rate for FY '93 will be $11.84 per $1000 value of your property at FY 92 assessed values.

A $377,416 override will add the following to your tax bill:

Property Value	Added Tax
$200,000	87.43
300,000	131.14
400,000	174.85
500,000	218.57

Don't let Cohasset slip into mediocrity.

Maintain the quality of the town you have chosen to call home. You have a choice. Vote Yes on May 16.

Nan Roth for the Cohasset Advisory Committee

Override needed to maintain town services

To the Editor:

As outgoing PSO president, I was tickled to see Jim Hamilton's cartoon indicating the PSO's support for the single question vs. menu format of the ballot for the May 16 override vote. Of course we would support this approach.

In our 10 years of existence, the PSO has learned that the more inclusive we can be with our goals and concerns, the more people ultimately benefit. Our success in helping to improve Cohasset schools has to do with our gathering together a variety of people and organizations for the benefit of all. The presence of senior citizens in our classrooms, local tradesmen in our improvement projects and local professionals in our programs has brought a unique richness to our schools. We have worked hand-in-hand with local businesses and a cross section of groups on their projects which improve many aspects of Cohasset life.

At this time, it is my hope that taxpayers and voters realize that the town budgets that have been submitted have already been trimmed and tightened. This override is simply to maintain town services at their current level. I hope that the economy will improve soon so that we can all share in the opportunity to implement many of the exciting and creative ideas which have in the past few years been put on hold. For now, however, this override is the only way to maintain what Cohasset has to offer all of us.

Kathy Walsh
45 Ledgewood Drive

Trustees support override

To the Editor:

Saturday, May 16, is the day of the override election. We, the Trustees of the Paul Pratt Memorial Library, believe Cohasset's budget process is sound; proposed spending levels have been pared to minimum acceptable standards for town services; and that failure of the override will damage the quality of all town services in Cohasset.

(House & Senate) Unemployment (H 2935) — House 111-34, Senate 27-12, overrode Governor Weld's veto of a bill hiking the unemployment insurance taxes on employers by 30 percent. The measure hikes the average payment from $363 per year per employee to $474 through 1993 and to $680 in 1994. Supporters argued the bill is necessary to bail out the rising $500 million deficit in the state's fund that provides unemployment benefits. They said the state is currently borrowing $5 million daily from the federal government to pay benefits. Opponents said the fund will return to solvency when the economy recovers and argued the tax hike will drive businesses out of state and hurt the economy. (A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N	N
(House) Sick Leave (H 5264) — House 145-0, overrode Governor Weld's veto of a bill establishing a sick leave bank for an employee of the Department of Social Services (DSS). The bill allows any DSS employee to contribute one or more of his or her sick, personal or vacation days for use by this employee. Bill supporters said this compassionate measure will allow fellow employees to help this hardworking and well-liked man suffering from cancer. Governor Weld's veto message said he vetoed the bill because the legislature rejected his amendment allowing establishment of a catastrophic illness bank to which employees could contribute only personal or vacation days. Weld's message said this amendment has worked well in past cases and noted that by eliminating the contribution of sick days, it accomplishes the same humane objectives without additional taxpayer expense. (A "Yea" vote is for the bill).		Y
(House) Watershed (H 397) — House 114-25, approved a conference committee version of the bill restricting development around the Quabbin, Wachusett and Ware reservoirs and authorizing the state to borrow $135 million to buy undeveloped land nearby to protect the reservoirs. Supporters said this will protect these reservoirs which feed the drinking water supply for millions of metropolitan Boston residents. They argued inaction will cost the state up to $1.5 billion in filtering systems. Opponents said the bill is flawed, costly and full of overregulation. They claimed the $135 million is not guaranteed and noted the bill deprives landowners of property rights without proper compensation. (A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it).		Y
(Senate) Local Aid — Senate 18-16, tabled Governor Weld's resolutions calling on the Senate to go on record with its intentions of how much local aid it will provide in fiscal 1993 and how it will be distributed. The resolutions call for $520 million in General Revenue Sharing, $1.19 billion in Education Foundation Aid and $306 million in Lottery Distribution. Supporters said this will ensure that communities receive at least last year's level of local aid and noted cities and towns need to know the minimum amount so they can plan their budgets. Opponents said the resolutions are irresponsible and fraudulent political posturing. They argued the legislature must first determine projected state revenues before making empty promises to hand out money. (A "Yea" vote is for tabling the resolutions. A "Nay" vote is against tabling).	N
(Senate) Stalking (S 1493) — Senate 32-2, gave initial approval to the bill making it a crime to stalk a person and imposing penalties including a mandatory one-year sentence for a second offense or for stalking which violates a court restraining order. The bill defines stalking as repeatedly following or harassing another person and making a threat with the intent of placing that person in fear of death or serious bodily injury. Supporters said the bill addresses domestic violence and will save many people from bodily injury and death. Some opponents said the bill is too vague and could have ramifications beyond its intent. Others said mandatory sentences will result in prison overcrowding and other criminals being freed before serving their sentences. (A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it).	Y
(Senate) Cardiac (S 408) — Senate 25-8, rejected a bill authorizing cardiac catheterization services at a hospital in Newburyport. Supporters said these services are urgently needed in the city and noted many area patients are forced to go to New Hampshire hospitals. Opponents said the Department of Public Health has a Determination of Need process which makes these costly and important decisions and argued legislative interference is unwise and is unfair to other cities which have proposals pending. (A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N

Override needed to maintain quality of life

To the Editor:

I would like to express my concern over the issue of the Cohasset override vote scheduled for May 16. Perhaps many of the fiscal reasons that make this override necessary may not be clear.

In the first years of Proposition 2-1/2, many cuts were made in budgets and personnel in various town departments and for many years spending was kept to the 2-1/2 percent limit. But starting in the late 1980s, keeping to this increase limit became not only difficult but impossible, if services and personnel were to be kept at an acceptable level. The reasons for this were many.

In fiscal year 1988, Cohasset received a total state aid package of $1,455,698. By 1992, our total state aid package had fallen to $725,497 — a loss of over 50 percent! At the same time, the town's insurance bills went up at the same rate as our individual bills. Insurance premiums went from $197,819 in 1987 to $345,040 in fiscal 1992. Our debt service payments on bond issues and loans had risen in that period from $853,737 to $1,147,729. This was due in part to the new town hall addition and the acquisition of Lily Pond Estate land near our water supply. In addition, the basic costs of the town doing business every day — heating, utilities, maintenance and supplies — have all gone up at the same rate for the town as they have for ourselves in our homes and businesses. As we all know, that rate has far exceeded 2-1/2 percent per year.

Add to all of this the fact that buildings and equipment deteriorate at no less a rate for the town than they do for a person or business. Repairs or replacement of ambulances and municipal vehicles (police cars, fire engines, town trucks and sanders, etc.) must be done each year. We all know that eventually repairs become more costly than replacement. Although replacement looks more costly initially, we will pay dearly later if maintenance is deferred.

The money must come from somewhere if we are to maintain our town's quality of life. With new housing starts and new businesses down, we do not have the luxury of a growing tax base. And we no longer can make up for the cuts in state aid and the escalating costs of living by adhering to the strict 2-1/2 percent increase. If we do, we will go backwards. We need to rely on ourselves, and that means an override. I urge all Cohasset citizens to think long and hard about the override and vote yes on May 16.

No override means school changes

To the Editor:

On Saturday, May 16, the voters of Cohasset will have the chance to vote on whether or not to have a $377,000 override in fiscal year 1993. The schools' share of this override is $188,000. The School Committee strongly endorses the override. Without it, we cannot maintain the status quo; without it, we will have to shrink the schools.

One might ask: "Why do we need an override just to maintain the status quo?" The answer, of course, is "inflation." For the past few years inflation has averaged about 4 percent each year, yet the increase in the school budget for the present year and the next year including the override would average just 2.4 percent. This means that for these two years the schools have had 1.6 percent less buying power than the year before. In other words, we have had to shrink the schools 1.6 percent.

In what sense have we had to "shrink" the schools? Well, one good measure of this downsizing is the number of teachers and administrators. Ten years ago we had 101 teachers and eight administrators. Today we have 88 teachers and six administrators.

In the 1980s this downsizing went largely unnoticed. It did not damage the quality of the school system appreciably, for three reasons: (1) the number of students decreased a little in the same period, (2) the Commonwealth was contributing some money that helped make up the difference, and (3) we were making the schools more efficient. However, the 1990s are a different story altogether. The number of students in the system is increasing again and demographic trends suggest that it will continue to increase for the foreseeable future. The Commonwealth is contributing less and less as the years go by and it does not look like that will change either. Finally, we have wrung just about all of the inefficiencies out of the schools that we can; today the schools are just about as efficient as they can be without seriously damaging the quality of education in Cohasset.

In summary, without the override we will have to shrink the schools even further and we can no longer do that without sacrificing quality.

Without the override there will be significant changes in our school programs. In certain grades, class sizes will rise to unacceptable levels. Boys and girls involved in sports will have to pay onerous user fees. And literally hundreds of students will have to walk instead of ride the yellow bus. We will shortchange our children, endanger our property values and lower our overall quality of life.

Please vote "yes" on the override.

by Paula Knowles

Between snow squalls and shrieking rain storms, mother nature has been sneaking in some really beautiful spring days in the last month or so. The urge to get out and move seems to have hit almost everyone. You almost have to wait for a place in line these days to take a walk around town, with the tried and true walkers and joggers being joined by more new faces (or feet) with every ray of sunshine. I know that exercise is the main event for these enthusiasts, but how about a few suggestions to make your day a little more enjoyable?

No matter where you walk in town, you will see gardens that you love and houses, decks and landscaping that you covet. Why not use some of those ideas or designs to start a project of your own?

Bank of Boston in Cohasset Plaza has a lending library of home improvement videos just waiting for your VCR. Bathrooms, decks, landscaping made easy. Your ideas, their know how. Stop in and see what they've got for you.

If you decide to go a little wild this year, spend a little more than you intended to make a dream project come true—Bank of Boston can help you with the financing. And don't forget Rockland Trust, Pilgrim Cooperative, and So. Shore Bank. They are all ready to help you with any project you can come up with.

If your walk takes you towards the Village, why not make use of our beautiful common? You won't find a more perfect place to stop and rest anywhere.

Walk through town, look in all the windows, and pick yourself up something to drink or a cup of soup at the Village Gourmet, a baguette at French Memories, a pastry at the Bread Shop, a Greek salad at the Aegean Fare.

Sit by the duck pond and watch the little ones sail

FALLING FOR FRILLS
QUESTION: My wife fell in love with a built-in microwave oven and insists we buy a house that is overpriced and out of our financial range. Any advice?
ANSWER: This is one of the typical mistakes a house-hunter can make—buying the frill instead of the house. All too often a family will fall in love with any eye-catching feature and buy the wrong house. Yielding to superficial attractions like these can result in your family ending up with a thoroughly unsuitable house. Bear in mind that the same alluring feature can usually be added to another house at a relatively small cost compared to the total purchase price.

Rep. Mary-Jeanette Murray announces re-election bid

Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Third Plymouth District) announced her candidacy for re-election to the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Murray has represented Cohasset, Hingham and Hull for 14 years. During her first two-year term, only Cohasset and Scituate comprised the Third Plymouth District.

Mary Jeanette has consistently voted for more local aid and against any increase in taxes. She has filed bills for many years to increase the figure on the inheritance tax as well as other bills to ease the tax burdens on the elderly. Rep. Murray was co-sponsor of the bill, which became law, to increase the inheritance tax figure from $60,000 to $200,000.

The Cohasset legislator was the leading force on Beacon Hill to defeat casino gambling in the Commonwealth.

Last year Rep. Murray had a bill passed enforcing drunk driving laws as applied to boating. Currently, she has worked closely with Middlesex District Attorney Thomas Reilly to get a law with stronger penalties passed this year.

Rep. Murray's most recent legislation to become law was a bill restricting stores and companies from requesting a customer's telephone number when purchasing items.

Rep. Murray has received many appointments to special legislative committees and commissions. The latest of these appointments, made by present House Speaker Charles Flaherty and Republican House Leader, Peter Forman, is as a member of the Committee to Investigate the Laws of the Commonwealth Pertaining to Veterans, and Governor William Weld has appointed her as Massachusetts Chairman of Women In Military Service for America. She also was a member of the Comparable Worth Committee established to investigate and put in place in the public sector equal pay for equal jobs for women and men.

Rep. Murray was a co-sponsor of the original abuse bill for women victims of violence. She is past chair of the Massachusetts Women's Legislative Caucus, and she filed a stalking bill in this session of the General Court. Murray has served on both Special Committees on Children In Need of Services (CHINS). The child abuse bill is a result of the first CHINS Committee. The present CHINS Committee is investigating ways to avoid school dropouts, working with families and schools as a whole, and many other components to foster a higher quality of life.

Rep. Murray is a former three-term selectman in Cohasset, and she served on the Cohasset Housing Authority for ten years. She is also a Marine Corps veteran.

Rep. Murray said at her announcement, "I shall continue to be responsive to the people in my District. These are the citizens who have elected me to serve for them, and I believe my responsibility is to work, vote and assist them." Mary Jeanette also thanked all who have been supportive of her and her family.

In the State House, Rep. Murray serves on the following committees: Counties, Ethics, Local Affairs and Taxation. She is the first woman to have been elected President of the Massachusetts Legislators' Association. During her legislative career Rep. Murray has also served on the Committee on Human Services and the Elderly and has been very involved with issues especially relating to women, children and senior citizens.

Murray's late husband, Phil, was the force behind her entrance into politics and was her campaign manager. Murray has three children, Philip Jr., Nathaniel and Lillian M. Curley.

Sheppard speaks out . . .

circumstantial evidence, convicted in a media circus which can't even be called a trial, and the prosecution asked for the death penalty.

"It was mob psychology," he said.

However, Sheppard said, since his father was white and was a prominent surgeon, he was convicted of second rather than first-degree murder and was sentenced to life in prison.

"If they had convicted my dad and killed him, I would not be here today. I would be dead somehow, by some means of self-destruction, alcohol abuse, or some behavior which would have helped me die."

Sheppard told members of the audience that if they opposes the death penalty, that they should make it a leadership issue rather than a political one.

"Starting from the top: cowboys in our society like George Bush and Richard Nixon are saying we have to kill to solve our problems. That's just not the case."

Written on the back of a picture of a Thanksgiving turkey that his father had hanging on his prison cell wall, Dr. Sam Sheppard had written, "These men here are all human beings, believe it or not."

"Our kids in the inner city are not being treated like human beings," Sheppard said.

"I'm angry and upset that our society doesn't want to pay taxes to educate our children," he added. "That's a crying shame.

"We don't see, in our society, what our prison system is doing to the children of inmates. 60-70% of those kids end up back in the system," he said.

"Who are we killing? The bottom rung of our society, people who have been abused. Our society is doing the same thing to them," he said.

Nona E. Walker, a criminal defense attorney at the Office of Public Defense in Boston and a board member of Massachusetts Citizens Against the Death Penalty, also spoke at Glastonbury Abbey on Sunday. Walker agrees with Sheppard that the death penalty only aggravates the problem of violence in our society, and she puts part of the blame for violent crimes.

"I feel that we as a society play a part in people ending up on death row to the extent that we abandon certain parts of our society, especially our children," she said.

She used as an example a story of a second grader in Boston who brought a gun to school. When the child was questioned by a school counsellor, he revealed stories of violence and abuse both in and outside of his family.

This child, she said, couldn't be blamed if he ended up on death row. "He might see it as self-defense and we might see it as murder," she said.

"The problem with our society is that we have a short memory," Sheppard said. "We don't have much history. We have to teach our children that we have a legacy of shame with the death penalty," Sheppard said, citing as examples of the legacy of shame, the Rosenbergs, The Salem Witch trials, and the case of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Sheppard pointed out to his audience in the chapel at Glastonbury Abbey that when inmates are executed by means of a lethal injection, they are in the position of a crucifix, lying on their backs, with their arms extended.

"I still have nightmares about the electric chair," he added.

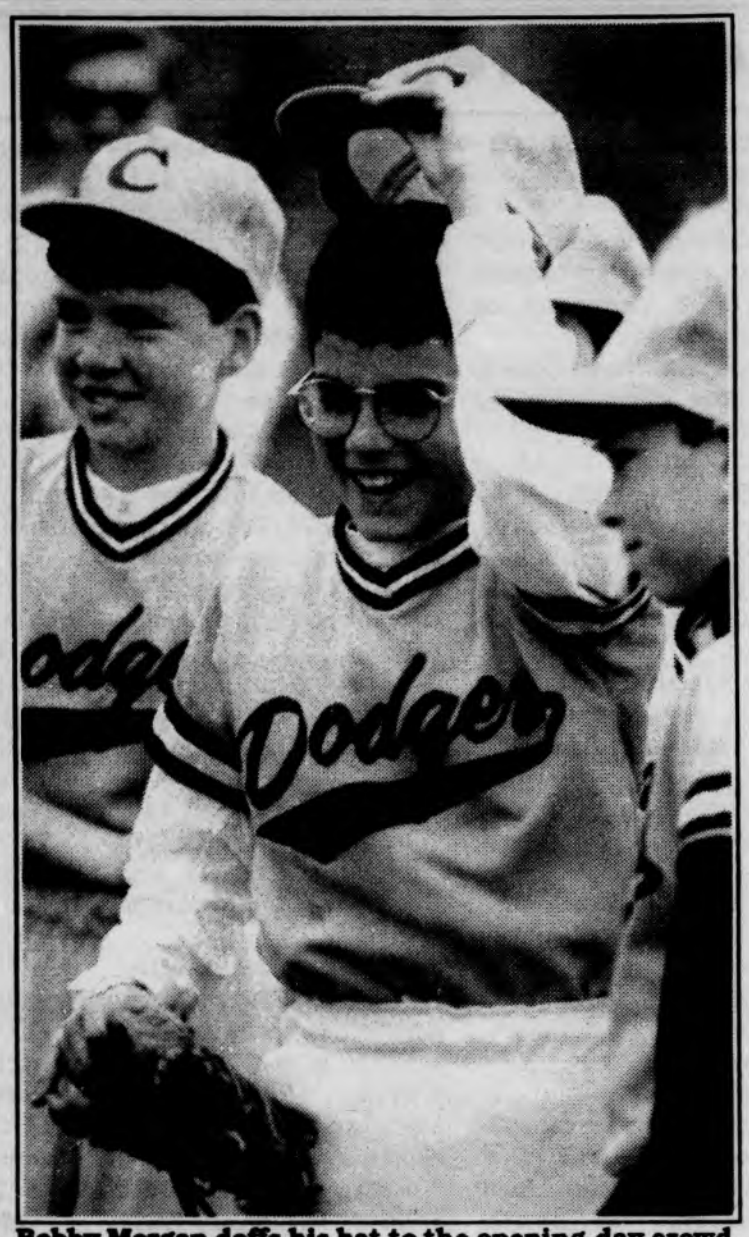
Cohasset Little League season gets underway with annual 'hit' parade

The sun peeked out from between the clouds early Saturday morning to shine the way for the Deer Hill School Band to lead the parade through Cohasset center. A myriad of multi-colored baseball caps and T-shirts heralded the opening of Little League season with a march down N. Main Street to Barnes Field where nearly 320 youngsters gathered for a patriotic salute to the flag.

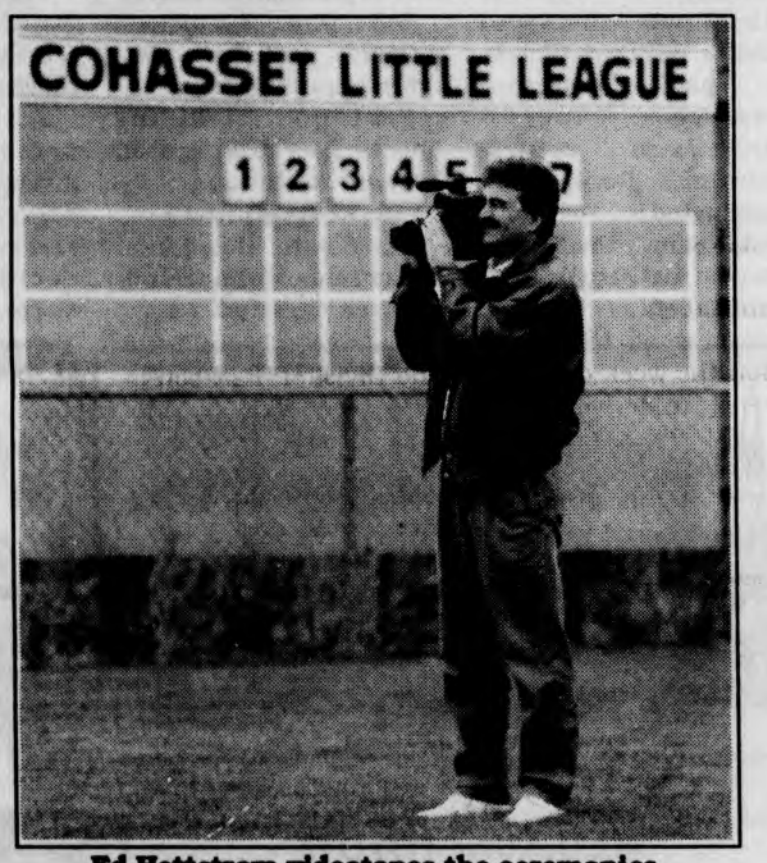


New Little League Commissioner, John Carr, welcomed the crowd to the 1992 season. After thanking all the organizations and businesses whose contributions make the program possible, Carr directed the crowd's attention to the newly erected batting cage where the kids can practice anytime.

Plagues for outstanding service to the program were awarded to Peter G. Laugelle, Tree and Parks Commissioner; Past Little League president, John Smoot and his wife Elaine; and to Dave and Marie Buckley.

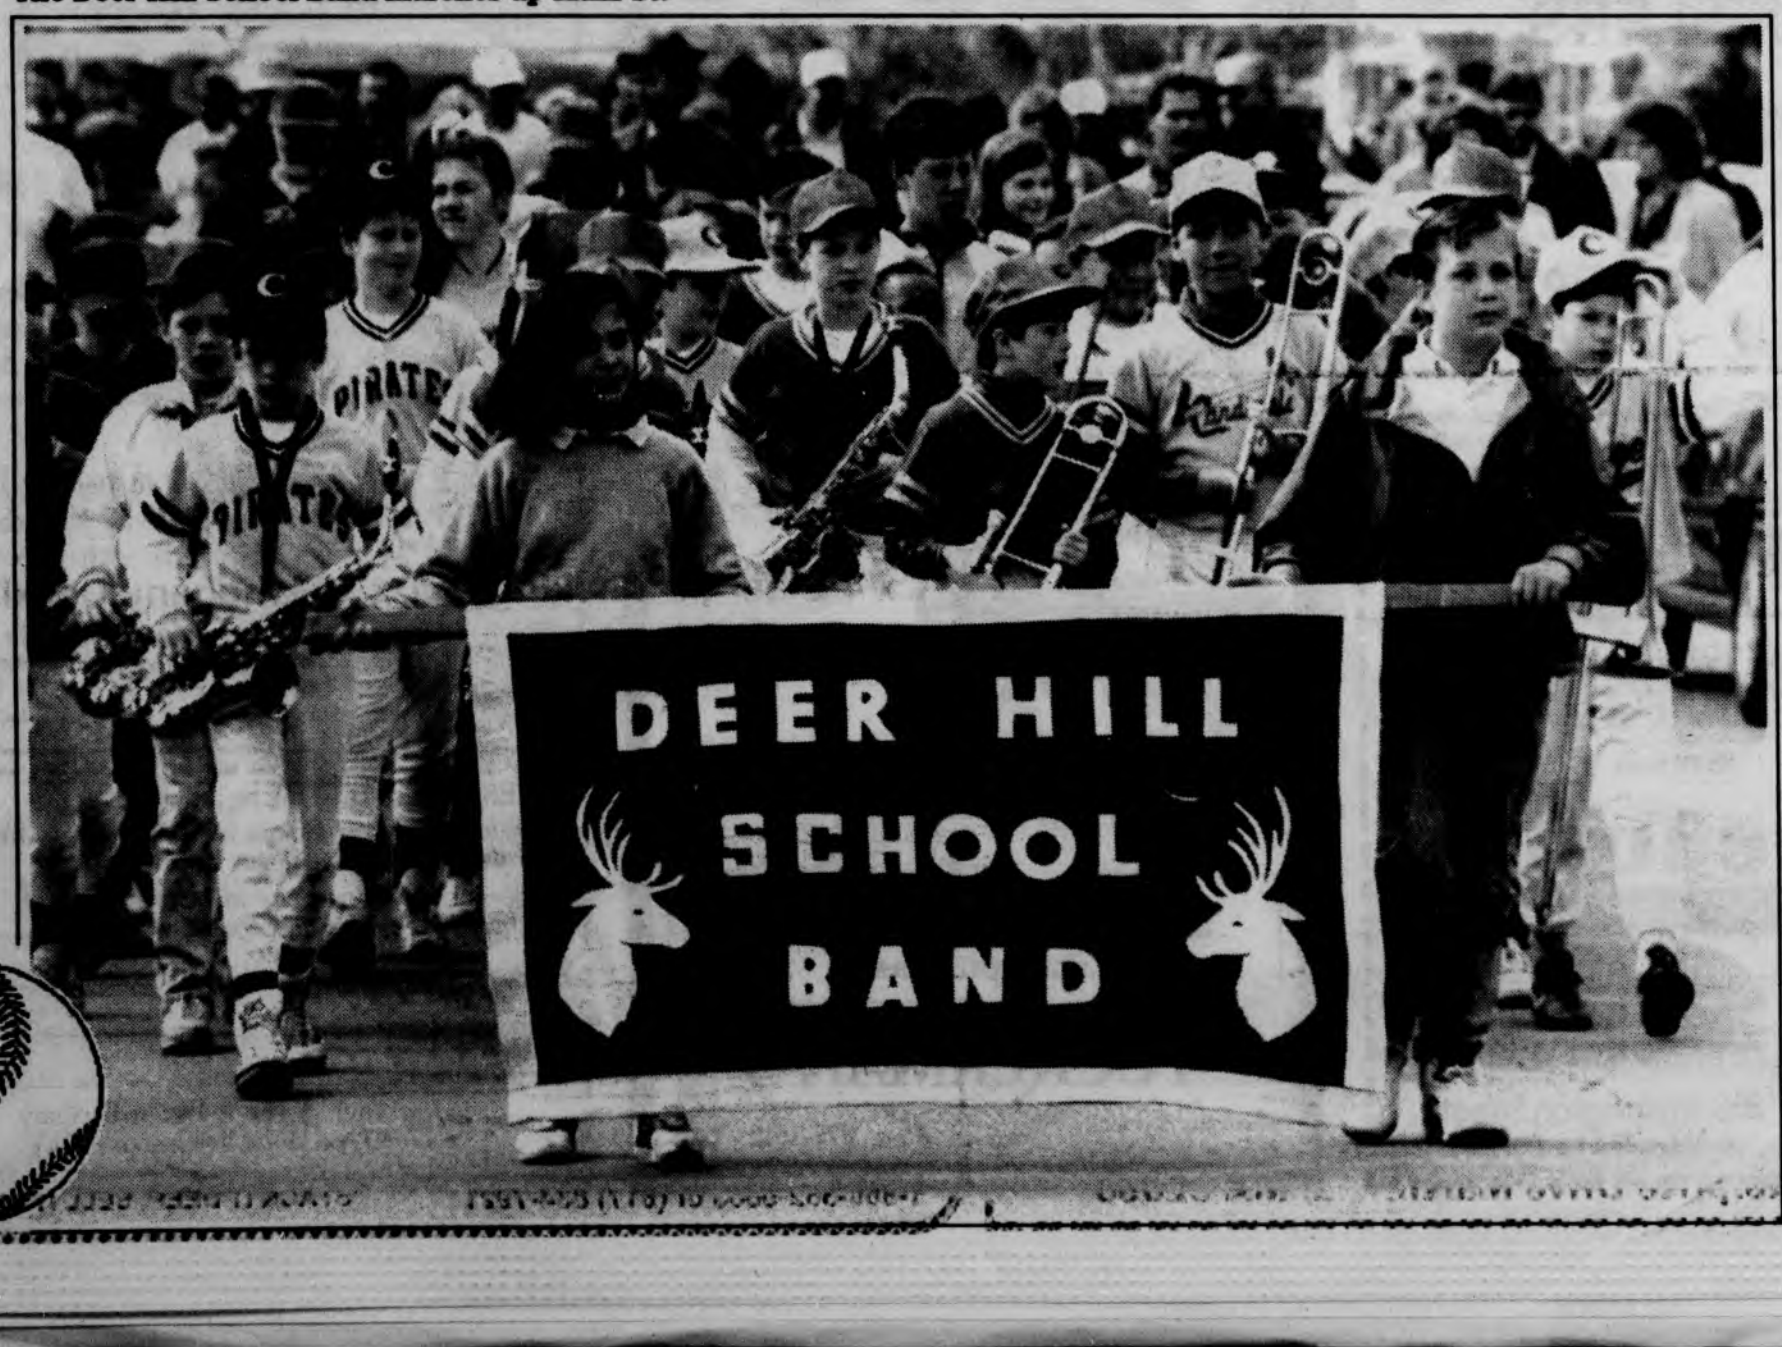
Keynote speaker for the ceremony, Ken Coleman, the 'voice of the Red Sox' for many years, reminded everyone that what the kids need is "encouragement and what they don't need is criticism." Coleman and state Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray, who threw out the first ball, received a commemorative T-shirts.

Following the festivities the Dodgers socked it to the Red Sox, 8-1, in the major league division.



Little League coaches who want their games reported in the Mariner can pick up publicity forms in the snack shack at the field. Forms must be returned to the snack shack by 6 p.m., Saturday.

Bobby Morgan doffs his hat to the opening-day crowd.



Farm Leaguers carry the Stars and Stripes.

Ed Hettstrom videotapes the ceremonies.

Brister leads netmen to victory

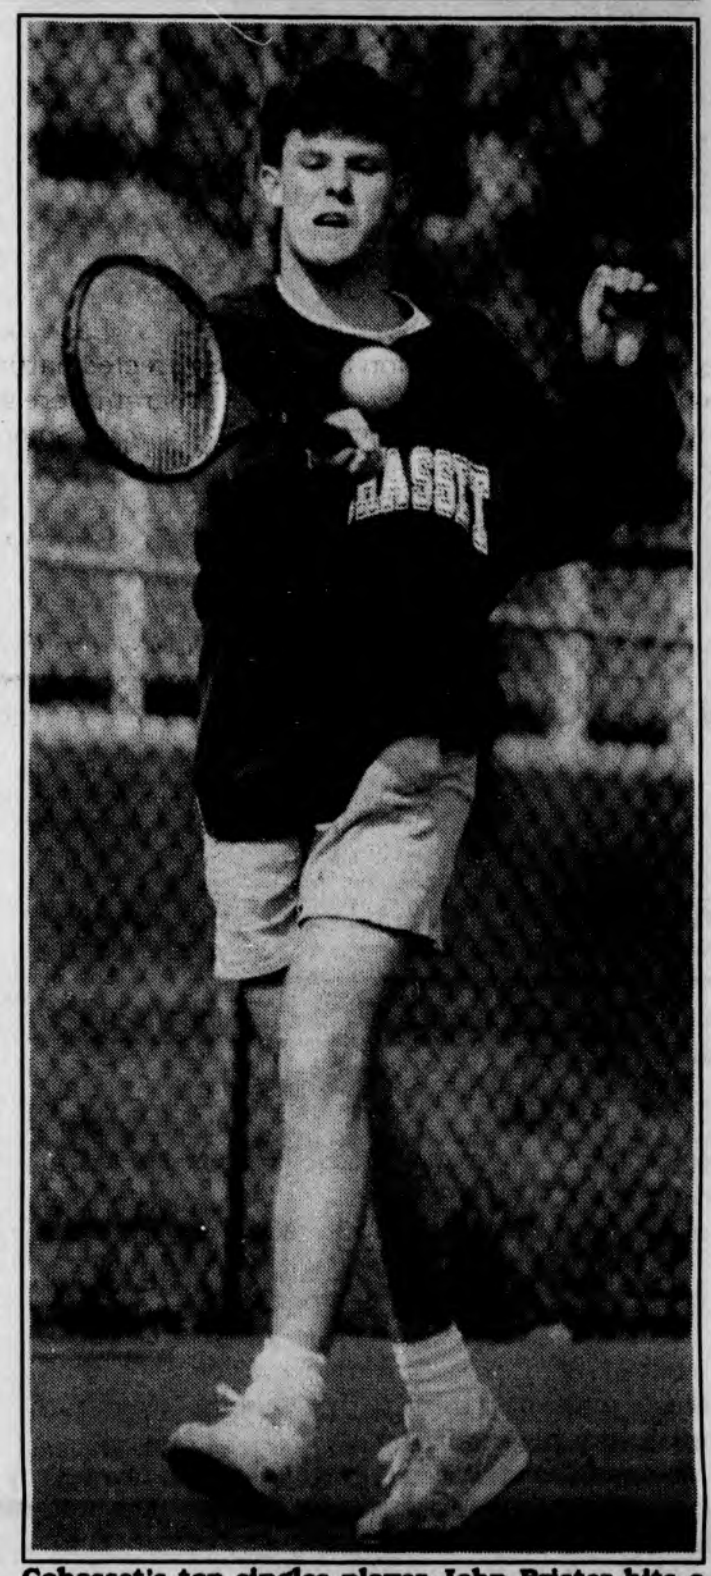
By Paula Knowles
Mariner correspondent

The boys' tennis and girls' softball teams came back from April vacation rested and ready to win, and both teams proceeded to start the second half of their season off with a bang.

The boys' tennis team, behind the spectacular play of John Brister, started their week off with a 5-0 win over Norton. Having lost the first set 0-6, first singles John Brister took a very bad fall going after a shot at the beginning of the second set, and coach Dick Seeley thought that the match would have to be forfeited. But Brister refused to give in, and fought back through the pain to take the next two sets, 7-5, 6-1.

After the match, Coach Seeley stated, "I have never seen a high school player with such a will to win."

That will carried over to his teammates also, as they proceeded to bring home wins against Hanover on Wednesday (March 2), and Carver on Thursday (April 1).



The girls' softball team found a will to win also, as they pounded their way to a 24-12 win over Hanover on Tuesday. First baseman Rebecca Tosca had three hits and three runs batted in, while centerfielder Bridget Leung chimed in with two hits and two RBIs. Pitcher Danielle Shaughnessy went the route for the Skippers.

Although they lost to powerhouse Carver 28-3 on Thursday, Coach Mike Gill was extremely pleased with his young team's play.

"Last year we only got one hit off this same pitcher, and we fielded a much more experienced team. We touched her for seven hits today, and they were all good strong shots. With injuries and illnesses sidelining our three returning starters, I think that this young team has come together really well. Every player improves with each game that they play."

The game against Hull on Tuesday bore him out.

Behind 7-1 after two innings of play, Cohasset broke the game wide open with nine runs in the third inning. Powered by the bats of Vicky Maynard and Bridget Leung and some heads up base-running by the whole team, the Skippers took the lead and never looked back. Hull made a run for the lead in the sixth inning, but fine pitching by Linda Hague and solid fielding by the entire team stopped the rally short. When the game was over, the Lady Skippers had avenged their season opening 15 run loss to Hull with a sweet 14-11 win.

Cohasset girls' softball draws big field

Over 100 participants were on hand Saturday at the high school front field for the girls' softball evaluation session. The entire field was full of girls demonstrating their fielding, hitting, catching and throwing ability. Cheering, singing and occasional cartwheels were also observed! All in the all the turnout was great and the enthusiasm was apparent on the faces of everyone.

The league will consist of six teams in Division I and three teams in Division II. Each Division II team will travel to Hingham once a week or host Norwell on Thursdays at the Beechwood ballpark. Division II teams will also play each other toward the end of their season. Division I will play each other on Tuesday or Thursday evening at either the Barnes field, the high school field or Beechwood ballpark. Division I will begin their season the week of May 11. The Division II season is currently underway.

The Cohasset girls' softball league wishes to acknowledge the generosity of all the sponsors for their support of this program, without their help league expansion would not have been possible.

The league also wishes to thank the coaches who have volunteered their time to help provide instruction and leadership to their teams.

The following is a list of coaches and sponsors of Division I and Division II teams: Team I: Priscilla Sullivan, Steve Sullivan, Mike O'Connell; Sponsor - Christi's Market. Team 2: Peter Collins, Charles Smith; Sponsor - Refrigerated Food Express. Team 3: Dennis Dooley, Michael Dinsmore; Sponsors - M.D. Imaging, Magner Construction. Team 4: Jack Brister, Tom Cook; Sponsor - Suburban. Team 5: Ed Connolly, Peter Goedecke; Sponsor - MacNamara Financial Services. Team 6: Bob Beggan, Connie Afshar; Sponsor - Cornerstone Executive Suites.

Division II, Team I: Dan Cellucci, Bill Colwill, Mike Ward; Sponsors - Bridge-Wey Tailors, Cohasset Community Center. Team 2: Georgine Butman, Lisa Smith; Sponsors - Hingham Car Wash, Kinesis Computing. Team 3: Paula Knowles, Scott Fitzsimmons; Sponsor - Cohasset Police Association.

Henry's header wins game vs Hanover

By Joan Kovach
Special to the Mariner

Eric Henry headed in the game winner when Boys 14-1 met Hanover and ran their record to 3-1 with the win. Ken Leahy followed with his first goal of the season for a sunny shutout on Saturday. Matt Rossi and Tom Kittle led this team's incredible defense which has allowed only two goals in four games.

The 3-1 winning score in the Kingston match played by 12-1 Boys does not reflect the total dominance by this vacation-rested squad. Goals by Greg Bilton and Justin Golden followed the initial marker by Matt Lewis who notched his first career score. Derek Bugley also should be credited with a goal that was discounted. Setting up the goals with brilliant passing were assisters Bilton, Morgan Sandell, Bugley and Nate Cotter (2). Scoring chances resulted from relentless forward pressure by hustling halfbacks Michael Baird and Andrew Ross and from the team's faultless fullbacks Leigh Atherton, Brian Walsh and John Kasameyer who refused to let the ball out of the opponents end of the field.

Meanwhile 12-2 faced a well drilled and talented Marshfield team whose excellent dribbling skills and passing abilities posed a serious challenge. Jimmy O'Sullivan and a shining Nick Herzog made some nice midfield plays while Justine Maitlin played valiantly up front. Despite the consistent pressure, Dave Banks, James Drybanski and Pat Leahy showed a lot of heart and never gave up on defense. Final score 0-7.

Boys 10-1 gave a spirited effort by forwards Greg Donovan and Joshua Durant in a game against a highly skilled Norwell team last week, but the blue and whites were unable to convert their scoring chances into goals. Chris Golden was outstanding in keeping the ball clear of his territory with good help from the halfback position in the persons of Jeff Schneider and Geoff McWilliams. This week, this team came out from the rain for a sunny 60 degree day game. Lively play at wings by Donovan and McWilliams against a stingy Duxbury backfield resulted in several scoring opportunities but no goals. Anchored by John Cotter in goal for Cohasset, the quality quartet of Evan Cutler, Ronan Buick, Marc Verrochi and Mario Bruzzone combined to thwart a high powered Duxbury attack by consistently controlling and clearing the ball to produce the year's first shutout for this team.

The 10-2 team also played in last week's dreadful weather when they met Scituate, and both teams braved wind, rain and cold for a high spirited, low scoring game. After Scituate lucked out with a roll in goal, Cohasset came back and broke through the strong defense. A Liam O'Donnell (halfback) Evan Murphy (forward) combined effort nearly had the tying goal but for an offside call. Jake Nohe assisted in numerous further attacks on the well guarded Scituate goal, while goalies Ben Peterson and Wiley Wakeman protected Cohasset. The defense work of Jay Rasmussen was outstanding.

A correction is in order for the boys 8-1 - 8-3 match last week. Eight-1 had four goals, two by Greg O'Connell's slashing attack with scoring rounded out by Jimmy French and Evan Pestone. In that game, the kindergarten quartet of Paul Cotter, Robbie Carpenter, Jeff Barrett and Philip Strazzulla showed spunk with selfless passing and hustle. Jake Morgan debuted in goal for a solid performance after some earlier help with the offensive attack.

This week 8-1 and 8-5 played an exciting shoot out between two offensively minded squads. O'Connell, Pestone and Morgan all tallied for 8-1 while rookie goaltenders Cotter and Carpenter turned back multiple scoring chances by Kahn's Kickers who took the game 6-4.

Girls' game reports next week.

Sailors breeze through championship regatta

Sunday, May 3, at the Coast Guard Academy on the Thames River in New London, Connecticut; the Cohasset High School Sailing Team outsailed all the other public high schools in the New England High School Championship Regatta. Overall, Cohasset finished eighth out of 21 New England schools participating on this blowy, but sunny warm day.

Congratulations to skippers Captain John Murphy, Joe Menis, and Tim Herzog; and crews Kikki Peterson and Chloe Chittick.

Earlier, on Wednesday, the Skippers sailed to an easy win over landlocked Lincoln-Sudbury with Captain John Murphy and Chloe Cittick taking two bullets and Chuck Shields, Dave Nothnagle, and Chip Kennedy adding to the win. Dave also sailed to win by a large margin in the practice race.

The previous Saturday, on another howling, but cold day, Cohasset scrimmaged Tabor Academy. Joe Menis was Cohasset's champ here as he smoked around the course in the upper reaches of Marion's Sippican Harbor and placed in the top half in all four races. John Kinchla and Dave Christoffel did yeoman duty crewing on this difficult day.

Health Care Proxy Discussion May 1, 1 p.m.

The Health Care Proxy Law gives each of us a way to make sure that our values and wishes regarding medical care will be honored if we lose the ability to decide for ourselves. This is especially important today when advances in medical technology can keep our bodies alive long after our minds have ceased to function.

Wednesday, May 13, at 1 p.m., at the Cohasset Council on Aging Office, the SHINE Program will host Attorney Dorothy Lang from Weymouth as part of Elder Law Week. Attorney Lang will discuss the Health Care Proxy Law that was passed in 1990.

Coffee and Dessert will be served and Health Care Proxy Forms will be available to all those present.

Policies affecting older drivers

Jacqueline Anapolle, the Registry of Motor Vehicles' Director of Elder Affairs, was one of the keynote speakers at the National Conference on Highway Safety Priorities held in Denver, Colorado. Her topic, "Review of State Policies Affecting Older Drivers," outlined some of the auto licensing practices of all 50 states as well as the Canadian provinces in regard to older, physically and mentally-impaired drivers.

Other highlights of Anapolle's address: the need for state policies that ensure prolonged driving privileges without compromising safety. She also pointed out the special needs of the aging driving population to the importance of establishing licensing operations which identify, diagnose and take remedial actions for the deficiencies of experienced drivers. By the year 2020, 50 million older persons will be eligible to drive with almost half over the age of 75.

Massachusetts was used as an example of the increase of drivers 60 years and older. Anapolle stated the number of drivers over 60 years has nearly doubled. Drivers 75 years and over have more than tripled, increasing from 59,000 in 1970 to 187,000 in 1990. She also pointed out driving the same time frame, the 16-to-24-age group has experienced almost a 30 percent decline in growth rate.

Anapolle concluded her well-accepted speech stating, "As states move to address the special needs of the aging driving population, they must take great care to establish procedures which protect elders' ability to drive safely as well as enhance their individual mobility."

The Cohasset Republican Town Committee invites everyone to a lasagna supper Thursday evening, May 21, at St. Stephen's Church Hall. Festivities begin at 6:30 p.m.

Guest speaker Gloria Largon, a dynamic speaker, is the Secretary of Consumer Affairs and Business Regulation and a frequent guest on WBZ.

Representative Peter Forman, the other guest speaker, is the House Minority Leader. He is the youngest Massachusetts Floor Leader of either party.

This dinner is open to the public by reservation. To reserve tickets, call Pat Buckley at 383-0304, Grace Tuckerman at 383-0769 or Judy Volungis at 383-0752.

Please make checks payable to the Republican Town Committee. Tickets are $10 per person.

Yard sale, May 9

The Carriage House School is holding its Fifth Annual Yard Sale Saturday, May 9, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. The sale takes place at the Parish House, 23 North Main St.

There will be the usual selection of children's furnishings, clothing and toys. As in past years, there will also be lots of used furniture, small appliances, records, books, jewelry and yard sale treasures.

Come early for the best selection.

1st Parish silent auction

First Parish Church will be holding a Silent Auction, Saturday, May 9, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the front lawn of the Parish House.

Items will include an Apple IIC computer with a printer, a hospital bed, a ping pong table, an antique oak treadle sewing machine, a gas generator and other valuables. This event will be moved indoors if it should rain.

Do your Mother's Day shopping this Saturday at the Parish House on the Cohasset Common, and visit the Carriage House Yard Sale and the First Parish Silent Auction.

Genealogy seminar

The Cohasset Historical Society will present a one-day genealogy seminar Saturday, June 6, at the Unitarian Parish House hall, 23 North Main St., Cohasset. The day-long program will be conducted by William H. Schoeffler, Director of Education for the New England Historic Genealogical Society. An expert on the subject, Schoeffler is also a Trustee and former President of the Association of Professional Genealogists and a Director of the Federation of Genealogical Societies.

Participants in the seminar will learn how to get started in genealogy, what sources are available for genealogical research, in New England and elsewhere, and what to look for in deeds and probate records, for example. The approaches Schoeffler will describe are applicable to genealogical research in all areas of the U.S. and abroad .

The seminar will consist of two hour-long lectures in the morning and one in the afternoon. A mid-morning coffee break and luncheon recess will offer plenty of time for informal questions and discussions with the speaker and for comparing notes with fellow participants.

Registration fee for the seminar is $25 for Cohasset Historical Society members and $30 for non-members. (The $5 differential will be applicable to first-year membership dues for those who join the Society). The registration fee covers tuition and refreshments, including luncheon beverages and dessert. (Participants may bring their own light lunches for the mid-day break.)

Enrollment in the seminar will be limited, and registration now is open. Society members and others interested are encouraged to send reservations to the Cohasset Historical Society, 14 Summer St., Cohasset, 02025. Reservation will be confirmed by receipt of the registration fee. The Historical Society's telephone number is (617) 383-6930.

Yard sale postponed

The Cohasset Historical Society's spring yard sale, originally scheduled for Saturday, May 16, has been postponed indefinitely. Further information will be provided when the event is rescheduled.

Five-mile bike ride

The South Shore Bicycle Club is hosting a five-mile family bike ride, "Just for Kids & Parents." On Saturday, May 9 at 9 a.m. the special bike ride is scheduled to start at Wompatuck State Park in Hingham. The club is asking families who usually do not bike to get the rusty bikes out and join them.

The ride is being organized by Brian Long, a member of the club's board of directors. Brian is encouraging everyone to bring a picnic lunch and enjoy the beautiful picnic areas at the park.

For more about the ride call Brian Long at 545-2398.

Vol. XIV, No.32 | Thursday, May 14, 1992 | 1-800-649-6661 | 50 cents

Welcome to my home

Caroline Brokamp, 5, looks over one of the dollhouses that will be on display this Saturday during the Cohasset Community Center's Dollhouse tour. This year the Dollhouse Tour will be a walking tour of the Cohasset Common. The miniature houses will be situated in historic homes around the Common and at the two Community Center locations. Tickets are $5 and are available at the Community Center through Saturday. (Staff photo/John Stobierski)

Override for $377K tops May 16 ballot

If absentee ballots are a gauge then the turnout will be light for the five-ballot question override election Saturday, says Town Clerk Marion Douglas.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Both town precincts vote at the town hall auditorium.

Douglas said Monday the number of absentee ballots taken out so far is low.

She predicts a turnout of 35-to-40 percent.

- If passed , Question No. 1, which asks voters to allow the town to assess an additional $377,416 in real estate and property taxes for operating expenses, will add about $130 a year to the property tax bill of a home valued at $300,000.
- Question 2 asks for a Prop. 2-1/2 override of $15,000 to pay for a hazardous waste collection day. Both Questions 1 and 2, if passed, will be permanent tax increases.
- Question 3 — a capital outlay exclusion — asks for $9,000 to purchase a hydraulic sand spreader and would raise taxes for only one year.
- Questions 4 and 5 are debt exclusions. Question 4 asks voters to exempt the amount required to pay the

The dilapidated Doane St. bridge is falling down

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

For years Tony Finegan stood on an environmental soap box all alone.

Now he's joined by fellow abutter Ronnie McMorris in crying out loudly and clearly that the bridge is falling down.

It's not London bridge either – but one a lot closer to home.

The dilapidated Doane Street bridge is a wreck. And although it doesn't see a lot of traffic — it gets the odd oil tank truck and septage hauler visiting one of 23 families on its far side.

Ambulance billing backlog is $150K

Fire Chief John Nadeau updated selectmen Monday about an expensive headache.

The town is owed more than $150,000 in back ambulance bills for 1991 and prior years, he said.

Nadeau suggested the town hire a temporary clerk to help out with the backlog, which he describes as "labor intensive."

"The return on investment could be significant," he said.

Selectmen decided to table discussion on hiring a

Seniors citizens cook up gourmet delights

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

"Sometimes too many cooks don't spoil the pot," says Anna Abbruzzese enthusiastically.

And Anna knows what she's talking about

As the instructor for the gourmet cooking class through the Council on Aging — she's anything but chief cook and bottle washer.

"You no sooner put a dirty spoon down and it gets washed," she says.

Monday, the group of about 14 seniors citizens held their end-of-the-year banquet. Although they get together twice a month and cook up a feast – the May event is a special gastronomic celebration before the class breaks up for the summer months.

"We make the favorite things we've done throughout the year," Anna notes.

And although Anna watches the calories and cholesterol by toning down the recipes a bit — the group doesn't let being health-conscious get in the way of enjoyment.

Monday's menu consisted of Nantucket Scallop puffs for starters; an entrée of onion lasagne, shrimp scampi, and asparagus with goat cheese and ham; and a spectacular dessert of Strawberry Tiramusu, made with light cream cheese, powdered sugar, marsala wine, and sour cream.

Anna describes the group as "very adventurous."

"They'll try anything," she says.

They've cooked recipes with mussels; and fennel and endive are some of the more unusual vegetables that have topped their table.

Cohasset's week

Reassessment starts

Assessors announced that for the next two to three weeks, beginning May 6, a revaluation of all personal property is taking place. The firm, Appraisal Consultants of New England, has been hired to conduct the triennial reassessment of taxable commercial, industrial and personal property in town.

The appraiser is carrying with him a letter of introduction from the assessors and his name is also on file with the Cohasset Police Department. Assessors are asking residents to co-operate in this effort.

Unsafe parking at Osgood

Selectmen have not made a final decision on what to do about the parking situation in front of the Osgood School.

They said they want more input from the police, fire and school departments first.

Selectmen Michael H. Sullivan and Rocco F. Laugelle said they favor installing curbs at the black-top walkways to keep people from driving up.

The school department suggested that parking on the walkways be prohibited from 8 to 10 a.m., and from 2 to 4 p.m.

But Laugelle said that would not solve the problem.

"The idea is to have no driving up there," he said.

The parking situation was brought to the board's attention last month, when Safety Officer Clifton B. Jones notified selectmen about the unsafe conditions.

In a letter to the board, Jones said numerous officers had reported to him of a "potentially unsafe situation" at the school. He said the problem is exacerbated when vehicles try to back up out the exit the walkways.

Sullivan said there is plenty of parking to the rear of the school.

"It's a dangerous spot. There's plenty of parking in back. It's not wise to allow parking there (on walkways) at all," he said.

Public phone at Barnes

Barnes Field will soon have a public pay phone, according to Paul Laugelle of Cohasset Little League.

At their Monday board meeting, selectmen approved the contract to have the phone installed.

Laugelle said the telephone company would be responsible for maintaining the pay phone, which will be placed on a small pedestal in a location that would be accessible to the handicapped. Installation and maintenance would be at no cost to the town, he said.

No vote of support

Selectmen did not vote to recommend passage of the special town meeting article that would make it impossible for an elected official with an unexpired term on one board to run for another elected position without resigning from his or her current post first.

Selectman Michael H. Sullivan said he didn't think a by-law change should come before the town in a special town meeting.

He described the impetus behind the article as "a reactive situation." When the board voted to include the article in the warrant last week, Sullivan abstained. Sullivan recently ran for selectman while he held an unexpired term on the board of health.

Selectman Merle Brown said he would like the vote on recommending the article to wait until the full board is present. Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke was unable to attend the meeting Monday because she was out of town.

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle said the wait was unnecessary.

"Three is a majority to vote on things," he said.

Brown moved that the board recommend the article. The motion failed due to lack of a second.

Recycling bins okay'ed

Newfangled, compartmentalized recycling bins may soon be on site at the Sandy Beach parking lot and Government Island.

The town has some money left from a municipal grant award from the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) which it hopes to spend for the bins, which cost about $1,400 each.

In a letter to selectmen, the DEP said there is about $4,300 left in the town's grant account of an original $7,900. The grant was awarded for the development of a municipal leaf composting facility in the spring of 1989.

Since all invoices from the Board of Health have been submitted, the DEP recommends the grant agreement be terminated by the end of FY'92, which is June 30.

Executive Secretary Greg Doyon suggested the town petition the DEP to use the remaining grant award for recycling bins to be placed at Sandy Beach and Government Island. He said he discussed the matter with the health agent and tree and park superintendent.

The bins would be emptied by the tree and park department and the contents will be brought to the transfer station, Doyon said.

Although selectmen decided to give the bins a try, they don't give the bins' placement much chance for success.

"I don't think they're going to last. They'll be better up at the transfer station," Selectman Merle Brown said.

"At Sandy Beach, there will be one hell of a mess," Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle warned.

Selectmen asked Doyon to run the idea by the recycling committee.

Legal fees, hot topic

Fees for special town counsel have edged their way upward, selectmen said Monday.

As a result, they will ask special town counsels to bill the town at a public-service rate.

Most special town counsels are billing the town in the range of $185 to $200 an hour, Executive Secretary Greg Doyon said.

Henderson, who charges the town at a public-service client rate of $75 an hour for his services, noted that the current special town counsel rates "are not outrageous for a Boston law firm."

Doyon said the town special labor counsels are billing the town at the public service rate of $75 to $100 an hour.

Absentee ballots ready

Absentee ballots are now available at the Town Clerk's office for the Town Election on Saturday, May 16. You may apply for an absentee ballot if you will be out of town, have a physical disability or because of religious beliefs.

Absentee voting may be done in the office of the town clerk during regular business hours until noon on May 15. A written signed request for a ballot may be sent to the town clerk and one will be mailed out.

Included on the application should be your name as registered, your registration address, precinct, the address to which you wish the ballot sent and your signature. Applications may also be picked up at the office.

It's Lyme time

It is that time of the year when Lyme disease is a concern once again. The disease is caused by a spirochetal bacteria—a tick—which feeds primarily from May to July, and is about as large as the period at the end of this sentence. If detected early and treated with antibiotics, it may be cured. Diagnosis is made through a clinical evaluation and a blood test.

An early symptom of Lyme is a red rash at the site of the tick bite. As the rash expands, it develops a bright red outer border with a clear center. Fatigue, fever, headaches, and a stiff neck can set in, and may last for several weeks. One or more years after onset, the joints, nervous system or heart may become chronically involved.

To prevent tick bites, use insect repellant and wear protective clothing—long pants tucked into high socks and long-sleeved shirts—in the woods, marshy areas, high grass and brush. Don't forget to check the skin for ticks after being in infested areas.

Next year, Anna says they'll try a squid recipe.

Men get as much out of the class — which is split about 50/50 between the sexes — as the women.

The class meets at the St. Stephen's Church Hall where the Rev. E. Clifford Cutler is a regular guest.

Anna does the shopping and compiles the recipes. The group arrives early and that's when all the chopping and mincing begins.

A natural for the job — Anna says she's always enjoyed cooking.

"I just like food, I like playing with food," she says.

Member, Louis Sineone says the secret of the class's success is instant gratification.

"We meet at 9:30 a.m., everybody pitches in and we get an immediate reward," he notes about the real fun — eating.

But Louis adds the biggest plus isn't necessarily the food.

"You meet new people eating together — and that's how you get to know people," he says.

Bridge falling

Abutters keep their collective fingers crossed as the trucks vibrate the bridge's shaky foundation.

Finegan hopes that the neighborhood and the town don't run out of luck before the bridge gets fixed.

"It's an accident waiting to happen," he notes. "If a car or truck goes off the bridge — think what it would cost to clean it up."

And Finegan isn't just concerned about his neighborhood.

Tony Finegan stands by the metal plate that was installed on the surface of the bridge as a stop-gap measure. The plate has now sunk a few inches below the level of the asphalt.

A view of the deterioration of the Doane Street bridge that crosses the Aaron River, which flows from the town reservoir to Lily Pond. (Staff photos/Mary Ford)

The Aaron River flows from the town reservoir under the bridge and eventually to Lily Pond, the town's water supply.

The project — in the works for a decade — is caught in a Catch 22 situation.

According to Executive Secretary Greg Doyon, the town paid about $25,000 for the design of the Doane Street bridge and the one on Beechwood, which crosses Bound Brook.

"The design included getting all the permits from the conservation commission," Doyon explained. He recalled that the conservation hearings on the project were completed in late 1988 when the state fiscal crisis began — effectively halting roadway improvements.

Now some money at the state level has shaken loose for projects like bridges — but the town must ante up first.

"Essentially, we hope to construct this year. We've been advised by the state that money is available," Doyon said.

He said the town is waiting for a "force-account agreement" from the state, which its been promised. Once that is received, the town can put the project out to bid.

In a force-account agreement, the town must pay for the work and then file for reimbursement from the state.

An article to authorize borrowing the estimated $175,000 needed to reconstruct the bridge was indefinitely postponed at the May town meeting because of concerns over reimbursement due to lack of data from the state.

But the article will appear again on the June 1 special

Advisory board proposes budgetary cuts

The April 4 town meeting approved a budget of $13.3 million that is $377,416 out of balance.

In other words, without an Prop. 2-1/2 override to make up for the shortfall, the town will have to whack that amount off budgets approved at town meeting last month.

The advisory committee recommends the following budgetary changes should the override for general operating expenses fail Saturday:

- $167,000 cut from the schools.
- $60,000 cut from the transfer station ($40,000 from a possible overestimate of the tipping fee and $20,000 for testing required by the state for capping the landfill to be deferred to next year).
- $5,000 cut from the treasurer's office for computer software.
- $20,000 debt service (estimated savings in short-term borrowing with new quarterly tax billing system).
- $25,000 cut from police overtime and eliminates purchase of one of three new cruisers.
- $7,000 cut from fire overtime (board hopes new call force will cut need to call back career firefighters who are off shift).
- $49,000 cut from wire department (cut of 1-1/2 employees).
- $30,000 cut from selectmen's budget.
- $30,000 in cuts from the following budgets: COA, $3,000; Tree and Park $3,000; Highway; $2,000, Harbor; $2,500, Town Clerk; $3,000, Recreation; $18,600, water dept. (for water clerk position which is currently unfilled).
- $20,000 addition to the reserve fund (to bring reserve fund up to $100,000 to cover for emergencies if there should be a storm for example and the town has to pay overtime).

Ambulance billing . . .

clerk until after the override election.

But Executive Secretary Greg Doyon suggested the board consider hiring an outside service on a percentage basis.

"That may be one way of attacking it," he said.

Nadeau said current ambulance billing is under control. He said all ambulance calls dating back to January 1 have been entered on the fire department's new computer system and are billed on 30-day intervals. He noted that department has billed about $28,000 since Jan. 1.

"Clearly it (backlog) will require a lot more work, a lot more follow up," he said.

Nadeau also suggested that if bills aren't paid after 120 days, the town hire a collection agency or go to small claims court.

He also asked the board to develop a written policy clarifying ambulance billing issues such as what to do about employees and their immediate families; multiple transport billing policy (when there are two people in an ambulance); assignment policy regarding Medicare/Medicaid and Workers' Compensation; and directives concerning write offs if any.

Nadeau said the average ambulance bill is $200 and the fire department makes about 500 ambulance runs a year.

bond issue for the final phase of repairs to walls and windows at the junior/senior high school; and flooring at the Osgood School. And Question 5 asks the town to exempt from Prop. 2-1/2 the amount to repay a bond issue for the purpose of purchasing and equipping an ambulance. Debt exclusions, which raise funds for debt service costs, are not permanent tax increases and go away at the end of the term of debt.

Absentee voting may be done at the town clerk's office during regular business hours until noon, Friday May 15.

town meeting warrant and Doyon says there is hope for optimism.

"But we need the agreement in hand before we can advertise the project," he says.

The other glitch is timing.

In an order of conditions placed on the project, the conservation commission requires that the work only be done during July and August — when the river is at its lowest point.

Selectman Merle Brown who sat on the conservation commission during the Doane Street bridge hearings, has seen the bridge's problems from the inside out by taking a canoe through.

"It's rotted out," Brown says.

He explained that hay bales would be placed around the construction area so no gravel would get into the river. Also, protective booms would be placed down stream to guard against any spills, he said.

Finegan is cautiously hopeful that the job will be done soon.

"I was 59 when I started this," he says. "I'll be 70 this year and I'd like to see it done in my lifetime."

❑ We salute Elizabeth Martin, an exemplary teacher from the Halifax Elementary, Silver Lake, for being accepted as a Geography Fellow to the Massachusetts Academy for teachers. Elizabeth is one of 125 outstanding K-12 public and private school educators chosen to participate in the Academy. The Academy is focusing on the renewal and enhancement of teachers' knowledge of five core academic disciplines (English, Math, History, Science, and Geography), and leadership skills.

Martin, in collaboration with other Academy Fellows, is participating in eight Saturday Symposia and a two-week Summer Institute. Through this experience, the teachers will improve and update their instruction and curriculum, develop leadership skills, and collaborate with both schools and university colleges. The academy is an unique partnership of public and private institutes, and Elizabeth is certainly fortunate to be part of this program.

❑ Had a great note from Andrea (Murphy) Powning, whose Mom lives in Cohasset and who came back for a recent visit to her hometown, and can readily reminisce on all of the great things here. Andrea lives in Boston now, and she still teaches at Derby Academy. She reports that things are great with her and her family, and we hope that they continue to be so. Perhaps she will be part of the 1962 CHS reunion. Bill is looking for all classmates.

❑ We welcome Jennifer Elizabeth Curley, brand new daughter of Lillian (Murray) and Jim Curley. Jennifer came into our world April 24, at 11:22 and weighed 6 lbs., 14 ozs. She was measured at 19 1/2 inches long with a full head of hair and blue eyes like her grandmother, Mary Jeannette Murray. Naturally, grandparents Anne and Ben Curley and Mary Jeannette are thrilled — they even prepared the dog Sam by giving him a blanket with Jennifer's scent on it. Lillian and Jim are busy, happy parents, and Lillian reports she is a Perry Mason fan again.

Corinna Noering prepares for the side horse routine; Corey Sullivan is next during gymnastics lessons at the Cohasset Community Center. Stay tuned every week for the Mariner for lots of Community Center news.

❑ Great news on the Cohasset homefront this week, an extremely special baby has been born!! Her name is Jennifer Elizabeth Curley (to be known as Jennie). Jennie is the daughter of Lillian (Murray) and Jim Curley, the granddaughter of Ben and Anne Curley and Mary Jeanette Murray. Jennie weighed in at 6 pounds 14 ounces and was 19 1/2 inches long, with eyes just like her grandmother Murray!!

Anyone who has seen those eyes knows what we mean, they have swayed more than a few votes in our statehouse, they are awesome!! Jennie even has the family dog Sam falling all over her. Jim and Lillian were smart enough to bring a blanket to the hospital so he could get used to her scent. No jealousy there folks! By the way, Jennie already weighs eight pounds, so you know she is being treated like royalty.

Health and happiness to you all!

❑ Lots of people are buzzing around town about the departure of Judy Volungis from the Community Center, we will all miss her is the common sigh!! You will be missed Judy, best of luck to you in whatever you choose to do.

❑ We congratulate Scott Littlejohn for all of his hard work at North Adams State College. Scott is a junior business administration major and has been chosen as one of 18 students to assist with the 1992 Orientation Program at the College. He was chosen for his commitment to North Adams State College and his being involved in a variety of campus activities, as well as maintaining the academic excellence that is expected of students, and exhibits leadership skills. The incoming class, which will have its orientation in June, is lucky to have Scott as part of the "cast", and we are proud of you. Scott is the son of George Littlejohn Jr. of our fair town and Sandra Littlejohn of Marshfield.

❑ Congratulations to Robert V. Davenport on his appointment to the Board of Health, we all wish him well in his new post and know that he will do a great job!!

Ryan is a freshman at Cohasset High School, and his name should be in lights! If not now, we are sure it will be!!

❑ There was a very special May Day basket delivery to my house on that special day, and I would like to thank her as well as applaud her for her hard work on the basket itself. Jean Salvador makes several stops with these great baskets and we were thrilled and honored to be on the list...how lucky to live in a town with such special, caring people...

❑ Everyone is waiting...for pear trees that were purchased with the money donated from the producers of the movie "Housesitter". South Main Street and Depot Court will be even prettier than ever!

❑ We hear that Penny (Paton) Cox and her brand new husband William Cox are so happily married that they don't know what has come over them...may it always be that way and may you have a life full of happiness and love.

❑ That's the news from here for the week, we (I) sure hope you will let me in on yours so that we can share it with all of your friends and neighbors and Cohassetites!!

Seeing red

Does it hurt enough?

Does the list of cuts recommended by the advisory committee pinch enough to convince Cohasset citizens to support a Prop. 2-1/2 override?

The list this year isn't very glamorous. The town isn't talking about closing the library, like Marshfield is, or shutting down a school.

It's difficult to grasp the long list of figures released by the advisory committee and school department.

After a while, all the numbers become a blur.

But there is something we all need to think about.

The people behind those figures, who sit on elected or appointed boards, are our friends and neighbors. They are not out-of-touch bureaucrats. They are Cohasset taxpayers too.

And we think they care about this town — a lot. Why else would they spend night after night and hour after hour on matters that affect the community?

Before we vote Saturday, we all need to ask ourselves:

• Are we paying too much of our hard-earned dollars in town taxes and fees?

• Have services such as police, fire, and education been cut to the point where public safety and our children's future is threatened?

• How much are we willing to pay for the services we want?

• And will the cuts we make now, cost us more in the long run?

If we have kids in school, we want reasonable student-teacher ratios; we want computers; and we want our kids to ride the school bus.

If our house is on fire, we want the fire department to come as quickly as possible. And if one of our loved ones becomes ill, we want an efficient ambulance service.

If our store is vandalized or an armed gunman comes into our place of employment, we want a quick response from the police. It makes us feel safe.

We want trash service, good roads, and a clean beach. And after a snowstorm, we want our street plowed.

In short, when we want services — whether its a library with sensible hours or helpful folk at town hall. We want the services and we don't always think about the cost.

We don't think your town has come before you with a frivolous wish list.

And if Question 1 fails Saturday, the sun will come up on Sunday. Cohasset will still be a lovely little town.

So it's up to you. Your advisors, who have spent many an hour going over every line item in a $13.3 million budget, say the town needs $377,000 more to maintain the status quo.

Think about what you have and what you want. Your vote Saturday is anything but frivolous.

The decision whether or not to raise your taxes reamins a personal choice. How you vote and why is up to you.

Doane Street

The Doane Street bridge is a perfect example of cutting costs and not saving money. If the bridge were fixed years ago — it would be costing the state (and therefore us) a lot less than the $175,000 price tag.

But our state hit the red budgetary brick wall in 1988 and projects like the Doane Street bridge were put on hold.

There's room for optimism now that the project could be completed this summer.

The glitch is the town must pay first and submit the bills to the state for reimbursement. At this point, we think it's time to take a chance on the state again and go forward.

As abutter Tony Finegan says, the bridge is an accident waiting to happen.

So let's get it fixed now before it costs us even more.

There are two sides to the override

letters

To the Editor:

Recent letters published in the Mariner are mostly supportive of the general override question to be put to Cohasset voters on May 16. It should not be inferred that such support is universal. Indeed, while the advisory committee recommended the '93 budget to town meeting, the passage of which results in the need for an override question, it should not be assumed that the committee is unanimous in its views on the override question itself.

The method used to construct the town budget, a plan for spending, is to aggregate the requests of separate departments, with only minor changes. No overall budget, or financial planning, goal is imposed. One might call this a "bottom-up" approach. Almost by definition this approach yields an ever growing budget. Coupled with decreasing revenues, especially those from state aid, it results in the adoption of a budget by Town Meeting which is beyond the town's ability to fund within the confines of Proposition 2 1/2. (Cohasset voters supported Proposition 2 1/2.) In times of fiscal austerity some constraints should be imposed.

Passage of the general override question will permit the adoption of the budget approved by Town Meeting. This is an adequate budget. In my view it is not fair to say that it is an absolutely essential budget. It can be adjusted downward to a level necessary should the question fail without endangering health, public safety, education, or even 'quality of life.'

Peter O'Connor, P.E.
Member, Cohasset Advisory Committee

Senior citizens rely on services

To the Editor:

In response to the many inquiries from senior citizens about how the override of May 16 will affect them, the following is submitted:

Seniors rely heavily on good town services. Seniors are frequent users of police, fire, particularly ambulance services, library and town hall facilities at convenient hours. From our schools, we benefit from services provided by the high school to our "Services for Seniors" program, the meals program, and entertainment provided by the Joseph Osgood School.

The existence of good educational programs adds considerable value to our property.

More directly, the curtailment of programs and services provided by the Senior Center, which will accompany a defeat of the override, will effect senior citizens adversely.

We urge all senior citizens to vote on May 16 and consider the importance of continuing existing programs and services at the present level.

T. Gerard Keating, Chairman
Council on Aging

The town needs a new sander

(Editor's note: The followtng letter was sent to selectmen.)

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen:

This letter will attempt to explain why the Highway Department needs a new sand and salt spreader.

For many years my department operated with two sanders. Numerous complaints were received from residents and school bus drivers that the side streets of the town were not being sanded. We are now using three spreaders and we are able to cover all routes within three-and-one-half to four hours. If it becomes necessary to revert to the use of only two spreaders, it will add one-and-one-half hours to the sanding time required, and on those occasions when a storm occurs after 4 a.m., it will be impossible to spread sand on the main roads in time to have the buses run.

The snow removal budget for my department has remained the same for many years despite the fact that the cost of salt, sand, and labor has greatly increased. If I am forced to go back to the use of only two spreaders, it will be necessary for my employees to work overtime which will result in time-and-one-half labor costs. There is no money in my budget for this extra expense.

The spreader I would like to trade in is at the Highway Department Garage. You are welcome to inspect the condition of this machine. It is badly rusted out and virtually useless.

If the townspeople wish to maintain the same quality of service my department has supplied in the past, a "YES" vote should be cast on the override ballot on May 16, 1992.

Thank you for your attention to this necessary detail.

Harold W. Litchfield
Highway Surveyor

A yes vote is for 'common good'

To the Editor:

I have read with great interest the various letters both for and against the override. Almost all of the letter writers at some point spoke of "maintaining the quality of life" here in Cohasset. With just two days left before voting day, perhaps we should all be thinking of just what that term means.

Certainly quality of life can be defined in terms of material goods and assets. It can also be defined in the spiritual sense. But to me, quality of life derives more from an overall feeling of community, a sense that all townspeople are pulling together towards some common good, some lasting goal.

Our town officials have tightened the purse strings as much as they possibly can. It is time for us to vote with our hearts as a community for Cohasset. Please vote yes on Saturday, May 16.

Maureen Jerz
One Forest Circle

Support for override is urged

To the Editor:

The common wisdom is that part of our national malaise is an unfulfilled need for a sense of community.

We don't need restaurants, our kitchens are equipped for creating sophisticated meals. We don't need police, we have security alarms. We don't need movie theaters or concerts, we have home entertainment centers. We don't need a post office, there's UPS and FAX machines.

Obviously, I'm exaggerating.

We need police and fire for prevention and protection. We crowd into the Log 'n Line for breakfast, attend plays by the Cohasset Drama Club, have coffee at the Village Gourmet. Why? Because we get satisfaction out of feeling that we're a part of something larger than our own households.

This Saturday, May 16, we have a chance to do something for the collective good of our community: Maintain our town services. Show our children that we support their schools and their athletic programs.

Vote yes.

Thanks for beach cleanup help

To the Editor:

I would like to thank all the friends and neighbors who helped clean up Black Rock Beach on Saturday May 9. It was wonderful to work along side such caring people, and to know that I live in a place where efforts like this one can be a success. Approximately 20 men, women and children gave up a Saturday morning to make the beach a more pleasant place for everyone. Mr. Peter Laugelle of the Cohasset Tree and Park Dept. kindly provided a truck to haul away the trash. I invite everyone to take a walk to the beach to see what a good job was done, and to join the next cleanup.

The single most prevalent item found on the beach were plastic tampon applicators; we found hundreds. There are many unnecessary things that will be around for years unless we stop using these products, and let the manufacturers know why. Please help by using products with less packaging and by recycling.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
(House & Senate) EMERGENCY SERVICES (H 5464) - House 143-0, Senate 36-1, overrode Governor Weld's veto of $400,000 for Emergency Medical Service Councils. Supporters of the funding said the money is essential to fund emergency services and communications which save many lives. Opponents offered no arguments. (A "Yea" vote is for the $400,000. A "Nay" vote is against it).	Y	Y
(House & Senate) MEDICAID (H 5464) - House 143-0, Senate 37-0, overrode Governor Weld's veto of a provision prohibiting the state from setting an income cap on eligibility for Medicaid payments for seniors in nursing homes. Supporters said this will stop the administration from prohibiting seniors who have incomes of more than $15,000 annually from being eligible. They pointed out that although the Governor has dropped previously announced plans to set a cap, he still vetoed the section. They urged override to protect thousands of seniors. (A "Yea" vote is against an income cap).	Y	Y
(House) PRIVATE (H 5464) - House 114-34, overrode Governor Weld's veto of a provision requiring the Secretary of Administration and Finance to conduct a study of privatization or closing of any state facilities or functions and to submit the study, including a cost benefit analysis, to the legislature for approval of any such action. Supporters said this simply requires legislative input into the process and insures that any privatization makes fiscal sense. Opponents said this section will hinder privatization and is designed to protect public employee unions by insuring the legislature can block any actions designed to save money. (A "Yea" vote is for requiring legislative approval. A "Nay" vote is against requiring approval).		N
(Senate) ARRESTS (S 1004) - Senate 31-3, refused to table a bill allowing police to arrest a person the officer has followed in "fresh and continued pursuit" across the officer's home city or town line if that person has violated any motor vehicle law. Bill supporters said current law allows the officer to pursue the suspect beyond the line but does not permit the officer to make the arrest in another community. They said the bill does not change any current laws regarding high speed pursuit. Opponents said the bill goes too far and claimed it would increase high speed pursuits and cause increased injuries or deaths. (A "Yea" vote is for tabling the bill. A "Nay" vote is against tabling the bill).	Y
(Senate) SICK LEAVE (H 5264) - Senate 32-2, overrode Governor Weld's veto of a bill establishing a sick leave bank for an individual employee of the Department of Social Services (DSS). The bill allows any DSS employee to contribute one or more of his or her sick, personal or vacation days for use by this employee. Bill supporters said this compassionate measure will allow fellow employees to help this well-liked man who is suffering from a long-term illness. They argued allowing the contribution of sick days is essential because they can be carried over from year to year. Opponents favored the Governor's plan allowing the contribution of only personal or vacation days which the Governor has said worked well in the past. They argued it accomplishes the same humane objectives without additional taxpayer expense. (A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N

School board responds to Roy Fitzsimmons

letters

To the Editor:

Recent editions of the Mariner contained two letters written by F. Roy Fitzsimmons which dealt in part with issues concerning the School Department.

In the first letter which appeared in the March 26th edition, Mr. Fitzsimmons stated that the number of teachers in the school system had increased from 55 to 90 over the past few years. In fact, the number of teachers has declined over a ten-year period. In 1982-83, the number of teachers employed by the system was 101. During the current school year the number of teachers is 88.

In his second letter which appeared May 7, Mr. Fitzsimmons stated accurately that a July 1991 publication of the Department of Education revealed that the average percentage of Massachusetts school budgets spent on administration during 1989-1990 was 4.4%. At that point, however, Mr. Fitzsimmons abandoned the objective data provided by the Department of Education and using questionable statistical methods concluded that the Cohasset Schools expend more than twice the state average for administrative costs.

If Mr. Fitzsimmons had been more thorough in his research, he would have found that, contrary to his claim, the school department in 1989-1990 actually spent less than the state average for administrative costs. The administrative percentage of the Cohasset School budget verified by the Fiscal Year 1990 End of the Year Financial Report was 3.6%. The correct dollar amount for administration including both expenditures by the school committee and expenditures by the town in support of education was approximately $199,000. This amount is less than 35% of the figure quoted by Mr. Fitzsimmons. The larger amount of $580,000 quoted by Mr. Fitzsimmons likely was the result of Mr. Fitzsimmons' including items in his figures that the State Department of Education does not include when it determines administrative costs as a percentage of the total budget.

A review of Fiscal Year 1991 and 1992 school budgets reveals no significant increase in administrative costs. In other words, the cost of administration during the 1991 and 1992 school years continues to be below the state average.

We hope that in the future Mr. Fitzsimmons or anyone else who wishes to gather information about the school department would contact the Superintendent of Schools. Mr. Hart will either provide the information directly or refer the inquiry to the appropriate person or office of the Department of Education for response.

The School Committee agrees with Mr. Fitzsimmons when he requests that elected officials keep an "open mind" when considering new ideas or or proposals concerning Town government. We also believe that improvements will only occur when all parties involved in these discussions commit themselves to providing fair and accurate information about all issues.

The Cohasset School Committee

More money not the answer to fiscal woes

letters

To the Editor:

For the last several weeks we all have been subjected to the convincing rhetoric of the majority of our elected and appointed officials of how the quality of life is going to erode unless we spend more money. Personally, I have a problem with credibility in some of the statements that have been made.

On the part of the schools, we have been given misleading and incorrect figures. In spending in our schools, we rank 104th not 170th in the state. By changing a definition of "teachers" we have been led to believe that there have been massive cuts in our schools. By the town definition of teachers being professional staff, we still have approximately 100 not 88. The fact is that in 1980 we had 147 graduates and 1560 students. By 1990 we had 70 graduates and 1149 students and in 1995 we are still going to have only approximately 70 graduates. Have you noticed a great drop in teacher-student ratio? Have we not maintained an excellent system that offers our children diversity and challenge? Money is not the answer to all of our problems, it also takes commitment, management, cooperation, and a sense of reality about life.

So many of us are on the high-tech bandwagon now. Are machine taught elementary school students our objective or should we get back to the basics of education and life? We seem to be hurrying our children out of their childhood. Computers are useful tools in the correct application, but they are not the be all and end all to produce geniuses in elementary school at the expense of programs in the high school.

On higher levels, we are hopefully all appalled at the figures of drug, alcohol and tobacco use by our seventh-twelfth grade students. Is this what has caused an increase in crime, vandalism and promiscuity among our youth? We could spend more and more money for more and more non-academic counseling programs or we can listen to what the rest of the country is concluding. Don't you think our children deserve positive role models, a sense of stability, morality and self-control in their lives? How else can they learn unless we all take the responsibility of our roles in life be it parent, administrator, teacher, elected official, or neighbor and face up to the sometimes unpleasant realities and decisions of life.

I don't want to say anything more about the fire department except that it left out the position of efficiency expert, which is sorely needed, from its "wish list."

Our advisory board told us how "little" this override will financially affect us. What about the additional cost of the 2.5 percent added every year? For those on limited fixed incomes, who have not received raises or have had salary cutbacks, or have lost their jobs—is 2.5 percent + the approximately 4 percent override negligible to you? Is a 6.5-7 percent tax increase realistic when real inflation is less than 3 percent?

Isn't it about time we demanded accountability and management from our town boards and administrators rather than being dictated to by our employees and driven from our homes by escalating taxes?

chamber chatter

by Paula Knowles

Writing a column for a group or entity, like the Chamber of Commerce, (but under one's own name) can get to be a little tricky at times. Oh, it's pretty easy to keep personal opinion out of print the majority of the time, when the topic is shopping locally, or business or civic happenings.

But three or four times a year I am charged with writing a column on a quasi-political issue, like getting out the vote on election day, or the importance of attending town meeting, or, Ta-Da!! "the override." The first two are not too bad, actually, because trying to rally interest in our democratic process really cannot be considered partisan. But when you get into the issue of overrides, the writing gets a little dicey.

I am just going to give you a few facts or ideas that I have found interesting, surprising, depressing, whatever, and then just ask you to vote on Saturday. Just vote however you see fit. Just please...vote. Don't say "Oh no, not another override," and then just ignore it. VOTE. Cast your ballot. Have your say. Take your fear, gripes, optimism, anger to the polls. Take some action, whatever your opinion.

So here goes:

• Did you know that the first override question is asking for money to fund a budget that is actually only 2.3 percent higher than last year's budget? "Why then" you might ask (as I did) "do we need an override?" State aid is down by 50 percent since 1989. Inflation rose at approximately four percent for the town as well as for us. Surplus funds are used up, gone, finito. Bills for insurance, utilities, phone, car repairs, gasoline, maintenance, etc. come in no matter what. Things wear out and new equipment is needed. Paper, pens, elastics, office supplies, postage, copiers, fax machines — everything costs money, and it is all more expensive now than it was a decade ago.

• The cost to the average household — if every override question were to pass — would average out to less than one half the cost of basic cable service (no premium channels — no Disney, NESN, HBO, etc. — just basic cable). One half!

• If the override is voted down, the cost to a parent having two children playing one sport each or one child playing two sports will be approximately double the per family cost of the override.

• Maybe after more than 10 years of trying to get some boards or town leaders to understand the message being sent by voters turning down one override after another, it is time to take those specific issues and get them on the ballot as binding or non-binding referenda. Maybe we have begun to shoot the messenger instead of finding a better way to send the message.

I don't know the answer myself; but I am going to think about it before I cast my vote Saturday.

CHS girls pursue math

Cohasset High School was one of 19 high schools represented at the seventh annual Sonia Kovalevsky High School Mathematics Day held March 26 at Simmons College in Boston. Teacher Maureen Lalumiere and students Margaret Lee, Kendra D. Gray, Martha Insley, Bonnie Krueger, Nicole Batts and Melinda Johansen were among the participants in the half-day program.

The purpose of the program was to encourage young women to pursue the study of mathematics and related sciences. Students attended workshops, while teachers discussed applications of mathematics and shared teaching strategies. Keynote speaker Dr. Carole Greenes of Boston University discussed Sonia Kovalevsky's life and work.

The Sonia Kovalevsky High School Mathematics Day was sponsored by the Association for Women in Mathematics and the Simmons College Department of Mathematics in honor of Sonia Kovalevsky, who in 1874 was the first woman to receive a Ph.D. in mathematics.

Courtney remembered

About 20 people gathered with rakes, shovels, energy and memories May 3 at the Osgood School Outdoor Classroom to work on landscaping the newly fenced in area.

Friends of Courtney Allen planted climbing roses, lavender and dianthis in memory of Courtney, who was a student in the Osgood School from 1988-1991 and who died last fall in a tragic car and bike accident.

Members of the work crew expressed their sense that the enhancement of the area brought them comfort, and would, they hope, bring some comfort to the Allen family whenever they return to Cohasset for a visit.

The dedication of the area will be Sunday, May 17 at 2 p.m. and everyone is invited.

CHS art notes

Mike Equi has been chosen to attend Art All State in Worcester in June.

Three students from CHS have won Art Awards at the Art Show in Hingham at the Second Parish Church. They are: Cecilia Candia, Faye Menis and John McDonald.

On June 1, there will be a Traditional Woodworking Workshop sponsored by the Arts Boosters club at CHS. Peter Follansbee of Hingham will be demonstrating 17th century woodworking techniques in the art room and the industrial arts shop. The public is invited.

The new CHS literary and arts magazine, Whispers and Shadows will be distributed at the Arts Recognition Night which will be at CHS in the cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. May 21.

Donald Brown takes on the big guys — and wins

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

Donald Brown's friendly grin, suit and tie, and modern, high-tech law offices on East Street in Hanover can be deceiving.

Yet despite the polish, Brown, 47, is a street fighter.

And he doesn't care how big the other guy is.

Banks, big law firms, unscrupulous contractors — it doesn't matter. If Brown or any of his dozen young, hungry lawyers get wind that something isn't right — look out.

"It's so much fun, taking on the big establishment and kicking their ass," he says of Brown and Associates. "This law firm is made up of people who won't be intimidated.

"The most important thing, I teach them, is when a client walks through the door — you've won. It's time to go out and right the wrong."

It was about 18 months ago that a black man walked into the firm's Dorchester offices with a suitcase full of papers.

The rest is history. The firm investigated what happened to John Storms and dozens of others, including some Cohasset homeowners, and brought claims against the lenders.

On a tip from Brown, a series stories about the second-mortgage scam exploded in the Boston Globe last year. The publicity propelled the legislature to pass a bill which now prohibits contractors from acting as brokers for lenders and requires them to register with the state. It also sets up a fund for victims.

Essentially, the scam involved some contractors pressuring homeowners to take out high-interest loans for home improvements. And when the homeowners fell behind, the lender foreclosed in the property.

Brown was recently interviewed for a segment on NBC-TV Nightly News about how pervasive the problem of unscrupulous lending practices really is.

Brown doesn't have anything good to say about politicians, who wouldn't listen until the story finally went public.

"All I did was to tip the press and say 'here's a story to be told.'

"But why did it take them (legislature) so long to regulate thieves? They regulate the hell out of everyone else from hairdressers to doctors."

Sticking up for the little guy is what Brown does best. And he says it's a shame that many law firms today are elitist.

"Twelve other lawyers told John Storms to go out and pound sand. There was no way in hell he was walking out of my office unrepresented," Brown recalls.

He feels strongly that there should be an equal amount of fine legal minds that go out and work for people. Brown and Associates has a large number of "pro-bono" or not paying clients. The firm succeeds because many of those, it has helped, send in friends and relatives.

"We are able to survive because we do so well for people like that. They send in an aunt, brother with an auto accident law suit or divorce.

"If they are happy with Brown and Associates, they return the favor by sending a client to us."

In just 18 months, the firm has attracted 1,000 clients, he says. And although they are "generalists", Brown says, lender liability suits and personal injury comprise 60 percent of the business. Brown and Associates operates three offices, including Hanover.

mariner visits

Attorney Donald Brown (on the left) is being interviewed by Ken Garrett for a recent segment on NBC Nightly News.

The story of Brown's life reads like a fast-paced novel.

Brown has an ivy-league education coupled with a blue-collar background.

At 36 years old an accident left him temporarily wheel-chair bound. He realized then the power of the "establishment," he says. The insurance company treated him badly; he lost his income; his house; his wife and kids, Brown recalls.

He went back to school while undergoing 19 back surgeries.

"I made a list. I wrote Harvard Law School at the top and then wrote down the things I had to do to get there."

He took advantage of a free course at Mount Wachusett Community College where he excelled and won a scholarship to Amherst College. From there it was on to Harvard.

Looking back at how he turned his life around, fighting the big guys seems easy.

"Twelve years ago, I had no money, no education and I couldn't walk," he says.

"I made a list and I made it. Next to that pal, I'm not worried about you," Brown says about taking on the opposition.

"Harvard Law School, that was hard. This was easy, this was fun."

Brown, who is remarried and lives in Hanover, says the key to success is hard work.

"Without a lot of resources, we've done it with energy. We work harder. We work for psychic income. We work for the client rather than the pay check. Our victories are frequent and that keeps everybody motivated."

Brown says the second-mortgage scam that involved John Storms and others is not just an inner city problem.

"It has different nuances, but the same result. People are facing homelessness, foreclosure," he says about the South Shore. Brown says he has two clients in Cohasset who are facing eviction because of unscrupulous lenders.

In addition to lender liability suits, the Hanover office also had clients who are victims of unfair credit practices.

Brown describes the following scenario: a credit card company called a man at work. The man became so upset he was sent home. Brown and Associates not only got the man's debt forgiven but the credit card company had to pay Brown's legal fees.

If you have money problems, then call a lawyer. Brown says.

"People in desperate straights have been taken advantage of by thieves," he says. "Find out what your rights are.

"Don't tolerate it. Don't let people abuse you."

Larvacide may take the bite out of summer

By Andrew MacLellan
Mariner staff

The spring mosquito population is surprisingly small this year, according to Plymouth County Mosquito Control Project assistant superintendent Ray Zucker, but whether the summer will be as quiet is still anybody's guess.

Zucker, a Scituate native, has worked at the Kingston project site since 1967 and probably knows as much about mosquitos on the South Shore as anybody.

However, the small larvae counts aren't easily explained, he said. Some sources have attributed the phenomenon to the cold weather or to a drop in precipitation, but Zucker is not sure that's all there is to it.

Nevertheless, the 10 full-time and four seasonal employees who patrol Cohasset and every community in Plymouth County except Whitman and Bridgewater, aren't developing a false sense of security.

Larvacide spraying with BTI has already begun both by air and on the ground, Zucker said.

BTI (Bacillus thuringiensis) is a naturally occurring bacteria that selectively kills mosquito larvae.

It is dispensed as a pellet, or "briquet," or as a pumped or dropped spray, according to Zucker. There have been "no documented incidents of serious or undesirable side effects on man and the environment," according to Biochem Products, a division of Salsbury Laboratories, Inc. in Delaware.

The Plymouth County Mosquito Project begins ground spraying in March and starts up aerial drops in mid April, Zucker said.

Currently there are no plans to spray any farther north than Middleborough.

Last year, the Project sprayed 266,262 gross acres. This figure factors in areas that were sprayed more than twice.

Cohasset was on the list of the 25 towns sprayed by the Plymouth Mosquito Control Project with 2,144 acres treated.

Aerial spraying is conducted on larvae only. All adulticides are released on the ground.

Although Zucker proudly displayed two new $7,500 electric sprayers, which are infinitely quieter than the old-fashioned truck-mounted gasoline version, spraying is always a last resort.

Standing pools of water are the best invitation to attract mosquitos, Zucker said.

A pool only 10-inches in diameter can hatch 100 larvae, and the warmer the water, the faster the development.

Before a site may be touched, however, it must be observed for at least a year to determine if it is a breeding site.

The state's marshland is crisscrossed by "mosquito ditches" dug during the Depression by WPA workers to flush wetlands. For a while they worked, but after World War II the unattended ditches began to clog and collapse, creating a labyrinth of shallow pools for mosquitoes to breed in.

Ecological 'backfirings' like this have provided valuable lessons for Project employees.

If the area cannot be controlled through digging, a larvacide is used, according to Zucker.

BTI attacks the mosquitoes intestine, destroying the larvae from the inside out.

If adult mosquito populations grow out of control, the project uses resmethrin only between the hours of 4 and 8 a.m., a time when the wind is low, mosquitos are active and few people are out.

So far this year, both larvae and adult counts are down.

But because the Spring brood mosquito represents only one of 20 species of mosquito on the South Shore, it is hard to extrapolate population counts of this early hatcher into a meaningful predictor.

A sudden prolonged rain could change things in a week and other species soon will be crawling from their watery cribs.

The Cedar Swamp mosquito (melanura) is the cause of Eastern Equine Encephalitis. The incurable virus turns in three year cycles and is entering its last year this summer, Zucker said.

In 1990, three people contracted equine encephalitis. Two survived, but an elderly Kingston man died.

Last summer a horse was stricken in Westborough, but there were no recorded instances in Plymouth or Norfolk counties.

The Cedar Swamp mosquito, which is active from July until the end of the season, does not bite humans. Instead it transfers the virus through birds which other, more aggressive mosquitos feed on as well.

The Marsh mosquito, one of the most bothersome species, and the Cattail mosquito both carry the strain and bite humans.

Zucker admitted that the project is sometimes caught between anxious mothers who insist on spraying and environmentalists who condemn it, but the decision to spray for equine encephalitis is up to the state Board of Health which keeps its own series of mosquito traps in Massachusetts.

Even with no outbreaks, mosquito swarms are bothersome enough to keep the Project on its toes all year, spraying in the summer and reclaiming wetlands in the off season.

While there were no reported human cases of equine encephalitis last year, the Project received 6,740 calls, 140 of which were from Cohasset.

Mosquito control help

The Mosquito Control Committee is requesting the assistance of all Cohasset residents in preventing the need to treat mosquitos with pesticides. Mosquitos breed in standing water. Residents are encouraged to survey their properties for sources of standing water such as clogged gutters, old tires, wading pools, and wheelbarrows.

Additionally, if there is a large area of standing water on your property or in your vicinity that cannot be drained, please let the committee know that location. Mosquitos can be treated in their larval stage with environmentally safe methods, eliminating the need for pesticides.

The Mosquito Control Committee can be reached by mail c/o the Cohasset Town Hall.

Maroon Miracle stages soccer nail-biter

The Maroon Miracle's (girls 8-2) 6-4 come-from-behind victory over the Green Machine (girls 8-1) was a nail biter, up for grabs until the final whistle! Goals by Sarah Dennis, Sarah Motley, Anna-Jane Murphy and Nicole Needle (8-2) were countered by Kyle Kennedy and Tara Mangan (8-1). Staunch defense from Holly Dinsmore, Ashley Faber, Libby Meikleham and Emily Simmons backed up the all out goaltending of Abbey Coakley. Leanne MacNeil and Needle against the ever-threatening offensive waves from 8-1's Claire Kreycik, Gillian Simons and Yasmine Afshar. Stand up defensive play by Brenna O'Connell, Elizabeth Nardo and Jeanna Lanata supported a superb effort in goal by Caroline Carr for the greens.

Girls team 10-1 tied Pembroke last week. Midfielders Emily Coyne, Erica Dean and Emily Libby played an aggressive game with Libby scoring and Coyne never giv'ng up, even after repeated injuries. In defense, keepers Jacquelene Kahn and Betsy Anderson played a strong game, thwarting Pembroke's ceaseless attempts and giving up only a single, lucky goal that rebounded off the post. Girls 12-1 played their hearts out last week, and working beautifully as a team tied up a tough Marshfield team. With assistance from the Megans (Connolly and Conley) and Alissa Conley, Alia Afshar scored. Hannah Beggan, Ali Kinchla, Susan Thompson and Sarah Nohe contributed to a super game. In defense, Maggie Goedecke and first time goalie Adrienne Sullivan kept the score low with some terrific help from the Courtney Brown, Katie Devine and Amanda Gontarz.

Coming back this week, this team played their season's best game, getting to within a point of Pembroke for a final 3-2 score. Alissa Conley booted in a big goal over the head of the Pembroke goalie and set the pace for the rest of the game. Hannah Beggan scored o a penalty kick for Cohasset's second goal. Susan Thompson and Megan Conley had outstanding assists. Fierce and aggressive play by Lindy Holway as forward and Kristen Reynolds as goalie showed the gains this team is making in the course of this season.

Meanwhile, the 12-2 team remained unbeaten by tying up their last two opponents. This all fifth grade squad took on a strong Marshfield team heavily dosed with sixth graders last week here at Milikin Field. Incredible saves by goalie Lily Morris, ferocious defense by Sally Hamill and Tara Hettstrom, good midfield management by Jill Magner and Megan Corry, fine offense by the Katies—Walsh and Brister—and an unassisted goal by Brister left Marshfield tied up 1-1.

This week in Hingham, Stefanie Noering and Alyssa McNamara led the scoring with the support of Lydia Crafts and Britt Covell's strong efforts. Susana Candia at midfield and Annie Palone and Karyn Gray defending kept the magic going and lassoed the opponent into a 2-2 final score.

Girls 14-1 played their third game of the season last week and with only a few subs held a predictably tough Plymouth team to three goals. Wonderful dribbling skills executed by Tammy Maitland allowed Catie Campbell to make for Cohasset an unbelievable goal. Jemilah Afshar and Lauren DeVito displayed welcome hidden talents and were outstanding as they interchanged their positions as halfback and fullback.

Danielle Nohe was back last week after an injury, and this week was right there in midfield assisting Katie Ross for a goal, while Campbell helped out with her third unassisted goal of the season in a tough game vs. Scituate, a team held to three goals by the important defensive work of Liz Corcoran and Dawn Meehan.

And all spring, girls 14-2 marches along, victorious last week against a Hingham team 8-0. Kathleen Fitzsimmons had a hat trick, Megan McNamara had two and Elizabeth Mahoney, Andrea Grew and Cara McKenney had one apiece in this display of excellent teamwork, attention to positions, brilliant planning and coordination of play. In defense, Erin Devine, Katie Anderson and Jessie Sandell held their own while midfielders Ashley Brister, McNamara and Alli Ritts contributed to the shutout.

This week in a rematch against a strong and much improved Middleboro team with an excellent goalie, 14-2 held on to their winning reputation.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Philip Murphy, CRS, GRI

THAT BEAUTIFUL LEVERAGE

QUESTION: What is meant by the word "leverage" when used in conjunction with investing in real estate?

ANSWER: Leverage arises because ALL of the income and ALL of the appreciation belongs to the property holder regardless of the amount of the loan. To illustrate, assume a $100,000 property was purchased for only $10,000 cash and a $90,000 mortgage loan. Five years later, the same property is sold for $150,000 (a 50% gain in value). After paying off the $90,000 mortgage, the investor would realize, not a 50% gain, but rather a 500% gain on his initial cash investment because he only invested $10,000 for the property. That's leverage!

CHS Lady Skippers sweep Rockland

By Paula Knowles
Mariner correspondent

Plunging temperatures and gusty winds didn't faze the Lady Skippers as the varsity and JV softball teams delivered the first two strikes, and the girls' tennis team added the third, to sweep Rockland in league competition last week.

Coming off a spectacular win against Hanover Tuesday, the JV softball team put together a steady and solid performance to hold off Rockland 24-24. Having watched his team give up 17 runs in the first inning, Coach Ron Ford decided to try something new. He put first baseman Sarah Berger on the mound, hoping that she could settle her team down and deliver the needed strikes.

"She was phenomenal!" raved Ford. "She shut Rockland down completely and had them handcuffed for the next five innings."

While Rockland could only muster two more runs until the last inning, Cohasset spread 25 runs over six innings, and everyone of Coach Ford's 22-man squad contributed. Fielders came to the rescue, stopping Rockland's last ditch rally just one short of the tie.

While the JV team was performing their magic, the varsity was busy avenging their loss to Rockland in the first half of the season. Paced by the hitting of Jenn Knowles, Cilla Goff and Vicki Maynard, the Skippers belted 18 hits for 23 runs, taking their fourth win in the last five games.

Vicki Maynard had a great game in left field. But her play was almost overshadowed when pitcher Lynda Hague was hit in the wrist by a hard line drive in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Unable to bring in a substitute for Hague due to a combination of strange circumstances, Coach Gill gave the ball to shortstop Becky Golden and put the burden of winning the game squarely on his remaining fielders.

And they didn't let him down. Three outs later Cohasset ran off the field with a 23-13 win.

The girls' tennis team, fueled by eighth grade wonder Laura Slotnick, added the final nail to the coffin, beating Rockland 3-2. Junior Karyn Murray started things off by taking her singles match, followed by first doubles team Kathleen Conroy and Corinna Minnar.

But it was "Slotnick the Younger" (not to be confused with brother Joe, who also won his match Thursday) who finally won the decisive match against Rockland's Karen Smith by a score of 7-5, 6-3, bringing Cohasset's record to an unbelievable 7-3.

Not to be outdone by the triple victories in Rockland, the girls' track team brought home a sizzling victory against Norton. California transplant Faye Menis, also an eighth grader, took first place in the 100, 440, and triple jump, and placed second in the long jump to place the Lady Skippers in their 79 1/3 to 56 2/3 win.

Lacrosse team sails toward tourney

Following solid victories over Waltham and Bedford high schools, the Cohasset varsity lacrosse teams needs two more wins to qualify for its first-ever state tournament.

The Skippers host Waltham on Friday, May 15, and Salem on Wednesday, May 20 in the season finale. "We've already beaten both teams," said Cohasset coach Ken Ekberg, "but we're not taking either for granted."

Both contests begin at 4 p.m. at Milliken Field.

Cohasset, now 7-5 on the season, knocked off Waltham 11-4, and Bedford 10-3 last week. The Skipper offense was led by junior midfielders Willie Adams and Doug Ellinger, who each had three-goal games, and by sophomore attackman Charlie Endris.

Defensively, sophomore goalie Brandon DeVoe continued his outstanding rookie year performance.

"We're in only our second year as a varsity program," said coach Ekberg, "so making the States will be an accomplishment. But we've got a long way to go as a team."

Ekberg pointed to a bright future by noting the junior varsity's 8-2 record. On that team, eighth grader Chris McKenna has already set a school scoring record with 36 goals.

"And he has five games to play," said Ekberg. McKenna also scored three goals in varsity play.

Little league results

By Sharon Weber

Blue Jays fly over Orioles 5 to 3! Blue Jay's pitching foursome, Mario Bruzzone, Ted Lubitz, Chris Golden, and Jordan Fiore combined for an unstoppable four-hitter. The foursome's supporting cast was a spider web of fielding by Nick LaVigne, Jeff Williams, and B.J. Butman.

Nick Pestone's two doubles, Fiore's one double and Jamie Simon's single ignited the offense. Danny Williams and Brian Krupczak capitalized on those hits with some powerful base running.

Prior to their dazzling parade-day victory, Dodgers defeated the Mets April 30. Jimmy O'Sullivan and Robby Moody deadlock the Mets with precision pitching! Moody, Matt Lewis, and Greg Bilton connected with the ball to bring the game home.

The Mets fought back with strong hits from Patrick Leahy and Greg Taylor. Pitching from Taylor and Brian Walsh made it a tough-to-hit game.

It's a sweep!

Cohasset voters say 'yes' to five overrides

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke couldn't stop smiling Monday morning in the town clerk's office.

"Isn't it wonderful," she said about the override sweep. "I feel so good about this town."

Voters said yes to all five ballot questions in Saturday's election and increased their taxes in the process.

Forty-three percent of the towns 4,791 registered voters came out to vote Saturday, Town Clerk Marion Douglas said.

That was nearly three percent more than voted in the April 11 town election.

The sum total of the overrides will increase the taxes on a $300,000 home by about $150 dollars in FY'93. But just two of the ballot questions — $377,416 to fund the town's operating budget and $15,000 for a hazardous

CLC optimistic Cohasset citizens will see the light

The Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation passed its first major hurdle in March by obtaining a ten-year lease at $1 a year to take over the old Lightkeepers residence from the town.

But now the real work begins.

And the group, which incorporated this year, has a tall order — a goal of raising $196,000 to renovate the 140-year old Government Island structure and do site work on the surrounding area.

"It's sweaty palms time," notes McElroy, who is CLC president.

A mailing asking for tax deductible donations ranging from $50 to $500-and-up is currently being sent out with The Rotary Club of Cohasset phone books.

Memorial Day parade kicks off at 10:30 a.m.

In keeping with tradition, the Memorial Day parade will assemble in the Music Circus parking lot at about 10:30 a.m., Monday. The Kevin Barry Irish American Pipers will be back; and so will the Deer Hill Band.

Earlier in the morning veterans from the George H. Mealy American Legion Post 118 and Cohasset VFW Post 9146 and other interested citizens will visit the outlying cemeteries in town, Legion Post Commander Stephen Wigmore said.

Ken Leary says heart transplant is 'one of life's truer miracles'

By Patty Hayes
Mariner Correspondent

When Kenneth Leary reached the top of the heart transplant list after waiting seven months, he didn't care if he received the heart or not.

"They came in and said we've got a heart, we're taking it. I was at the point where I didn't care," he said.

"When they say you have to be at death's door to even be put on the list, they're not kidding," his wife Barbara added.

Due to the shortage of organs and organ donors, the Learys said, many people die waiting. In fact, 60% of potential recipients die waiting for organs.

But Ken Leary was one of the lucky ones.

Last July, he became the 24th person to receive a heart transplant at Tufts University Medical Center. Although he's still in recovery, he says he feels better than he ever has.

"My life is more normal that it's ever been," he said. Leary, 43, and his wife Barbara live on Del Prete Drive in Hingham with their three children, Kevin, 15, Maureen, 10, and Daniel, 9.

"We're a crisis-oriented family. When out lives are normal, we don't know what to do," Barbara said.

About seven months ago, Barbara Leary along with a friend Joanne Siefert, founded the South Shore Chapter of the American Heart Association. This June, they will hold their first annual Golf Tournament at the South Shore Country Club, during which the Learys hope to raise $10-12,000 to benefit the American Heart Association.

Ken Leary had his first bypass operation when he was 22 years old. He had another at 30, and then one again at 34. He says he's seen how new medical technologies have developed, one of which was the transplant procedure which saved his life.

Cohasset's week

What's open, what's not

Memorial Day will be observed Monday, May 25, and just about everything will be closed. Retail stores and supermarkets, liquor stores, banks, stock markets and all government offices, schools and libraries, will be shutdown.

In addition, there will be no regular mail delivery on Memorial Day.

The Mariner Newspapers will impose early advertising deadlines for next week's edition. The advertising deadline for South Look, the regional section of the Mariner Newspapers, is Thursday, May 21 at 5 p.m. All editorial copy for South Look must be submitted by Thursday at noon. The advertising deadline for all other Mariner editions is Friday, May 22 at 5 p.m.

The Mariner will follow a normal publication schedule that week.

Pape is remembered

The board of water commissioners of the Cohasset Water Department will dedicate the Robert S. Pape Reservation at noon, Saturday (May 23), at the Water Department, 339 King St.

The ceremony will include an invocation by Rev. Gary Ritts of the Second Congregational Church and remarks by the water commissioners.

The land was purchased in 1990 and includes 37 acres that have been set aside to remain in a natural state.

No recommendation

For the second time in eight days Selectman Merle S. Brown tried to get his board to recommend the warrant article he proposed to prohibit an elected member of one board with an unexpired term to run for another elected position without resigning first.

Last week Brown made the motion to recommend the special town meeting article under protest. He said he wanted to wait until the entire board was present. Last week Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke could not attend the meeting.

He raised the issue again Monday. His motion was seconded by Selectman Martha Gjesteby, who also voted along with Brown, to recommend the article. But the motion failed by a vote of 2 to 3, with selectmen Goedecke, Michael H. Sullivan and Rocco F. Laugelle, voting no.

Sullivan, who ran for selectman while a member of the health board, voiced the most opposition to the article, calling it "reactive".

"I don't have a problem with the article per se," he said. "But I think it's inappropriate to have it at special town meeting. There is not the time for the appropriate organizations to review it and make recommendations."

Laugelle said he was "dead against it" at special town meeting.

"Why couldn't it wait until (the annual) town meeting?" he asked.

Brown noted that the next regular town meeting is after the next election.

"It's not reactionary. Now people are aware of it," Brown said alluding to the recent controversy surrounding Sullivan's health board seat opening up after the election.

Brown said the designation "special" doesn't change the fact that all issues can be discussed at town meetings.

"Precedents don't mean an awful lot," he said referring to the fact that the town usually doesn't decide town by-law issues at special town meeting.

Goedecke said the people would do what they wanted regardless of whether or not selectmen endorse it.

"I am not going to vote in favor of the article. We have a tradition in this country at the state and national level where we do this all the time," she said. "This may be inconvenient and it may not workout they way we like, but I don't see why Cohasset should be different than the system nationwide.

"I intend to vote against it at town meeting. But on this kind of issue people vote their conscience and whatever the board of selectmen feels does not make any difference."

Dan Baird, a junior at Cohasset High, shows his support for the override across from town hall Saturday. All five override questions on the ballot passed. (Staff photo/John Stobierski)

QUICK SALE QUERY
QUESTION: I listed my home with a Realtor on a Friday and he had it sold on Saturday. Do you think he really earned his fee?
ANSWER: He certainly has! In fact, more so than the broker who would take several months to close the same sale. If it were the other way around, you would be asking the same question. A quick sale is not a matter of luck or lack of effort. Your Realtor has built up a bank of excellent prospects through hundreds of hours of phone calls, showing homes, interviews and advertising. He has tapped this bank. He has done his homework and made a big investment that has paid off FOR YOU!

Chamber letter billed

Selectmen and Town Counsel Richard A. Henderson were stumped Monday with part of a bill from a special town counsel.

Selectman Martha Gjesteby raised the issue about the bill from special sewer counsel.

Goodwin, Procter and Hoar billed the town for 2/10 of an hour (or about $40 at the $200/hr. rate) to look over a letter written by the Cohasset Chamber of Commerce.

Bob Martin of the chamber explained that the group wrote a letter "to get things cooking" regarding the town's sewer situation.

Apparently the sewer commission sent the letter to special town counsel for review.

Gjesteby moved the board pay the current bill but "hold up this section of it pending further clarification."

The total bill from Goodwin, Procter and Hoar was $3,714.

The board also approved payment of $1,512 to the special town counsel Warner and Stackpole for issues relating to the board of health.

Seniors pitch in Executive Secretary Greg Doyon acknowledged the help of several of Cohasset's senior citizens Monday. The seniors put labels on the warrants for the June 1 Special Town Meeting.

"They were recruited with the assistance of the Council on Aging and they did a bang up job in a tight time frame to get it done," he said.

The follow seniors pitched in: Eileen Hurtz, Marie Andracchia, Olga Sawchuk, Sheila Keely, Irene Porter, Pauline Keating, Tillie Nardo, Virginia Anderson, and Mary Coffey.

Hiring freeze thaws

Selectmen lifted the hiring freeze Monday. The board previously voted to put a freeze on all town hiring, including seasonal and temporary workers as well as regular and part-time employees, until the results of the override were known.

Register to vote

The board of registrars of voters will be in session at the town hall from noon to 8 p.m., Friday (May 22) to register voters for the June 1 Special Town Meeting.

This is the close of registration for the Special Town Meeting.

Souppes sur Loing, will be marching. A friendship was forged with the French village several years back to honor Cohasset veteran Thomas Churchill, Jr., who was credited with saving the lives of many in the French village during World War II. Churchill is buried at Woodside.

The parade proceeds from the Music Circus up Sohier Street to Ripley Road where it turns left to North Main and on to the Joy Place cemetery. From there the parade marches to the World War I Memorial at Cohasset Common. From there it proceeds through the center of town to Veterans' Memorial Park at the harbor.

Guest speaker at the ceremonies at the Veterans' Memorial is Cohasset resident, Lt. Col. Joseph McElroy, U.S. Army (retired).

Lightkeepers renovation

The Rotary also offered the group's first official financial challenge: raise $50,000 within six months (starting April 1) and the Rotary will match $10,000.

Other fundraising efforts include watching the Blessing of the Fleet over lunch at the Chart House during Harborfest, June 28. Half of the $30 donation will assist CLC. Tickets for the Blessing of the Fleet may be obtained by calling 383-0505.

Polly Logan will also host a brunch under tents on the grounds at her home on Flag Day, July 14 to help the project.

Logan says helping out with the project fits her perfectly.

"I am very civic minded," she says. "I always felt we should preserve the great environment we have. And this certainly is an historic landmark.

"And money is so tight in towns that this is where people would come forth and be helpful," she adds.

Special guest at Logan's brunch will be the new president of the Maritime Academy, Admiral Peter Cressy.

Tickets for the Polly Logan Brunch are $100 for a couple and $75 for a single, and can be ordered by calling 383-0031.

So far the CLC has raised $20,000 toward the $50,000 which will qualify for the $10,000 Rotary Challenge grant. South Shore Playhouse Associates approved a $5,000 grant. And the Bank of Boston has issued a $1,000 challenge to other businesses. Other contributors include the VFW ($2,000) and $1,000 from the Cohasset Community Garden Club and a preliminary commitment from the Cohasset Community Garden Club for an additional $5,000 to go toward beautification of the site. The CLC has also received more than $5,000 in donations from a variety of sources.

There is a chance that CLC can reduce the $140,000 needed for the Lightkeepers' residence renovation.

McElroy said a dialogue is currently underway with South Shore Regional Vocational High School about the possibility of the school taking on the project. In that event, the school would provide the labor and the CLC would provide all the materials. One of South Shore Vo-Tech's recent projects was constructing the addition to the South Shore Natural Science Center in Norwell.

"It's a win-win situation," McElroy noted.

Cohasset is one of eight-member towns that make up the South Shore Vo-Tech district.

However, in recent years Cohasset's enrollment at the school, which has campuses in Hanover and Abington, has dropped to only one student.

So the Cohasset exposure would be a plus to the school, McElroy said.

"It's a good academic exercise and good public relations," he said.

Plans are to construct a first-floor meeting room which would accommodate 60-70 people and would be available for private functions and group meetings. A small user fee would be charged for use of the community room.

The second floor would contain two modern efficiency apartments which would be rented out.

"We believe once we get the initial funding, the residence will be self sustaining," he said. "It's important for the public to realize we will not be out with a tin cup in hand every year."

McElroy explains that Government Island, with it's harbor view, is a Cohasset jewel that hasn't realized its potential.

"This could really be the catalyst," he says about the renovation plans.

For McElroy the choice is simple.

Success of the project means the townspeople will have access to a beautiful meeting place and historical recreational park as a focal point for community activities.

Failure means loss of an historic residence and the possibility of it reverting to the town as a tax burden.

"The vast majority of Cohasset residents don't benefit from Government Island and don't appreciate the valuable property they have," McElroy notes.

He is optimistic that work can begin as early as July 4, assuming fund-raising efforts are successful and the CLC gains final approval of construction plans and issuance of permits.

A model of the duplex and entire island including a potential "historical recreational" park area is on display on the second floor at town hall.

Roscoe Green Lopaus, Minot Lightkeeper (circa 1904)

The Lightkeeper

Assistant Minot Lightkeeper Roscoe Green Lopaus originally came from Maine and worked at Minot's Light in around the turn of the century, says David Wadsworth of the Cohasset Historical Society.

"He may well have lived in the (existing) Lightkeepers' residence," Wadsworth noted.

A painting of Lopaus by artist R. Atkinson Fox hangs in the Caleb Lothrop House, the headquarters of the historical society.

The painting was discovered in an antique shop by a descendent of Lopaus and the family purchased it. The painting, which was drawn from a photograph that appeared in a publication called, The Outlook, Nov. 5, 1904.

Lopaus' daughter Annie Mae married a Cohasset resident, Kenneth Beal. The Beals later donated the painting to the historical society.

In the lower left hand corner of the painting, Lopaus has his hand on the fog bell that hung inside Minot's Light tower. That same bell is in the park at Government Island, Wadsworth explained.

The entire Government Island reservation has been submitted for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places by the Cohasset Historical Commission.

"We hope the nomination will succeed; and that will open another chapter in the Government Island story," Wadsworth said.

Four-way stop possible

Selectmen will hold a public hearing on the possibility of installing a four-way stop at the intersection of Cushing Road and Pleasant St.

In a memo to Executive Secretary Greg Doyon, Police Chief Joseph M. Kealy said he supported the four-way stop.

Kealy was presented with a citizens petition with 25 signatures asking him to support installing the stop signs.

At the top of the petition, Fred Howe, 23 Cushing Rd., wrote, "I invited Chief Kealy to sit on my porch and watch the Pleasant St. traffic and perhaps the occasional accident at the intersection of Pleasant and Cushing. Chief Kealy asked if I'd like four-way stops and I answered yes loudly."

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said the board would hold the public hearing so all the people who live in the area can be heard. No date for the meeting was immediately set.

After the CHS prom

Selectmen approved opening Sandy Beach from 12:30 to 2:30 a.m., May 29 after the Cohasset High School prom so the students can congregate and have fun before they attend a prom-night breakfast at the Community Center.

Beach vendors okay'ed

Selectmen granted licenses for the following vendors to operate at Sandy Beach this summer: Peter Richards of Hanson (ice cream truck); Arthur McLaughlin of Hanson (ice cream truck); Anne and Paul O'Leary of Cohasset (hot dogs, etc.); and Gary Crocker of Duxbury (ice cream truck).

The ruling of the Zoning Board of Appeals limits the parking lot to only two vendors at any one time; no products can be sold in glass containers; and vendors must provide trash containers and police the area.

The applicants said they understood the conditions.

Voters say yes to overrides . . .

waste day — represent permanent tax increases.

Four of the ballot questions passed by margins anywhere from 200 to 600 votes. Question 3 for the hydraulic sand speader squeaked by with a 114 vote margin. Question 4, for about $95,000 in school repairs got the highest approval rating, passing with 1322 votes for and 694 against.

The capital outlay exclusion of $9,000 for the purchase of a hydraulic sand spreader increases taxes for only one year. And the tax increase to pay for the bond issues for school repairs and a new ambulance totalling $185,000 may be a different amount each year and go away at the end of the term of debt.

Goedecke said the all boards and committees were unified in their support. And she credited community groups with disseminating information to the public.

Advisory Committee Chairman Nan Roth said she was pleased voters supported the board's efforts.

"We feel that what we think was right with the town was affirmed," she said.

Roth explained that although the advisory board will take "a little break," they will begin to examine some long-term changes. She cited the example of the town's wire department which would have been dismantled without the override as being a likely area to phase out over several years.

At their board meeting Monday, selectmen no sooner finished praising the groups who helped get the word out about the override when they began thinking about next year.

They will try to schedule a budget workshop in June to begin long-range planning, Goedecke said.

❑ The Boston Athletic Association is trying to increase its public image of its track team and Ellery Clark has been asked to mention it. The week of May 11 to 16, Ellery was active in the tenth Quincy Senior Olympics, where he won all six of his events, age group 80-84. The events were the one-mile walk, the three-mile walk, the mile run, the 880-yard walk, the running long jump, the standing long jump....all of these wins while representing the B.A.A. Wow!!

❑ The Cohasset Garden Club is having a "Plants and Treasures Sale," Saturday, May 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at 11 North Main Street (next to the community Center) with a rain date of Sunday, May 24, noon to 3 p.m. They will be selling annuals such as geraniums, petunias, impatiens, along with perennials dug from members' gardens. Treasures galore of baskets, containers, vases, garden books, etc., will also be offered for sale.

So gardeners, take note, you will surely be glad that you did! That's this Saturday folks, don't miss it.

❑ Burt Pratt, President of the Cohasset Historical Society, will interview Ron Rawson, managing director of the South Shore Music Circus from 1967 to 1987, on Cablevision, Channel 3, as part of the series on the history of theater in Cohasset. This first segment will be taped May 21, and should air Wednesday, May 27, at 6 p.m. Additional segments covering Cohasset's rich theatrical history going back to the 1800s will follow...sure is interesting, and is yet another feather in Cohasset's cap. We thank Ron Rawson for bringing it all into our realm of thinking; after all, to begin in the 1800s.....

❑ Wear it proudly, the Poppy I mean...the annual Poppy Drive begins Thursday, May 21, and is sponsored by the VFW Post 9146. George Haley is the chairman and all members will be at various locations in town. ❑ We congratulate Hope Gaston, who has qualified for the winter term honor roll at the Holderness School. In order to be named to the honor roll there, a student must have a numerical average of 85 and be commended for outstanding effort in all courses. Hope is a freshman at Holderness, and one of only five freshmen to make the honor roll. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Gaston III of Jerusalem Road. Holderness is in Plymouth, New Hampshire, and is an independent co-ed college preparatory school with special programs in skiing, the arts and the outdoors.

❑ We certainly envy Allison Kornet, a Dartmouth College sophomore, who is spending an academic term studying music in London, England, as part of the college's off-campus program there. Allison is the daughter of Diana and John Kornet of 29 Nichols Road, Cohasset.

What a learning experience for Allison!

❑ Richard Abbadessa of 36 Old Coach Road, a junior criminal justice major at the University of Massachusetts Lowell, was honored recently at the third annual academic recognition ceremony, an event hosted by UMass Lowell's Office of Residence Life. Those who were honored with recognition certificates earned a grade-point average of 3.5 or better last semester.

❑ Hobart College will certainly miss Tom Hansen as it closes its Lacrosse season. Tom is a senior and his final appearance was at Boswell Field.

A good idea

A toll-free hotline for rides home from the prom will be available to high school students, thanks to the joint efforts of the Governor's Alliance Against Drugs and radio station WATD-FM (95.9).

Cohasset High School's prom is May 28 at the Sheraton Tara in Braintree.

This is the first time something this extensive has been attempted and, if all goes well, the program — "Prom Night Live '92" — could be duplicated throughout the state next year.

The month-long awareness campaign is designed to promote a safe and healthy prom and graduation season.

Also, it is intended to help make sure students don't drink and drive or drive with someone who is impaired by alcohol or other drugs.

Supporters underscore the fact that "Prom Night Live '92" does not condone drinking. The message is that students — and others — can enjoy proms and graduations without the use of alcohol or other drugs.

The program was launched May 1 when Marshfield High School staged its prom at the Pembroke Country Club.

An 800 number, which has been established at WATD, will be available for 11 different prom nights for South Shore high schools, concluding June 3 with the proms for Hingham and Plymouth North.

At pre-prom rallies and at the proms, business cards with the toll-free number will be distributed to students who ask for the card.

When prom-goers call, they will be asked their location and their telephone number so that a volunteer manning the line can verify the call and dispatch a driver to pick them up.

Radio station owner Ed Perry, who lives in Duxbury, embraced the hotline proposal in light of Duxbury's alcohol-free weekend beginning May 15.

Drinking and driving have been a sensitive subject, especially in Duxbury, where six Duxbury teens died in alcohol-related accidents between 1984 and 1986.

While the telephones will be manned between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. on prom nights by students from nearby communities, rides will be provided by individuals through Students Against Driving Drunk and Mothers Against Drunk Driving chapters who agree to travel a reasonable distance and drive a student home.

On air, programming will feature prom music that will appeal to parents and teens alike, and live and recorded special guests will talk about safe alternatives to drinking.

Also, parents and students will be able to call into the station and speak on air about alcohol and other drug-related issues.

We think this is a good idea, for if one life can be saved, it will be worth it.

More importantly, of course, is that no one should drink and drive.

A positive sign

Congratulations to all individuals and groups who worked hard to get word out about what Cohasset stood to lose if the override failed Saturday.

The message got through — a majority of the voters realize that the fat is gone. Further cuts to the town's budget would translate into less services.

Town officials aren't planning to sit on their laurels. They are already talking about the job of planning the FY'94 budget.

But Saturday's vote was a positive sign that when a community bands together — even in the depths of recession — its people are willing to dig a little deeper for their town.

There's no doubt that Cohasset people care.

chamber chatter

by Paula Knowles

Well, snow season is gone (I hope), political season has just one more date (special town meeting, June 1), and prom time will be on us in just a week. That means the Music Circus, Harborfest, Beach Volleyball, The Sailing Club, and band concerts can't be too far away. Neither can dandelions, crabgrass, lawn mowing, paint scraping, hornets' nests, poison ivy, and bathing suits. Or graduations, weddings, christenings, family visits, vacations and Father's Day. Why not try to be innovative this summer — whether to complete a chore, handle a bore, or thrill someone to the core?

Let's take Father's Day. Why not give a busy man what he needs the most...time! Hire someone for a day or two, or even on a weekly basis, to take care of a few of those rotten weekend chores. Curt Ludlow of Lighthouse Lawn Care (383-0259, 749-1511) will do mowing, clean-up, yard work, etc. on a scheduled or one time only basis. And the social service league is compiling a list of high school students who will work on all sorts of odd jobs this summer. Give the man of your dreams some time to have a few dreams of his own.

Visiting friends or relatives this summer? Bring them a gift from Cohasset — it will mean an awful lot more than something you pick up in their hometown. Flemings, Cards & Shards, Kit 'n Kaboodle, Cohasset Colonial Pharmacy, Nobles — the list could go on and on. Take a look in Carousel Antiques. You may find the perfect treasure to pass along to a friend. King's and Cohasset Jewelers have the christening or birth present you want, and maybe just the right thing for a wedding or graduation. Sestito's, That Bloomin Place, Flowers by Joann and even Stop & Shop have your flowers, plants and corsages.

Stop by Cohasset Hardware now for something to get rid of that hornet's nest — and don't forget to read the instructions. High noon is not the time to spray the nest. And while you're there, check out the lawn mowers. If you need a different model, ask Tom or Tina if they can order it for you. Much easier than dragging around from mall to mall. They can also help you out with those cat oriented projects — flea bombs in August and new screening in the back door.

What about those visitors, both long and short term? Don't forget Buttonwood Books and Toys for the grandchildren, or the motormouth you are trying to slow down. A good book has a quieting effect on any age. Of if you are trying to liven things up, Woolworth's has some great water pistols and rifles...and balloons fill up with water as easily now as they did when you were a kid! They also have a volleyball and badminton sets, horseshoes, and good old jigsaw puzzles. Or take the folks to the Consignment Shop or the Children's Exchange. Who can resist browsing in such great stores? And you may find the booster chair or playpen that you need for just that little while, at just a tiny price.

You say it's your turn to do Fourth of July or the family reunion this year? Old college buddies coming for the weekend, or friends you haven't seen in ages? How 'bout something special this year, the kind of thing people come to Cohasset for? Call Bob Pattison, 383-0372, and book a clambake. He does the work, you reap the rewards. Or stop in at Cohasset Cove Seafoods for "do it yourself."

While you're all lying on the beach or in your back yards, slathering yourselves with sunscreen and tanning cream, I'm going to unfold my beach chair, poke some arm holes in a Hefty bag, and watch the harbor for signs of Betty Marie in her paddle boat. Then I'll know that summer has arrived in Cohasset.

MWRA sludge is a Cohasset issue

To the Editor:

MWRA sludge is again an issue for Cohasset. Recently, the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority released a Request for Qualification Statements/ Proposals (RQS/P) for "Emergency and Long Term Disposal of Wastewater Treatment Plant Residuals." Bids must be received by the MWRA no later than June 22.

What is the threat to Cohasset? According to the RQS/P, MWRA sludge and residuals contain toxic metals such as boron, cadmium, chromium, copper, mercury and lead. If these residuals were dumped into the Cohasset Heights Landfill, these metals could contaminate adjacent wetlands and potentially threaten our water supply, Lily Pond.

Will Cohasset Heights submit a bid? Or, will they abide by the June 26, 1991 Town Meeting Resolution "that the citizens of the Town of Cohasset are strongly opposed to the disposal of 'grit and screenings,' sludge, scum, or any other residuals, so-called, from the sewer system of Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) anywhere in the Town of Cohasset."

Public disclosure is needed. I call on the owners of Cohasset Heights to make a public statement of their intentions, and to make a copy of their bid public, if they submit one. While they may consider this matter as merely a private business decision, they should recognize that it has broad implications for the future of Cohasset.

Straits Pond cleanup detailed

(Editor's note: The following letter was sent to Executive Secretary Greg Doyon.)

Dear Greg:

I thought that you and the selectmen might be interested in a brief report on the clean-up day we recently held on Straits Pond. Because of bad weather on April 11, the work was done on Sunday, April 12. The first volunteers arrived at 10 a.m. and the last departed about 6 p.m. We had about 25 workers from both Hull and Cohasset during the day, including some student volunteers from the Hull Environmental High School. The average number working at any given time was about a dozen.

Despite this lower-than-hoped-for turnout, we accomplished a lot. Most of the pond's shoreline was cleaned, though there were a few areas we did not reach for lack of time. Of particular note is the eastern shoreline near Black Rock Beach, where the area was cleared of dozens of concrete blocks and the numerous television sets and other electronic items deposited there by the October storm.

A potentially serious problem was solved by the generosity of a Cohasset businessman. When an equipment failure prevented the town of Hull from delivering the dumpsters we needed, they called Paul Barry. He personally delivered two huge roll-offs, one at each end of the pond. Using trucks supplied by Harvey Kertzman and Bill Chisholm, we picked up bagged debris and other refuse left by volunteers at the work sites and transferred it to these dumpsters. Mr. Barry returned for the roll-offs at the end of the day and provided us with scale tickets showing that we had collected over nine tons of refuse from the shores of the pond!

Those who participated in this effort have every reason to be proud. I think anyone familiar with the pond would agree that the clean-up day made a major improvement in the neighborhood.

Thanks again for suspending the parking rules in the Black Rock Beach area while we did our work.

New ball field bubbler is up and running

To the Editor:

The Cohasset Recreation Commission would like to extend its gratitude to Eddie Gibbons and Howie McKler of METRO Plumbing & Heating for their time and effort installing the new water fountain at the Commission's Beechwood field and multi-purpose recreational area.

The new drinking fountain is located against the fence, along the third base side of Beechwood ball field, available for use by residents utilizing that facility from April thru October of each year.

Recreation Commission Chairman, Richard P. Barrow secured the fountain and volunteer services of METRO Plumbing & Heating. No budget revenues are allocated for either the purchase or maintenance of the drinking fountain, hence, it is hoped that the fountain will be treated accordingly, as it is unlikely that it could be replaced should it be damaged or rendered unusable.

For their time, effort and interest in our community and residents, Gibbons and McKler are thanked.

John M. Worley, Director
Cohasset Recreation Commission

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
Senate and House TERM LIMITS (H 4000) - Constitutional Convention 106-81 approved (House approved 85-63, Senate approved 21-18) a motion to place the proposed "term limits" constitutional amendment at the end of the agenda calendar. The amendment would limit the terms of constitutional officers, state legislators and members of the U.S. House of Representatives to eight years and U.S. senators to twelve years. In order to be placed on the ballot for voter consideration, the proposed amendment needs the approval of 50 legislators in this session and 50 in the 1993-1994 session. The proposal is before the convention because proponents gathered over 70,000 signatures required by law. Supporters of placing the proposal at the end of the agenda said the limits may be unconstitutional because they limit the rights of voters and candidates. Some said they oppose the limits outright and claimed limits force many good public officials to retire. Opponents of placing the issue at the end of the calendar said it is time for major changes to limit the service of lifetime politicians. They noted they have the 50 votes for approval and claimed opponents are using their majority vote power to defeat the amendment by placing it at the end of the agenda and likely preventing a direct vote on it. The convention later voted 100-87 (House 79-69, Senate 21-18) to recess the convention until June 10. (Both roll calls are listed. On the first, a "Yea" vote is for placing the proposal at the end of the agenda. A "Nay" vote is against placing it at the end. On the second, a "Yea" vote is for recessing until June 10. A "Nay" vote is against the recess).	N/N	N/N
(Senate and House) COLA (H 5260) - House 138-0, Senate 35-4, rejected Governor Weld's amendment to the bill granting a cost of living increase, retroactive to January 1, for some 85,000 retired state and municipal employees. Weld's amendment would delay the implementation until July 1, 1993 and reduce the hike to four percent. Amendment supporters said this will save millions of dollars and allow an orderly implementation. Opponents said these retirees have not had a hike in four years and have waited long enough. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment reducing and delaying the hike. A "Nay" vote is against the amendment).	Y	N
(Senate) MORE TERM LIMITS (S 1577) - Senate 24-14, favored but failed to gain the two thirds margin necessary for rule suspension to allow immediate consideration of an order asking for a Supreme Judicial Court opinion on the state and federal constitutionality of the proposed "term limits" amendment. Rule suspension supporters said there are serious questions about the violation of individual rights and many other problems which should be addressed by the SJC. Opponents said this is just another attempt by establishment politicians to defeat term limits and deny voters the right to vote on it. The Senate later approved the order without a roll call vote. (A "Yea" vote is for rule suspension. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N
(Senate) CHILDREN - Senate 20-15, refused to suspend rules to allow immediate consideration of resolutions requesting that the House Ways and Means Committee release a $522,672 supplemental budget request filed by Governor Weld for the Office of Children. Supporters said this will prevent the posed risk to children and day care centers by the impending layoff of 132 employees who license and inspect centers in the state. Some opponents said these resolutions set a bad precedent by allowing one branch to direct another to put something in the budget. Others said the problem is already being discussed and will be resolved. (A "Yea" vote is for rule suspension. A "Nay" vote is against it).	Y
(House) LOCAL AID (H 5616) - House 145-0, approved resolutions stating the minimum amount of local aid the legislature intends to provide and how it will be distributed in fiscal 1993. The resolutions call for $2.01 billion including $306 million in Lottery Distribution and $898.1 million for the Chapter 70 program. Supporters said cities and towns need to know the minimum amount they will receive so they can plan their budgets. The Senate later approved the resolutions without a roll call vote. (A "Yea" vote is for the resolutions. A "Nay" vote is against them).		Y
(House) AIDS/HIV (H 2800) - House 133-16, rejected an amendment to a bill adding AIDS/HIV prevention education to the health education curriculum of public schools. The amendment would replace "AIDS/HIV education" with "communicable diseases education." Amendment supporters said this is a broader category which includes AIDS/HIV and many other diseases. Opponents said singling out AIDS/HIV insures focus on this life and death epidemic and suggested adding "and other communicable diseases." The House later approved "and other communicable diseases" without deleting AIDS/HIV. That vote was a voice vote without a roll call. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment deleting AIDS/HIV and replacing it with "communicable diseases." A "Nay" vote is against the amendment).		Y
(House) CONDOMS (H 5260) - House 140-9, rejected a bill prohibiting the distribution of condoms and birth control devices in public schools. Supporters said condom distribution is immoral and sends the wrong message to young people. Opponents, noting the sexual activity and spread of the HIV virus among teens, said this decision should be left up to parents and local communities. (A "Yea" vote is for the bill prohibiting distribution. A "Nay" vote is against the bill).		Y

Editor's notes: On House roll call #5 LOCAL AID (H 5616), there is a breakdown in the bill of the dollar amount which each city, town and regional school district would receive in three categories: Additional Assistance, Chapter 70 and Lottery. For a breakdown of your local communities and their dollar amounts, call the House Ways and Means Committee at 617/722-2700.

Here's some helpful background on the TERM LIMITS vote:

Term limits supporters gathered over 70,000 signatures to bring their proposal before the Constitutional Convention. Since it is an initiative petition, it was first on the agenda. In order to go on the ballot for voter consideration it needs the votes of 50 lawmakers this year and 50 from the 1993-1994 session. Otherwise it is dead for the year and supporters would have to gather signatures again. Opponents of term limits seem to be in the majority in the legislature, but they also realize that supporters likely have the 50 votes to advance the measure. (You can see that 81 voted not to place it at the end of the agenda). So, opponents who have questioned both the merits and the constitutionality of the limits, have developed a thus far successful strategy to take advantage of their majority numbers to place the matter at the end of the agenda and likely avoid a vote on it. There are over 20 proposals on the agenda and if term limits remains at the end, it is highly unlikely to be considered this year. Supporters, meanwhile, plan to lobby legislators to allow the matter to come up for a vote.

"They've come light years," he said, "and it's directly attributable to the American Heart Association and research.

Ken Leary suffered a disabling heart attack in 1983 which forced him to retire from his managerial position with Olympic Paint and Stain.

And until his transplant last year, Leary's life was a series of hospital stays, operations, and crises.

He couldn't do the little things that most of us take for granted. Leary's two son's both play baseball, but he could never throw a ball to them because it caused him too much chest pain.

"Going to one of the kids' baseball games on a warm day would cause him pain," Barbara said.

Now, Leary said, he's doing things he could never do before.

"Playing golf affords me a lot of exercise," he said. "For 20 years I had to ride in the cart, but now I can walk the course."

"He still doesn't do the laundry or the dishes," Barbara joked.

"Some limitations will always be there," Ken retorted.

Barbara Leary, a registered nurse who is the director of staff education at Colonial Nursing Home in Weymouth, is going back to school now that her husband's health has stabilized. She's pursuing a master's degree in nursing at UMass-Boston.

Although he's doing well, Ken Leary must be strictly monitored by doctors. He receives a biopsy once a month and says he does have some side effects from the medications he's taking.

"A lot of people are of the belief that you have a transplant and there, it's all done. It's not," Barbara said. "There's a lot of medical management."

The immunosuppressant drugs Leary takes to avoid the heart being rejected cause him to be highly susceptible to infection. When he goes out into large crowds, he wears a mask.

"For as long as you live, your body is still trying to reject the heart," he said. "It's a battle that goes on my whole life.

"I talk to a lot of people about the transplant, and they're very cavalier about it," he said.

To be put on the transplant list, Leary said, a patient is given a complete physical and psychological work-up.

"There are so few organs available that you can't take a chance with an organ recipient abusing themselves or not complying with doctor's orders," he said.

"What I found most shocking," he said, "is that the number one cause of death is rejection, then infection, and the third cause of death among heart recipients is failure to take prescribed medications.

Kenneth and Barbara Leary are active members of the South Shore Chapter of the American Heart Association, which is sponsoring a benefit golf tournament June 22 at the South Shore Country Club. Last July, Ken became the 24th person to receive a heart transplant at Tufts University Medical Center. (Staff photo/ Alan Chapman)

"I found that incredibly shocking," Leary said.

After his transplant operation, the transplant team at Tufts asked Ken Leary to describe what the experience was like for him. "They asked me to write it down because they had never heard it described quite that way," he said.

"Window of Life" is a poem that Leary wrote, describing the transplant experience. The transplant team at Tufts now gives this poem to patients awaiting heart transplants.

Tee-off against heart disease is June 22

The South Shore Chapter of the American Heart Association is asking local golfers to tee-off against cardiovascular disease by participating in the first annual American Heart Golf Classic on June 22 at the South Shore Country Club.

There are still openings available in the 18-hole tournament which will be followed by an awards dinner in the Tastefully Yours Restaurant at the Country Club.

Tee-off time is 1 p.m. The entrance fee is $100.

Anyone getting a hole-in-one during the tournament will win a new Chevy Blazer, donated by Quirk Chevrolet.

The tournament will feature three separate categories with three sets of prizes so that golfers at every level can play and have fun.

The South Shore Chapter of the American Heart Association was founded several months ago by Barbara Leary, of Hingham, wife of Kenneth Leary, the recent recipient of a new heart in a transplant operation performed at Tufts University Medical Center.

The golf tournament committee is headed by Marilyn Leary of Norwell. Golf committee members include Kenneth Leary, John Battaglia, Kevin Gill, and Drew Elinoff of Hingham.

The Learys said that they hope to raise $10,000-$12,000 from the tournament.

The new chapter of the American Heart Association services 12 towns, providing "healthy hearts" education in schools as well as information and cholesterol and blood pressure screenings for adults.

Sponsors for the tournament include BFI, Quirk Chevrolet, D. Smith Associates and the Guest Quarters Suite Hotels.

It hasn't been easy for Ken Leary.

"There's a lot of competition for charitable money," he said. "There's so many good causes out there and so few dollars."

Window of Life

During my time on the Transplant list,
and up to receiving my transplant,
I realized how truly trying and rewarding an experience it is.

I see transplant as an opportunity and one of life's truer Miracles.
It is a Miracle of luck
and
statistical probability that you will be selected.

As heart recipient candidates on the list,
we join waiting line
a line walking toward our Window of Life.
This walk is extremely trying,
both emotionally and physically.
We are constantly changing places as our condition changes at home or by each hospitalization.

At times, we are close to our Window of Life or even in front of the Window, then our condition may change enough to move us back further from our Window of Life.
Such movement tears at us emotionally-we become torn between maintaining life as it is, yet,
knowing we need "New Life".

The most difficult time in this Line of Life is when we are in the Window
(usually for a very short period of time) and the Light of Life doesn't shine.
For many of us, we must move on.
Ultimately, because of our failing conditions,
we never get back to the "Window of Life".
Sometimes this Life opportunity happens hours or days after we were before the "Window"
and the chance for life may pass by.
I can only imagine the despair!

This situation, can at times
be almost unbearable, yet, we hold on for this last desperate chance
and hop our stay in the Window of Life is long enough that the Light of Life shines upon us.

I was one of the fortunate ones.
GOD allowed the "Light of Life" to shine thru the Window while I was there.
Now I intend to use and enjoy my new life to the fullest and I hope and pray that all who wait will be touched by Life's Light and can do the same as me.

Daffodil Days sets record

Cohasset volunteers, residents and businesses helped the South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society to sell a record 145,000 daffodils and raise $58,000 during the recent Daffodil Days program in support of the Society's program of information, education and service in nine South Shore communities.

Cohasset turned in receipts of $1,240 from the sale of these "first flowers of Spring" that stand as a symbol of the increasing hope made possible for cancer patients by research sponsored by the Cancer Society.

"Once again people responded wonderfully and I want to thank the volunteers, residents and businesses in Cohasset who helped make it possible," Pauline Sweeney, co-chair of the Daffodil Days Committee, said. "Even in these difficult times, the South Shore again set a record and led all 40 Cancer Society units in the state."

The South Shore Unit, with an area office in Stoughton, serves the communities of Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Scituate and Weymouth. Volunteers carry out programs of public and professional education, referral and transportation in these towns.

Sweeney singled out for special commendation volunteer Al Odermatt, Cohasset Savings Bank, Pilgrim Cooperative Bank, Rockland Trust Company, Cohasset Council on Aging, and Cohasset Junior and Senior High School.

Mothers, daughters share the fantasy in dollhouse tour

By Patty Hayes
Mariner Correspondent

Some were antique family heirlooms, passed from mother to daughter for generations. Others were newly constructed replicas of real homes. And some were simply materialized dreams.

But all of the dollhouses which were showcased on Saturday during the Cohasset Community Center's fifth tri-annual dollhouse tour were exquisitely crafted and decorated, each with its own unique style, containing everything from miniature leather golf bags to tiny rabbits in cages.

The dollhouse tour was a historic walking tour of Cohasset Common. The miniature houses were displayed in the Community Center and in homes around the common.

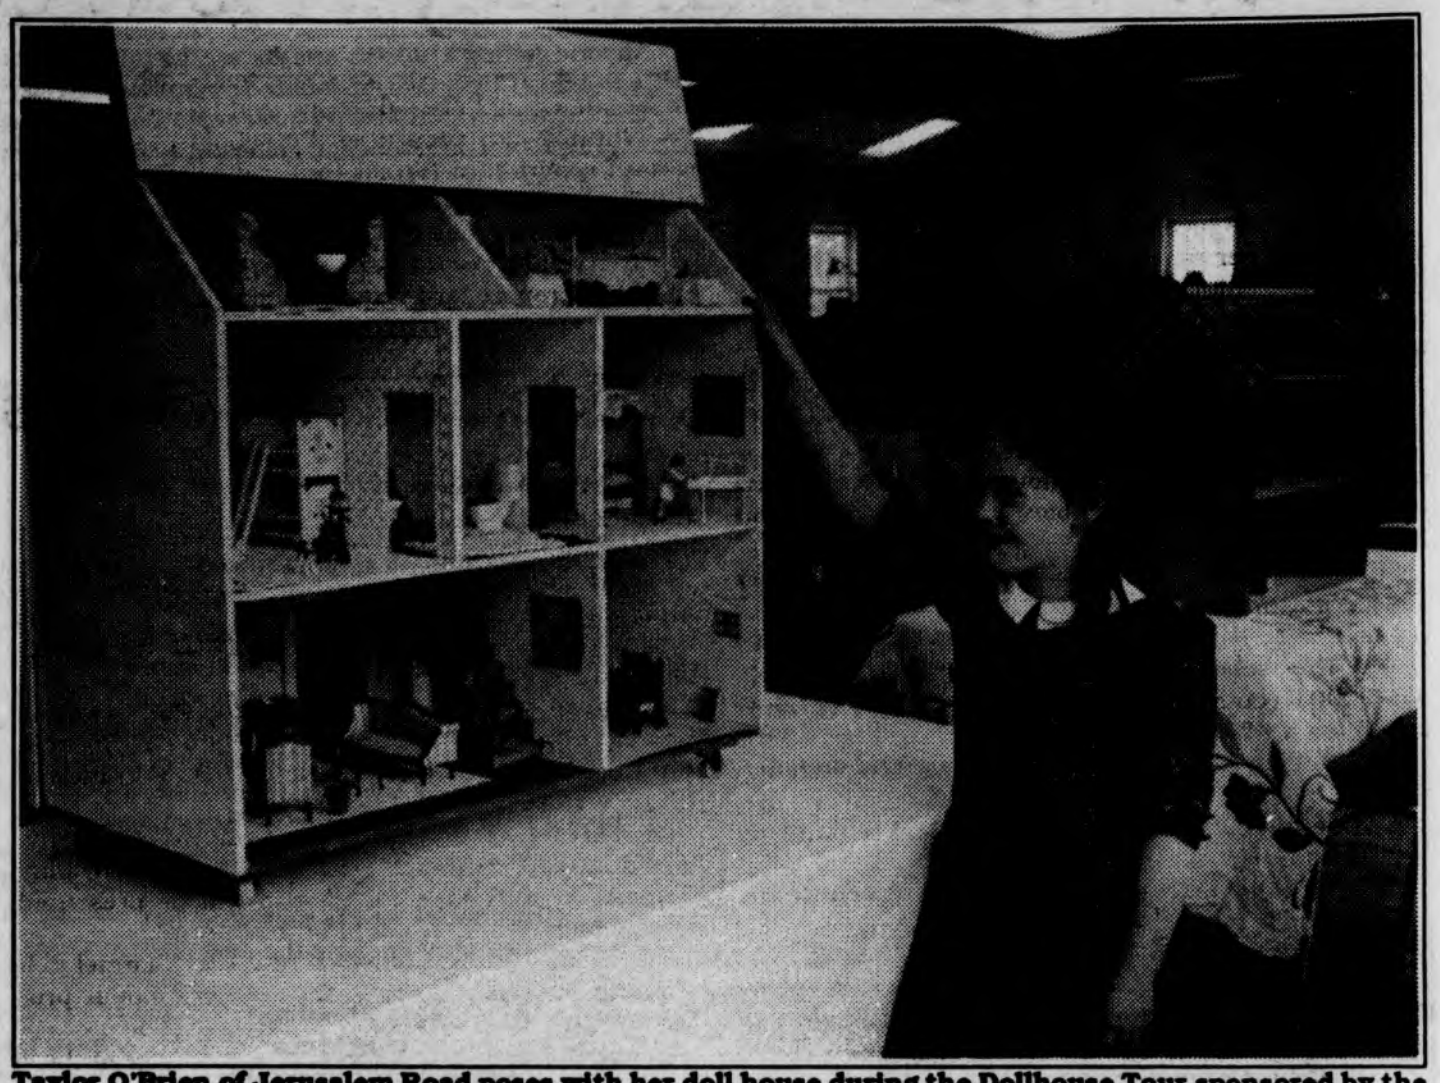
The weather was perfect for the walking tour, and viewers—mostly mothers and daughters—bounced from home to home anticipating the next series of miniature treasures.

The Bates Home on Highland Ave. featured perhaps two of the most exquisite dollhouses on the tour. They were both so large and intricate that it took so long to see everything, a traffic jam formed in the Bates parlour.

Of all the tiny treasures on the tour, the hand-painted miniature mural of Cohasset Common on the wall of the parlour of the Liz Bates house, which is a rough replica of their home at 53 Highland Ave., was the most precious. The mural was hand-painted for the house by Janet Bailey of Harwichport.

Liz Bates designed and built the house herself three years ago for her daughters Melissa and Meredith.

Sarah Pease's 1950's colonial, which was built for her 30 years ago by her father, had beautiful hardwood floors, (which look too good for a dollhouse) as well as four fireplaces, and hand-made needlepoint rugs.



May Larson, chair of the Dollhouse Tour Committee, had her own dollhouses on display at her home. One was called "Christmas Tree Farm", a huge green house four feet wide, four feet tall, and three feet deep, with all the detail of a home decorated for Christmas. The house, which is at least 60 years old, was originally a green New England Farmhouse and was purchased from the estate of Verna Orindorf of Hingham, a Mayflower descendant.

"Buttercup Hill", also on display at Mary Larson's home, is a reflection of the things that she loves but wouldn't necessarily want to live with in her own home. It has elaborately detailed Victorian furniture which is all handmade.

The Lanzillotti home, also on North Main Street, showcased Jane Lanzillotti's own three-story blue Victorian which was handmade by Merle O'Donnell from Marshfield in 1987.

The Lanzillotti home also featured Victoria Hurley's dollhouse, built in New York in the early 1930's and passed down from generation to generation, traveling across the country in the process. It has recently been newly painted, wallpapered and electrified with the anticipation of it being passed on to a fourth generation.

The dollhouse tour began and ended at the Community Center where dollhouse collectors — longtime and newly-inspired alike — had the chance to view houses and items for sale from local dollhouse shops.

Taylor O'Brien of Jerusalem Road poses with her doll house during the Dollhouse Tour sponsored by the Cohasset Community Center, Saturday. (Staff photo/Mary Ford)

It wasn't just parents with kids in school that won the override battle this year, school officials say.

"The override brought diverse groups who had not worked together to see the other's point of view and fight for the community. It will have positive effects for the future," school committee member, Kenneth Wilcox, said.

School board chairman Barbara Bliss noted the support crossed generational barriers.

"I want to thank the community for supporting the override," she said. "It's enormously gratifying to know that the community cares about its young people and its elderly."

All five of the override questions on Saturday's ballot passed including a bond issue of $95,000 for school repairs.

And the schools would have shouldered about $165,000 in cuts had the general override of $377,000 failed, town officials said.

Supt. Stephen Hart praised the efforts of the Parent/School Organization (PSO), Friends of the Library, fire department, and everyone else who had a hand in getting information out to the citizens.

"(The effort) enabled people to talk openly about the schools and honestly about what would happen (if the override failed)," he said.

• In other business, school board member Ralph Kidder noted about the state's Education Reform Bill that the "only thing that is clear is that nothing is clear.

"Gov. Weld offered to put $2.5 million into education, but (under Weld's plan) 45 percent of the towns in the state, including Cohasset would get zero," he said.

• Steve Berzansky, district manager of the Canteen Corporation, which is responsible for the school system's food service, reported that 62 percent of the student body currently participates in the program, up from about 40 percent two years ago.

He said there would be no increase in the price of school meals in the fall.

"To keep in line with the economy, we will hold prices for this year," Berzansky said.

• Osgood Principal Linda Whitney and Deer Hill Principal Ken Ekberg updated the committee on the implementation of new arithmetic textbooks, purchased last year, and new teaching methods.

The teaching methods, Whitney explained, deal with the concepts of problem solving, critical thinking, and estimations more than has been the case in the past.

"We're happy with the choices made," Ekberg said about the textbooks. "The program is extremely thorough and challenging to the students and faculty."

• Whitney also presented the school board with a revised report card format that will reflect more of a child's personal development.

"It will change how teachers view children and what we observe and record," she said.

The new report card provides a checklist to evaluate achievement and include space for narratives by teachers to explain a pupil's progress.

• The school committee unanimously approved the extension of participation in the South Shore Public Purchasing Group, an organization in which communities jointly purchase fuel and gasoline at bulk rates.

Golden Tape Awards spotlight local TV talent

By Andrew MacLellan
Mariner staff

Honoring the efforts of its substantial volunteer force, Continental Cablevision will host the eighth annual Golden Tape Awards May 27 at the Barker Tavern in Scituate.

Recognizing technical and production skill as well as the commitment of entrants from Scituate, Norwell, Hanover, Cohasset, Hingham and Hull, Continental will present plaques in 14 categories.

There are 94 nominees in this year's awards ceremony, according to Continental programming director Wendy Forman. A silver tape award also will be presented during the two-and-a-half hour ceremony.

The event will be cablecast live on Channel 53, debuting Continental's new, four-camera mobile production van, another result of volunteer efforts.

Among the awards to be presented are those for best series, documentary, municipal affairs programming and producer-of-the-year, volunteer-of-the-year and long-standing volunteer, Forman said.

Past winners include Pierson to Person, a weekly one-on-one talk show, Detwiler's Journal, a weekly talk show highlighting guests from the South Shore and Newsbeat 53, the local cable news station.

A steady 200 volunteers supplement Continental's staff which serves 22,000 households.

Continental airs 30 original programs weekly from three studios which accounts for 30 to 40 hours of programming each week.

Shows are aired both on Channel 3, which is reserved strictly for local programming, and on Channel 53 which has more regional content.

Winners of this year's awards will be selected by a panel of 15 cable industry professionals and broadcasters from local Boston news stations.

Heather Kahn, a news reporter for the fledgling New England Cable News Network, which is a joint venture between Continental and the Hearst Publishing Co., will host the evening.

There are six nominations in each category. Decision are based on three-minute tapes culled from the best portion of the entry.

For the second year, there will be categories for the best producer under 18- and 14-years-old.

"The schools have been so active that we've had some great entries," Forman said.

Last year, sixth graders from the Deer Hill School in Cohasset created a one-hour introductory video for newcomers to town.

They included clips about the schools, businesses, police department and interesting landmarks.

"Over the years, we've become a melting pot of volunteers," Forman said.

"We used to have six categories to represent the six towns, but now they're all blended together."

New uniforms give girls extra confidence

By Paula Knowles
Mariner correspondent

When Bob Morgan of Ellesse Sports and Austin Lyne of Good Sport teamed up to provide the Cohasset High School girls' tennis team new uniforms at cost, they probably didn't think that they would be given some of the credit for a great season. But rookie coach Sarah Meehan thinks that they deserve it.

"It probably sounds funny," she said recently, "but those new uniforms really seemed to give the girls a lift, a little extra confidence." And that confidence showed all season long, especially in Monday's match against Norton.

"We didn't think we were going to get to play at all," said Meehan, "Norton had already left for the trip down here when the rain began."

With the regular season scheduled to end this week, and state tournament play to begin soon after, rescheduling the match would have been a nightmare.

But Kathy Pocock of the Cohasset Tennis Club came to the rescue by donating indoor court time for the match, which Cohasset won 3-2, bringing their record to a great 9-4 overall.

First singles star Karyn Murray, with a record of 11-2, has amazed Coach Meehan from the beginning.

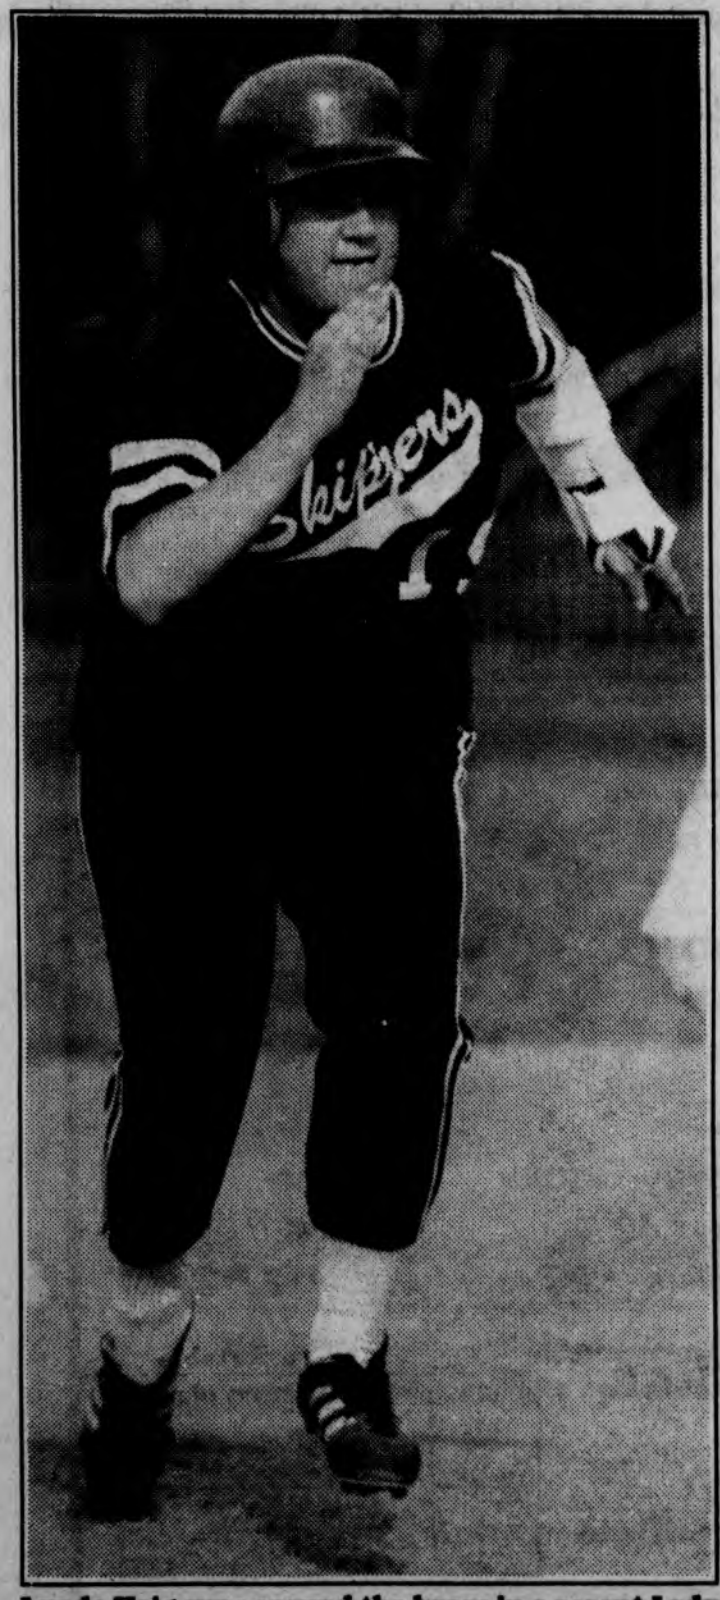
"With her field hockey in the fall and other interests and talents all year along, Karyn really only plays tennis three months a year. And there are still only two high school players in our league who can beat her. She's really incredible," said Meehan.

Eighth-grader Laura Slotnick (9-4) has been another beacon for the Skippers.

"Even Scituate's star had to go to a third set tie breaker to beat her," she said.

Meehan regards her as the linchpin of the team in the coming years, along with ninth-grader Alexis Zerendow at third singles.

"Alexis has really been working on her game, and she can only get better," said Meehan.



Losing senior doubles partners Corinna Minnar and Kathleen Conroy to graduation will hurt, but junior Katie O'Sullivan, ninth-grader Caitlin Hurley, eighth-grader Alissa Sexton, and seventh-graders Ashley Brister, Shelley Vanderweil, and Karen Niessink, are all getting the experience to fill the void. Ninth-grader Katie Cibelli has proven "match tough" when necessary, and will be getting some unexpected experience during the rest of the season as she steps in for an ailing Minnar.

Coach Meehan had nothing but praise for her plucky first doubles player, an all-star nominee, who played her last match against Norwell, while suffering form mononucleosis.

Coach Meehan was tremendously impressed with how hard all of her players have played and practiced all season, and felt that the fact that every member of the team had earned a letter bespoke the amount of talent on the team.

She also had high words of praise for the parents. "I couldn't have asked for more supportive parents," she stated. "I didn't hear one complaint all season long."

She also added that the team is now running a cash raffle fund raiser to pay for the new uniforms, and tickets may be purchased from any team member now, or at the Stop & Shop over the weekend. Tickets are $5 and there will be four prizes of $500 each awarded. Drawing dates will be June 2 to 5.

Hanian dazzles crowd with footwork

When Boys 8-1 met 8-3 last week, Coach Cotter reports it was one for the "G's". A good game with great play and lots of goals by Greg O'Connell (4) and Greg Smith (1). Smith also displayed a gigantic effort at both ends of the field and a gargantuan left foot. Jake Morgan and Evan Pestone (who is still looking for his "G") rounded out the scoring. "The Kindergarten Korps" of Jeff Barrett, Philip Strazzulla and Paul Cotter showed characteristic hustle and Jimmy French made a number of key saves in goal. Kev Hanian dazzled the crowd with his fancy footwork and world class saves were made by 8-4's goalies, in this 7-3 game.

This week when 8-1 met 8-6, Turbo-charged O'Connell knocked in both Cohasset goals with chances for several more, and Pestone was outstanding in his debut in goal. Fiery, fearless forwards Robbie Carpenter and Paul Cotter helped to press the attack against the formidable foe who landed four on the scoreboard. Kahn's Kickers (8-5) took on Libby's boys last week and Curtis Kahn's outstanding goaltending kept (8-) to two goals while Ross Lieb-Lappan, Troy Cannistraro and Peter Roy scored for 8-5 who, with only one loss, is showing championship qualities.

And then, 10-1 met Pembroke. The only thing close in that game was the score, 1-2. Pembroke earned one goal and got the other on a penalty shot. Otherwise, the game belonged to the blue and white who did everything but score a lot of goals. Doug O'Brien got the lone goal for the good guys with numerous other chances by Mario Bruzzone and Evan Cutler. Strong support came from the peripatetic Will Moody who also shone in his debut in goal. Geoff McWilliams also almost entered the scoring ranks.

On defense, Ronan Buick and Chris Golden were immense in immobilizing the impressive Pembroke attack. This week against a tough veteran Norwell squad who claimed 6 goals, dedicated defenders Golden, Matt Santoro and Billy Good did a much better job than the score would indicate. Forwards Evan Cutler, O'Brien and John Cotter kept pressure on Norwell with superb set-up work by Rambling Ronan Buick, Juggling Jeff Schneider and Mario "The Bruiser" Bruzzone.

Cohasset's well synchronized 12-1 team keeps running downfield with only one loss this exciting season. On May 9 they traveled to Halifax where they produced too many offensive pearls to relate, a treat for those who made the journey to watch. Goals were by Derek Bugley off a rebound from a Justin Golden blast; Greg Bilton (2), the second of which came on a world class play with a give and go feed by Patrick Hurley and a perfect chip shot by Bilton to finish, and from the great individual efforts by Matt Verrochi and Nate Cotter, adding up to a 5-0 game. There were many other opportunities for scoring, most notably when converted defenders John Kasameyer and Leigh Atherton combined to net a ball which was called back by a questionable offsides call.

All the midfielders showed great hustle especially Steve Kovach who continually kept the play pushing into the offensive zone. This past Saturday the team produced another shutout, against a Plymouth team that played even with the blue and white into the second half. Cotter had two goals and Bilton had both assists as they led the charge. Assists also came from Noel Grinnell and Matt Lewis as part of a dazzling display of passing, ball control and teamwork that led to his victory. As always, the halfbacks were the key to success with Paul Sheerin, Michael Baird and Andrew Ross playing particularly well in this game. No shutout can leave unmentioned the efforts of the remarkable rejections; Atherton, Kasameyer and Brian Walsh as well and the tenacious tenders of goal Morgan Sandell and Cotter.

The very next day, Steve Kovach got things rolling in the right direction in a make-up game taken from Hanover (2-1) when he gave a demonstration of perfect positional play and scored off a perfect feed from Greg Bilton. The game winner came from Matt Verrochi who set up by a one touch pass from Andrew Ross after a textbook throw-in from Derek Bugley. Bugley was ubiquitous from his stopper position throughout the game. Andrew Laney once again displayed his versatility by stepping in to perform outstandingly on defense. Midfielders Hurley, Baird and Golden consistently out-hustled Hanover to the ball and thus kept the game mostly in the other team's end.

12-2 was no less victorious against Hanover this week, taking them 2-1. Up front, Patrick Ridge and Mike Rossi showed guile and determination on the wings in support of Kyle Bunstein who had two goals and had the spectators captivated with his dribbling and repeated attacks on goal. The front line was well supplied with passes from Ricky Mahoney and Devin Buick. John Paul Laugelle was superb in goal and managed a dramatic first half penalty save. Showing cohesion and excellent covering skills the defense was anchored by the determined trio of Tom Leahy, Jeff Flanagan and Patrick Murphy. Once Cohasset broke a 1-1 tie ten minutes into the 2nd half, Hanover couldn't overcome the persistent pressure.

Meanwhile, 12-3 reports in with a season record of 2-2-1. Coach Dean says of last week's game vs. Pembroke, "We were hustling and beating them to the ball. We cleared well...But, we came off the field with a tie." Citing Pembroke's goalie as the difference, Dean said Jake Motley, Charlie Dean, Teddy Goff, Eric Hanian, Mark Equi and Ben Littauer all tested the acrobatic saving moves Pembroke sported. Stripe fullbacks Mark Caristi and Morgan Bigley along with sweeper Dennis Rooney answered each and every challenge with some tenacious tackling and ball control. Kevin DeVito in goal made sure no serious scoring threats got by. Cohasset's Hotspurs scored when Devito in left wing got a clear from Rooney and centered the ball to Steve Sceery who took a shot, deflected by Pembroke, but popped in by Ben Smoot, with Nick Mincolla right on top of the play.

Team 14-1 steamed by a Norwell squad last Saturday with two goals by Eric Henry, and singles by Kenny Leahy, Brett MacQuarrie and Joe Magner. Sweeper Tom Kittle was very sharp, as were goalies Kevin McKenna and Ely Kahn. With a 5-1 season, this team is a definite playoff contender.

Dodgers doing well

In a game no one should have lost, the Dodgers defeated the A's 8-7 last Wednesday. The game featured the gutsy pitching performances of Ben Ketchum, Rob Moody and Jimmy O'Sullivan. There was clutch hitting by Adam Sasso, Eric Hanian, Greg Bilton, Mark Equi and O'Sullivan. Moody drove in the winning run in the bottom of the sixth! Outstanding fielding was displayed by Morgan Sandell, Mike Rossi, Matt Lewis and Dennis Rooney.

Coming back for some more tough Little League Baseball on Friday night, the Dodgers took on the Pirates. It was a thrilling game of evenly matched teams, but the Dodgers prevailed this time. The game featured top notch pitching by Matt Lewis and Scott Van Hartsvelt. The duo went the distance for a close 3-2 game. Bats cracked as Lewis, Bilton, O'Sullivan, Equi, Rooney and Jake Motley had hits for the Dodgers. The Pirates responded with hits by Van Hartsvelt and Paul Michael Quintin. Ben Roine and Motley were ace in the field.

Beacon Hill visit

Nancy Sandell and Ralph Kidder of the Cohasset School Committee visited the State House and participated in a day-long committee lobbying effort May 12.

The eighth annual "Day on the Hill" sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of School Committees (MASC) focused on the controversial education reform package currently being debated on Beacon Hill. Presentations on the plan, with particular attention to its funding and governance aspects, were made by members of the legislative leadership in morning and afternoon sessions. During the day, school committee members met with Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray.

In the morning, participants were addressed by Massachusetts Commissioner-Elect of Education Robert Antonucci, executive director of Massachusetts Business Alliance for Education. Afternoon speaker included Sen. Michael Barrett (D-Cambridge); Sen. Lucile Hicks (R-Wayland); House Minority Leader Peter Forman (R-Plymouth); and Rep. Mark Roosevelt, Chair, House Education Committee.

Learning to question

The third and fourth grade students in the Cohasset schools recently completed a seven-week program of interpretive reading and group discussion designed by the Great Books Foundation of Chicago.

Twenty-one parent volunteers participated in a two-day training workshop to become certified Junior Great Books leaders. This training was funded by the Parent School Organization and the program has become a vital part of the third and fourth grade curriculum.

The program features literature in short story form from cultures around the world including folk tales, children's classics, and modern short stories. The discussions, designed to enhance students' critical and inferential thinking skills and their self-esteem, are lively. Enthusiastic students quickly adapt to the rules of "shared inquiry." They particularly like the rules declaring that: there are no wrong answers (as long as the answer is based on the material read) and that the leaders can only ask questions, not answer them!

In Junior Great Books the children learn to question what they have read and to explore different ideas, symbolism and connections. They learn to direct their comments to each other, knowing that the leader is not there to validate their answer with a "right or wrong." At the end of the program, students were creating their own interpretive questions and guiding the discussions. Many a discussion ended with students still passionately debating a point under discussion as they headed for their next class.

The current Great Books leaders are: Paula Buick, Sarah Pease, Amy Golden, Kyle Lubitz, Dale Dickinson, Pat Baird, Kate Caldwell, Elaine Smoot, Connie Afshar, Donna O'Donnell, Jeanette Cavanaugh, Selma Ingber, Sue O'Brien, Elaine Coyne, Rhonda Meyers, Judy Simonds, Alix White, Diana Kinch, Rebecca Merrill, Allison Ulmer and PSO Coordinator, Monica McKenney.

Call for art entries

The South Shore Art Center has issued a call for entries for the 37th South Shore Art Center Art Festival's Juried Exhibition, Juried Photography Exhibition, and Members' Exhibition. Artwork will be accepted Sunday, June 14, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Art Center, 119 Ripley Road in Cohasset. The SSAC Art Festival will be held on Cohasset Common and at the Art Center June 26-28.

The Juried Exhibition includes oil and acrylics, drawing and pastels, watercolor, graphics, three-dimensional, and mixed media. Black and white, color and special effects photography are categories in the Juried Photography Exhibition. The Members' Exhibition is open only to current members of the South Shore Art Center. There is no limit in size or number of entries for the juried shows which have an $8 fee per entry. The members' show is restricted to one entry with a $6 entry fee. Call (617) 383-9548 to obtain entry forms.

Art Program offered

A five-week Portfolio Development/Art College Foundations Preparation program will be offered this summer at Scituate High School for students entering their junior and senior years, and new graduates who will be attending college art programs in the fall.

Taught by artist James Young of Scituate and Washington, DC, the program will offer the opportunity for students already accepted in BFA programs to develop skills which will aid in preparing for the Foundation Curriculum, while providing juniors and seniors with those skills, art work and information to organize a strong portfolio for college review. Subjects covered will include life drawing, sketch book/journal assignments, portfolio options, choosing art schools, independent research and "demystifying" the art school experience.

Classes will be held Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to noon, Tuesday, June 30 through Thursday, July 30; tuition for the program is $100, and students must provide their own supplies. Deadline for registration, which will be limited to 12 students to ensure maximum personal attention, is Monday, June. 15.

This program is not sponsored by the Scituate Public Schools and is open to any qualifying South Shore student. For registration and information, call 545-9833.

Attention seniors! Do you pay too much in taxes? Are you getting enough income from your investment dollars? Maybe you could do better.

Sunday night, May 31, WATD is sponsoring a special live, on air, a two-hour seminar entitled, "Getting the Most out of Your Investment Dollars." A number of local councils-on-aging from the South Shore and Cape Cod will be providing us with an in-studio audience of senior citizens who probably have financial concerns similar to yours. These senior citizens are eager to learn how to improve their financial situation.

This is a public service announcement on behalf of your Council on Aging from WATD. Mr. Michael J.McNamara, Ph. D., Certified Financial Planner and Registered Investment Advisor, will host this program.

AN IMPROVEMENT MESSAGE

For the 1992 legislative season, the Massachusetts Council on Aging has given its support to six bills affecting seniors.

Over the next several months we will be highlighting these bills. We ask that you consider lending your support by calling our local representative, Mary Jeanette Murray, at 722-2897 or Sen. Robert Hedlund at 722-1276.

• ISSUE #1: To date, Gov. Weld has released House 1 - the budget. Elder Affairs budget is level funded. However, the Governor's budget reflects a performance style budget which allows the secretary to reallocate funds between the service delivery groups. Level funding for the Council on Aging programs would be $2,046,873. Secretary Ollivierre has pledged level funding for Councils on Aging in the Context of the Governor's Budget.

House 1 is in the House Ways and Means Committee (HWM). The HWM should release its version of the budget soon. The budget may be quite different from the Governor's budget, since it is unlikely that they will adopt all the components of the performance style budget approach.

• NUMBER: HOUSE 4719

This bill was offered by MCOA under the sponsorship of Rep. Mary Jane Gibson and Emile Gougen. It amends Massachusetts General Laws which allow municipalities to establish Councils on Aging. The amendment would replace "may establish a Council on Aging" with "shall establish a Council on Aging or join a consortia of Councils on Aging."

To date, 343 of Massachusetts 351 cities and towns have established Councils on Aging or joined a consortia of councils. It is important that every municipality have some entity within local government responsive to the needs of older citizens. Moreover, in the harsh budget climate this amendment would protect existing Councils on Aging ensuring their existence by statute.

The bill was reported out favorably by the Local Affairs Committee and is currently in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Contact your representative and senators and urge them to support House 4719.

Kevin Butwill, Jr. Thanks You.

Sue DuVerger Thanks You.

All Of Us Here At South Shore Hospital Thank You.

But Let's Not Rest On Our Laurels.

You did it!

You helped us raise our minimum goal of $3.2 million in pledges and gifts and it's time to say thanks.

South Shore Hospital's state-of-the-art Emergency Center and Maternity Center are up and running and are the envy of the medical community. The new Emergency Center, with 32 treatment areas, its own radiology suite, urgent care and central computerized patient monitoring systems expects to treat more than 60,000 patients this year.

The new Maternity Center features nine labor/delivery/recovery rooms, a 32-bed postpartum unit with 18 private rooms, central labor monitoring and two suites for Caesarean births. Its Level II special care nursery provides advanced medical and nursing care for high-risk infants, close to home.

And it's all thanks to pledges and gifts from all kinds of donors. Community residents, hospital medical staff and employees, volunteers and area businesses . . . everyone pitched in.

Special thanks go to The Friends of South Shore Hospital whose pledge of $500,000 represented the single largest contribution.

But perhaps most heartening, 75 percent of the gifts and pledges came from individuals.

People who recognize the importance of providing the community with excellent health care facilities and resources.

Which brings us back to reality.

South Shore Health and Educational Foundation was formed to encourage you to continue to support the quality health care you've come to expect from South Shore Hospital.

We cannot rest on our laurels.

Because in the race called "fund raising," there is no finish line.

So we thank you for what you've done for us and your community.

And we thank you in advance for what we know you will continue to do.

Cohasset to revisit 1980 harbor plan

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

No you're not experiencing déjà vu in this week's Mariner.

As a public service, the Cohasset Mariner is reprinting in its entirety this week, the Cohasset Harbor Master Plan compiled in 1980.

You'll note that the plan is reprinted exactly — right down to the names of the town officials serving when the plan was originally drawn up.

The only change is on page one where an aerial photograph of Cohasset harbor appeared on the original plan. Instead of the photograph we've included a reminder of the June 4 public meeting which will focus on issues contained in the master plan. The meeting gets underway at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall auditorium.

The harbor committee, which is appointed by

Town meeting is Monday, June 1

Town Moderator William D. Weeks chose to leave any predictions to political pundits.

"I never predict in advance whether or not there will be a quorum," Weeks said.

But the meeting has been posted and Weeks is optimistic that at least 100 registered voters needed for a quorum will attend the Special Town Meeting starting at 7:30 p.m., Monday (June 1) at the high school auditorium.

The continuation of the annual town meeting will also be held Monday. Weeks expects that the business of the annual town meeting will be finished quickly.

"There were three or four articles deferred from the April town meeting to June 1 but I don't think there will

Food Mart fire is 'suspicious'

An early morning April 21 fire at Roberts' Food Mart at the Jonathan Livingston Seagull Plaza off Rte. 3A is being classified as of suspicious origin, Fire Chief John Nadeau said.

"We have found no accidental or natural cause of the fire," Nadeau said.

The two-alarm fire, which caused an estimated $150,000 in damage to the convenience store and

Memorial Day recalls the past, looks to the future

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

He spoke as if it were yesterday.

"On August 19, 1944, the Germans, to delay the passage of the Americans at Souppes, planned to blow up the 13 bridges.

We must challenge that popular Barracks Ballad, cited by General Douglas MacArthur... Sailors, Soldiers, Airmen and Marines do die, but we must not let their memories fade away.

Lt. Col. Joseph R. McElroy
U.S.Army (retired)

"Warned about this decision, the Resistance intercepted and joined the combat. With the intervention of the 12th battalion of the Third Armored Division, Souppes sur Loing was liberated on Monday, August 21, 1944, at 4 p.m."

Henri Grampré spoke from the heart during Cohasset's annual Memorial Day ceremonies Monday.

Grampré, a member of the Association of Veteran Resistance Fighters, came to honor one of Cohasset's own, the late Major Thomas Churchill, who led General George Patton's Third Armored Division into Souppes, a town about 50 miles south of Paris. He reminded citizens of the bond of friendship between the two towns.

Churchill, who returned to Souppes sur Loing town with a group of American veterans nearly 40 years later, is buried at Woodside Cemetery.

Several hundred citizens huddled against a blustery, cold spring wind in Cohasset Harbor to hear Grampré speak of World War II.

Lt. Col. Joseph R. McElroy, U.S. Army (retired), spoke of the future.

"Now we entrust that torch to the veterans of Vietnam, Grenada, Panama, and the Gulf War, with the knowledge that the sacrifices of their predecessors will not be

Cohasset's week

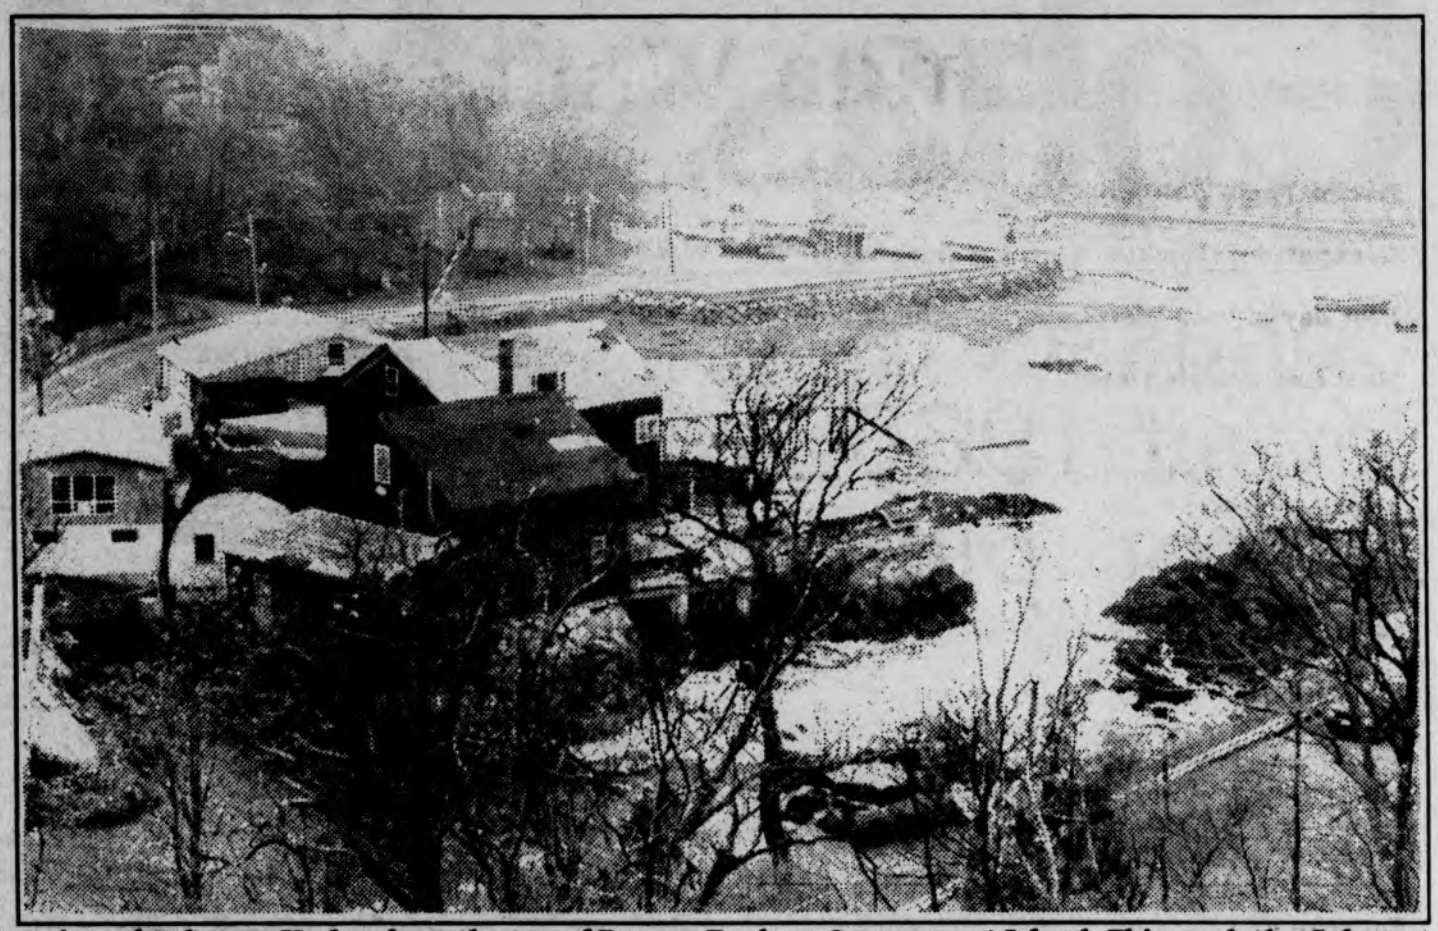
Unemployment is up

Cohasset's unemployment rate continued to climb in March.

According to figures from the state Department of Employment and Training, unemployment in Cohasset reached 7.9 percent in March, an increase over the February figure of 6.4 percent.

Meanwhile, the state's employment figures looked a little brighter with unemployment dropping from 9.1 percent in March to 8.6 percent in April.

Unemployment numbers for municipalities lag a month behind the state numbers.



"This drop in the rate is an encouraging adjustment to last month's sharp increase," said Commissioner Nils L. Nordberg. "However, we continue to focus on the downward trend of the moving, three-month average unemployment rate (Feb.-April), shifting from 8.9 percent in 1991 to 8.4 percent this year."

In Cohasset, 303 residents were out of work from a total labor force of 3,818.

Reassessment starts

Assessors announced that for the next two to three weeks, beginning May 6, a revaluation of all personal property is taking place. The firm, Appraisal Consultants of New England, has been hired to conduct the triennial reassessment of taxable commercial, industrial and personal property in town.

The appraiser is carrying with him a letter of introduction from the assessors and his name is also on file with the Cohasset Police Department. Assessors are asking residents to co-operate in this effort.

A view of Cohasset Harbor from the top of Beacon Rock on Government Island. This week the Cohasset Mariner has reprinted the 1980 Cohasset Harbor Master Plan and has included it in this week's issue as a public service. The harbor committee will review the 1980 plan and get input from Cohasset's citizens at a public forum, at 7:30 p.m., June 4 at town hall. (Staff photo/Laura Hyland)

Gypsy moths hatch

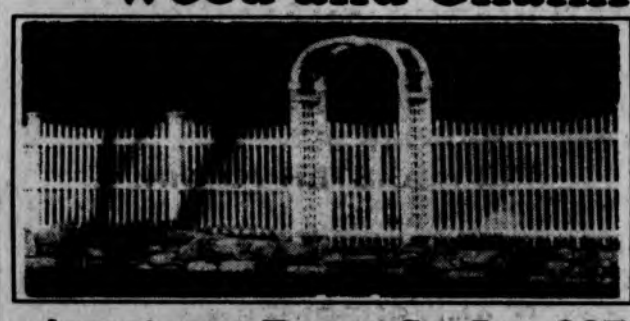
The tree and park department warns the gypsy moth caterpillar and the eastern tent caterpillar have hatched.

Supt. Peter Laugelle said there is defoliation of some trees on private and town property.

Cohasset will not be spraying this year because there is no money allocated for spraying unless the infestation becomes a health hazard, Laugelle said.

Laugelle advises citizens to notify a reputable company to spray.

The tree and park department is available to provide advice on the insects and may be contracted by calling 383-6709.



Cohasset blood drive

The next Cohasset Community Red Cross Blood Drive will be held Tuesday, June 2. The drive will take place at The First Parish House, Cohasset Common between the hours of 2 and 7 p.m.

Past donors will be receiving a scheduling call from their group promoter. New donors are invited to call the Cohasset Blood Drive chairpersons, Shirley and Jack Cibelli at 383-2974.

This spring, join the bloodline. Someone's life may depend on it.

Cohasset to revisit 1980 harbor plan

selectmen, would like input and support from Cohasset citizens, Harbor Committee Chairman John "Fritz" Pfaffman said.

The committee's goal is to draw up a new master plan.

"We plan to review and redefine prior goals and objectives signifying what has been done and from a practical point what could not be done; and then add to the plan what we feel could be done," Pfaffman explained.

At the meeting, the harbor committee will detail any progress the town has made toward the 16 recommended actions under the Policies Planning Chart on page 2 of the plan.

"In the intervening 12 years (since the plan was drawn up) we may delete some goals and objectives and add others based on input from the whole town," Pfaffman said.

One issue bound to stir debate is the number of moorings available. Maximizing mooring and docking area utilization was first on the list of goals and objectives in 1980. Today there are 300-odd names on the waiting list for town moorings.

"The way it (increasing mooring space) is done must be considered carefully," Pfaffman said.

But the harbor committee hopes that boat owners won't be the only ones attending Thursday's public forum.

"All citizens benefit from the harbor indirectly," Pfaffman noted.

In addition to being a natural feature which adds beauty to the town, the townspeople benefit from the tax revenue generated from the businesses that surround the harbor, he said.

Town meeting . . .

be any action on them," Weeks noted.

He explained that under town by-law, it is impossible for an article on which action was taken at a prior session of the annual town meeting be reconsidered at the continuation.

"It can only be reconsidered at a later session if notice of reconsideration has been given in the session when the action on the article took place," he said.

At the special town meeting, the article which may stir the most interest is Article 2: to see if the town will raise and appropriate, transfer from available funds or borrow $175,000 in anticipation of state reimbursement for the purpose of reconstructing the Doane Street culvert.

Fixing the Doane Street bridge has been talked about for a decade. But now there is room for optimism that repairs may be accomplished this summer. The town is in the process of obtaining an agreement from the state which guarantees reimbursement for the project.

Article 4 may spark debate; it would prohibit any person who holds an elected office from seeking a different elected office without resigning from the elected position he or she currently holds first.

Selectman Merle S. Brown has said he proposed the article to prevent a recurrence of the type of situation created following the town election when controversy erupted over who should be appointed newly elected Selectman Michael H. Sullivan's vacant seat on the health board.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
Philip Murphy, CRS, GRI
FINANCING DECISION
QUESTION: I plan to buy a home in the near future. When should I decide on whether to select a fixed or variable mortgage?
ANSWER: Actually, this should be a last-minute decision. The financing market changes often enough so that the best financing mode one month may not be the best the next month. If you expect to live in the house for a long time and you feel that interest rates will increase, you may lean toward a fixed rate. An equally sound case can be made for the lower initial interest offered on variable rate mortgages. If you don't expect to live in the home for a very long time, the variable rate mortgage would be the answer.

Consignment Shop is never the same place twice

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

If you think the Cohasset Consignment Shop means lots of old stuff — you ought to think again.

"There's something new everyday," notes manager Andi Merrill.

Wedding dresses and real cocktail dresses are two of the new additions this year.

Shirley Marten, a volunteer at the Cohasset Consignment Shop, displays a Bianchi wedding dress for sale. (Staff photo/Mary Ford)

And there's new space — lots of it.

Last fall the shop, which is the oldest tenant at the Cushing Plaza off Rte. 3A, expanded into part of the building previously occupied by Bildner's.

Having seen many tenants at the Plaza come and go — Merrill says key to success for the Consignment Shop is maintaining a good mix — including volunteerism, lots of great stuff, and good value for money.

The shop, a non-profit organization, is the "funding" backbone of the Cohasset Social Service League, which recently marked 80 years of public service.

It's not a thrift shop — only seasonal clothes in current styles in perfect condition, jewelry and bric-a-brac are accepted.

Through word of mouth, the consignment shop attracts shoppers from as far away as Wellesley and Malden, Merrill notes.

"We are very well known. We always carry quality things so the word gets around," she adds.

But in addition to the great stuff — the consignment shop adds a special touch.

"It's like a family. There's another dimension to it. This is a place where people come to enjoy — they enjoy the people who work here. We swap recipes and stories," Merrill adds.

"How do you get ink out? And a customer will pipe up 'use hair spray,'" she says enthusiastically.

A recent experiment is the line of wedding dresses — and there's a rack full of mother-of-the bride dresses for sale as well.

The new rack of sizes 20 and up is doing well. And dozens of furs sold this past winter despite the recession.

"We had gorgeous furs this year," Merrill notes.

The shop has more than 2,000 "consignors" or people that bring items to sell and get a percentage of the sale price. After one month all merchandize is marked down. And after two months (unless removed by the consignor) there is no commission paid.

The shop has a little something for everyone, Merrill says.

"The customer comes in and has a good time. It's fun working here and it's fun bantering with the customers," she says.

Celebrating 80 years

The Social Service League had a special birthday this year.

It turned 80.

But unlike most octogenarians — the Social Service League which is housed in space provided by St. Stephen's Church — isn't ready to retire.

An army of volunteers augmented by a public health nurse and social worker get into the business of helping others every day.

Public health nurse Judy Fitzsimmons, a veteran of the Peace Corps, detailed the 1,000-odd nursing visits to local citizens, the 500-flu shots administered, and the countless other keep-well and preventative health activities sponsored by the league this year.

The league, in conjunction with the board of health and the Council on Aging, held its annual health fair recently. Available health services at the fair ranged from eye exams and skin damage assessment to screenings for glaucoma, oral cancer, cholesterol and diabetes.

At the league's recent annual meeting, State Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray presented the league with a citation from the legislature. And Polly Logan of the Republican State Committee, presented a letter congratulating the league from Barbara Bush.

Guest speaker at the event was Cohasset historian Bert Pratt, who talked about the role of women in Cohasset history.

He worked 35 years for American Mutual.

Born in Philadelphia, he lived in Nahant and Needham before moving to Cohasset six years ago.

Husband of the late Elizabeth (Fellows) Clinton, he leaves a son and daughter-in-law, James and Helen (Garrietson) Clinton of Cohasset, and four grandchildren.

A memorial service was held May 20 in the First Parish of Cohasset.

surrounding businesses, is being investigated by the state police who are working under the direction of the Plymouth Country Fire Marshall's Office, Nadeau said.

Samples taken from the food mart following the fire are being tested for possible hydrocarbons (fuel), he said.

"We are continuing to interview all parties — the people who had access to the property," Nadeau said.

Nadeau stopped short of classifying the cause of the fire as arson because the department is still waiting for test results.

"But unless some startling new information comes up the fire appears to be of human design or human intent," he said.

No one was injured in the fire which broke out about 2 a.m. in the rear of Robert's Food Mart, a store occupying the far end of the commercial shopping plaza.

Although the fire was limited to the food mart, an adjacent antique store and an insurance agency sustained substantial water and smoke damage.

William Roberts, owner of Roberts Food Mart, declined to comment on the fire's classificaiton as "suspicious."

But Roberts did say that he plans to expand the store and hopes to reopen within 10 weeks.

editorial

A missing comma

Issues surrounding school budgets with their 400-odd accounts don't always appear to be black and white to the average citizen.

And unlike other town departments, voters approve only a bottom-line budget figure at town meeting. So where the money goes and why can stir up the citizenry especially in the age of Prop. 2-1/2.

But there are some areas of the schools that are clearly defined.

The number of teachers in the school system is one area.

And the way the state determines what percentage of a school system's budget is spent on areas such as administration, instruction, pupil services, and so on is another.

As an editor of the Cohasset and Hingham Mariners, it is not always possible to check the accuracy of statements made in letters to the editor in the time constraints that come with the job.

Sometimes statements that appear to contain factual information turn out to be wrong. The Mariner makes the effort to allow time before elections — for individuals and/or representatives of town departments to respond.

There is also a fine line to be drawn once an election has passed, to know when to stop the rebuttal to the rebuttal.

But a Cohasset citizen recently helped us draw that line by challenging us to investigate his allegations that taxpayer dollars spent on school administration in Cohasset are more than double the state average.

As it turned out, the caller, who has withdrawn his letter to the editor, drew what may be a logical conclusion to an erroneous premise. In a booklet issued by the state Department of Education, detailing average school department expenditures across the state, the dept. of education breaks expenditures down into six categories: administration, instruction, pupil services, transportation, plant maintenance and fixed charges.

Under the "instruction category" the state includes supervision, principals, teaching, textbooks, libraries, guidance, and psychologists.

But in the booklet issued in July 1991 for the 1989-90 school year — which was the edition from which the caller obtained his information — the state inadvertently omitted the comma between principals and teaching.

So while the citizen's premise was understandable, the wrong conclusion was reached.

The caller determined that "Principals Teaching" must mean principals who teach. And since Cohasset doesn't have any principals who teach regular classes — the town's principals therefore belong under the administration category, the caller surmised.

The question here is not whether principals are administrators but how the state classifies principals for accounting purposes.

So when the caller added the principals' account to administration – the percent the town spends on administration jumped to well above the state average.

The number of teachers in Cohasset schools has been questioned in letters to the editor published prior to the override election.

Teachers and "professional staff" are not synonymous. While all teachers are professional staff — all professional staff such as the school doctor — are not teachers.

So for what it's worth, there are currently 88.3 teachers in Cohasset schools, including 2-1/2 long-term substitute teachers.

Not included in that figure are short-term substitute teachers, principals, the assistant principal, the superintendent, the director of student services/special education, and a half/time staff assistant in the superintendent's office, the METCO coordinator, and the school physician.

We support the right of every Cohasset citizen to obtain budget and other information relating to the schools.

But in fairness to everyone, we should all be careful that we make that extra phone call to determine if the conclusions we have drawn are the correct ones.

Spring fling is memorable event

To the Editor:

May 14, six women from Ripley Road Nursing Home, along with Mrs. Harrold, our administrator, Mrs. Marge Murphy, Beth O'Brien, and myself attended the "Spring Fling." "The Spring Fling" was held at the Sons of Italy Hall in Rockland from 5 to 9 p.m.

Servicemen from the Weymouth Naval Air Base volunteered their time to be dance partners for those who attended. Other nursing homes from the greater Brockton area were there as well, so it was a full house. There was a live band and a Las Vegas floor show provided by a husband and wife duo, "Roger and Claire."

The six women from Ripley Road had a wonderful time and it will be a night they will remember. The six women that attended were Catherine Gavin, Theresa Guyette, Isabelle Magnussex, Sarah Nelson, Rosilla Trott and Alma White.

letters

To the Editor:

What do mothers really want? To see their children grow up. It's a simple fact that eluded Freud. Julia Ward Howe not only got it right, she went straight to the bone. She and we have a dead serious agenda for Mother's Day, 1992.

Reflecting on the mayhem of the Franco-Prussian War, and noting that the issues might have been settled without bloodshed, Ms. Howe wondered "Why do the mothers of mankind not interfere in these matters, to prevent the waste of that human life of which they alone bear and know the cost?"

Appealing to women everywhere to move beyond the patience, passivity, and paralysis of their lives, she wrote:

"Again ... have the skill and power of two great nations exhausted themselves in mutual murder. Again have the sacred questions of international justice been committed to the fatal mediation of military weapons ... Thus men have done. Thus men will do. But women need no longer be made a party to the proceedings which fill the globe with grief and horror.

Arise, all women who have hearts ... Say firmly: 'We will not have great questions decided by irrelevant agencies. Our husbands shall not come to us, reeking of carnage, for caresses and applause. Our sons shall not be taken from us to unlearn all that we have been able to teach them of charity, mercy, and patience. We, women of one country, will be too tender to those of another country, to allow our sons to injure theirs.' "

Flowers and candy are nice, but women are ready to move beyond the sentimentality and materialism of Mother's Day. Following Julia Ward Howe's lead, it is time to focus on the primal truth that mothers have always known: no one is safe until we are all safe. It is time to insist on shifting to a sustainable, civilian economy and a just society.

Beware of look alike organizations

To the Editor:

The American Cancer Society's Stoughton office often receives telephone calls and letters from people in the local area asking about various fund-raising appeals they receive. Often people believe these requests for funds are related to the American Cancer Society and they wonder why they receive so many requests. I want to make it clear that many of these requests are not from the American Cancer Society but are from "look alike" organizations.

These groups are not connected to the American Cancer Society in any way. Although some of their names sound similar, and many use similar means of fund-raising, the American Cancer Society is the only one identified by its copyrighted symbol, the Sword of Hope.

While many "look alike" organizations spend an overwhelming proportion of their proceeds on management and fund-raising costs, the American Cancer Society directs 78.8 percent of its funds to research, education and service to cancer patients and their families. With any other groups, their only contact with Massachusetts residents is to ask for funds. The American Cancer Society, first organized in 1913, has a network of thousands of volunteers here, administered through 13 local offices from the Berkshires to Cape Cod. The Stoughton office of the American Cancer Society provides residents of the South Shore and Greater Brockton area with service programs for patients and families, cancer screenings and information that can help people reduce their cancer risk.

If local residents want to be sure that their contributions will help the fight against cancer locally, look for the American Cancer Society's name and symbol, the copyrighted Sword of Hope. The sword represents our might, spirit and determination to eliminate cancer. There's nothing mightier than the sword.

commentary

The chill winds of this latecomer spring stir and mix an editor's thoughts of history, country, family and Memorial Days, past and yet to be...

Some historians say that the 20th century does not "culturally" begin until 1914 and the Great War. some say World War II was just "chapter two" in the struggle for national identity.

Ironically we can pick up any daily paper or switch on CNN and see the latest update of war news from Sarajevo...That's right, the same place where WWI began.

Seems like the Soviet hegemony of Eastern Europe was merely an intermission for the repressed dreams of violent nationalists.

With the power vacuum after the fall of the communist system, civil wars have come rolling up from many flashpoints...we live in precarious times...then again maybe the times are always precarious...and each generation must answer the demands of history.

Anyone could conjure memories of soldiers from the family. We all have our heroes from too many wars. On this Memorial Day my thoughts turn to him...

My grandfather was born in a Brownsville (Brooklyn) tenement in 1899. The streets below were not filled with gold as his immigrant parents had heard in Poland. But those rutted streets with their horse drawn traffic, were streets of promise for a young man.

The promise led to his teenaged enlistment in General "Black Jack" Pershing's Expeditionary Forces in France.

Gramps seldom spoke of those times. Mostly he would say, "I was too young and too stupid to be scared...We was all just kids and we were fightin' for democracy."

Once, at nineteen or twenty, I found a postcard in an old valise full of photos from the Ragtime Era and the '20s. It was my grandfather to his mother, "Don't

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
(House) TERM LIMITS (H 5673) - HOUSE 116-31, rejected a supplemental budget amendment placing a non-binding question on the 1992 ballot asking voters if they favor limiting the terms of the state's constitutional officers and senators and representatives to eight consecutive years. The House 116-28, also rejected another amendment for a ballot question asking voters if they favor limiting the state's U.S. senators to twelve consecutive years and U.S. representatives to 8 consecutive years. Amendment supporters said this will simply allow voters to express their opinion on term limitations. Some opponents said they simply oppose term limits while others argued there are grave constitutional questions about the limits. Several opponents said the supplemental budget is not the place to address this issue. (Both roll calls are listed. The first is on state constitutional officers and state legislators. The second is on U.S. senators and U.S. representatives. On both roll calls, a "Yea" vote is for placing the matter on the ballot. A "Nay" vote is against placing it on the ballot).		Y/Y
(House) CHILD ABUSE (H 5537) - House 137-8, rejected an amendment to a bill imposing a $1,000 fine on anyone who knowingly files a report of child abuse that is false or frivolous. The amendment exempts from the fines doctors, school officials and others who are required by law to report suspected abuse. Amendment supporters said these mandated reporters could be unfairly fined by following the law and then having the state determine the claim is frivolous. Opponents said the law already protects people who make the claim in good faith. They argued the amendment weakens the bill which is aimed at the 60,000 complaints which were found groundless last year. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment exempting mandated reporters. A "Nay" vote is against exempting mandated reporters).		N
(Senate) COLA (H 5260) - Senate 34-2, approved an emergency preamble to the bill granting a five percent cost of living increase, retroactive to January 1, to some 85,000 retired state and municipal retirees. The emergency preamble makes the law effective immediately instead of in 90 days. Supporters said this will quickly help these retirees who have not had a hike in four years. Opponents favored Governor Weld's reduction of the hike to four percent and a delay in its implementation until July 1993 to save millions of dollars. (A "Yea" vote is for the emergency preamble. A "Nay" vote is against it).	Y
(Senate) LICENSE REVOCATION (S 1031) - Senate 20-14, gave near final approval to a bill revoking for ten years the license of anyone convicted of manslaughter when driving a motor vehicle. the measure also provides for revocation for life for a second offense. Current law provides these penalties for those convicted of motor vehicle homicide while under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Supporters said these stiff sanctions will keep these killers off the highways. Opponents said there should continue to be a distinction between people who commit these offenses under the influence and those not under the influence. (A "Yea" vote is for the license revocation. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N worry, it's over I'm coming home..." Then I realized how young he had been—my age.

Unfortunately it has never been over. Modern history seems like one long war. The combatants and locales shift, but somewhere as this is being written and still as you read it, war is gripping the world with a bloody hand.

Much as we would like to collect a peace dividend, history is a stern school mistress, that warns against optimism.

As we reflect on a cold tranquil Memorial Day in Cohasset, we owe the men and women who gave so much for our country the respect of continuing the promises that prompted their sacrifices.

On the homefront there is much to be done, as the LA riots attest. Internationally we must help the forces of democracy and freedom thrive.

These efforts will be made the harder by a prevailing cynicism that fosters an attitude of ennui and nihilism among our children. Perhaps rituals like Memorial Day are antidotes to those conditions. They steady the walk through history.

We owe these things not just to ourselves and the future...we owe them to our past.

Cub Scout Pack 38 conducts crossover ceremony

As the crowd of proud parents looked on, the Cub Scouts of Pack 38 received their many well-earned awards and then "crossed over" to their next year's scouting program. Already well along on their path of scouting adventure, 10 Tiger Cubs were officially welcomed as new members of the pack.

To kick off the awards, Cubmaster Jeff Forsdick presented handsome trophies to each of last month's Pinewood Derby winners in the pack competition. Two huge trophies, awarded by the Cranberry Harbors Scout District, were presented to Kevin DeVito for overall district Webelos winner, and to Patrick Carbone for fourth place in the district competition for wolf scouts.

Next on the agenda was the presentation of the many achievement and sports awards. A large number of the Cubs earned multiple gold and silver arrow points as well as sports belt-loops and proficiency pins for soccer, basketball, and baseball. Two Cubs earned their sports letters: Andy Dennis for ice skating, and David Krueger for skiing. The sports letter is the highest Cub Scouts sports award and requires the earning of the participation belt-loop and proficiency pin by both the Cub and his adult partner.

Group by group, the current Wolf and Bear Cubs were called forward to turn in their old neckerchiefs and receive new ones in recognition of their promotion to next year's programs. Thirty-six wolf cubs became next year's bears, while 14 bear cubs were promoted to the Webelos program.

At the end of the evening, five second-year Webelos Scouts were presented with Cub Scouting's highest award — the Arrow of Light. Kevin DeVito, John Paul Laugelle, Justin Maitland, Greg Boyne, and Christopher Olney then crossed over the Bridge to Scouting and were welcomed into Cohasset Troop 28, BSA by Assistant Scoutmaster Tom Judge in the impressive ceremony conducted by the entire boy scout troop. Each of the new boy scouts received the official Troop 28 neckerchief and a copy of the scout handbook.

Stephen will be missed

Pack 38 Cub Scouts will sadly miss one of their Bear Cubs, Stephen Geary of Hull.

Stephen died May 21, after a two-year battle with leukemia. Those who knew Stephen will always remember his happy smile and his enthusiasm towards scouting. He had been sick, but was determined to enter the Pack 38 Pinewood Derby car race with the handmade car he helped to make.

The scouts, leaders and their families extend their heartfelt sympathy to Stephen's family.

Joey Corbone, right, is congratulated on winning the Webelos Divison of the Pack 38 Pinewood Derby recently.

Troop 28 holds court of honor

Troop 28 Cohasset recently held its spring Court of Honor recognizing advancement in rank and leadership as well as awarding merit badges. Several scouts participated in the district Merit Badge College where they spent three Saturdays working with instructors on the requirements for several challenging badges. Completing badges this quarter were Frank Abadie—Firemanship, Space Exploration, and Indian Lore; Jay Nothnagle—Firemanship; Dave Christoffel—Firemanship; Buck Hubbell—Electricity. Lodovico Sestito and Tony Bramblett also participated and will complete badges.

The troop had an impressive display on Handicap Awareness at the District Mall Show in Cordage Park, Plymouth, in March. For four weeks before the show, the troop worked on understanding various disabilities and the equipment people can use to help overcome them. Their knowledge and well-designed booth won them top honors at the show. These scouts also completed the Handicap Awareness Badge: Dave Christoffel, Chris Laas, Buck Hubbell, Chad Whitman, Mark Whitman, Frank Abadie, and Anand Merchant.

In addition two boys in their first year of scouting completed the Tenderfoot Rank—Buck Hubbell and Chris Laas. Two more scouts have earned the rank of First Class—Dave Christoffel and Ryan Bishop. The boys received patches and certificates and each mother received the appropriate pin for her son's rank.

Troop leadership changes as the boys rise in rank and level of training. The current positions are: Senior Patrol Leader—Chad Whitman; Asst. Senior Patrol Leader—Lodovico Sestito; Pyro Patrol Leader—Dave Christoffel and Asst. Leader—Ryan Bishop; Trojan Patrol Leader—Mark Whitman and Asst. Leader—Frank Abadie.

At the close of the ceremony, John Bryant awarded the Silver Paddle to Chad Whitman for his essay on the fall camping trip to Mt. Moosalaukee, NH. The Silver Paddle is given annually to a scout who completes a presentation about a camping or high adventure trip.

Recently the boys have been busy at the Great Raft Race Camporee in Plymouth and preparing for Harborfest Parade, a trip to NH., and troop camping at Camp Squanto in July. This week they are welcoming Webelo Scouts into the troop at the cross-over. There is always room for any boy interested in becoming a scout. Summary of Findings – Recommendations

Study Description

During the past six months the Cohasset Harbor Study Committee has been developing a Master Plan for the improvement of Cohasset Harbor. Anderson-Nichols of Boston has provided technical planning assistance to the Committee.

The Master Plan has been funded through a grant from the Massachusetts Coastal Zone Management Program and an appropriation by the Cohasset Town Meeting.

The Cohasset Harbor Master Plan generally covers a twenty-year planning period. An implementation schedule for the first five years is an important element of the Plan. This implementation schedule should be reviewed each year and then extended for the subsequent five-year period. In this way, the Plan becomes a dynamic instrument which can be revised to meet the changing needs of the fishermen, recreational boaters and all who use the harbor facilities.

The Master Plan reflects considerable public input which was facilitated by several harbor planning workshops. The Harbor Study Committee has reviewed the diverse comments and feels that this plan carries out the major goals and objectives which were put forth.

This summary document is backed up by a series of detailed memoranda which have been incorporated into a loose leaf binder. Copies are available for review at the Paul Pratt Library and the Selectmen's Office.

Harbor Uses

General

Cohasset Harbor is used for a variety of activities. The dominant summertime use is for recreational boating. The dominant winter use is by commercial fishermen. Over 440 recreational boats are moored or docked in the harbor.

In addition, some 53 commercial fishing boats and approximately 375 small craft, skiffs, and dingies are found in the harbor.

Cohasset Harbor is small in comparison to other harbors of the Commonwealth. The small water area available at low tide, coupled with a constrained land-base for support facilities, creates a situation with many competing demands for the use of a limited resource.

Commercial lobstermen and recreational boaters currently share mooring and docking areas. Parking is limited. Access to the only public boat launching ramp is severely constrained. These are some of the problems which residents and visitors wrestle with each year. For the most part, the issues are not new.

Waterfront Use

There are over 8700 feet of water frontage in Cohasset Harbor. Twenty percent of the harbor water frontage is in Town ownership, and fifty percent is in private residential ownership. The balance is in commercial use.

Land-based commercial activities around the harbor include Hugo's Lighthouse Restaurant, Kimball's Motor Inn, Gaffey's Yacht Sales, Mill River Marine Railways, and Hagerty's Cohasset Colonials. The Old Salt House, located at First Wharf, will soon have a ship store and fuel facilities.

Gaffey's Yacht Sales is the only land-based commercial operation dependent on a waterfront location. Hagerty's, once a manufacturer of racing boats, now manufactures re-production colonial furniture. Hugo's Lighthouse and Kimball's Motor Inn, although associated with the waterfront (Hugo's has a float for visitor tie-up), attribute much of their business to other activities within the Town, such as the South Shore Music Circus.

Recreational Boating

Recreational boating is the dominant summertime activity of Cohasset Harbor. Over 440 sailboats and powerboats are kept in the harbor; of these, 335 are on moorings; 87 are kept tied to floats at the Cohasset Yacht Club; and 21 are kept at the Sailing Club. These boats range in size from 14'-57' with total linear footage of 8740'. Roughly half of these boats are inboard and outboard powerboats, and half are sailboats.

In addition, several hundred rowing dingies and skiffs are tied up to the Town floats or floats at the Sailing and Yacht Clubs.

Cohasset has produced many respected championship racers. To maintain this tradition, the harbor maintains a racing fleet with mooring space earmarked for 48 boats of various classes.

The Cohasset Yacht Club members operate out of their clubhouse, located at the end of Howard Gleason Road. The Yacht Club was founded in 1892 and currently has 250 members.

The Cohasset Sailing Club is a non-profit institution, organized to provide sailing opportunities for all Cohasset residents. The Sailing Club operates out of a newly-constructed clubhouse located on Town-owned Government Island.

The Sailing Club has a Junior Training Program which has seen over 3000 persons enroll during the Club's 20 years of operation.

Other Recreational Activities

The Town of Cohasset does not operate any active recreational program in the harbor area. The junior programs at the Sailing and Yacht Clubs, therefore, represent the major organized active recreational activities on the water.

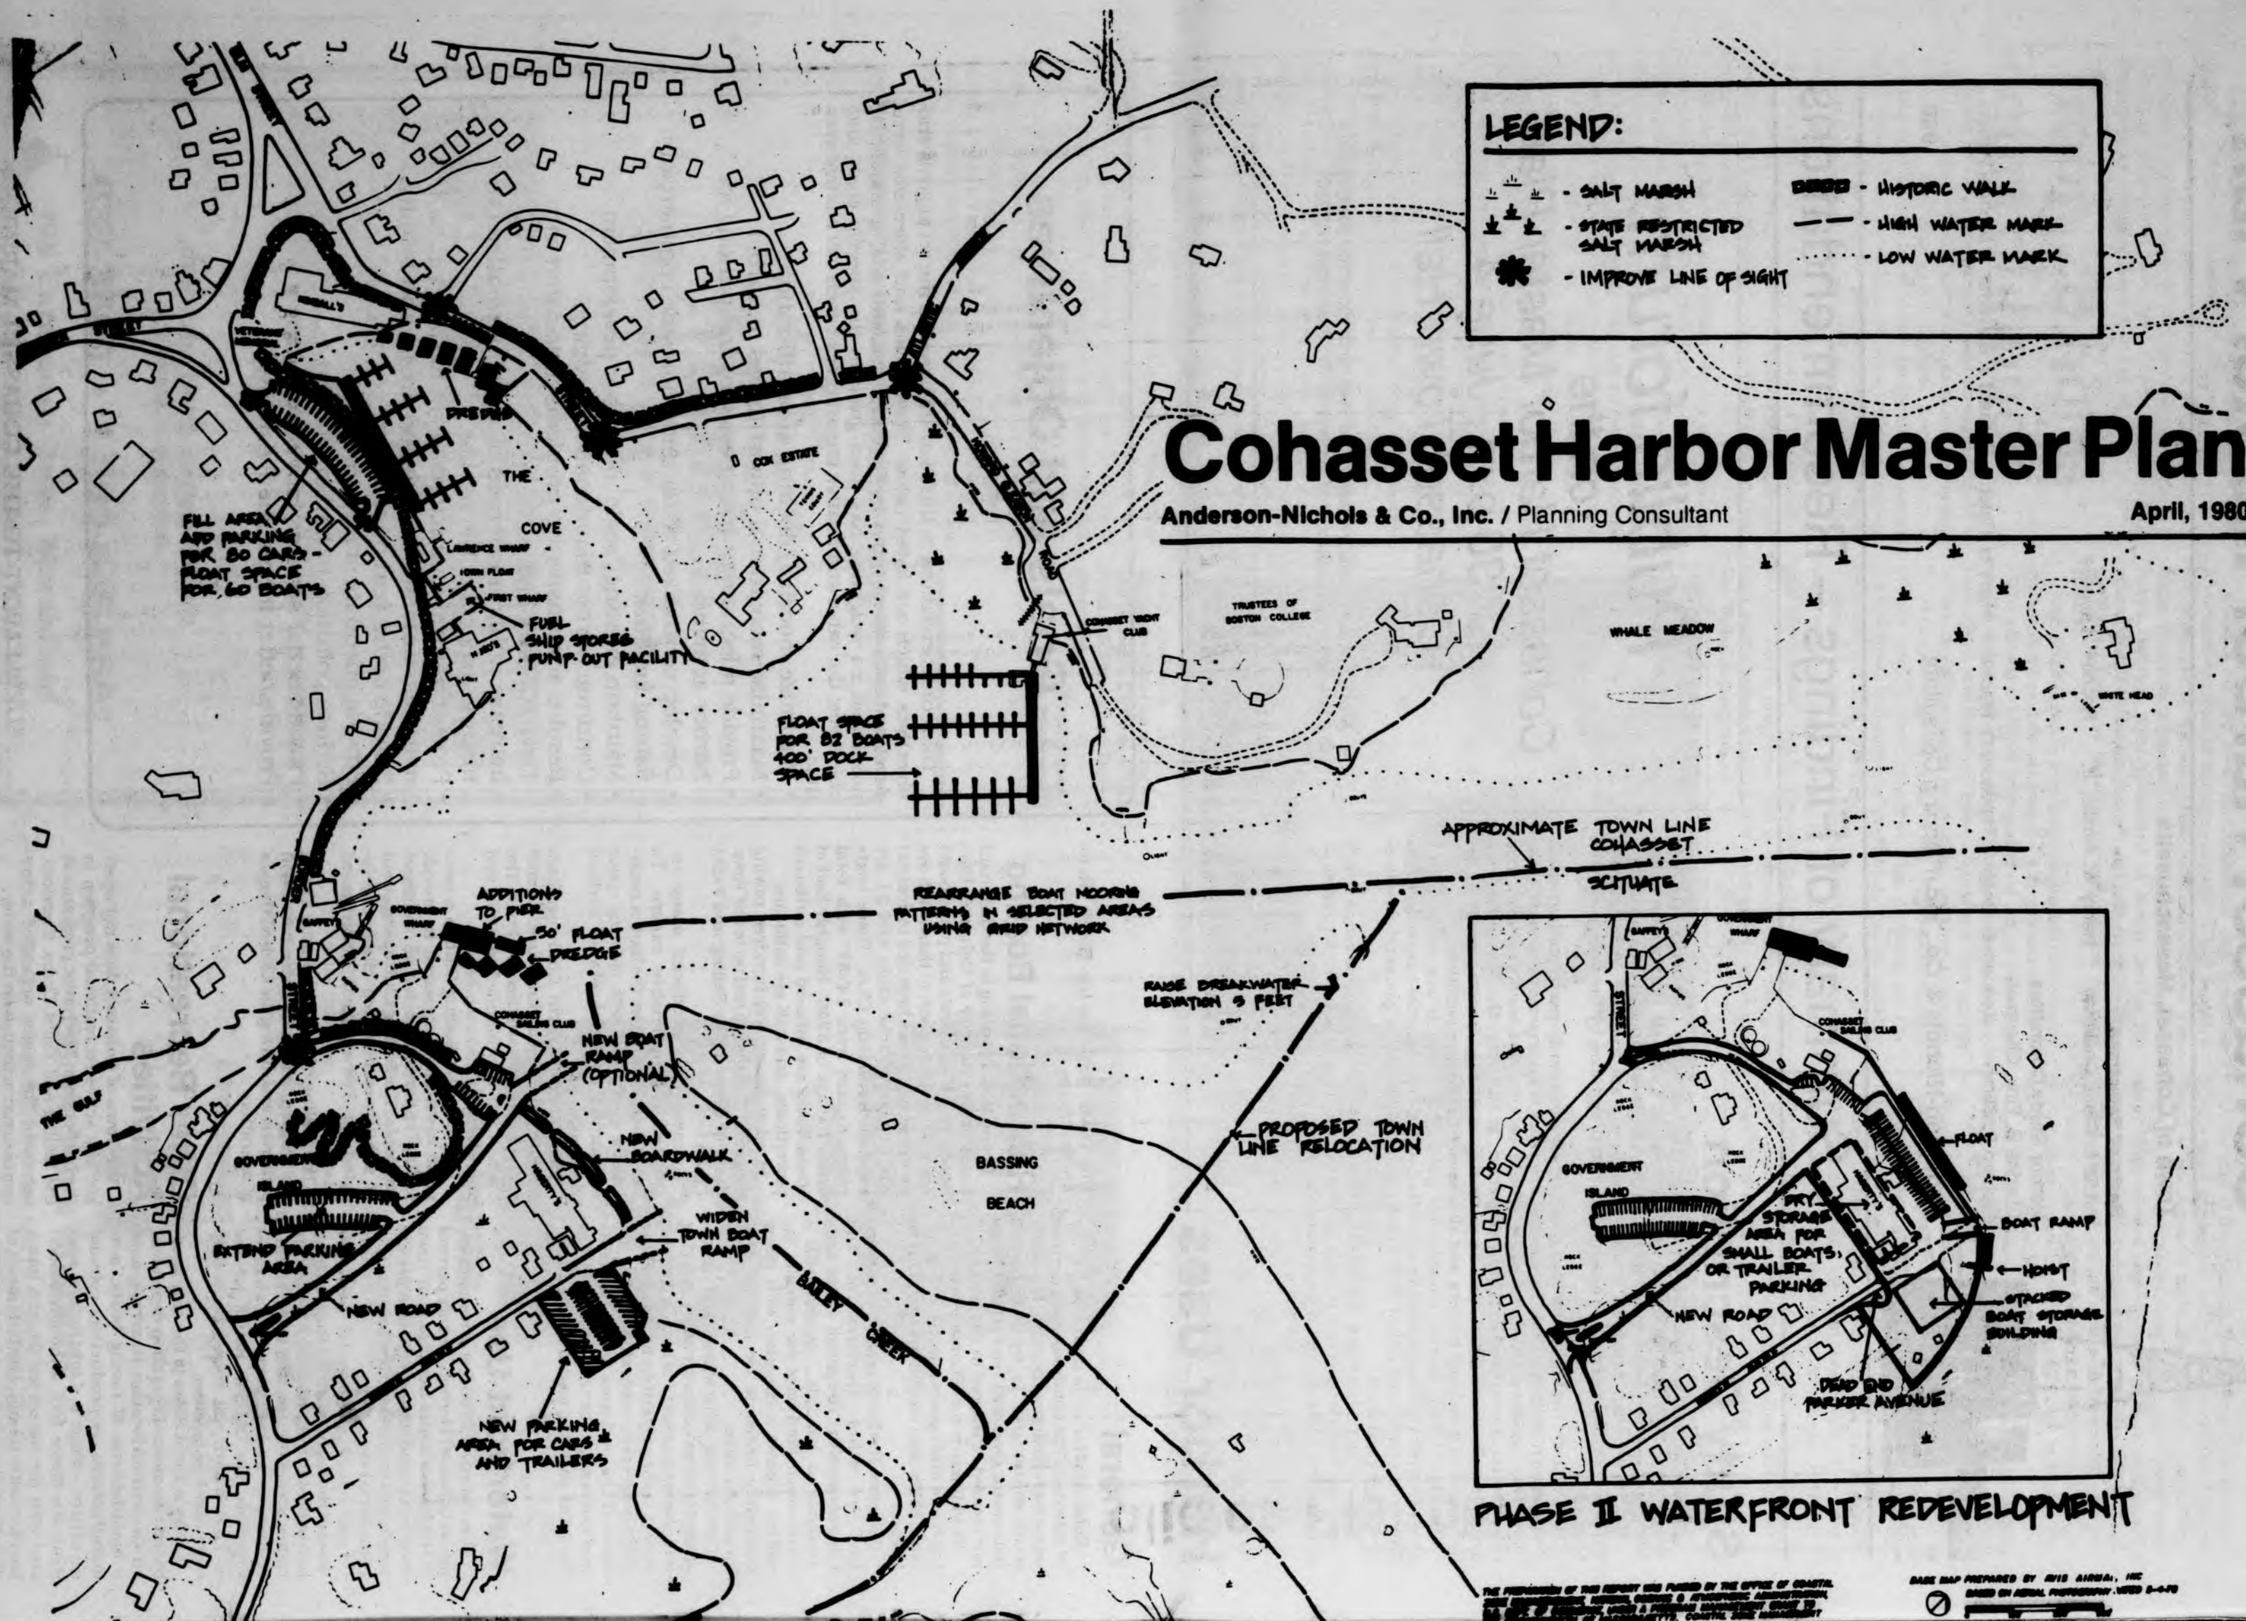
Goals and Objectives



The recommendations in this Plan are based on the set of goals and objectives which are listed below. These goals and objectives were developed with direct input by Cohasset residents and it should be noted that no weighting has been given to the specific goals and objectives; the value and relative importance of each will change over time.

- Maximize mooring/docking area utilization.
- Maximize recreational opportunities in harbor.
- Provide adequate public access to, and parking for harbor activities.
- Develop centralized water and shoreside commercial fishing facilities.
- Maintain existing "scale" of harbor development.
- Continue harbor maintenance dredging.
- Resolve administrative problems associated with Town/County line.
- Increase public awareness of, and information on, historic aspects of the harbor.
- Protect natural characteristics of harbor, i.e., salt marshes, watershed-floodplain areas, and salinity.
- Provide better harbor security.
- Provide adequate storm protection.
- Reduce pollution to harbor from boats.
- Provide better services for visiting boats.
- Provide better intersection visibility.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE COHASSET MARINER

Cohasset Harbor Master Plan

Anderson-Nichols & Co., Inc. / Planning Consultant April, 1980

Recommended Actions

Cohasset Harbor is constrained by a limited water area. Existing land use, streets, geology, and protected wetlands severely restrict opportunities for expanding the water area. An additional constraint is the complex flow of currents resulting from tidal movements to and from Bailey's Creek and the Gulf.

The land area surrounding the harbor suitable for waterfront activities is in short supply, too. Residential areas ring the streets bordering the harbor and preclude any major opportunities for expansion.

As a consequence of the resource limitations cited above, any plan for Cohasset Harbor must be very efficient in its use of land and water areas.

During the development of the Master Plan, several options for harbor improvements were discussed which, for various reasons, were not included in the final plan. Two of these options were development of marina facilities in Whale Meadow and at the eastern end of Bailey's Creek. Based on current law, specifically the Wetlands Protection Program (c.131, s.40) and the Coastal Wetlands Restrictions Program (c.130, s.105), this type of activity in these regulated wetland areas is prohibited. The list of recommended actions, therefore, represents activities that are viable under current rules and regulations and are consistent with the adopted goals and objectives.

The Cohasset Harbor Master Plan shown above illustrates a number of recommendations to improve the harbor over a period of years. These proposals are described in the Policy Planning Chart below.

Implementation Program

A five-year implementation program and schedule has been prepared for high priority Harbor Master Plan recommendations. This schedule should be reviewed, revised and extended on an annual basis.

The implementation plan assumes a combination of local, State, or Federal funds will be available to facilitate project financing. In some cases, it may be possible to amortize development costs through user fee charges.

Specific recommendations for project implementation are contained in memoranda included in the loose leaf binder developed for the Harbor Study Committee during the course of the study.

Harbor Uses (con't)

Other active recreational uses of the harbor include rowing, canoeing, fishing from docks and boats, and, to a limited degree, shellfishing.

Swimming is allowed from boats or from shore. The most popular swimming area is north of the breakwater off Bassing Beach.

Needs

The general demand for recreational boating is higher now than in the past. This is attributed to many factors—most notably a general increase in leisure time and greater disposable income.

There are individual exceptions to the rule, but the most identifiable trend for boating is that more people want to place more boats in the water—including Cohasset Harbor. This demand shows no signs of reversing, although characteristics of the types of boats people purchase do change.

Trends for Cohasset Harbor show a slight shift away from the use of gasoline-powered boats to sailboats. The total harbor fleet, however, is still roughly split 50-50 between powerboats and sailboats.

The current waiting list for a recreational boat mooring contains 169 names. Powerboats account for 77 of these and sailboats 92. The average boat length is 25 feet, with a range of from 12 to 60 feet. There is currently as long as an eleven-year wait for a mooring in Cohasset Harbor.

The needs of recreational boaters in Cohasset Harbor are both diverse and highly individualized. This is due to the variety of boat types, owner preferences, and reasons for boat ownership. Several areas of concern arise repeatedly in discussions with boat owners and recreationists. The needs expressed most often are:

additional mooring space,
fuel facilities,
better parking,
develop marina-day sailing facilities and provide better security.

Commercial Fishing

Lobstering is the primary water-based commercial activity in Cohasset Harbor. This activity is seasonal for half of the commercial fleet, with the remaining half using the harbor area year-round. In the winter months, lobster boats moor near the Yacht Club, an area which rarely freezes over. The Coast Guard's 65-foot tugboat keeps the entrance channel and mouth of the harbor from icing over during the winter months, although severe cold spells have resulted in the harbor being frozen for as long as ten days.

Other commercial activities include gillnetting, tuna fishing and mossing.

Lobstering

Massachusetts fishery statistics show that the coastal lobster fishery of Massachusetts continues to be the most economically important fishery conducted within the territorial waters of the Commonwealth. The 5.7 million pounds of lobsters, landed in 1977, represents a 35.7 percent increase over the 4.2 million pounds of lobsters landed in 1972. The total value of catches has increased in the same period from $10.6 million to $26.3 million.

The Harbor Master has furnished data showing that there are 43 lobster boats based on the harbor. These range in size from 14 to 43 feet. Some have drafts in excess of 5-1/2 feet. The commercial boats have a total gross value of approximately $360,000. The average commercial catch for the harbor ranges from 150 to 250 tons per year, having a gross value of $600,000 to $1,000,000 per year.

Of the 43 lobster boats moored in the harbor, 20 are engaged in full-time year-round lobstering. These boats range in size from 20 to 45 feet in length. An additional 20 boats possess a $100 commercial fishing license but do not operate on a full-time basis. Three boats operate under student licenses.

The lobstermen currently use both the Government Island Wharf and the Town dock in the Cove for loading bait and unloading catches. There are no fuel or Town-owned dockside boat repair facilities in the harbor to service the commercial fleet. Mill River Marina does haul boats and make repairs.

The lobster industry provides a range of benefits and some problems to the Town. Problems occur mostly from the traffic congestion and other conflicts generated by operating businesses and recreational activities within a confined area. Benefits, beside income to the Town through tax revenues and fees, appear in several ways, with the major benefit being a local source of employment. In addition, the lobster industry adds to the historic and cultural setting of the harbor and is a drawing card for tourists and patrons at the shoreside restaurant and businesses.

Other Commercial Fishing Activities

In addition to lobstering, several fishermen gillnet in the winter months—January to mid-March—to supplement their income. This is the period when the size of catches and days available for lobstering are limited. No boats utilize long-line type of fishing.

Bluefish tuna, with a current 1990 ex-vessel price of $2/lb., has stimulated interest in this market. Three to four tuna boats operate out of the harbor on a seasonal basis. Catches are sold dockside to a Boston merchant who packs the tuna in ice and ships it directly to Japan.

Local students operate 10 to 12 boats to collect Irish Moss off coastal rocks and ledges. The moss boats operate from about June 15 to Labor Day. A local dealer brings a truck, equipped with a scale, to the Parker Avenue boat ramp where the mossers unload and sell their harvest.

This practice has, in the past, led to traffic problems and congestion at the Parker Avenue ramp. This is due to conflicts between pleasure boats wanting to haul at the same time the moss boats unload.

Commercial Fishing Trends

Offshore lobstering continues to be the dominant commercial fishing activity of Cohasset Harbor. Although fishery statistics indicate that the catch of lobsters has not declined for the harbor in recent years, it reportedly now takes 400 lobster pots to catch the same amount that 200 pots could catch 10 years ago. Ninety percent of the lobstermen now use the trawl techniques rather than single pots on a market buoy.

Lobster boats used by commercial fishermen are longer than they were a decade ago. The average lobster boat was around 25 feet 10 years ago as compared to an average length of 35 feet today.

Long-term trends will most likely show a continuation of the lobstering industry as it has in the past. The harbor fleet has developed to the maximum size existing facilities can accommodate. The full-time fleet of 15-20 boats have remained steady for some time. The major commercial increase has come from part-time fishermen. Current economic pressures, such as the high cost of fuel, may force some part-time fishermen to stop lobstering; however, different economic pressures tend to stimulate more interest in the extra and supplementary income which lobstering can provide on a part-time basis. The net result is a steady increase in demand for additional commercial mooring space and shore-side facilities.

Gillnetting, as a supplement to lobstering, will continue, possibly increasing in the future.

Commercial Fishing Needs

A list of the needs, as expressed by commercial fishermen, includes the following:

Fixed pier accessible at all tides; centralized docking/loading facilities;
fuel facilities;
mooring space for larger/additional boats, and cold storage for bait.

Grampré recalls liberation of Souppes sur Loing

By Henri Granpré
Memorial Day 1992

(translated by Jacqueline Dormitzer)

I am honored to be the spokesman for the Town of Souppes sur Loing, for the Souppes-Cohasset sister-city committee, and for the Association of Veteran Resistance Fighters.

I am going to explain to you my reasons for being here and for the bond between our two communities.

When war was declared against Nazi Germany on September 2, 1939, I was 20 years old. I was mobilized into the 82nd Infantry at Chalon sur Soane, and demobilized on July 20, 1940.

Responding to the appeal of General de Gaulle on June 18, 1940, I refused to return to the occupied zone. France, now martyred, was divided into three zones: (1) the forbidden zone (Alsace and Lorraine), (2) the occupied zone, which cut France in half, and (3) the free zone, governed by Marshall Pétain.

In the free zone in August 1940, 100,000 young Frenchmen were organized into youth camps. Some of these youths, myself included, constituted the foundation of the French Resistance, which in 1943 was led by our national hero Jean Moulin.

That year the Resistance formed a network at Souppes sur Loing, approved by the War Office in London. Our role was to transmit information from the BBC to Allied paratroopers about enemy arms, material, and personnel. For twelve months we volunteer soldiers-without-uniform furnished data to sabotage the German Army of the Occupation.

After the debarkation of our American Allies in Normandy on June 6, 1944, the 12th Batallion of General Patton's 3rd Armored Division, led by Major Thomas Churchill of Cohasset, was advancing to the east of France. At Souppes, the Loing River is bridged by 13 arches, which permit access to the town and to points east. Major Churchill chose to penetrate to the east through our town.

On August 19, 1944, the Germans, to delay the passage of the Americans at Souppes, planned to blow up the thirteen bridges. Warned about this decision, the Resistance intercepted and joined the combat. With the intervention of the Twelfth Regiment of the Third Armored Division, Souppes sur Loing was liberated on Monday, August 21, 1944, at 4 p.m.

To care for the wounded—French, American, and German—an army hospital was set up, and for ten days I had a chance to become better acquainted with Major Churchill.

In 1945 the war was over, and everyone returned to his own life.

Nearly 40 years later, the American veterans organized a pilgrimage to Europe in memory of their war experience on our continent. It was thus on June 10, 1984, that Major Churchill, recalling the Liberation of Souppes, informed our community of his arrival, and during his visit placed a garland of flowers at the War Memorial Monument.

Oh how overwhelmed with joy I was by Major Churchill's gesture of respect. Thus in January 1985, I suggested to our Mayor, Victor Prudhomme, that we create a sister-city association between Cohasset and Souppes. In 1986 a cultural and social exchange was established between the two towns, and ties of friendship developed. That is why on this Memorial Day, in the name of the town of Souppes sur Loing; the Association of Veterans of the Resistance, which I founded; and the Sister-City Committee, I give homage to Thomas Churchill and to American Veterans of all wars who died in combat to ensure liberty and peace throughout the world.

I thank you for the honor you have given me and for your warm welcome on this Memorial Day.

Vive les Etats-Unis d'Amerique. Vive la France.

Recalling the past forgotten.

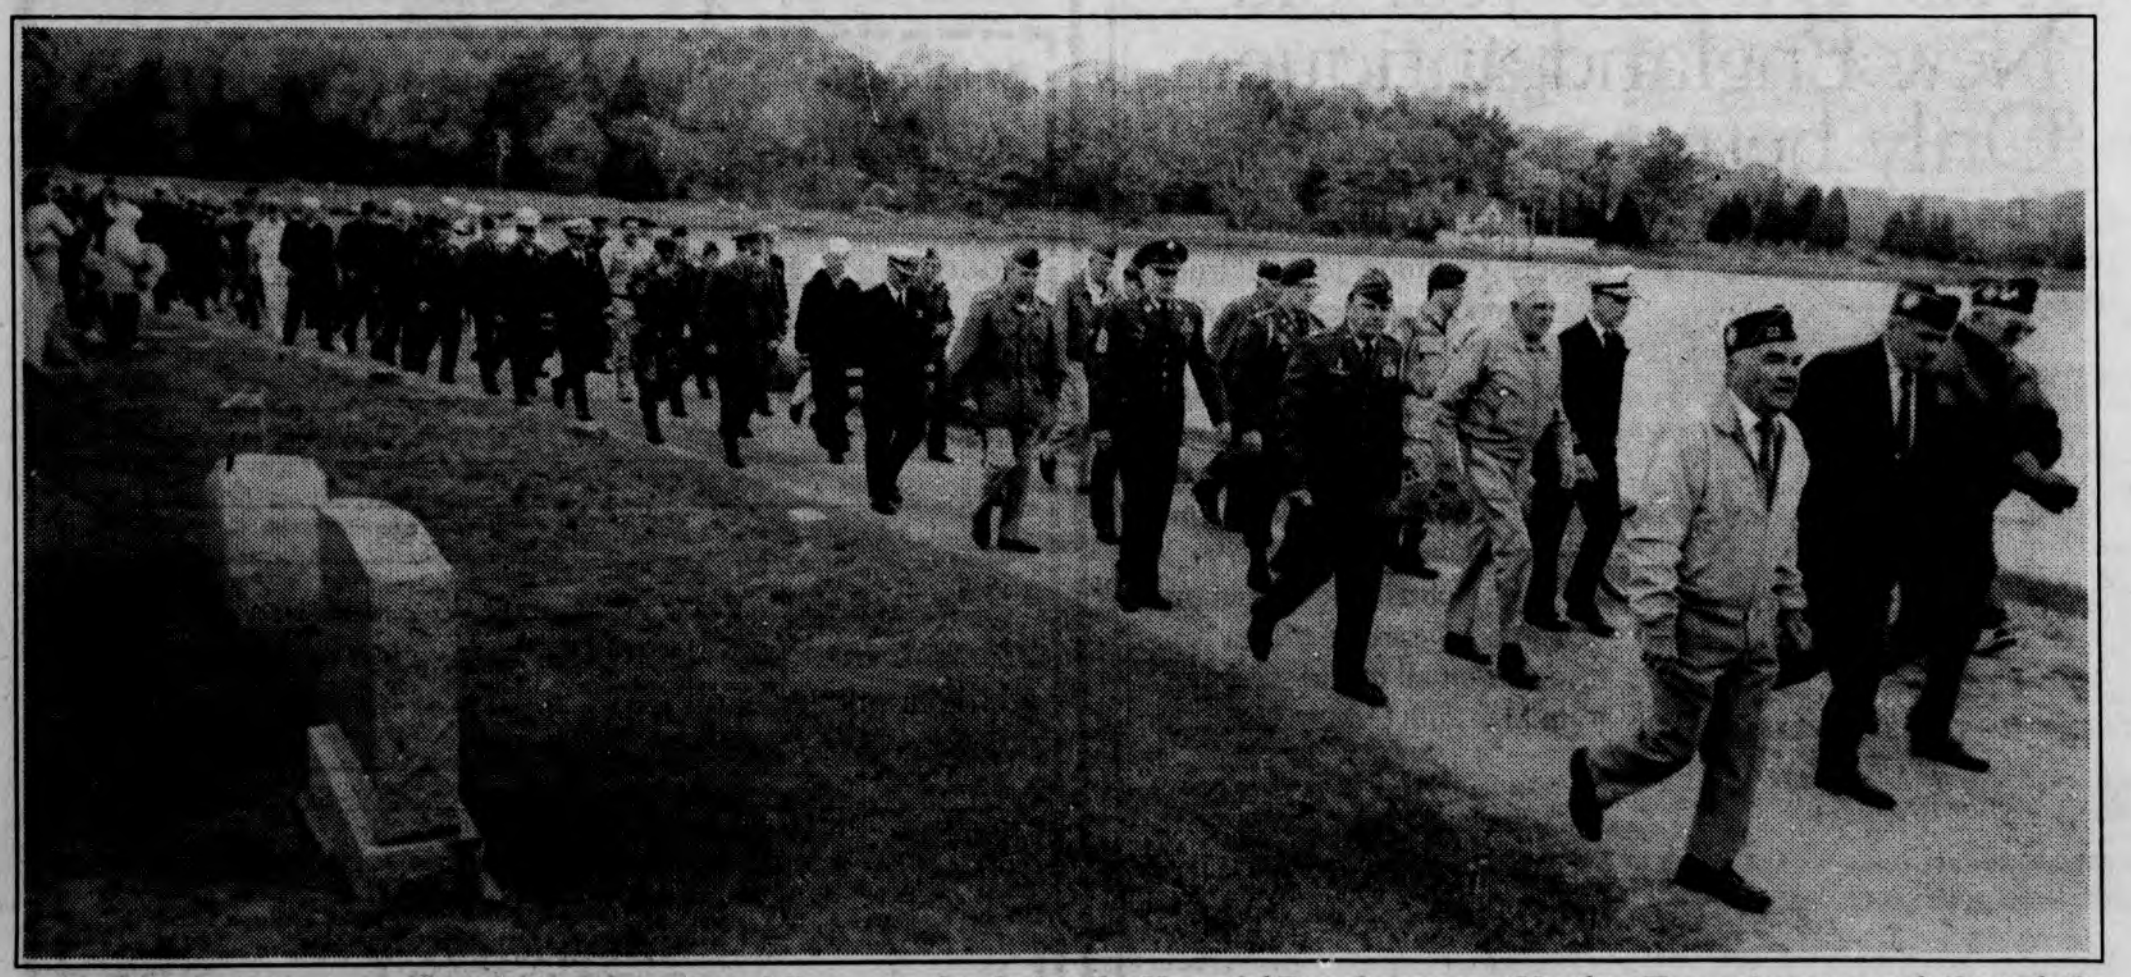
"We must challenge that popular Barracks Ballad, cited by General Douglas MacArthur. Indeed mortality is a reality. Sailors, Soldiers, Airmen and Marines do die, but we must not let their memories fade away."

Earlier in the morning veterans from the George H. Mealy American Legion Post 9146 and Cohasset VFW Post 9146 and other interested citizens visited the outlying cemeteries in town.



The parade stepped off from the Music Circus parking lot about 10:30 a.m. and proceeded to the cemetery at Joy Place. From there the parade, which included about 65 Cohasset veterans, the Kevin Barry Irish American Pipers, the Deer Hill School Band, town officials, and scouts of all ages, proceeded to the World War I memorial at the town common.

Then the parade marched to Cohasset Veterans Memorial Park at the harbor where the Rev. John Keohane of St. Anthony's Parish gave the invocation.

A special award was presented to bugler, Brian Conant, a Cohasset High School senior who plans to the attend the University of Vermont in the fall.

Gold Star mother, Mrs. Norbert Reardon placed a wreath at the veterans' memorial. Mrs. Reardon lost a son in Vietnam. Another son, Vietnam veteran (Lt. Col.) Norbert Reardon of Cohasset marched in the parade.

(For the full text of Monsieur Granpré's and Mr. McElroy's speeches, please see pages. 15 & 17).

About 65 Cohasset veterans marched to honor their fallen comrades during the Memorial Day observances Monday. Here veterans march through the Central Cemetery by Little Harbor.

Passages (Memorial Day, 1992)

Joseph R. McElroy
LTC, USA(Retired)

Commander Wigmore, Commander Perroncello, fellow veterans, clergy, and citizens; we are gathered here today to not only remember our departed servicemen, and the sacrifices they made on our behalf, but to also:

- celebrate their successful protection of our liberties
- rededicate ourselves to the principles for which they stood
- challenge ourselves not to be complacent with freedom's most recent triumph: the defeat of communism.

Above all, it is a day of remembrance, not only for those deceased servicemen that we personally knew, but for each and every American veteran now departed since the Revolutionary War:

- Washington's tattered bugler at Valley Forge
- Charles Burt, of Springfield, the last Massachusetts survivor of the Grand Old Army of the Republic who died in 1947
- Cohasset's Bunny Kennedy and his World War I comrades
- Those known only to God at Arlington Cemetery

As we reflect on the sacrifices and achievements of our departed veterans, we cannot help but be moved by the poignancy of the torch of responsibility being passed from one generation to the next. Last October, veterans and rotarians listened to several young Cohasset High School students speak on the theme "Meeting America's Challenge." When I left the Rotary Club that evening, I recall one Rotarian expressing his surprise and pleasure at the patriotic fervor demonstrated by all the young men. In fact, the winner of that speaking contest is Joe Gagliano who will graduate from the United States Naval Academy, Class of 1996. So, our future is in good hands and we should feel reassured that the sacrifices of George H. Mealy, Robert E. Jason, David Strout, Allan Keating and their comrades were not in vain.

But what of our past? Will we dismiss it as irrelevant? I was recently reading Burt Pratt's "History of Cohasset" and his reminiscences included a passage about Austin "Bud" Ahearn and the winter of 1944 when he found himself in the Ardennes during the Battle of the Bulge. The same Bud Ahearn who has been working for almost two years, with others, to establish a war memorial to all Cohasset veterans on this site where we stand. Construction of the memorial will begin during July and the World War 11 portion is targeted for completion by Veterans Day. But I am disturbed that this is perceived solely as a "Veteran's Project:" of, by and for veterans. The sacrifices of Bud, Burt, and so many others was for the community and for the Country. Let this War Memorial Project be by the Community as a constant reminder that the cost of freedom is eternal vigilance and the commitment of our youth to its defense. To date, less than one-half the necessary financial support has been realized to complete this Memorial. Let's each and every one of us do whatever we can to make our Community War Memorial a reality.

John Kennedy spoke at his 1961 Inaugural Address of the Louis Bailey's, George Haley's and other Veteran's of World War II and Korea when he said "Let the word go forth... that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans — born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a hard and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage — and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed..." Now we entrust that torch to the veterans of Vietnam, Grenada, Panama and the Gulf War, with the knowledge that the sacrifices of their predecessors will not be forgotten.

We must challenge that popular Barracks Ballad, cited by General Douglas MacArthur. Indeed, mortality is a reality. Sailors, Soldiers, Airmen and Marines do die, but we must not let their memories fade away.

Rather, let's take a leaf from a Memorial Day tribute written by my father-in-law, a World War I serviceman, about the aging Civil War veterans of the Old Guard as they marched in the 1926 Boston Memorial Day Parade.

They could take their ease this morning
In a cushioned rocking chair:
They could leave the task to others
Who would fondly, proudly care
For their sleeping battle-brothers, but they're soldiers to the last,
and the nation's heart is thrilling
As the Old Guard marches past.
They were bent a bit with aging
And they faltered yesterday,
But a change has come upon them
And they walk erect today,
For they heard a bugle calling
At the coming of the dawn,
And the nation stands saluting
As the Old Guard carries on.

God bless our departed comrades and protect their families.

Matt Hochkeppel to cycle across country

By Paul Knowles
Mariner correspondent

When he was younger, Cohasset's Matt Hochkeppel always seemed to play harder than the other kids. He ran a little faster around the bases, followed the play with a little more intensity, took the outcome of a Little League game a little more personally. When he took up cycling, he rode farther and faster than his friends, and was the first to really take it seriously as a sport. It seemed to be a good outlet for Mattie, a way to release his emotions. And an emotional release was a necessity at times, because he, like every other kid around, dreaded the thought of being "different". But he was. Matt Hochkeppel was deaf, and he was determined to live his life like everyone else in a hearing world.

Matt Hochkeppel is now 22 years old, a fine art photography/photo illustrator major at Rochester Institute of Technology, a confirmed long distance cyclist, and, yes, still deaf. And he still lives his life with that same intensity.

This summer he and a fellow R.I.T. student, John Taylor, are planning to cycle across country. They will start in Chatham, on Cape Cod, on June 1, travel through Mass, R.I., Conn., N.Y., Penn., Ohio, Iowa, Nebraska, Utah, and Nevada, stop at the N.A.D. Conference in Denver during the last week in June, and end their odyssey in San Francisco sometime in early August. While travelling across America, they will be attempting to promote the use of bicycles as an accepted form of alternative transportation; encourage individuals to become more involved in their own physical fitness; raise people's awareness of environmental issues; and document in photographs the realities of pollution throughout the United States.

The whole trip, coast to coast, is being financed by the young men themselves. Christmas, birthdays, special occasions — Matt asked not for presents, but for a contribution to his trip fund. The two young men have been running a cash raffle called "Earth First" to raise money for the trip and to promote awareness of the Earth's needs. Even though they plan to camp out each night and do any needed repairs and maintenance on their bikes themselves, they estimate that the cost of the trip (food, maintenance, camping equipment, film and photography supplies) should run at a minimum of $1500 each. Raising the money has been a tough battle, and the war has not yet been won. But Matt is not one to let hard work or adverse circumstances get in his way.

The trip was first planned for last summer, until a serious automobile accident sidelined both Matt and the trip for a year; but his injuries did not stop him. They simply gave him an extra year to make his plans and extend his training for the long distance ride. When the third member of the group bowed out, Matt just adjusted the plans to accommodate two instead of three. And when people brought up objections or fears about two hearing impaired young men cycling across the U.S. alone, he put his handicap to good use — he just didn't hear them!

Matt's parents, Molly and Joe, are really excited for him. Although they have the same fears and worries that any other parents would feel with a child riding across country, they have faith in Mattie's ability to carry it off. And they will be cheering him on all the way.

Anyone who would like to contribute to the boys' trip can call the Hochkeppels at 383-9316, or by mail to Matthew Hochkeppel, c/o 22 Smith Place, Cohasset, MA 02025.

Skippers sail to second in state

For three centuries now, Cohasset has been producing great sailors; and today is no exception.

May 19 and 20, the Skippers, with powerful sailing, took second in the State Championships held at MIT on the Charles and sailed in Lark sloops and Tech dinghies.

Of 15 schools competing, Cohasset once again was the top public high school in the Championships and the only such school to place in the top five.

Senior Captain John Murphy, with eighth grader Chloe Chittick crewing, and freshman skipper Joe Menis, with eighth grader Nikki Peterson crewing, both compiled solid low scores in the tiring 13 race series.

John and Joe are tremendously savvy skippers, and great hikers, while Chloe and Nikki provide the dogged consistency to make the boats go. If you love to see boats move, you should have seen the skippers move these boats.

Golf tourney, June 24

In conjunction with the 37th annual South Shore Arts Center Art Festival and second Harborfest, the SSAC and Cohasset Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring a June 24 golf tournament at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham.

The tournament fee of $100 includes greens' fees, cart, dinner, and prizes. Dinner reservations for non-golfers are $50.

The deadline to sign up is June 5.

Opportunities for sponsorship of greens, tees, hazards, and carts are available.

For more information, call the SSAC at 383-9548.

Taoist master coming

June 13 and 14 Wah Lum Academy of Cohasset will host internationally recognized author and Tao master Mantak Chia. Curriculums will include: the microcosmic orbit meditation/Tao secrets of love and cosmic healing Chi Kug (Buddha Palm).

These workshops are open to the public and no previous experience is necessary. For further information on times, costs, etc., please call host John .C. Leupos at 383-6822.

Teens as role models

The Cohasset Girls Softball League is to have on board a group of teens who will serve as either coaches or umpires. Their dedication to the league has been apparent since the league was formed in 1990. Not only are their knowledge and dedication invaluable to the League but they are wonderful role models for the girls too. Their method of instruction or explanation is always mixed with a bit of humor and sincerity only teens possess.

The following is a list of teens involved this year as either coaches or umpires: Pete Collins, Charlie Smith, Chris Rolandelli, Scott Theriault, Jen Knowles, Allison Ludlow, Steve Harrington, Nicky Wells, and Curt Ludlow.

Choral Evensong

A service of Choral Evensong will be held at St. Stephen's Church, 16 Highland Avenue, Ascension Day, Thursday May 28 at 7:30 p.m. Ascension Day takes place on the fortieth day after Easter and has been celebrated since the fourth century. The Ascension celebrates Jesus' coming to God after his death on the cross. It prepares worshipers for God's coming to them in the power of the Spirit. It is the celebration of the mutual love of people being in God and God in them.

Evensong in the Anglican tradition is a magnificent act of worship. Drawn almost entirely from the Bible, its primary purpose is to proclaim the wonderful works of God in history and in the life, death, resurrection and ascension of Jesus Christ. Its secondary purpose is to evoke from the worshiper a response of penitence and praise, prayer and obedience. Together choir and congregation make "a joyful noise unto the Lord."

57 bell carillon

Sally Slade Warner, Carillonneur of St. Stephen's Church, will perform a recital on the 57 bell Cohasset Carillon on Sunday afternoon, May 31 at 2:30 p.m. The concert on the town common will take place rain or shine, and printed programs will be provided. During the course of the recital, the tower of St. Stephen's Church will be open to visitors. Those interested in seeing how the instrument is played may climb the 45 stairs to the playing cabin.

The summer recital series which enters its 69th year will begin on Sunday, July 5 at 6 p.m. with a recital by Peter Langberg of Logumkloster, Denmark.

Junior Cotillion opens

Registration is now beginning for the 1992-93 Junior Cotillion session. An informational Parents' Coffee will be held June 1 at 7:30 p.m., St. John's Church, 172 Main Street, Hingham. If you would like to attend the Parents' Coffee or want more information, please call 749-1234. Registration for next fall ends June 10.

The Junior Cotillion of Greater Boston is a chapter of the National League of Junior Cotillions, headquartered in Charlotte, NC. The National League of Junior Cotillions has been organizing cotillion programs for over 13 years. The local students participate in the same program taught by Cotillion Directors across the United States. In addition, the National League sponsors a scholarship contest for Cotillion students and awards a scholarship to a camp or educational program.

Sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade students from South Shore towns are invited to participate in the Junior Cotillion program, which features etiquette and ballroom dance training. The program includes six classes and two balls over an eight-month period. The classes will be held from September through April, one evening a month, in Cohasset, Hingham and Milton. Enrollment is limited to 25 boys and 25 girls per class.

The purpose of the two-year program is to give young people instruction and practice in the courtesies that make life more pleasant for them and those around them and to provide opportunities to practice and enjoy these skills at memorable classes and balls. The social behavior component of the program ranges from making proper introductions to table manners and, among other topics, includes posture, receiving lines, telephone etiquette and the proper way to get into coats and through doors. They learn the proper way to respond to invitations and how to write proper thank you letters. The classes also involve training in the waltz, fox trot, cha cha and beach shag, as well as the usual courtesies associated with dancing.

Republicans to debate

Tonight, (May 28), Host Wigmore Pierson's guests on a special two hour edition of Pierson to Person will be two of the three Republicans running for the Congressional seat currently held by Rep. Gerry Studds (D-Cohasset).

Republicans appearing are Michael Crossen of Mashpee, and Robert King, Plymouth. Dan Daly of Hingham declined to appear. Late last week former Congressman Hastings Keith withdrew from the race.

Appearing separately in the second hour will be Jon L. Bryan from Marstons Mills, running this year as an Independent, who narrowly lost to Congressman Studds in 1990.

Joining Wigmore A. Pierson to question the candidates will be William B. Ketter, Editor of the Patriot Ledger and Robert Stone, News Director, WATD, Marshfield.

The two-hour extended edition of Pierson to Person airs live Thursday, May 28 8-10 p.m. on Channels 3 and 53 in Cohasset and Hingham.

'Spirited' CHS Class of 1992 to graduate

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

When a class graduates from Cohasset High School, it's like saying goodbye to a member of the family.

And Principal Mary Ellen Gallagher notes that this year's class is no different.

"They are very unified," she says about the 70 graduates. "They all know and like each other."

And what Cohasset High's senior class lacks in numbers when compared with other area high schools — they make up for in enthusiasm.

"They are lively spirited, friendly, and social," Gallagher says.

As graduation exercises get underway at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, June 7 at the Music Circus, the class will march to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance."

Graduating senior Alison Welz will lead the audience and graduates in singing "The Star Spangled Banner" a cappella.

But although the national anthem will be sung

Call Trace may put harassing callers on hold

By Dori Dwyer
Mariner staff

Recipients of harassing phone calls in Cohasset are eligible for a new service that can automatically trace the calls, without prior notice to the phone company.

With New England Telephone's new "Call Trace" service, first time recipients of harassing or obscene phone calls can trace the calls by pressing *57 (or dialing 1157 on a rotary phone) as soon as they hang up from the call.

A recorded message is activated after the *57 or 1157 code is used which confirms whether or not the trace was successful.

Calls are only traceable if they originate in one of the communities where Call Trace is now available.

Arson suspected in Food Mart fire

Police are close to seeking an indictment in the Roberts Food Mart fire, Sgt. Brian Noonan said.

Noonan said test results on samples taken from the convenience store, which burned April 21, show traces of gasoline.

"We have enough information to believe it is arson," Noonan said.

Cohasset police will turn over their evidence to District Attorney William Delahunt's office for presentation to the grand jury, Noonan said.

Fire broke out in the rear of Roberts Food Mart, which is in the Jonathan Livingston Plaza on Rte. 3A, in the Construction of World War II Memorial to begin this summer

Cohasset Historical Military Memorial, Inc. the non-profit organization whose mission is to build memorials to Cohasset men and women who have served in the Armed Services in all of the nation's major wars, has announced that construction of the first phase of the project will begin in July. Estimated completion time is three to four months.

The concept, which has been in the planning stage for three years, is to add additional structures to the existing memorial built in 1970 on Veterans Memorial Park at the Harbor. The World War II unit will be the first new memorial and will be placed adjacent to the existing memorial, toward the Harbor. It will be built of native granite stone to match the existing work. The names of 465 men and women who served during World War II will be engraved on granite panels. Design work has been accomplished in a cooperative effort among local veterans and much of the construction work will be done by volunteers as well, since fund-raising efforts have not yet produced sufficient funds to allow hiring of professional workers.

The World War II memorial will be 21 feet long and 1 -1/2 feet thick and will rise 5 1/2 feet above the existing wall. The total weight of the granite and other structural materials is estimated at about nine tons.

An inscription across the top of the memorial will explain the criteria for inclusion of names on the monument. It states: "Men and women who served in the Armed Forces of the United States in World War II from Cohasset, Massachusetts, during the period of actual conflict: December 7, 1941, to V-J Day, August 14, 1945."

Names will be carved on the granite panels by

Cohasset's week

Harbor plan review

The Cohasset Harbor Committee will conduct an open forum to revamp the 1980 Cohasset Harbor Master Plan, at 7:30 p.m. tonight (June 4) at the town hall auditorium.

Last week the Cohasset Mariner published the 1980 plan in its entirety as a public service.

The harbor committee's goal is to draw up a new master plan, said committee chairman John "Fritz" Pfaffman.

Legal charge clarified

Sewer commission chairman Edward M. Guild appeared before selectmen to clarify the part of a legal bill that stumped the board recently.

Goodwin, Procter and Hoar, the town's special sewer council, recently billed the town for 2/10 of an hour to look over a letter written by the Cohasset Chamber of Commerce.

"Bob Martin (chamber president) phoned me and asked if the sewer commission would like help from the chamber with the state," Guild explained. He said the chamber planned to send the letter to state Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray, state Senator Robert Hedlund, and the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Guild said the sewer commission submitted the letter to Goodwin, Procter and Hoar, so as not to "impair their situation" in any way. The town is negotiating with the state to expand the town's wastewater treatment plant.

He said the special town counsel made substantial changes in the letter.

"I wouldn't take any overt action without consulting with counsel," Guild said.

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle moved the board pay the bill.

"It is money well spent," he said.

The 2/10 of an hour amounts to about $42.

Home sweet home

Selectmen received a letter from M. O. Hodgdon, of Micasset, Maine asking to return home to Cohasset.

"(Cohasset) is where I want to spend my last years," Hodgdon wrote.

She wrote that her son, age 40, would also like to move to Cohasset.

Selectmen said Hodgdon enclosed photographs of her mobile home with the letter.

Hodgdon's letter is being forwarded to the Council on Aging, selectmen said.

WHO ARE THE BUYERS

QUESTION: Can you classify types of buyers and how each class operates?

ANSWER: Basically, there are three classes of people who look at homes. The first is in a hurry to move. They may have been transferred or already sold their present home. These are the buyers. The second kind is looking for a real bargain. They look only for ads by owners and for thousands of dollars under fair market value. The third kind will never buy. They enjoy looking at homes for a pastime.

Since Realtors publish 85% of classified home sale ads, the 2nd and 3rd groups of non-buyers will be compressed into viewing only 15% of the ads. It makes sense to list with a REALTOR

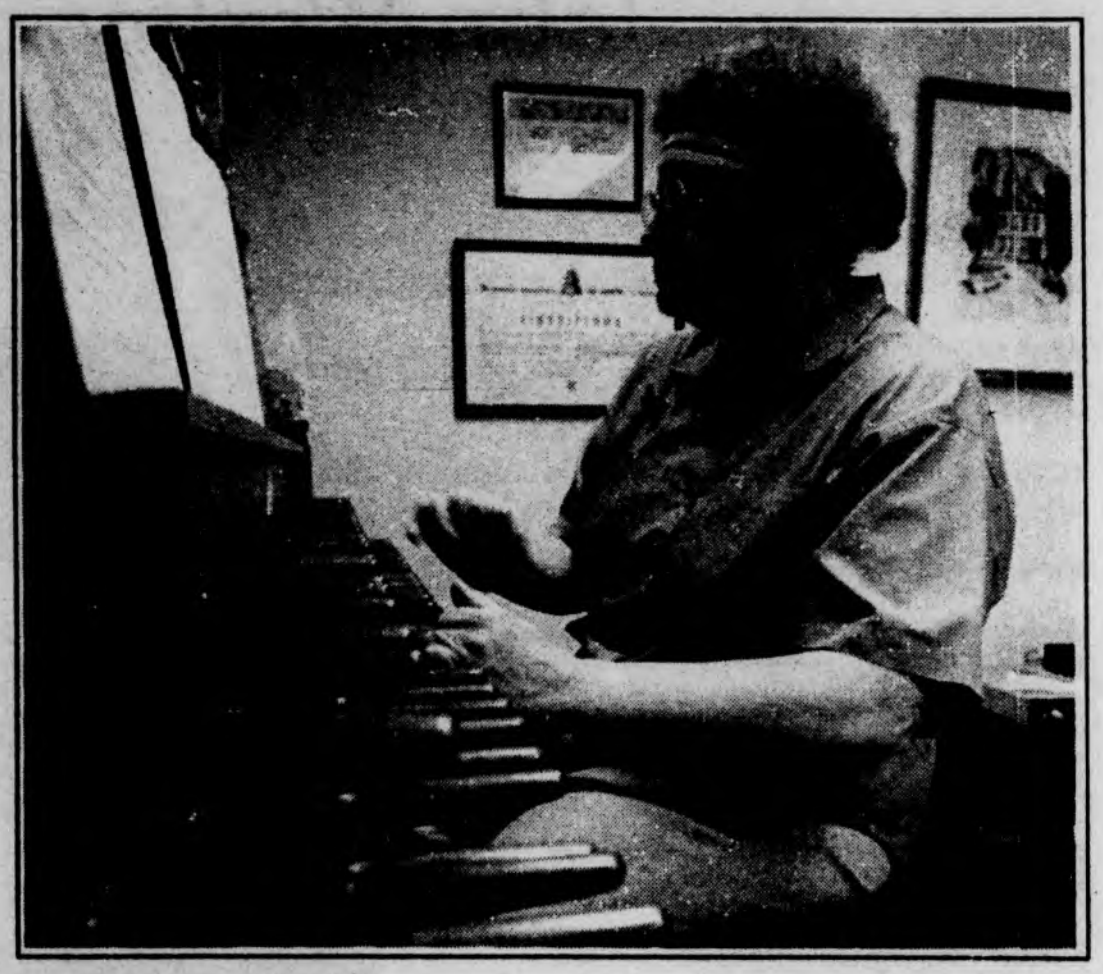
Carillon heralds another Cohasset summer

Some sat by the duck pond on Cohasset Common and read.

Others stretched out on the grass by the Highland Street entrance to St. Stephen's Church. While still others walked through the village Sunday afternoon.

But regardless about how one went about enjoying the first carillon concert of 1992 — the touch of carillonneur Sally Slade Warner could not be ignored as music filled the air.

Warner, carillonneur at St. Stephen's since 1985, studied with the late Earl Chamberlain who held the post for 47 years.



Sunday's recital included an eclectic group of pieces, ranging from the liturgical to contemporary; and from the classical to folk and blues.

Warner's concert heralded the beginning of the 68th summer carillon recital series on the Cohasset Carillon. The concerts are the oldest continuous carillon concert series in North America.

The concert series officially gets underway at 6 p.m., July 6 with a concert by Peter Langberg of Løgumkloster, Denmark. Programs will be held at the same time Sundays through August 30.

Warner explained that the Massachusetts summer carillon circuit "starts" on Sundays in Cohasset. Carillonneurs perform at St. Stephen's Sundays, then Mondays evenings in Norwood, Tuesdays in Andover.

and Wednesdays in Gloucester.

The Cohasset Carillon, with its 57 bells — the largest carillon in New England in number of bells — is "world class."

"It's one of the major carillons in the world," notes Warner, adding the range of the bells is 4-1/2 octaves.

A carillon contains 23 bells or more, Warner explains.

The batons which connect to cords attached to the bell clappers are played very much like a piano.

"The more energy you put into a note, the louder it will sound," Warner says.

Obscene callers beware . . .

according to New England Telephone's South Shore Public Affairs Director Carolyn McKeon.

McKeon said the phone company limited its first offering of Call Trace to 12 South Shore and 21 North Shore communities. (see box.) The service took effect April 20 and New England Telephone plans to make it available to exchanges all over the state in the future.

'I think it's fantastic. I've had two successes right away and both situations were alleviated without going to court,' —Cohasset Police Sgt. Brian Noonan on the new Call Trace service.

The phone company charges $3.25 per traced call. If two calls are traced to the same number within a 30-day period, the phone company notifies those requesting the trace how to follow up with local law enforcement officials.

For legal reasons, McKeon said the phone company does not submit the name or number of the traced call to the person who requested the trace.

Local police, however, automatically receive the name and number of the harassing caller after two calls are traced to the same number within a 30-day period.

Sgt. Brian Noonan of the Cohasset Police, who handles harassing calls, has only praise for the program.

"I think it's fantastic.

"I've had two successes right away and both situations were alleviated without going to court," Noonan said.

He said Call Trace is a tremendous improvement over the "trap" method traditionally used to trace obscene callers.

"It takes about a week or two to get a trap set up and then the people have to keep a log of when the calls occured and to be honest a lot of people just didn't bother," he said.

"I expect to be deluged, but I still think its great," Noonan added.

In addition to the trace charge, McKeon said the phone company will charge $5 to individuals who had two calls traced to the same number within 30 days as a "case preparation fee."

Noonan said the information supplied by the phone company can be used as evidence in court.

Lt. Detective Edmond Burgess of the Hingham Police is skeptical of the service.

"I don't know if it will be better or worse.

"We'll have more cases that need to be heard in court and it will end up costing the taxpayers more," Burgess said.

Voke gets CLC okay

The Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation has voted to work with South Shore Regional Vocational High School to renovate the Minot Lightkeepers' residence.

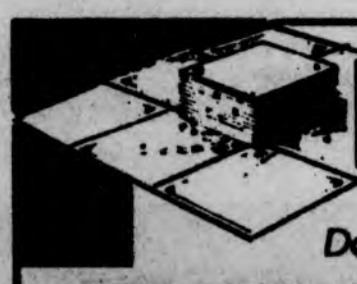
In a telephone interview, the town's representative on the Vo-Tech school board, Larry Mitchell, said a decision on whether or not Vo-Tech will accept the project should be made later this month.

"It's educationally sound," Mitchell said. "And it would be good exposure and would be a good marketing tool."

Cohasset enrollment has fallen off at Vo-Tech in recent years.

Mitchell said a member of the Vo-Tech administration and two carpentry instructors have been out to view the residence.

Vo-Tech's involvement could save about 25 percent of the project cost, according to the CLC.



New board appointments

Selectmen recently reappointed the following citizens to town boards: Jane L. O'Brien, 78 Old Pasture Rd., to the Arts Lottery Council; and Elaine Burke Davis, 45 Linden Dr., and Eleanor M. Waal, 36 Old Pasture Rd., to the Drug and Alcohol Committee. The board also reappointed Veneta P. Roebuck, 312 Beechwood St., to the Conservation Commission.

After interviewing two candidates for an existing vacancy on the Conservation Commission, the board unanimously appointed Roseanne Marmo McMorris, 89 Doane Street, to fill the spot recently vacated by Merle S. Brown's election to the board of selectmen.

At its June 1 meeting, selectmen tabled action on appointing Mary Mack, 309 South Main St., to the drug and alcohol committee and Delia Di Benedetto, 32 Jerusalem Rd., to the arts lottery committee until the board can interview the applicants.

❑ Hats off to Mike Equi, who has been chosen to attend Art All State in June. It is held in Worcester, and we are pleased that Mike's exceptional talents are recognized. Give us a full report Mike.

❑ Speaking of talent, three students from CHS won Art Awards at the Art Show in Hingham; Cecilia Candia, Faye Menis and John McDonald are the students honored for their efforts, and we applaud them.

❑ We all know how wide and how pretty the smile of Sue Fone is, and how Ken is always happy...well, take a look at them now folks, they are positively radiant!! They have great reasons, thanks to their children, Scott and Joanna Fone. Joanna will graduate from Georgia State University in June, and has passed her Law Boards (first try, folks), and has had many lucrative interviews in Florida.

And, the Fone name continues for another generation...Ken and Sue are the thrilled grandparents of Delaney Fone, born to Scott and Nanette May 27 at 3 p.m. in Bath, Maine. Sue and Nanette spent weeks pulling the Crayola Crayon theme together for Delaney, and that's just the beginning of the love that will come her way...she's special, they are all special.

Oh yeah, that makes "Pop" Fone a great-grandfather and you all know how he loves youngsters. How nice to report on one big happy family. Special wishes for the best for all of you.

❑ Happy birthday greetings go to our own Mimi Chatterton, who celebrates her birthday this week. As everyone knows, Mimi is a super special person, loved by all, and who loves all around her. Rumor has it that Kelsie and Tommy (her great-grandchildren) are putting their heads together to make a cake for her (we just don't know if it is edible or not!!). Have a happy day, Mimi.

❑ Another special Cohasset event, Florence and Charles Stoddard of 50 Doane Street celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last month (May 10). Their family; Barbara, Tom, and Bob, and their children were all there to be in on the celebration, and you can bet that a grand time was had by all!!

Fifty years....WOW!!

❑ We welcome Nicole Lynn Ferreira to our world, the daughter of Paula and Dale Ferreira, born May 22 at South Shore Hospital. Love that baby, she was born in a special month on a great day.

❑ And, Cohasset's newest resident wants to make himself known, Peter Thomas Callahan that is. Peter Thomas is the son of Allison E. and Thomas J. Callahan, who live on 35 Norman Todd Road and he was born May 22 at South Shore Hospital.

What a great time to have a baby. You can enjoy him and the weather at the same time. Do both, and give hugs and kisses from all of us in the process.

❑ Every single student, past and present, knows Dennis Walsh, and all that do love him. Dennis has just become a United States citizen, and we applaud him! Dennis has done so much for so many, things we cannot even begin to count. We are proud and pleased with his efforts.

❑ As part of the Harborfest, the Cohasset Fire Department is looking for people to be on the platform of the "dunk tank." They need all of you. Give them a call at 383-0616 to volunteer your services.

❑ Isn't it great news! The Cohasset Lightkeeper's Corp. has voted to work with the South Shore Regional Vocational School to renovate the Minot Ledge Lighthousekeeper's Residence! The student workforce (with supervision) will learn the many facets of trade skills, there will undoubtedly be donations-in-kind by local Cohasset tradesmen, and it could save 25 percent of the project cost! Anything you can contribute to the CLC by June 15 so that the dream can become a reality will be appreciated! Call any CLC board member or 383-0505. Great idea!!

❑ Brian Ormiston, son of Peter and Joyce Conway, a junior at the Rhode Island School of Design, has written an original score to complement his illustrated film, "Fanfare." Brian's animation project, which was viewed at the annual film festival recently, took the better part of two semesters to complete. In all, 720 complete drawings are required for each minute of film. Brian, an honors student for the past semester, has a dual major in illustration and animation.

continue to be in the press as he is a grand guy full of potential.

❑ "Tippee Canoe and...." Rocky too!! Everyone was mightily happy to see Rocco Laugelle at the last selectmen's meeting after his recent canoe ride on Lily Pond, where he and Brian St. John flipped the canoe. They righted it, and all is right with both of them.

Must have been mighty cold on May 24, glad that they are both in good shape...can't you hear them now??

❑ Okay, I've filled you in for this week, what's new at your house? Let us know, okay? Give me a call at 383-0560.

CHS graduation . . .

without musical accompaniment. music for the processional and recessional will be provided by the joint Cohasset/Scituate wind ensemble made up of musicians from the two high schools.

"We play and their graduation and they play at ours," Gallagher notes.

"The teachers and students enjoy the collaboration."

More than 90 percent of the graduating class is going on to higher education.

College acceptances this year include Dartmouth College, Colgate, Holy Cross, Williams, Smith, Wheaton, and Seton Hall University to name a few. And some students have been accepted to colleges as far away as Colorado State University, Florida State, and Oregon State.

Gallagher describes the Class of 1992 as "very bright."

Jason Hunter is a National Merit Scholarship finalist; Cecilia B. Candia is a semi-finalist; and John Brister, Rebecca A. Kirk, John B. Kisiel, and Brendan J. Murphy received National Merit Scholarship letters of commendation.

Joseph Gagliano will be attending the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, in the fall..

The theme of the senior prom, held May 28 at the Sheraton Tara in Braintree.was "Wonderful Tonight."

Gallagher said the kids had a ball.

"It was a great turnout and the kids had a wonderful time," she said. She added that the staff at the Sheraton Tara complimented Cohasset students on their politeness.

"They said, 'You have the greatest kids in Cohasset,'" she recalled.

Class members at the "Senior Show", an annual variety show, last winter displayed their creativity.

"There was a lot of participation," she said.

Athletic achievements of this class include, the girls' tennis team which qualified for the state tournament last week. And the girls' soccer team that reached the South Sectional semi-finals last fall.

Senior Jennifer Reidy served as captain of the soccer team; and Cathleen Conroy and Corrina Minnar are co-captains of the tennis team and were also named to the South Shore League all-star team. Athletic Director Clark Chatterton said.

In the traditional "student-oriented" graduation, class president Jennifer Reidy will deliver the welcoming address. Also speaking will be class salutatorian Carole Smith and valedictorian Jason Hunter.

Gallagher will present the national honor society members with plaques.

School Committee Vice-Chairman Nancy Sandell will present the diplomas to the graduates.

Also receiving a diploma Sunday is Luca Leonetti, an exchange student from Italy. Gallagher said that unlike many exchange students Leonetti is really graduating Sunday. (Often, exchange students view their year overseas as an enrichment year and finish their high school education back home.)

Gallagher said the school is "so fortunate" to have the use of the South Shore Music Circus.

"Regardless how late their season begins, they have the tent and acoustics ready for us," she said.

Gallagher noted that by using the facilities at the Music Circus, the graduates can invite as many family and friends as they wish.

"At many schools graduates are limited to about four tickets," she noted.

Accountant decision due

Selectmen interviewed four candidates for the position of town accountant last week. The board took the matter under advisement and plans to make the appointment at its June 8 meeting, according to the selectmen's office.

The following people are being considered for the position: E. Jane Dews of Hingham; Kaitzev Wei of Manchester, New Hampshire; Joseph P. Tinulty of Hingham; and Sarah P. Saccone of Quincy.

The candidates were asked to provide their background, including computer, supervisory, and municipal finance experience.

Municipal legal rates

Warner & Stackpole, special town counsel, is willing to discount its rate ten percent until further notice, beginning with any work performed on or after June 1, 1992.

The legal firm notified selectmen of the rate cut in a letter to Executive Secretary Gregory J. Doyon.

At the selectmen's request, Doyon recently wrote to Warner & Stackpole and other special town counsels asking if the firms would consider billing the town at a municipal rate.

Most special town counsels are billing the town at the rate of $185 to $200 an hour.

1992—Your horizons are as limitless as the Great Wall of Galaxies

Here's to you—Class of '92.

Now it's your turn to fly the comfortable nest of high school and take your place in this world that needs you so badly.

We adults aren't doing such a terrific job.

We're handing you a world with racism, recession, and a riot in Los Angeles to boot.

We're handing you a world with homelessness, AIDS and billion-dollar banking scandals.

We're handing you a world with a hole in the ozone layer, defoliation in the rain forest and oil slicks on our oceans.

But the world has never been easy.

Just look at the year of your birth—1974.

You think there's distrust of government today!

While you were snuggled comfortably in your bassinet, your parents were watching the first president in the history of our country resign. A bug at Democratic headquarters in the Watergate Hotel became a scorpion which poisoned Richard Nixon's presidency.

That year a girl named Patricia Hearst, not much older than you, was kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army and began a saga of her own.

While your parents were picking a godfather for their tiny newborn, a godfather of another sort burst with guns blazing upon the silver screen winning the Academy Award for best picture that year.

Art Carney won best actor for a gentle movie about a man and a cat, called "Harry and Tonto."

Ellen Burstyn earned the Oscar for her role in "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore."

When your parents weren't watching the Watergate saga unfold, they were giggling to "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "MASH," "All in the Family" and "Rhoda."

And they were humming "Don't Let the Sun Go Down on Me" with Elton John or "Feel like Makin' Love" with Roberta Flack.

Oakland's Catfish Hunter won the Cy Young Award and he led his team to the World Series championship against Los Angeles.

The Philadelphia Flyers won the Stanley Cup but Boston's own Phil Esposito was the most valuable player of the year.

The Golden State Warriors were the basketball champs and Miami won the Super Bowl.

We thought George Foreman was old then when Mohammed Ali KO'd him in a match in Zaire.

And our president from Camelot, whose assassination became so alive to you this year because of the movie "JFK," died 11 years before you were born.

How about the year you first let go of your mother's hand, grabbed your Muppets lunchbox and entered kindergarten?

1979—what a year that was. Iranian militants seized the U. S. Embassy in Teheran and took 52 American hostages who they would hold for 14 months.

The worst fears of nuclear power opponents were realized when Three Mile Island released radioactivity into the atmosphere in a terrible accident.

And the Soviets invaded Afghanistan, stirring worldwide protest.

Moviegoers were watching a man and wife fight over the custody of their son in "Kramer Vs. Kramer," which won best picture of the year.

And they cheered on a beautiful young mother in blue jeans named "Norma Rae" as she fought to bring a union to her factory.

editorial

"MASH" was still riding high on TV along with "WKRP in Cincinnati" and "Taxi."

In the music world, while you were singing "B-I-N-G-O" in kindergarten, Earth Wind and Fire were asking what to do "After the Love Has Gone," Kenny Rogers was taking a chance on a song called "The Gambler" and Barbra Streisand was complaining to Neil Diamond, "You don't Bring Me Flowers."

Pittsburgh was Super with the pigskin. The Canadiens held high the Stanley Cup. The Lakers were the champs of swish and the Pirates were the king of swat.

How about the year you started singing the puberty blues and entered junior high?

1985—Ronald Reagan took the oath of office for a second term as president and met with Gorbachev to step up arms control.

The PLO highjacked the Achille Lauro, 25,000 were killed as a volcano in Colombia spewed fourth its deadly lava and terrorists seized an Egyptian Boeing 737 in Athens.

Movie-goers were taking an armchair trip "Out of Africa." "The Color Purple" dominated the cinema rainbow. And we were "Witnesses" to the simplicity of Amish life.

The TV clickers were going wild amongst "The Cosby Show," "Benson," "Kate and Allie" and "St. Elsewhere."

Rap music began to ripple through junior high.

Michael Spinx punched out Larry Holmes.

Fleet-footed Joan Benoit found no heartache on Heartbreak Hill as she won the Boston Marathon.

And a man named Wade boggled those American League pitchers in his quest of the batting crown.

Kansas City beat St. Louis on the hope diamond.

The Oilers won the Stanley Cup and our own Celtics rocketed past Houston to become the champs of the parquet floor.

Just when you got all your confidence together and were king of the hill in junior high, it's back to square one as you become a lowly freshman in high school.

1988—aspirin was found to cut heart attacks. Rev. Jimmy Swaggart quit the TV pulpit after revelations of sexual misbehavior. All eyes were on Calgary and the winter Olympics. High-ranking officials were indicted in the Iran-Contra affair. And millions protested apartheid in South Africa.

A federal court found a tobacco company liable in a death from lung cancer.

A U. S. plane shot down an Iranian airliner in the Persian Gulf, mistaking it for a jet fighter; 290 were killed.

The first contagious computer virus infected a far-reaching network.

The space shuttle Discovery went into orbit as the civilian space program resumed after the Challenger disaster.

Michael Dukakis ran for president. Vice presidential candidate Lloyd Bensen told Dan Quayle he was no John Kennedy. And the country read George Bush's lips and made him president.

A Pan-Am 747 exploded from a terrorist bomb and crashed in Lockerbie, Scotland, killing all 259 aboard.

Frank Viola won the Cy Young Award. Boggs was big again, earning the batting crown. Winning Colors was draped in laurels at the Kentucky Derby.

LA won the World Series. The Pistons were basketball champions. Michael Jordan began his dominance of the nets as the NBA scoring king. And the Redskins won Superbowl XXII.

Well, you've come through these four years of high school.

You've seen a war in the Persian Gulf, the Anita Hill-Clarence Thomas debacle, a boxing champion named Mike Tyson jailed for rape and the Exxon Valdez spew 10 million gallons of oil into Prince William Sound.

You've seen the Chinese massacre in Beijing, the Berlin Wall fall and the Soviet Union disintegrate.

Now it's your turn.

Let's see what you can do.

See what kind of a world you can make for your children who will be born in the next decade.

Perhaps in your class is the doctor who will cure AIDS.

Perhaps in your class are the visionaries who can help stem the tide of racism and violence in our streets.

Perhaps in your class are the idealists who will fight homelessness, poverty and illiteracy.

This year the Great Wall of Galaxies was discovered.

The universe goes on and on almost ad infinitum.

That is the way you should think of your opportunities. There are no limits.

Here's to you, Class of '92.

by Paula Knowles

Graduation is Sunday, and those of you who are not ready had better get on the stick. Cards, gifts, watches, jewelry, luggage, frames for the graduation picture, food, munchies, sweets and soda, and bug spray in case it is hot and muggy. And don't forget the flowers. Hanging baskets for the porch and patio, roses for the graduate, a corsage for the proud grandmother or special aunt or family friend. Between the Village and 3A, from one end of Cohasset to the other, we have florists and garden shops to fill every need. And don't, whatever you do, forget the FILM! Buy plenty today and put it in your pocketbook or the glove compartment of the car. Make sure it is handy when you need it. If you've been meaning to replace your old camera, now would be the perfect time to do it. And hide away some Kleenex while you're at it. It could be a two-hankie afternoon!!

While you are running around town getting everything ready for the big day, take a quick look at the Village. Notice anything different? How about the flowers in the window boxes and hanging baskets in front of the Village stores? They were all ordered and donated to Village Renaissance by "Flowers By Joanne", and planted by the "Gang of Three", the Renaissance Gals, Beth Christoffel, Jackie Dormitzer and Ann Whelan. Phil Carney once again planted the garden in the pocket park between "Curtis" and "French Memories" using money donated by Cohasset Savings Bank, and he will tend it throughout the summer. Peter Laugelle and the Tree and Park Dept. turned the earth and added loam for the garden, and they also planted the extra flowers in the various planters, markers, monuments, and islands around town; and Jane White is responsible for the lovely flowers in front of Phil Smith's. We thank all of the people who have helped to spruce up our town, and hope the business people will take the time to keep the plants and flowers watered. Try to make it a point to stop in to "Flowers By Joanne" and drop a word or two of appreciation for her generous gift. It has added a lovely and much needed touch to the Village area.

And for those who have been asking, the high school artists will soon be painting the second panel of their "Flowers in 4 Seasons" mural on the wall of the Pocket Park. Pilgrim Cooperative Bank has donated the paint to undercoat the entire wall in preparation for the final work; and Village Renaissance will donate the paint for the mural itself. This project has added so much to the look of the Village; I can barely remember how bad that little lot looked just a few short years ago. Hats off to all those involved.

Also brightening up our town are the new additions you can see here and there. Both "French Memories" and "The Bread Shop" have added tables and chairs so that you can have a full breakfast, a cup of coffee, or one little croissant or pastry while you talk about exercise class or take a rest from jogging. And if you are, or have in the family, an athlete of any age, check out the new sports consignment shop near Cohasset House of Pizza on 3A. What a great idea! Sports equipment, of all things, should be used, not left in a corner or a closet. I think that this falls under the category of "recycling".

Get your reservations in to Kimball's now for our June 16 dinner meeting. Cost: $15/pp Place: Kimball's By the Sea Time: 6:30 p.m. Topic: "Taking advantage of the tourist $." Call Kimball's at 383-6650 or Doris Golden at 383-9319.

PS: Congratulations and good luck to the Class of 1992.

political notes

A different mix needed

Charlie Langmaid, candidate for State Senate (Norfolk & Plymouth), said during a recent candidate's debate aired on Continental Cablevision, "It seems that no matter how hard we work at the local level on issues like education, the environment, funding necessary services and keeping our local businesses healthy, no one on Beacon Hill cares."

"Right now, with our government full of politicians, bureaucrats and lawyers, our problems are not being solved," she said.

Noting that 19 of the 40 current members of the state senate are attorneys, and that only six members are women, Langmaid stressed the need for a "different mix."

"I've never held elective office. I'm not a politician. I'm not a bureaucrat. I'm just an average citizen, a volunteer community leader who shares your problems and concerns," Langmaid said.

The Mariner welcomes letters to the editor.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
The following seven roll calls are all on proposed amendments to the House version of the $14.5 billion fiscal 1993 state budget. (House) PROP 2-1/2 (H 5600) - House 82-68, rejected an amendment striking a budget section allowing cities and towns to exempt their overlay accounts from the limits of Prop 2-1/2. Overlay accounts include funds set aside for tax rebates and abatements. Amendment supporters said this exemption is an assault on Proposition 2-1/2 and is simply a $120 million property tax increase. Opponents said this change will help cash starved cities and towns maintain local services and argued it is a long overdue change in a law which is too stringent. (A "Yea" vote is against exempting overlay accounts. A "Nay" vote is for exempting overlay accounts).		Y
(House) WORKFARE (H 5600) - House 76-74, rejected an amendment providing for a workfare program requiring some welfare recipients to work for their monthly benefit checks. Amendment supporters said this will help able bodied recipients break the poverty and welfare cycle. They noted it exempts parents with preschool children. Opponents said workfare is an unfair and counterproductive program which creates "makework" jobs and doesn't train people with the goal of breaking the poverty cycle. (A "Yea" vote is for the workfare program. A "Nay" vote is against it).		Y
(House) GAS TAX (H 5600) - House first rejected 82-62, then approved 153-0 an amendment prohibiting the transfer of money from the highway fund to the general fund. Amendment supporters said this will insure that gas tax money is used for bridge and highway repairs and is not transferred to other accounts to eliminate a deficit. Opponents first argued a constitutional amendment would be required to change the law but later voted unanimously for the amendment. (Both roll calls are listed. On both roll calls, a "Yea" vote is for the prohibition. A "Nay vote is against the prohibition).		1.NV 2.Y
(House) EMPLOYEE TAX CREDIT (H 5600) - House 147-2, approved an amendment providing a $500 tax credit for every full-time new employee hired by a business. Amendment supporters said this will help stabilize the state's business climate and encourage new job creation. Opponents said the state cannot afford this tax revenue loss and pointed to underfunded human service programs. (A "Yea" vote is for the $500 credit. A "Nay" vote is against it).		Y
(Senate) DRUG SENTENCES (S 1482) - Senate 35-2, refused to table a bill providing a five year mandatory prison sentence for anyone convicted of possession of 14 grams of heroin, morphine or optum. Current law provides mandatory sentences for possession of 28 or more grams. Bill supporters said it is time to get tough with these hard drug dealers. Opponents said mandatory sentences tie the hands of judges and are not the answer to the drug problem. They said the bill will lead to overcrowded prisons and increased spending. The bill has received initial approval in the Senate and needs another round of approval there before it goes to the House. (A "Yea" vote is for tabling the bill. A "Nay" vote is against tabling).	N
JUVENILE JUSTICE (S 1486) - Senate 31-6, rejected an amendment to a bill making technical changes in the law passed last year making it easier to try juveniles charged with murder as adults. The amendment requires the Public Safety office to conduct and file with the legislature within six months an impact study on the effect and expenses of the new law. Amendment supporters said this will give the legislature feedback on how the tougher law is working. Opponents said the amendment is an attempt to delay the bill and cloud the issue. The bill has received initial approval in the Senate and needs another round of approval there before it goes to the House. (A "Yea" vote is for the impact study. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N
(Senate) COLLECTION PERIOD (S 1594) - Senate 27-9, rejected a supplemental budget amendment reducing from 30 to 26 the number of weeks a person can collect unemployment benefits. Amendment supporters claimed only one other state allows 30 weeks and argued this will save $69 million annually. Opponents said the extra month is important to people who depend on these benefits. (A "Yea" vote is for 26 weeks. A "Nay" vote is for 30 weeks).	Y
(Senate) ELIGIBILITY (S 1594) - Senate 24-12, rejected an amendment raising from 15 to 20 the length of time a person must be employed in order to be eligible for unemployment benefits. Amendment supporters, noting this is the only industrial state which requires only 15 weeks, said this hike will save $24 million annually and keep businesses from leaving the state. Opponents said the increase will hurt thousands of people who are laid off through no fault of their own. (A "Yea" vote is for 20 weeks. A "Nay" vote is for 15 weeks).	Y

Special town meeting takes just 34 minutes

Town Moderator Williams Weeks interrupted the selectmen's meeting a few minutes shy of 7:50 p.m., Monday to notify the board the special town meeting had a quorum.

Selectmen were taking care of weekly business before that board in the audio visual room at the high school.

Once the special town meeting was underway, citizens in attendance made quick work of five articles. In just 34 minutes three articles were passed unanimously; one was postponed indefinitely; and another was defeated.

Passing unanimously was Article I, asking the town to appropriate from available funds (free cash) $15,000 for legal fees to an assistant town counsel to provide general environmental advice relating to the town's ongoing wastewater management problems. This article also rescinded the action under an article approved at the annual town meeting which would have appropriated the funds through the tax levy.

Voters also agreed to accept $1,000 from abutters to Linden Circle to pay for a drainage system. This amount will be added to the monies under a similar article approved at the annual town meeting. Abutters have agreed to pay for the materials required for the project and the town will provide the manpower and machinery.

Voters also unanimously authorized the town to borrow $175,000 in anticipation of state reimbursement to pay for rebuilding the Doane Street bridge.

The article asking the town to rescind an easement along James Lane was indefinitely postponed because the easement may still be needed.

And voters rejected a zoning by-law amendment, sponsored by Selectman Merle S. Brown, that would make it impossible for an elected official to run for another elected position without resigning from his or her current post first.

Once the business of the special town meeting was complete, third session of the annual town meeting was opened.

But four articles deferred to the June 1 session involved contract negotiations which are still underway, so action under those articles was indefinitely postponed.

Action on the financial articles approved at a prior session of the annual town meeting was unnecessary because of the passage of the overrides May 16, Weeks said.

Doane Street bridge repairs gain approval

A new Doane Street bridge came one step closer to reality Monday.

At the special town meeting voters unanimously agreed to authorize the town to borrow $175,000 to rebuild the bridge which spans the Aaron River.

One of just five articles before special town meeting, the Doane Street bridge generated the most comment Monday.

Abutter Tony Finegan made an impassioned plea for the project to move ahead.

"I stood before you ten years ago and everything went fine, there was no opposition. But nothing happened.

"Please God, give us a break. I've waited ten years and I'm not getting any younger."

Earlier in the evening at the selectmen's meeting, Executive Secretary Greg Doyon said he had the "force-account agreement" (a document in which the state agrees to reimburse the town) in hand for the board's signatures.

But, Doyon, added he had heard from the state DPW that the legislature still must approve funding for the project before reimbursement can be guaranteed.

And once that approval is received, the bidding process takes 30 days.

Selectmen Chairman Jane O. Goedecke said it was important for people to understand the town cannot proceed without a guarantee of reimbursement.

"If we don't have that guarantee, we cannot expend the money," she said.

Selectmen said they would ask the conservation commission for an extension on the construction window. In an order of conditions placed on the project, the conservation commission requires that the work only be done in July and August when the river is at its lowest point.

The conservation commission will hold a public hearing on the issue of extending the construction window, Tuesday, June 16 at town hall.

Ronnie McMorris, 89 Doane Street, reminded voters that the Aaron River flows from the town reservoir under the bridge and into Lily Pond, Cohasset's water supply.

She said while the river often appears calm it can rage.

"The river goes from mild to wild," she said. "In my 6-1/2 years, I've seen the water raging under the bridge."

Election by-law change defeated

Special town meeting voters soundly defeated a town by-law change prohibiting an elected official from seeking another elected office without resigning from his or her current position first.

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke told the special town meeting that selectmen were split on the issue.

"In the opinion of the majority of the board is that a by-law change should not be considered at a special town meeting but only at an annual town meeting," she said.

Goedecke added that she didn't think Cohasset government should be any different than the federal or state government which allow sitting officials to run for other elected offices.

But Selectman Merle S. Brown countered that he thought people should have the right to vote for their officials.

"It shouldn't be left up to the appointing authority," he said. Brown added that there were similar by-laws in other states.

"I feel you people have the right to vote for officers whenever possible," he said.

Board of Health Chairman William Baird spoke against the article.

He noted that filling the recent vacant health board seat "was a tough decision."

"But we made a good appointment, so the system worked," he said.

Baird was referring to the appointment of Robert V. Davenport to the health board seat, vacated when former board member Michael Sullivan won a selectman's seat at the annual town election.

Border Street seawall is collapsing

Part of the Border Street seawall is in danger of collapse, town officials say.

In a letter to Executive Secretary Gregory J. Doyon, John F. Modzelewski, P.E., an engineer with Civil Designs Inc. alerted the board to the precarious condition of the segment of the wall in the harbor just past the Chart House going toward the Scituate town line.

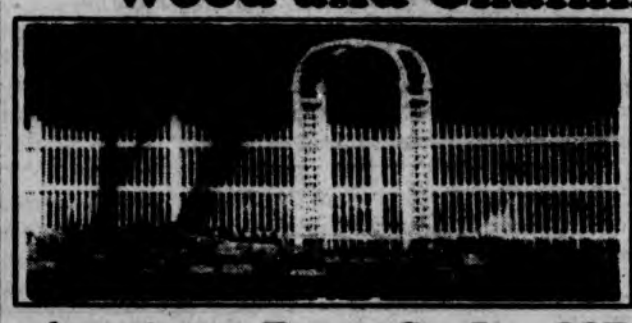
"We visited the....site yesterday and found that the wall was in fact bulging and in danger of collapse in an approximate 25-foot section," Modzelewski wrote.

"A large boulder has already fallen from the wall about three feet below its top. The wall in this area is adjacent to a five-foot sidewalk and about five feet distance from the edge of the vehicular way," he said.

Modzelewski recommended that highway Supt. Harold Litchfield support the area of the wall with piled sandbags filled with stone or stone rip rap.

"The work would be done in a wetland area and would probably need to be certified as an emergency for the conservation commission for the work to proceed," he said.

Doyon told selectmen that Modzelewski said the temporary repairs would last one-to-two years.



Doyon said the repairs would buy time until a future town meeting authorized funds to repair the wall.

Tuesday night the conservation commission issued an emergency certificate so that the temporary repairs could get underway.

Once the certificate is signed the work must be completed within 30 days, according to the conservation office.

School board member Wilcox is top spender

Newly elected school committee member Kenneth Wilcox was the top spender in the April 11 town election according to his campaign finance report.

Wilcox reported spending $1,026 for items such as postage and signs.

His top contributors were Robert and Sharon Moody of Forest Ave. The Moodys donated $100 to Wilcox's campaign.

The state Campaign Finance Law requires candidates and political committees to file a pre-election report on or before the eighth day preceding the town general election. It also requires a post-election report to be filed 30 days following the election. Candidates must file whether or not money has been raised or expended and whether or not the candidate is elected.

Selectman Michael H. Sullivan is the only candidate who ran in a contested race not to file a pre- or post-election report by the deadlines.

John K. McNabb Jr. filed a pre-election report but did not meet the 30-day deadline for filing after the election.

In his pre-election report, he reported receiving $1,270 in contributions and he expended $593.76.

Phyllis Leslie of Buttonwood Rd. contributed $475 to McNabb's campaign. Ed and Priscilla Long of Nichols Rd., and Kevin O'Donnell of Fairoaks Lane each gave $100.

Selectman Merle S. Brown reported receipts of $895 and expenditures of $734. Joan Brown of Beechwood St. and Arthur Lehr Jr. of N. Main St. each gave $200 to Brown's campaign. Joseph McElroy of Windy Hill and Patricia Buckley of Forest Ave. each contributed $100.

School committee member Ralph Kidder reported $200 in receipts and $200 in expenditures. He did not receive any donations of more than $50.

Diana Kornet, who lost her bid for re-election to the board of selectmen, reported receipts of $705 and expenditures of the same amount. The following residents donated $100 to her campaign: Ann Manchester of Nichols Rd., Susan and Jack McNamara of Fairoaks Lane, and Robert Johnston of Lions Gate.

In a pre-election report Thomas Cook, who won his bid for the open seat on the board of health reported he raised $370 and spent $324. Health board member Robert V. Davenport reported that he received no contributions.

South Shore Collaborative Olympics are extra special

By Dori Dwyer
Mariner staff

Everyone was a winner at South Shore Collaborative's Extra Special Olympics at East School in Hingham.

Parents played a big role in the day's events, with entire families skipping their traditional Friday schedules to attend. The Extra Special Olympics took place on May 22.

Barbara Smoral of Hingham, mother to three-year-old Samantha who recently joined the East School program, said her family geared up for the games.

"The whole family took today off to be here with her. She's loving it," Smoral said.

The collaborative serves students from eight South Shore communities, including Cohasset. More than eight special needs programs are offered by the collaborative from locations in Hingham, Cohasset, Norwell, Weymouth and Braintree.

Cohasset offers the collaborative three sites for two programs: an intermediate learning disabilities program and a mini school program.

Students with language or learning disabilities attend the intermediate learning disabilities program at Cohasset Junior High School, while the mini school program treats children from ages three to 17 with behavior and learning disorders.

East School on Collins Road in Hingham houses the collaborative's community program, a developmental program for children aged three to 22 with multiple handicaps.

South Shore Collaborative Executive Director Michael Savage said the Extra Special Olympics offers more than physical benefits to these students.

"It gives the kids a sense of community, being with everyone.

"It's their way to participate in the Olympics," he said.

Wendy Low of Hingham echoed his sentiments.

Her four-year-old daughter Sarah attends the East School branch of the South Shore Collaborative.

"She loves this. It really is so special. It gives them a chance to feel really good," Low said.

Unlike the actual Olympics, sideliners at the Extra Special Olympics were encouraged to help the competitors during the races. Counselors, parents and volunteers from the South Shore Alternative High School, who share East School, assisted the collaborative Olympians dunk balls, race with and without wheelchairs, and maneuver hoops from one end of the game court to the other.

Games were customized so everyone could participate and an announcer was on hand to call out the names of participants and events, adding authenticity and excitement to the festivities.

Savage said planning for the Extra Special Olympics begins in the fall and is heavily dependent on volunteers.

The Extra Special Olympics affords everyone a chance to congratulate the children on their accomplishments, Low said.

"It's a wonderful opportunity for everyone to be together and celebrate their success in the past year," she said.

She praised the Collaborative's Community Program at East School.

"It is absolutely a terrific program with an integrated approach to therapy and teaching."

Forty-two multi-handicapped children attend the program at East School.

The program follows a developmental approach emphasizing language and communication, activities of daily living, pre-academics, motor development and recreation skills.

Savage said the community program is exceptional in its mixture of intensive physical therapy with classroom learning.

It is just that integration which prompted Smoral to enroll her daughter at East School.

"As much as we feel Samantha needs a therapeutic environment, we also feel she needs fun," Smoral said.

Samantha receives both at East School, she added.

Pre-school program to integrate

South Shore Collaborative wants to add able-bodied children to its pre-school program at East School.

The program traditionally accepts only multi-handicapped children, but next fall program director Joseph Fitzgerald hopes to integrate non-handicapped children into the program also.

"In September we will have an integrated pre-school class, with an equal number of handicapped and non-handicapped students," Fitzgerald said.

"We will be providing able-bodied children the opportunity to interact with special needs children," he added.

Barbara Smoral, whose three-year-old daughter Samantha attends East School, said it is crucial for handicapped children to be in classrooms with their non-handicapped peers.

"We would seek an alternative school if integration were not available," Smoral said.

Both groups of children have something to offer the other, she said.

Fitzgerald noted that South Shore Collaborative is actively seeking able-bodied three and four year olds for fall registration.

Classes are held daily from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Soccer scores don't tell the whole story

Girls 14-1 tackled a much improved Hingham team recently for an exciting one point contest ceded to their opponent. Cohasset saw a smooth pass from center midfielder Tammy Maitland to forward wing Danielle Nohe and another pass to Catie Campbell who shot it in. Campbell returned to the net to slip in another goal, one of her many unassisted coups this season. Caitlin Connolly was on fire in defense and a big asset to Emily D'Urso who tends goal diligently. These two and Jessica Jenkins are three reasons why Hingham was held to three goals.

Last week under sweltering conditions 14-1 returned to the field for a doubleheader against Middleboro who was taken off guard in the first game (3-1) by Catie Campbell's kick (into the net) and one by Danielle Nohe. Connolly, along with Dawn Meehan and Melinda Johansen were stars in defense. Maitland put in the second game's only goal in a game which featured stunning defense by Jenkins, Amie Theriault and Jemilah Afshar for a shutout.

Girls 12-2 has worked over the length of this season to put together a well balanced team that uses its opponents to practice its skills and develop harmony. Cohasset soccer fans know that a rough season is often the harbinger of a next year that is off the charts in playing and scoring. In last Saturday's game against Scituate, Lily Morris was fearless as goalkeeper, making awesome saves and keeping the opponent to one goal. In midfield, Kerry Dwyer and Megan Waal worked hard their team. Kyralee Cogill and Britt Covell rounded out the list of stars for this close game. In back to back games over Memorial weekend, 12-2 played Duxbury both home and away, allowing this powerful opponent only three goals in two days.

Saturday, in blistering heat and with few subs, Stefanie Noering, Katie Walsh and Eileen Ridge came on strong and played a great game. With defensive help from Katie Brister, goalkeepers Megan Waal and Alexandra D'Urso made countless saves and deflections. Back in Cohasset for a chilly rematch, "Exciting Eileen" Ridge and "Capable Kyralee" Cogill played well for their team. Defenders Susanne Candia and Megan Corry were an asset to goalkeeper Morris who played a strong game.

To prove that scores do not say it all we have a report on Girls 10-1 team who dominated a May 9 game against Scituate, but did not mark up the scoreboard. Goalies Caitlin Donovan and Betsy Anderson made some amazing saves in this mutual shutout, clearing the ball to midfield many times. Midfielders Erica Dean and Taylor Strecker brought the ball to the net repeatedly but somehow Scituate took it back.

Boys 8-2 had an exciting come from behind win against a previously undefeated team when Timmy Baird (13 season goals), scored three with assists from Jay Bertovich, David Kuger and Michael Rasmussen. Jared Krupczak scored on an assist by Kruger and Rasmussen and Dan Duffy provided some great outside offense. Bertovich, Nathaniel Wilcox and Mark Donovan provided outstanding defense while Brian Lewis filled the goal crease blocking five shots.

Boys 12-2 were victorious against an aggressive and noticeably bigger Hingham team May 16 with a brilliant Kyle Bunstein run and low hard shot to the goalie's left from fifteen yards out. On wing, Ricky Mahoney displayed determination in the tackle and fine dribbling while Nick Herzog and Patrick Ridge fought for every loose ball in midfield and kept the forwards well supplied. Devin Buick ran his heart out and wasn't intimidated by the bigger opponents. John Paul Laugelle was magnificent in goal in posting a shutout, highlighted by a second half diving mid-air deflection over the crossbar. Tom Leahy and Patrick Murphy showed excellent tackling and coverage while David Banks's anticipation interrupted many of the opponents plays. This was a game in which Cohasset's speed and endurance told in the end.

Cardinals off to strong start—beat last year's champs

The upstart Cardinals got their new season off to a fabulous start in Game one by beating first year's playoff champs the Red Sox, April 29. Second-year man Dave Payne worked the first three innings recording his first win of the year while newcomer James Drybanski closed for his very first major league save. The Cards belted out 12 hits with the following stars having multiple hit performances: Nate "The Skate" Cotter (three), Dave "The Mave" Payne and Steve "Bake the Snake" (two apiece). Mark Kupec made three excellent flyball putouts in right field.

In Game 2 strapping big 12 year old James Drybanski got the starting nod for the expansion Chart House Cards. After mounting a seven run lead in the top of the first, the Cards seemed to let their guard down. The not-to-be-denied A's came roaring back with three in the first and another in the second. JD was replaced on the hill by lefty Steve "The Snake" Baker who worked the final four innings for his first victory of the season. Baker struck out five, walked two and gave up two hits and one unearned run.

The mighty Cards offensive was once again awesome as they delivered their second double digit hitting display. Lead off hitter and wily short stop Ted Goff had a great day knocking out four hits in four at bats while scoring three runs. Other batting stars were "JD" with two singles. Steve "The Man" Kovach with one, and the versatile Leigh Atherton capitalizing with a long triple to right. Steve "The Man" led the Cards in the field with a great assist on a sharply hit ground ball as well as a nice pop fly putout going away to right center.

Sooner or later it had to happen and the bats finally fell silent to the much improved Pirates in Game 3. Most of the credit for this big Pirate victory goes to their massive righthander Scott VanHartsvelt, a young man who stymied the Cards hitters giving up only four hits. The only redbirds yielding success at the plate were: "Nate the Skate" two for two and "Dave the Mave" one for three and "Steve the Snake" one for three (triple). On the other side of the ledger, Big Dave Payne pitched a fabulous ball game in defeat. Dave threw the entire game, striking out five while walking four and giving up just four hits. Second-year man Adam "A-Frame" Sheerin made a super grab in right field on a drive by Van Hartsvelt. In all it was a tough defeat for the Cards, but certainly one to grow on!

"Stretch" Drybanski started for the Cards in Game 4, looking to put them back in the win column. JD was very effective working four innings and not allowing a single Met run. "Tiny but Mighty" Ted Goff came in as the closer, pitching the final two innings and also shutting down the young Mets. Offensively, the Cards got their bats working again, banging out seven hits. Goff had a single. Bake the Snake had two, sizzling Nate the Skate had two and Dave the Mave, one. Leigh Atherton had one blast. Kovach, Goff and Atherton pounded sound defense. It was nice to get back in the win column.

Not unlike the Pirates-Cards battle on May 3, Game 5 could be classified as "The Ultimate Pitchers Duel." The Dodgers had Mat "The Rat" Lewis on the hill while the Cards countered with Lefty Steve "The Snake" Baker. This tilt was scoreless until the Cards were able to push across two runs in the top of the sixth on hits by Cotter and Payne. The line score for the fame looked as follows: Lewis: IP-6, K's-8, Hits-5, Walks-3, Runs-2; Baker: IP-6, K's-9, Hits-4, Runs-0, Walks-0. The game featured phenomenal pitching, timely hitting and excellent defensive Cardinal fielding stars were "Big Paul" Sheerin, Rookie Bill "I'm too bad to be Good," Payne and Alex Schwerin. Chuck Dean continues to be a leader and a force behind the dish for the streaking Cardinals.

In Game 6, the Cardinals entered a contest against the only undefeated club in the league. The Cards were looking for revenge of their earlier defeat. Both clubs were without the services of their aces due to heavy schedules during the week. Once again JD got the starting call and responded with two innings of work. Dave Payne worked the third and had a quick one, two, three inning. Ted Goff entered working his second appearance on the mound and threw well for two innings. Alex "Don't Call Me Al" Schwerin closed in the sixth for his first save of the year. This was a hard fought affair particularly for the Pirates since this was the second game of a double header for them. The Cards scored their eight runs on nine hits. The Pirates blasted six runs on eight hits.

Batting stars for the Cards were Ted Goff (two for two), Cotter (one for two), Payne (two for three), Atherton (two for two), Schwerin (one for three), and Chuck Dean (one for two). The Cards were without the services of their outfield star Mark Kupec. Kupec competed in a martial arts tournament and made his teammates proud by finishing a very impressive second.

The pride and tradition of the Cohasset Red Sox is definitely not to be taken lightly. Repeating stars like DeMichele, DeVito, Golden, Hurley, Bunstein and Verrochi know what it takes to win a championship and lead by example. Dave Payne started and went three innings for the Cards in Game 7 vs. the Sox May 16 before running into arm trouble. "Bake the Snake" Baker came in to work the final three recording his third win of the season. Baker KO'd six, walked one while scattering two hits. The offensive was supplied by Baker (1-3), Cotter (2-3), Payne (1-3), Good (1-1), and Dean (1-3). Mark Kupec made a great grab in right field to end the ball game robbing DeMichele.

The Cardinals faced a very tough pitcher in Justin Golden, and had to battle back late in the game to win. Put to the test, the ballclub responded accordingly. They knew by now that with 1/3 of the season over, every team will be aiming at them, looking to knock them off. If not mentally prepared on a given night, any club can beat another. Be ready Cards! You haven't won anything yet.

Notes from Coach Baker: "There is much that doesn't show up in the box score that needs to be highlighted, especially when a team is 6-1. Having piloted this same squad last year to a 3-12 season, I know first hand the heartache associated with limited success and much failure. One year of growth has certainly aided this team. Moreover, the Cardinals are a team that functions like a family. There is nothing but positive reinforcement being expounded by each player for one another. They are all working hard for a common goal, putting the "Team" before their own personal desires. Their maturation both on the field and in the dugout has awarded them first place through the first third mark of the schedule and I'm proud of each one of them."

Dedicated Dodgers move into first

Despite the 16 strikeout performance by Greg Taylor, the Dodgers defeated the Mets May 20. Matt Lewis went the distance and struck out 10 Mets for the win. Garrick Towle, Bob Morgan and Jake Motley played a tremendous defensive game for the Dodgers. Mark Equi was the Dodgers' hitting star. He had two hits and drove home the winning run. Lewis, Greg Bilton and Jimmy O'Sullivan had the other hits.

On the 28, the light blue shirts returned and hung on to defeat the A's in a see-saw game between two gutsy teams. The A's, one of the strongest hitting teams in the league, had multiple hits from Ben Ketchum, Morgan Sandell and Mike Rossi. Jay Whorisky, Brian Donovan, Andrew Sorrentino and Jeff Flanagan had one apiece. Sandell, Donovan, Rossi and Eric Hanlan played terrifically well in the field for the A's.

On the mound for the Dodgers, Matt Lewis went the distance striking out 11 A's for the win. He had great support in the field in the persons of Rob Moody, Adam Leahy, Dennis Rooney and the two Gregs; Bilton and O'Keefe. Bilton, Lewis and O'Sullivan led the offense with multiple hits and Rooney cranked out one for the Blue Dodgers. The win kept this team tied with the Cardinals and Pirates for first place.

A thrilling race to the wire to see who wins the regular season crown began May 30 when the Dodgers met and defeated the Cards in a nailbiter of a Saturday night game this week. Bob Morgan and Greg O'Keefe had their first career hits as major league Dodgers, with more hits from Lewis, Bilton, Equi, O'Sullivan and Motley. A 6th inning rally started by Motley's double, followed by Equi's double ended with O'Sullivan's hit driving others home.

Moody was the winning pitcher, doing a massive job on the mound and Equi danced over the plate with the winning run. In this battle for first place the Dodgers made a dramatic come-back in the bottom of the sixth when they were trailing by one with two outs before one of the year's largest crowds.

CHS boys' track team makes big comeback

By Paula Knowles
Mariner correspondent

In 1988 Raymond Jones, a seventh grader, competed in his first season as a member of the Cohasset High School boys' track team. Four years later, in 1992, he competed in his second season, and came away a State Class Champion in the triple jump, and a Bronze Medalist in the high hurdles. This week he will compete in the All State finals, and he is due to join senior teammate Oronde Allie in qualifying for the State Decathlon meet to be held in Dennis/Yarmouth June 15 and 16. How did a school that has not fielded a boys' track team in four years manage to come in 10th overall for the season and produce two state track stars in just one season?

And how did 17 young athletes become track enthusiasts and competitors, seemingly out of the blue? It's a story that began not on a spring sports field, but in a classroom in late autumn.

One day in late November, teacher Joel Antolini and senior Oronde Allie were "kibitzing" around about a mutual love—track. The boys' team had been disbanded after the 1988 season, due to a lack of interest in the sport, but the girls' team had continued and flourished under the guidance of coordinator Ron Emmons. Antolini had run track in high school and college, and had coached the sport at his first teaching assignment. Allie loved the sport and just wanted a chance to compete for Cohasset before he graduated. Both of them thought there might be a chance to get the sport going again, especially with the participation of junior Ray Jones.

"You've got to do it, Mr. Antolini," begged Allie. "Just give it a try."

So with the help of teacher (and now head of the boys' track program) Tom O'Neil, Antolini lobbied non stop until they had the backing, albeit understandably hesitant, of Principal Meg Gallagher, Assistant Principal Jack DeLorenzo, and Athletic Director Clark Chatterton. When Ron Emmons gave his backing and support to the idea, the team was on its way.

To everyone's great surprise, 17 athletes came out for the team, and 16 of them made it to the end of the regular season. They knew that they would not win any meets the first year, and all their coaches asked of them was that they simply finish anything that they started. And they did. CHS fielded a full team for every meet with at least one entry in every event.

An amazing feat for a fledgling team, according to Antolini, and "a wonderfully positive way to welcome back boys' track" to Cohasset.

Head Coach O'Neil, Track Coordinator Emmons, and Assistant Coach Antolini have a terrific pool of talent to work with. Oronde Allie has made the most of his chance, qualifying for the "States" in two events, the 100 and 300 intermediate hurdles.

Cohasset High's Raymond Jones, at right, takes on some tough competition from Hanover. This year Ray came away a state class champion in the triple jump and a bronze medalist in the high hurdles. The Mariner wishes Ray the best of luck in the state decathlon meet coming up June 15 & 16 in Dennis/Yarmouth. (Staff photo/Alan Chapman)

Ray Jones' State Class Championship jump of 43'9" has earned him the second seed in Saturday All State meet; and the rest of the young team is breathing down their necks. Scott Moe, Chris Ford, James Rustead, Jarrod Hardwick and Brad Potolicchio have all improved greatly in the short and intermediate distance running events. Nick Hawks has shown himself to be a promising miler, Ryan Sawchuck and Nick Terry continue to come along as distance runners, with Terry also making strides in javelin and discus.

Jody Kehoe ran both the low hurdles and the 1/4 mile, with Jason Pieresall digging out a place as a sprinter and jumper, and Dan Silvia as a sprinter and shot putter. Parris and Trevor Cook continue to improve in the throwing events, and Sheldon Morgan is slated to step in for the graduating Allie.

The Coaches only wish now is to get back future star Tony Bonano, who had to leave the team in the middle of the season due to schedule conflicts.

"He showed tremendous promise," said Antolini.

The coaches have all agreed that they have the nucleus of a great team started with this young and talented core group, and the future certainly looks bright for the "new" Cohasset High School boys' track team. But before they start thinking to next year, the whole team and coaching staff will be cheering Ray Jones and Oronde Allie on as they compete in the All State, Decathlon, and hopefully, the New England Championship meets in the next few weeks. Welcome back to Cohasset, boys! Four years is a long time to wait.

Where manhood is measured by a car's size

By Lee Todd Locke
Mariner correspondent

If you're looking for adult entertainment in Cohasset look no further than the town hall next week when the Cohasset Dramatic Club presents its bold new production, "1959 Pink Thunderbird," a bittersweet comedy by James McClure. This production consists of two one-act plays that are linked by the personal relationships between the characters. The producers, Sally Wright and Julia Szylerowski, said that due to the nature of some of the language in "1959 Pink Thunderbird," young children should not attend.

The first play, entitled "Bourbon and Laundry," depicts a conversation between three women, Hattie, Amy Lee, and Elizabeth, who live in a small southwestern town during the 1970s. Each of these women represents a different character type, and their conversation says a great deal for the manner in which women view the world. Their conversation runs the gamut from children and childhood to marriage and infidelity. Sally Rossi is wonderful in her role as Hattie, an assertive, vivacious woman who's not afraid to say anything. At one point, Amy Lee (Lisa Fichtner Pratt) asks Hattie if she would be willing to make a contribution to the Kingdom of Heaven, and Hattie replies by asking whether or not the Kingdom of Heaven would be willing to take a check. Elizabeth and Amy Lee are married to two men who appear in the second play of the production entitled "Lone Star."

In "Lone Star," we meet Roy Caulder, a Vietnam War veteran, whose domineering nature is ideally suited for the harsh realities of love and war. Roy spends most of his time with his brother Ray and Ray's friend, Cletis, whom Roy has ridiculed since they were in high school. While Roy is confident in his own male prowess, Cletis is incapacitated by self-doubt. Rather than looking to himself for the answers, Cletis concludes that his social inferiority can be attributed to the fact that he has never owned a car like Roy's 1959 pink Thunderbird.

The Cohasset Dramatic Club has assembled a very impressive crew for this production. "Lone Star" is directed by Gerry Bova, who also plays the role of Roy Caulder with great conviction. Bova has been professionally associated with the American Repertory Theater in Boston as well as the Screen Actors Guild. He recently directed the North River Community Players' production of "My Three Angels."

The set is designed by Dwight DiBona, whose credits include the set design for "The Witches of Eastwick." The set for "Laundry and Bourbon" resembles a back porch, complete with sideboards and deck chairs. When "Laundry and Bourbon" ends, a large turntable rotates to reveal a vacant lot behind a bar called Angel's that serves as the set for "Lone Star." The back wall of Angel's is covered with license plates, tire racks, and other automotive paraphenelia, emphasizing that in this corner of the world, a man's self-esteem is measured by the length of his car.

"1959 Pink Thunderbird" will be running from June 10-13 at the Cohasset Town Hall. Show time will be 8 p.m. for all performances. Tickets are $8 apiece and may be purchased at the door. Proceeds from the performance June 11 will benefit the Bare Cove Museum of Hingham, so plan on enjoying a night of adult entertainment next week with the Cohasset Dramatic Club!

A message from the Massachusetts Association of Councils on Aging:

For the 1992 Legislative Season, MCOA has given their support to six bills affecting seniors. Over the next several months we will be highlighting these bills. We ask that you consider lending your support by calling our local representative, Mary Jeanette Murray at 722-2897, or Senator Robert Hedlund at 722-1276.

ISSUE #1: FY BUDGET

To date, Governor Weld has released House 1 — the budget. Elder Affairs budget is level-funded. However, the Governor's budget reflects a performance style budget which allows the Secretary to reallocate funds between the service delivery groups. Level funding for the Council on Aging programs would be $2,046,873. Secretary Ollivierre has pledged level funding for Councils on Aging in the contest of the Governor's Budget. House 1 is in the House Ways and Means Committee. The HWM should release its version of the budget soon. The budget may be quite different from the Governor's budget, since it is unlikely that they will adopt all the components of the performance style budget approach.

NUMBER: HOUSE 4719

This bill was offered by MCOA under the sponsorship of Representative Mary Jane Gibson and Emile Gougen. It amends Massachusetts General Laws which allow municipalities to establish Councils on Aging. The amendment would replace "May establish a Council on Aging" with "shall establish a Council on Aging or join a consortia of Councils on Aging." To date, 343 of Massachusetts 351 cities and towns have established Councils on Aging or joined a consortia of councils. It is important that every municipality have some entity within local government responsive to the needs of older citizens. Moreover, in the harsh budget climate this amendment would protect existing Councils on Aging ensuring their existence by statute. The bill was reported out favorably by the Local Affairs Committee and is currently in the House Ways and Means Committee. Contact your representative and senators and urge them to support HOUSE 4719.

Blessing of the kites

An afternoon of kite flying will highlight the celebration of Pentecost, Sunday, June 7, at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 16 Highland Avenue. Pentecost celebrates the gift of the Holy Spirit which came upon the disciples with "a sound like the rush of a violent wind." The congregation will gather at Sandy Beach in Cohasset from 1 to 3 p.m. to fly kites in what is hoped will be a strong wind. The event will begin with a "blessing of the kites" and a thanksgiving for God's gift of the Holy Spirit. While some are flying kites others will be making home-made ice cream. It is all in celebration of the joyful coming of the Spirit into all disciples' lives like a wind. One writer talked of the Holy Spirit as a wind that can swell our sails if we let it; or lift us high as a kite.

Pentecost celebrations at the 10 a.m. morning worship will include a reading of the Gospel lesson in different languages. This is to reenact the telling of the Good News in different languages by the disciples on Pentecost "as the Spirit gave them ability." The Good News of God's love is offered to all the world in every language. The Junior and Youth Choirs will also sing at the morning Pentecost worship.

To Cohasset High's Class of 1992: seek happiness

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

As members of the Class of 1992 strive for success after high school — they should stop to smell the roses along the way.

That was the message that came through Sunday, as 70 Cohasset students left their high school days behind.

"Success is a journey, not a destination. Happiness is to be found along the way and not at the end of the road," said class salutatorian Carole Smith.

Smith and class valedictorian Jason Hunter shared the podium for the main address under the big top of the Music Circus which shielded graduates, friends, and family from the blistering mid-day sun.

To start graduation exercises, the Scituate-Cohasset Wind ensemble, made up of musicians from the two high schools, played "Pomp and Circumstance" for the processional. Girls, each carrying a single red rose, in white caps and gowns; and the boys (who incidentally outnumbered the girls by more than 1/3) wearing dark blue, marched down the aisles.

Senior, Alison Welz, sang the Star Spangled Banner accompanied by senior, Brian Conant on the trumpet. A tense moment occurred when Alison's microphone wasn't turned on but was soon replaced with enthusiastic cheering and applause when power was restored.

As temperatures hovered in the mid-80's, hundreds of parents and friends of the graduates discovered the graduation programs made useful fans.

But fans weren't needed for long. The graduation addresses by Smith and Hunter, class president Jennifer Reidy, and Supt. Stephen Hart were brief and to the point.

Principal Mary Ellen Gallagher presented the awards

COA may aid with ambulance billing

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

The Friends of the Council on Aging have come up with a unique way to augment the COA's operating budget.

But the non-profit group may have to get in line with other bidders.

The town is owed about $150,000 in back ambulance bills. At a recent selectmen's meeting Fire Chief John Nadeau suggested the town hire a temporary clerk to help out with the backlog.

At that time the board tabled discussion on the hiring of a clerk. But at the same meeting Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon suggested the board consider hiring an outside service on a percentage basis.

According to Karin Bartow, president of the Friends — a tax exempt group whose charge is fund-raising for the Council on Aging — that suggestion caught the eye of COA treasurer Joseph Buckley.

On the board of the COA and the Friends, Buckley also volunteers with SHINE, a program that helps seniors with their health information needs that includes filling out and filing insurance forms.

So the concept of getting a group of volunteers together to deal with the billing backlog to benefit the COA was born.

Bates affordable housing is a step closer to reality

A new chapter is about to begin for the Bates building.

In a majority vote selectmen approved the request for proposal (RFP) for the Elm Street structure.

A year ago, selectmen agreed to sell the property to a non-profit entity for the development of affordable housing after town meeting passed a resolution endorsing the idea.

The RFP, required under the state Uniform Procurement Act for disposal of property, is the final step in that procedure and ensures the process is open to other worthy organizations which may submit bids.

South Shore Habitat for Humanity Inc., a volunteer organization, plans to purchase the building for $1 and create two condominium units of affordable housing at no cost to the town.

Cohasset's week

Cards for Craig

Selectmen have been asked by Quincy Mayor James A. Sheets to help Craig Sherbold, a seven-year-old boy suffering with a brain tumor, get into the Guinness Book of World Records.

Craig's wish is to become an entry for the greatest number of "Get Well Wishes" ever, Sheets wrote.

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle suggested the board send a card on behalf of all 7,300 Cohasset residents to help boost his efforts.

'Get Well' wishes may be sent to: Craig Sherbold, c/o The Children's Wish Foundation, Atlanta, GA 30342.

Enrollment projections

Enrollment at the junior/senior high school is on a steady rise, according to figures from the school department.

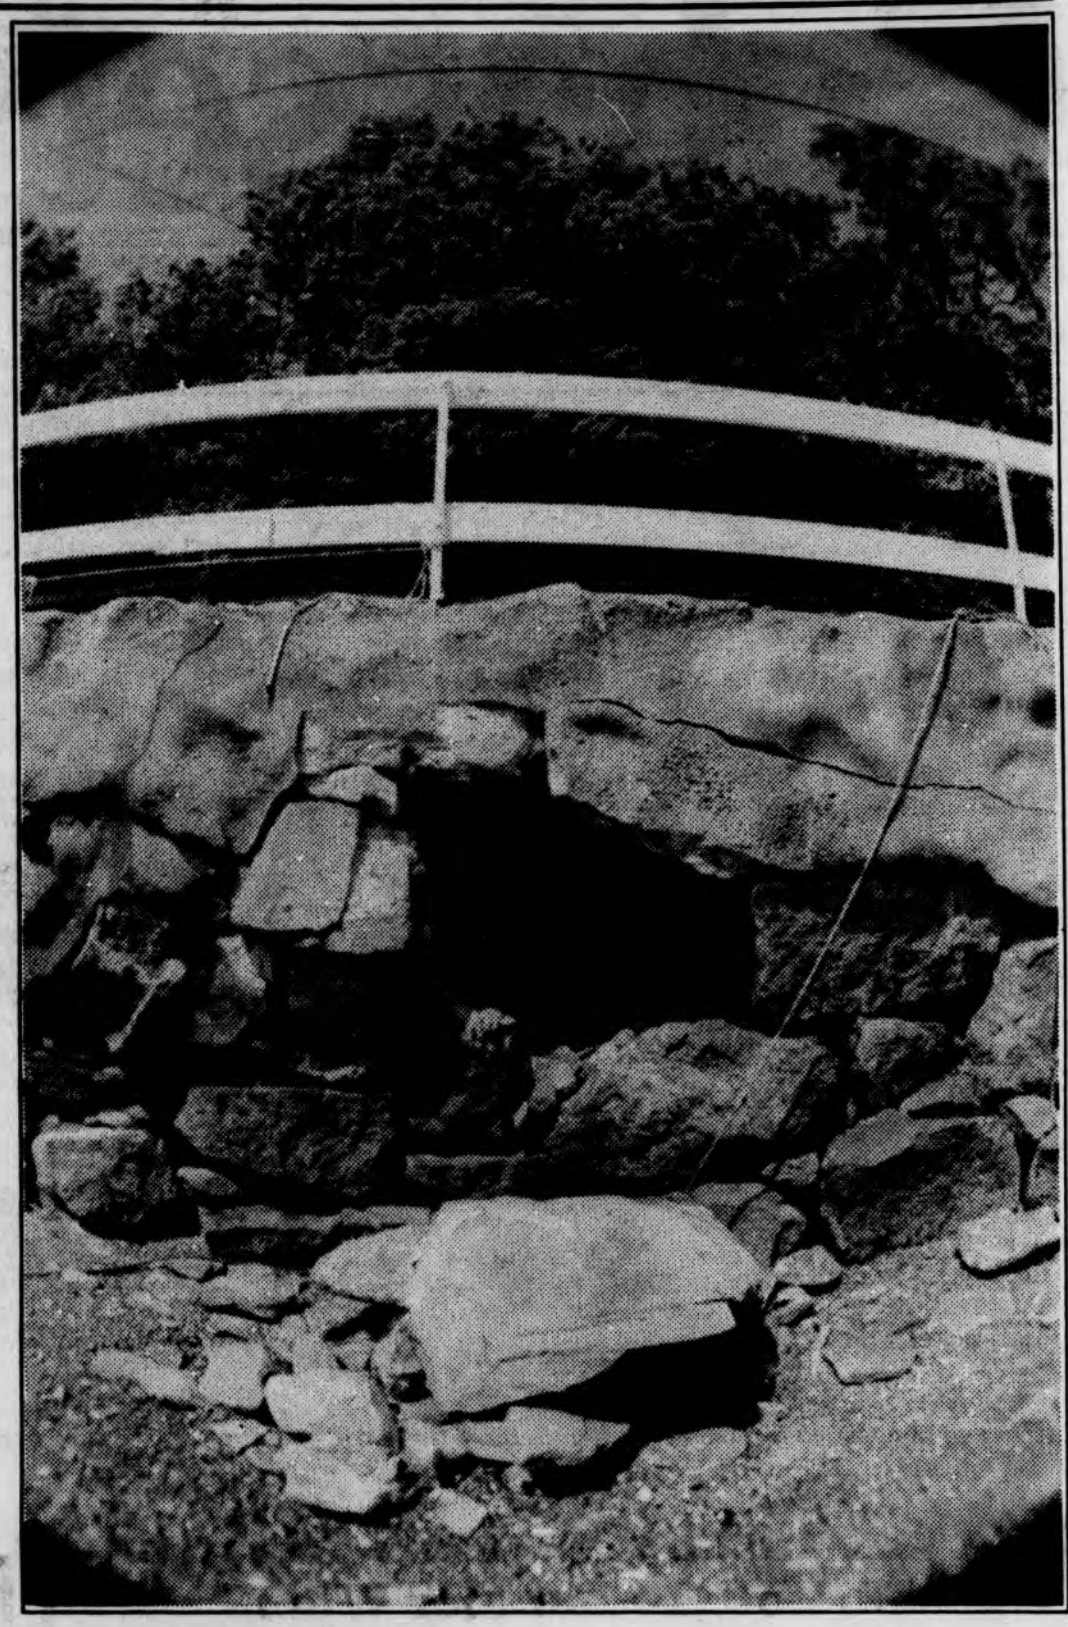
Projected enrollments show the numbers increasing over five years from 480 in 1991-92 to 551 students in the 1996-97 year, a jump of about 15 percent.

Legal taxi service

Selectmen approved payment of a bill from the law firm Warner & Stackpole for $592.50 for landfill matters.

The bill included payment for legal services and $41.50 for copying charges, facsimiles and a taxi.

"I'm tired of paying for taxis for lawyers," Selectman Martha Gjesteby said.



Common commission

Selectmen reappointed the following people to the Cohasset Common Historic District Commission: Marian Atkinson, 59 Highland Ave.; James J. Murphy, 27 Highland Ave.; James M. Sandell, 24 Stevens Lane; Gail Parks, 19 Highland Ave.; and Mary G. Hartshorne, 115 Border St.

Drug & Alcohol committee

Selectmen appointed Mary Mack, 309 S. Main, to the Drug and Alcohol Committee.

Mack holds a degree in human services and has experience in counselling families of alcoholics at Faulkner Hospital.

A view of part of the wall supporting a stretch of Border Street that is in danger of collapse. Temporary emergency repairs, which include shoring up the wall with sandbags filled with stone or stone rip rap will cost about $3,000 according to the selectmen's office. Once complete, the repairs should last one-to-two years, Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon said. Last week, the conservation commission issued an emergency certificate so that temporary repairs could get underway. (Staff photo/ Alan Chapman)

New RTF regs set

The Board of Health has amended the Cedar Street Recycling Transfer Facility (RTF) Regulations for resident/hauler use, a summary of which follows:

The regulation defines various types of wastes to include recyclables, garbage, rubbish, refuse, special wastes, bulky waste, commercial waste and household waste.

The RTF may be used by residents who have a current sticker purchased at the board of health or the RTF for waste generated at their residence only. Persons who recycle must also purchase a sticker by August 1, to be admitted to the RTF. Certain businesses may also purchase a permit. Landscapers may deposit leaf and yard waste from Cohasset without a permit. Violators may be fined $25.

The RTF is open Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Certain items are prohibited: demolition waste from contractors, stumps, automobiles, toxic and/or special wastes, large animals and septage. Brush, including Christmas trees, is accepted only on designated days as published in the local newspaper.

A sticker fee will be set annually by the board of health. A fee for truck loads of other than normal household waste is also set. These and other fees for commercial haulers, businesses and recycling are posted in the board of health office.

Solicitation is permitted only within 75 feet of the exit gate.

The entire regulation is available for public review at the board of health offices, town hall.

Affordable housing . . .

Habitat, which formed in 1985 in Massachusetts and has 700 affiliates across the country, will hold the mortgage to the property. No interest will be charged.

Organization president Michael Keneally said the units will sell for about $50,000 each — which will cover the cost of renovating the building. Habitat must purchase some of the materials; and part of the labor is contracted out, he said.

To qualify for the housing a family must have a minimum annual income of $15,000 and no more than $25,000. Principal payments would be about $210 a month, plus taxes and homeowners insurance, Keneally said.

The RFP for the project states the town can be involved in the selection process. Preference will be given to residents of Cohasset, former residents of Cohasset, and people who work in Cohasset, the document states. Deed restrictions will keep the property in the hands of lower income families.

Keneally said renovations would get underway soon.

Mary Pottle, secretary of the fair housing committee in Weymouth, said the recently completed Habitat project in Weymouth yielded more than affordable housing.

"The spirit going on in that work was totally unbelievable," she said. "It was wonderful for everyone. It's given us something really to be proud of.

"And the pay off is the smiling face of the family moving in," she said.

In Weymouth, the town donated land to Habitat which constructed a three-bedroom cape on the property.

Keneally explained that Habitat became aware of the availability of the Bates building through members of several churches in Cohasset who are involved in Habitat.

Keneally said South Shore Habitat has been involved in four major "rehabs" of existing homes. The Weymouth project was the group's first new construction.

He said the project in Weymouth spurred others in Braintree and Abington. He is optimistic that the Bates building may do the same in towns like Scituate and Hingham. Habitat is currently working with Norwell officials to find suitable land for affordable housing.

"Habitat is a great way to add affordable housing on a small scale basis," Keneally said.

The vote was 3-2 in favor of approving the RFP with selectmen Martha Gjesteby and Rocco F. Laugelle voting against the measure.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Philip Murphy, CRS, GRI

BRIDGE LOAN TO THE RESCUE

QUESTION: I have just found a buyer for my home but he cannot close the purchase for three month. The replacement home I am buying has a closing date in only one month. In other words, there is a two month lag between the time I need the cash to purchase the replacement house and the time I will get the cash from the sale of my present home. Where do I go from here?

ANSWER: An experienced Realtor can often arrange interim financing, or what is known as a "bridge loan", for you. The money is advanced by your bank on a short term basis with interest computed daily. Your equity in your present home is the loan security.

Ambulance billing . . .

Bartow explained that the Friends would take a percentage of the amount collected through the volunteer efforts for the COA's operating budget.

"That way all the money stays in town," she said.

The COA proposal, which is being sent to the fire chief, asks for 10 percent of fees collected from ambulance services from the past 12 months and 20 percent of bills collected from prior years.

If the town hires an outside agency, the fee or percentage would go to that company.

Reached by telephone, Doyon isn't sure if the project would have to go out to bid.

Doyon said he planned to review the state Uniform Procurement Act "to see out the act treats this type of service."

He said the selectmen's office has received several offers from outside agencies to perform the service.

Selectmen plan to discuss ambulance billing with Chief Nadeau during the June 22 board meeting.

The current rate for ambulance service is $125 plus $5 per loaded mile. So a trip from Cohasset to South Shore Hospital costs about $185. There is an additional charge for oxygen, Doyon said.

Chief Nadeau said he recently obtained some volunteer help with data entry of ambulance bills on the department's computer and would update selectmen at the June 22 board meeting.

Ambulance billing policy is cloudy

There is no written ambulance policy, selectmen said.

"We are in the process of meeting with the (fire) chief to develop a written policy," Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said.

Setting the ambulance policy falls under the purview of the selectmen, Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon said.

The town is in the process of trying to collect on ambulance services which were never billed.

The town switched to third-party billing about three years ago when rates were increased, Doyon recalled. In other words, bills were to be sent directly to the individual's insurance company or Medicare. However, about that time the billing clerk was laid off.

The board's policy on what to do about any leftover balance after the insurance company pays is unclear.

But selectmen have heard from one Cohasset citizen who does not think he should have to pay the balance.

Lester Hiltz, 9 Cushing Road, wrote to Chief Nadeau (with a copy to selectmen) that he "would hold this matter in abeyance" until he obtained a response from selectmen or the Chief.

"As I understood from the actions of the townspeople, at the time, the voters authorized a fee for ambulance service only because this fee could be collected from insurance. Any costs over and above what the insurance would cover would be waived. Also any user who did not have insurance would not be required to pay."

Hiltz also asked for a copy of the selectmen's "current billing policy."

At a recent meeting Nadeau asked selectmen to clarify and/or establish policy on the following ambulance-related billing issues:

- Fire department employee, immediate family billing policy.
- Town employee, immediate family billing policy.
- Assignment policy: Medicare, Medicaid; Workers Compensation; other health insurance plans.
- Multiple transport billing policy.
- Directives concerning write offs, if any: time; number of bills issued per client; small claims court action; use of collection agencies; people who cannot be tracked (unknown whereabouts, no survivors); and others.

Four-way stop gets green light for safety's sake

Residents of Cushing and Pleasant Streets want an answer to the problem of cars speeding on their roads.

And both selectmen and residents hope a four-way stop and the intersection of the two roads will slow people down.

"Many of us have had near misses, a four-way stop is long overdue," said Linda Keller, 2 Cushing Road. Keller also asked that painted crosswalks be added.

After hearing testimony from several residents, selectmen authorized installation of four-way stop signs.

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle said warning signs to be placed before intersection are also be needed.

The signs will cost the town about $600.

Stuart Argus, 71 Pleasant Street, said as cars drive up the hill, they pick up speed.

"People are in full speed by the time they reach my house," he said. "I held a flashlight while a neighbor scraped up a cat three nights ago."

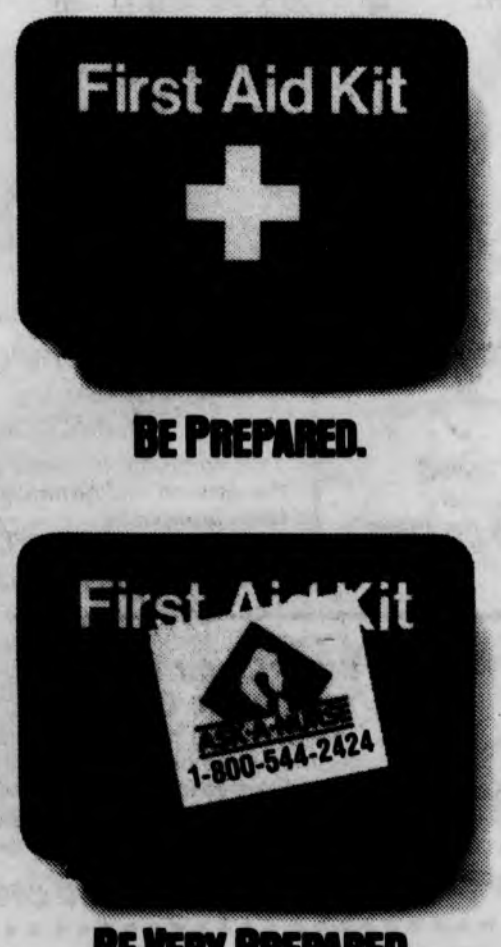
Frederick Howe, 23 Cushing Road, said he was walking down Pleasant Street "watching the cars whiz by me" when Police Chief Joseph M. Kealy came along.

"I held my hand out and slowed him down and said, 'I'd like to have you on my porch to watch the Pleasant Street traffic,' " Howe recalled.

Kealy asked Howe if he'd like a four-way stop.

"I said great," Howe said.

Margaret Tufts, 55 Pleasant Street, warned that the intersection is also a school bus stop.



"A bus stops for our children at least four times a day," she said.

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said she was concerned that the four-way stop would take some getting used to.

"I am really worried that people going down Pleasant do not know to stop," she said.

Selectman Michael Sullivan said the four-way stop should be "given a try."

The board will also ask the town safety officer to look into adding crosswalks.

Boat ramp, parking needed

By Dori Dwyer
Mariner staff

Town launching facilities, and access to those facilities, need to be improved, according to residents who spoke at a harbor study committee meeting last Thursday night.

Thirty people attended the meeting and offered suggestions on improving a 1980 master plan on the harbor. Harbor committee chairman Fritz Pfaffman said he hopes to have a new master plan, using residents' suggestions, by the end of 1992.

Hamilton Tewksbury of 81 Elm Street attended the meeting and asked the committee to increase the grade of the town's existing boat ramp, located at the end of Parker Avenue.

"It's not steep enough," Tewksbury said.

Pfaffman noted that the launching ramp was paved last year. He added that Tewksbury's comments were the first complaints he heard about the grade of the ramp.

Most of the problems with the town's public boat ramp center around access to and parking for the launching facilities, Pfaffman said.

A possible solution to those parking problems arose at the meeting when Mary Hagerty, who owns land adjacent to the boat ramp, unexpectedly said she would consider allowing boater-parking on her property.

Pfaffman said in prior years, Hagerty rejected town requests to permit parking on her property.

"Mrs. Hagerty opened the door to discussions at the meeting," Pfaffman said.

Hagerty explained that the family business, Cohasset Colonials factory, was receiving large lumber deliveries when the requests for town parking on her property were made. Parking wasn't feasible at that time, Hagerty said.

She cited a "transition" in the family business as her reason for now considering town proposals for parking on her property.

Residents also suggested the 1992 master harbor plan include construction of a second public boat ramp at the sailing club.

The Parker Avenue boat ramp is currently the only public launching facility in town.

Committee member Dominic Baccari noted two problems with adding a ramp at the sailing club: rocks and parking.

Baccari said the ramp area would have to be dredged in order to accommodate boats, and additional parking would be needed.

"In the summer, parking is tight. There is a problem now at the sailing club," Baccari said.

He noted that there is space for parking at the nearby lightkeeper's house, but vandals have deterred many people from parking there.

"The new parking lot by the lightkeeper is not utilized because of vandalism and glass," he said.

Robert M. Davenport of Black Horse Lane asked the harbor committee to increase the number of available moorings in the 1992 master plan, saying Cohasset Harbor appeared under-utilized compared to Hingham.

Pfaffman said moorings should be added once a harbor is dredged, and Cohasset is slated to be dredged in coming years. Hingham was completely dredged several years ago, and the town added their additional moorings then, he commented.

Harbormaster Irving Gadow agreed that additional moorings should be added after the harbor is dredged.

Show the flag brunch planned

Admiral Peter Cressy

The Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation is sponsoring a fund-raising brunch under the yellow and white tent at Polly Logan's home on Nichols Road in Cohasset. The event is scheduled for Flag Day, Sunday, June 14, from noon to 2 p.m. This is the kickoff party to begin raising funds to preserve and restore the lightkeeper's residence as a town building and park.

The Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation was formed in 1992 to preserve and adapt the Minot Lightkeeper's Residence for public use. Under the proposed plan, the first floor will consist of a meeting room which can accommodate from 60 to 70 people. This room would be available for private functions as well as group meetings. The second floor will have two income-producing apartments. The exterior will consist of front and back terraces, picnic grills, benches and tables, walking trails and an improved parking area.

Keeping with a nautical theme, the special guest at the brunch will be Rear Admiral Peter Cressy, President of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, recipient of many awards, and with a long and distinguished career record.

Rear Admiral Cressy has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit - three times, the Defense Meritorious Service Medal, the Meritorious Service Medal - twice, and the Humanitarian Service Medal - twice. He recently retired from the Navy while serving as Commander, Fleet Air Mediterranean; Commander, Task Force Six six and Seven; and Commander, Maritime Air Forces Mediterranean. In these positions, he was active in the logistic and surveillance support of Desert Storm.

Another special guest will be Sarah Mann, head of Massachusetts Tourism, who has all the vital information concerning the Tall Ships which will be in Boston in July.

The brunch will be a festive affair featuring unusual omelets to order, catered by the Borrowed Butler. Everyone is welcome to attend. Tickets should be purchased in advance. Tickets cost $75 per person and may be ordered by calling Polly Logan at 383-0031 or Judy Volungis at 383-0752.

Tom Cruise

We generally have no complaints about the service provided by Continental Cablevision.

The picture is clear and we receive enough channels to keep our clickers working overtime.

But we've found that when our cable goes kaput — it almost always happens in the evening during prime time.

And in fact, we think that might be scenario the same for most subscribers.

After all, the evening is when most of us — at least the working folk among us — get a chance to sit down and relax in front of the tube.

So we think Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle has a point. He told Joseph Hayes, general manager at Continental Cablevision, that staffing the company offices at night would be a good idea.

There's nothing more frustrating than getting an answering service when you're calling to let the cable company know you're seeing snow instead of Tom Cruise.

Mr. Hayes said the office is staffed from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday and until 5:00 p.m. on Saturdays.

We wonder why so early in the morning? Could it be just for the few who have time to watch "breakfast television?"

Maybe Continental Cablevision could try opening a little later in the morning and staying open a little later in the evening in order to serve the bulk of its subscribers who watch television at night.

Mr. Hayes said if the offices were open in the evening, costs would certainly rise because the company would have to staff technical back up as well.

That may be the case, but we think it's an idea worth checking out. And we hope that Mr. Hayes looks into the matter and comes up with some numbers.

Continental Cablevision is like a guest in Cohasset and other area towns.

And it should do its very best to be accommodating to its host or it might be asked to leave.

Catch the spirit

Mary Pottle of the Weymouth Fair Housing Committee choked back tears as she spoke of the secondary benefits of providing affordable housing through South Shore Habitat for Humanity in that town.

"The spirit going on in that work was totally unbelievable," she said about the recent project. "It was wonderful for everyone. It's given us something to be proud of. And the pay off is the smiling face of the family moving in."

Mrs. Pottle brought a little more to Monday selectmen's meeting than facts and figures — she brought spirit.

One thing that's impressed us about Cohasset is its diversity. It isn't just a community for the well to do. Residents' incomes in this town vary widely.

But for someone moving back; young people wanting to stay; or maybe a policeman or a teacher wanting to live where they work — Cohasset may be out of reach.

We support South Shore Habitat's proposal for the Bates Building. It's a positive step. It is a long way from providing what Cohasset needs in the way of affordable housing, but it's a start.

So let's catch some of Mrs. Pottle's spirit and welcome Habitat with open arms.

Artists honored at special night

(Editor's note: The following letter was read at Arts Recognition Night at Cohasset High School May 21.)

To: Joel Antolini, Maureen Duffy, Ron Emmons, Colleen Wheeler, Colleen Lucas, Bryan Marks, John Packard, Jo-Ellen Wood.

At our seventh annual Arts Recognition Night, the Cohasset Arts Boosters Club honors all students who have contributed to the arts at Cohasset High School this academic year. At the same time, the parents and students recognize that behind every student stands a teacher who gently encourages them and, at the same time, demands a standard of excellence of which we all can be proud. The fact that they are artists in their own fields also serves as creative inspiration to their students. In addition, at the Spring Technology Fair, our innovative arts teachers demonstrated their mastery of the high tech skills required for the 21st century. So tonight we also honor you, Cohasset High School teachers of the arts.

The Drama Workshop produced a poignant "Crimes of the Heart," under the direction of Ron Emmons. For the 11th year, Cohasset competed in the State Drama Festival, advancing to the semi-finals with an Elvis-inspired "Graceland," another remarkably believable Southern setting. "Graceland" also brought individual performance awards to cast members. The Workshop's outstanding spring production, "And Flights of Angels," amazed audiences with its female Hamlet and cast.

Persuading teenagers to perform in public, especially solo, is in itself an art form, and what performances we've had! At the Valentine Cabaret, at Christmas and Spring concerts, at the Pops, at SEMBSA and District finals, with the Gold Seal Music Awards and National School Choral Award, and at the Williamsburg Music Festival, where the Senior Chorus won first place honors in Madrigal Performance, Bryan Marks and Colleen Wheeler led Cohasset musicians, with amazing grace, in every music style from modern jazz to madrigal, including original student compositions. Chilean and Italian love songs from our exchange teacher and student lent an international flavor to our truly "Unforgettable" Night at the Pops.

In the creative recesses of John Packard's A-V studio, students produced the local hit show, "CHS Live," or is that "Live, From CHS, Saturday Night?" Student crews skillfully videotaped countless CHS events for future community audiences, an outstanding service.

Throughout the year, our petite but energetic sprite, Colleen Lucas, has carried her students' art work, for shows and competitions, to the far corners of the Boston area. Closer to home, she has enlivened the school walls with her students' colorful murals and art exhibits, she has painted sets and collected impressive pieces, including her own, for the annual Art Auction. Her personal notes of praise encourage us all.

At the Evening of Living Arts, parents and students toured all areas of the arts – choral music performances, poetry readings, Chilean folk dancing, the CHS video network, computer art and pottery demonstrations, and the Scituate/Cohasset Wind Ensemble. Maureen Duffy's Home Economics students displayed modern clothing design and culinary arts. In the new Technology Education classroom, Joel Antolini's students demonstrated woodworking, silk screening, and computer aided drafting, desktop publishing, and Lego construction skills – preparing this generation for the 21st century.

In Whispers and Shadows, the Literary and Arts magazine, the sensitivity and creative inspiration of its advisors Jo-Ellen Wood and Colleen Lucas is revealed in the drawings and poetry of over 60 artists and writers. Tonight each family should receive a copy of this first-rate work and this year our Senior Citizens received copies as a gift from Cohasset High School.

If you can see an eye,
you are wise.
If you can hear a heart,
you are caring.
If you can taste a tear,
you are sympathetic.
If you can smell a rose,
you are filled with inner beauty.
If you can feel friendship,
you are loved.

Thanks to 9th grade student Mary Ellen Rayment, whose poem in Whispers and Shadows expresses our message of appreciation to Cohasset High School's teachers of the arts, our gratitude for your unique wisdom, caring, sympathy and inner beauty. You are true friends to our children and you are loved.

Renaissance committee says thank you

To the Editor:

The Village Renaissance Committee wants to give special thanks this year to Flowers by Joann, on South Main Street, for donating most of the beautiful flowers that brighten the storefronts in downtown Cohasset.

We also thank Phil Carney of the Men's Breakfast Club for selecting and planting the flowers in the empty lot, and Cohasset Savings Bank for funding the garden.

Again we thank Tina Watson of Cohasset Hardware for planting and maintaining the lovely flowers in the planters by the town pump.

The flowers are just one example of how the Cohasset community can work together to create a beautiful environment for all to enjoy.

Next we look forward to improving the town walkway to the parking lot with the help of town resident and architect Jim Sandell, the Tree and Park and Highway Departments, Bill Niles of the Men's Breakfast Club, and the Cohasset Girl Scouts.

chamber chatter

by Paula Knowles

Have you ever wondered what those tour-type buses were doing on Jerusalem Road or riding around town when it wasn't Music Circus season? Sure you have. Everyone who sees them wonders. It's almost like "Who was that masked man? and what was he doing here?" Or maybe you couldn't understand why one act at the tent needed so many buses, anyway? Well, what those buses are carrying is the same entity that the mystery buses on Jerusalem Road are carrying — tourists.

They are here now, and have been here year round for quite some time. Most of us just never knew it. And that is the problem. If we didn't know that they were here, we couldn't do anything to make their stay more enjoyable, and therefore snag a few more of their readily available tourist dollars. For a town that has no industrial base to speak of, has been trying to keep it's village and Route 3A retail areas alive, and has a large number of lovely homes on the market all over town, this is unforgivable.

July 16, 6:30 p.m., the Chamber of Commerce is hosting a dinner meeting at Kimball's to begin to rectify this gross oversight. The guest speaker will be Bruce Beckham, of Beckham Reception Services, whose company packages the tours that have been bringing happy tourists to our town for years.

What we will be asking him is "What can we do to make these folks even happier, and how can we entice them to spend their vacation money right here in Cohasset."

We are urging every civic group, charitable group or organization, retail business, realtor and town board to send representatives to that meeting. What we will be talking about is a year round effort to make Cohasset more attractive and receptive to our visitors from out of state, and thereby making the most of what we have here now. The cost of the dinner is $15 per person, and believe me, it will be well worth it.

Now before you dismiss this out of hand, or start harumphing around about tourists and crowds and no change to our historic town, etc., calm down and take a minute to consider these items.

We are not talking about bringing more people into Cohasset. They are already here, and have been for quite some time. If they have not overrun us before, they are not likely to now, just because we have "discovered" their presence. And think of what they could take part in. House tours, special events, the Striders, Drama Club plays.

They would love to see our Historical Society buildings and exhibits, and hear about our history. They would swoon to see a lobster trap, with lobster still in it, up close. If the Garden Clubs could get together with the Drama and/or Historical Society to plan events, who knows what could come out of it?

The Community Center Doll House Tour would have been a natural...if only Kimball's or the tour operator had known about it. As would Christmas House Tours, Harborfest Golf Tournaments, Charity Auctions, etc.

The Design Review Board is very concerned about keeping Cohasset Village a "Quaint New England Village." We applaud their concern and ask them to join us June 16 to begin a course of action that will bring in the money to accomplish their aim. We ask the realtors to envision bus loads of retirement or near retirement age Pennsylvanians falling in love with seaside Cohasset. We ask the retailers on Route 3A and in the village to think about groups of Canadian dollars "at par." We ask every group in town to begin to consider "What's in it for us."

Call Doris Golden at 383-9319 or Kimball's at 383-6650 now for reservations. We need everyone to be involved.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
(House & Senate) SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET (H 5747) - House 111-34, gave final approval to a $350 million fiscal 1992 supplemental budget. The Senate 19-16, favored the budget but fell short of the two-thirds majority necessary for approval since bonding is involved. A move to reconsider Senate action and gain the margin necessary is pending in the Senate. Supporters said the package is a fiscally responsible one which funds necessary programs through the end of the fiscal year. Opponents said the $350 million is excessive and unaffordable and objected to various items in the package. (A "Yea" vote is for the budget. A "Nay" vote is against it). The next five roll calls are on proposed amendments to the fiscal 1993 state budget in the House.	N	N
(House) EDUCATION REFORM (H 5600) - House 126-15, rejected an amendment to the sections providing an additional $185 million to communities for new education aid. The amendment would hold the money in reserve until comprehensive education reforms are passed. Amendment supporters said this is the only way to insure passage of much needed reform and guarantee the money is properly spent. Opponents said communities need the funds and argued the money should not be held hostage just because the legislature and governor cannot agree on a reform package. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment holding the money in reserve. A "Nay" vote is against the amendment).		N
(House) DEEDS EXCISE (H 5600) - House 102-49, approved an amendment maintaining the current real estate deeds excise tax of $4.56 per $1000 of value. The tax, paid by people buying homes, was temporarily raised in 1989 from $2.28 per $1000 and is set to drop back to that level June 30. Amendment supporters said this money is absolutely necessary to fund county government including jails and registries. Opponents said this is another unnecessary tax hike averaging $620 per home purchase. They said it will hurt an already sluggish real estate market. (A "Yea" vote is for the tax hike. A "Nay" vote is against it).		Y
(House) ESTATE TAX (H 5600) - House 147-5, approved an amendment reducing the estate tax by raising from $200,000 to $350,000 the level at which the tax would be imposed. The measure also effectively raises from $400,000 to $700,000 the amount a spouse can inherit before having to pay taxes. Amendment supporters said this relief will prevent people from leaving the state to avoid the tax and could actually increase revenues by over $80 million because people will stay here and pay meals, sales and other taxes. Opponents said the reduction will cost the state over $70 million and help only the very rich. (A "Yea" vote is for reducing the estate tax. A "Nay" vote is against reducing the tax.)		Y
(Senate) DRIVERS LICENSE (H 5600) - Senate 21-10, referred to the Ways and Means Committee a bill prohibiting the use of social security numbers on state drivers licenses and identification cards. Bill supporters said 27 states have adopted similar bills and argued consumer privacy would be protected by the assignment of a random number. Opponents said the use of the social security number is helpful to law enforcement agencies and should be retained. They noted drivers currently have the option of requesting a random number. (A "Yea" vote is for referring the bill to committee. A "Nay" vote is for keeping the bill on the Senate floor for consideration).	Y

White kicks off campaign

Irish music, family, food and fun set the stage for Tim White's campaign kickoff May 21 at the offices of Target Advertising in Weymouth.

White, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state Senate, spoke to a gathering of more than 50 area residents, elected public officials and members of the South Shore business community.

White addressed the need for solutions to the state's economic situation, including taking an aggressive step in encouraging business growth in Massachusetts.

White emphasized that "the business/government relationship ought to be a partnership.

"Business is government's customer and Massachusetts must become more competitive," he said. "We need to increase our investment tax credit and make it available in the year the investment is made.

"In addition, we must encourage research and development links with our schools and universities."

Night repair too costly, cable officials say

Selectman Rocco F. Laugelle wants a little night service from Continental Cablevision.

"We've had many complaints about that," Laugelle said. "People get an answering service, we're the ones they call."

But Joseph Hayes, general manager at Continental Cablevision, said staffing at night would cost more and those costs would be passed on to the subscribers.

Hayes said that most cable companies are open until 6 p.m. and then use an answering service.

Laugelle countered that he didn't care what the other guys do.

"I'm not interested in any other cable company," he said. Laugelle added that Cohasset subscribers pay a good rate.

"The service during the day is great but what do you do about this service at night?" he asked.

Hayes explained that night service would translate into larger rates. He said Continental Cablevision would have to keep technical staff on for back up.

Hayes said that if there is an outage affecting an entire street, for example, an on-call technician would be called. But for individual problems "most can wait until the next day," he said.

The hours of Continental Cablevision, which maintains offices in North Scituate, Hull and Norwell, are 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday; the offices are open until 5 p.m. Saturday, Hayes said.

Hayes, who was accompanied by local program director Wendy Forman, came before the board to discuss service and rates.

Continental Cablevision recently raised rates on their supercable package by 11 percent from $17.95 to $19.95.

Hayes said the average cable subscriber in Cohasset pays about $34 a month which can include extra channels like HBO and additional outlets and remote control devices.

Nancy Snowdale, 52 Mill Lane, asked if senior citizens could get discounts.

Hayes said the cable company does offer discounts for seniors in some elderly housing complexes; installation fees are also waived, he said. But he said Continental Cablevision is "hesitant" to offer more senior discounts because the costs would have to be passed on to other customers.

"Discounts get tricky," he said. "If we give you a discount, someone else has to pay more for that product.

"The guy with a mortgage and three kids pays a little more if someone else gets it cheaper," he said.

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said the board had no control over Continental's rate increases.

"But I do think if people here are interested in making their feelings know, they should have the opportunity," she said.

Cohasset has about 2,000 cable subscribers out of about 3,000 households, Hayes said.

Barbara Powers, 74 Beech Street, asked about the community bulletin board.

"Could you invest in spell check?" she asked.

Cliff Cutler, 29 Highland Avenue, asked if the channel VISN could be added.

Hayes said the current line up "is pretty full."

"Channel space is sparse," he said. "There are new products out there but we are a little hesitant to put products on unless they can generate some revenue."

Selectmen pass on finalists

Selectmen hit a road block in their search for a new town accountant: three of the five board members didn't like what they saw.

So it's back to the drawing board.

The town will re-advertise to fill the position which pays about $35,400 a year.

Two weeks ago the board interviewed four finalists for the post vacated by former town accountant Mary Gallagher who resigned to accept a position in Scituate.

Selectmen Michael Sullivan and Chairman Jane Goedecke said they liked finalist, Jane Dews. Dews holds and MBA and has management and accounting experience.

But Selectmen Martha Gjesteby, Rocco F. Laugelle, and Merle S. Brown weren't satisfied with any of the finalists because they lacked municipal experience.

Sullivan said he felt that Dews could learn the municipal accounting system.

Goedecke agreed.

"I would appoint Jane Dews," Goedecke said.

Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon, who has been "acting" town accountant, said 86 people applied for the position. He said he narrowed the field down to about 14 and after interviews, trimmed that number down to the four finalists.

Sullivan said out of that number — there should be an acceptable candidate.

"Out of a pool of 86 people, we should be able to get one to fill the bill," he said.

Doyon said the combination of salary and geography may have deterred candidates with municipal experience from seeking the post.

In a majority vote, selectmen decided to re-advertise for the position and to hire a Certified Public Accountant to close out the books for the FY'92 fiscal year.

Doyon said the town would be "fortunate" to find a CPA to close out the books for less an $5,000.

Boat ramp needed

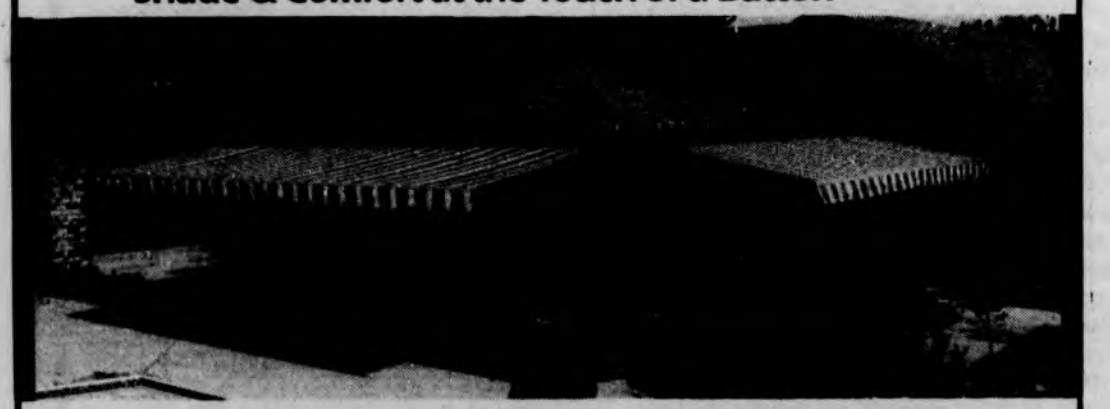
He noted that three moorings have already been lost this year because of silting and shoaling, a condition which would be lessened by dredging.

Some residents, like Charles Fink, liked the fact that Cohasset has considerable space between boats.

"We don't want to become Marblehead South," Fink said, referring to the congestion of Marblehead Harbor.

Pfaffman said the next site scheduled for dredging is the south west side of the harbor, off Cox's point. State and federal reimbursements for dredging, however, have declined since the 1980 master plan was drawn up, he said.



How much of the harbor will actually be dredged will depend on available funds, Pfaffman noted.

Band takes home the gold

The best of local community television was spotlighted May 27 at the Eighth Annual Golden Tape Awards, held at the Barker Tavern in Scituate.

Each year Continental Cablevision recognizes the talent and dedication of community television volunteers in Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham Hull, Norwell and Scituate.

This year's event attracted more than 200 local volunteers, with many more viewers watching live on Continental Channel 53. Heather Kahn of New England Cable News served as Master of Ceremonies.

Awards were presented in categories ranging from Best Director, to Best Producer Under 14 Years Old, to the evening's most prestigious prize, Producer of the Year. Judging for the 15 competitive categories was done by a panel of television professionals. In addition, special awards were presented by each of the six community Program Directors for Volunteer of the Year, and for distinguished long-term service (The Continental Award).

Cohasset residents who took honors included The Deer Hill School Sixth-Graders, who won a Gold for Best Documentary and a Silver for Producer Under 14 Years Old for their special, A Look at Cohasset. Other Cohasset winners were Wigmore Pierson, two Silvers for Best On-Air Talent and Best Series for Pierson to Person, and Chalie Duquette, winner of a Gold for Best Religious and a special honor as Volunteer of the Year.

Cohasset Program Director Wendy Forman also presented special awards to Scott Crofts and Nancy Stevenson.

Educational loans available

Fifty-three Massachusetts colleges and universities can now offer families one of the lowest fixed rate educational loans available in the nation. The Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority is offering the Family Education Loan at 8.5 percent for the 1992-93 academic year.

The 8.5 percent fixed rate means families pay only $10.48 each month, per thousand dollars borrowed, for the loan's 15-year repayment period.

The Family Education Loan Program provides a supplemental source of financing for many who qualify for financial aid and is a primary source of assistance for those not eligible for aid. The program is administered by the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority and offered through 53 participating colleges and universities statewide.

Applications are available from the libraries in Cohasset, Hingham and Hull, or from the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority, 176 Federal St., Boston, MA 02110.

Shoot-a-thon to benefit AAU squad

By Paula Knowles
Mariner correspondent

AAU Basketball has come to Cohasset, and it is a thing of beauty to behold. Cohasset High School JV coach Ron Ford has gathered a team of 13-to-15-year-olds from ten different towns and schools across Southern Mass.achusetts and molded them into a cohesive unit that is one of only two teams chosen to represent Massachusetts in the AAU National Championships in Kingsport, Tennessee, July 11-16.

Four of these fine players are from Cohasset High School.

Peter Bishop, Dorian Bryant, Joey Slotnick, and David Nothnagle all played for Coach Ford this winter. They knew his work ethic and his brand of basketball, and they jumped at the chance to play for him again on an AAU team. They had no idea what it would do for them, personally, as players and competitors.

"These kids are playing at a level now that they never dreamed of last winter," said Ford. "They have learned to be winners, and they love it."

It only takes a few minutes of watching them play to see what an understatement that is.

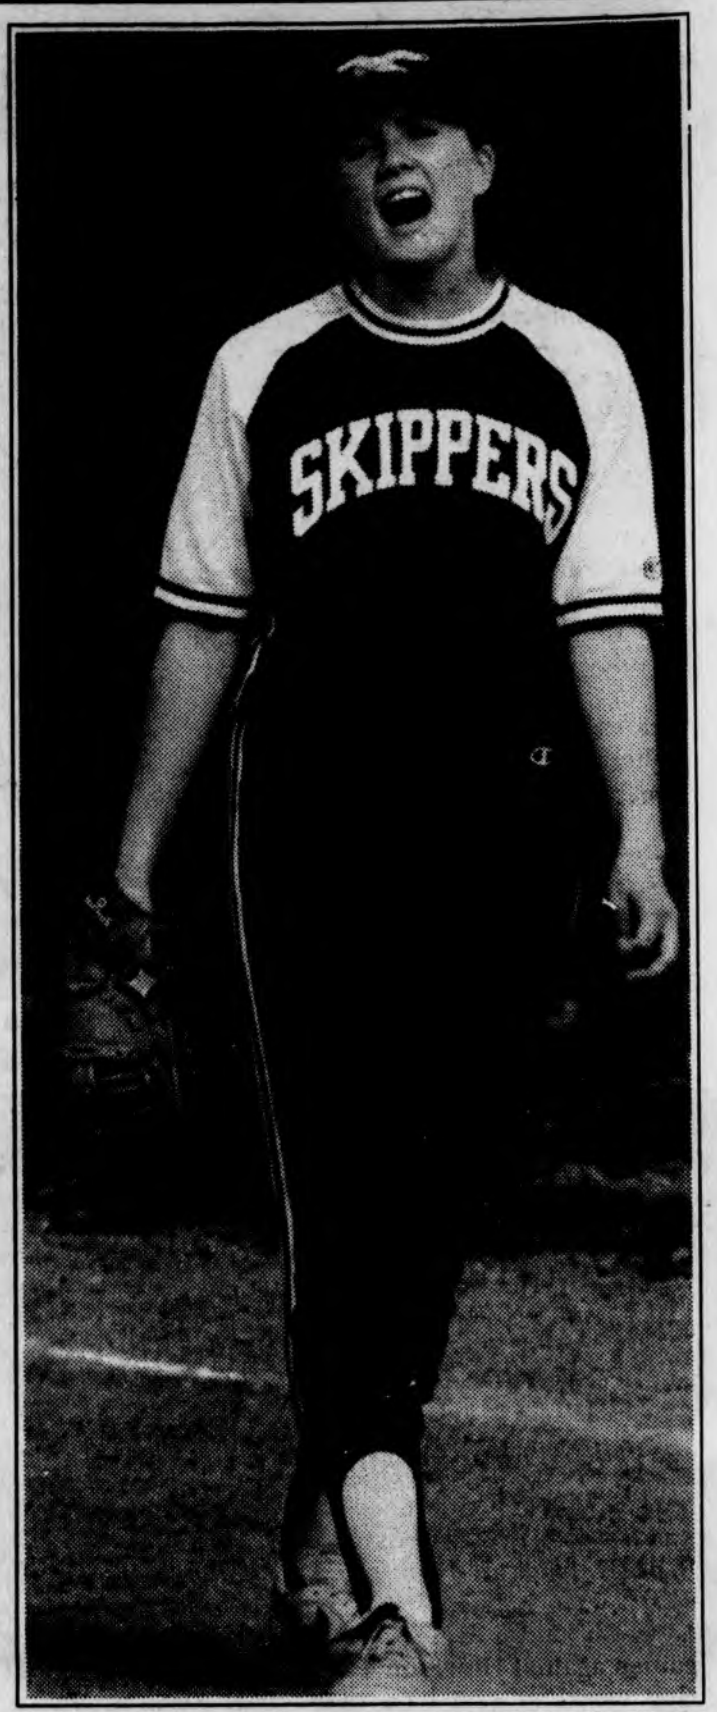
This is a game of constant motion. Moving without the ball, setting picks, bullet passes, stop and pop, fast breaks — it's all there and it all works. At a practice at Cohasset High School earlier this week, these kids were clearly working their hardest and loved every minute of it. After an hour-and-a-half of killer exercises, shooting and passing drills, rebounding and blocking out, the team settled in for a solid half hour of non-stop full court ball. Ron Ford's brand of ball — fast paced, constant motion, fully controlled basketball, and it did not matter who was on which team. Substitutions were absorbed whole. These young men adjusted immediately to any new player off the bench.

Coach Ford and his assistants, Cohasset trainer Mark Hill, and Blackstone JV Coach Rich Berry, have been together for years at the Nelson/Sanders Basketball Camps, and it shows. They know what to stress and how to teach together, and they get their point across to the players with a minimum of words. But they always take the time to explain, to make sure each player knows what is expected of him. They struggled together in 12 preseason games, began to gel as a team during the first few games of the season, and really hit their stride when they got to the final tournament May 16. After coming from 14 points behind with four minutes to go to win by one point in an early game, it came as no surprise to the spectators when this team was chosen to represent Western Mass. in the AAU Championships.

The only regret that Coach Ford has is that David Nothnagle is no longer able to play on the team.

"He played in all the preseason games with us, and has been a really important part of the team all the way," he stated. "But this age made him ineligible to play for us in the finals or the championships. His birthday fell just two days after the cut-off date. But we all still think of him as a part of the team, and he's here for practices and to lend us any support that he can."

But whether he can play in the finals or not, he will still be a winner in the end.



"The level of play that he and the other three will bring back to Cohasset for next season is far above what they will ever see on most varsity high school teams on the South Shore."

Coach Ford sees these four as the nucleus of a great Cohasset varsity team for 1992-3, and thinks that with their new-found ability to adjust to any style of play added to the level of skill that they have attained, they could be unstoppable next year.

But first they have to get through the summer, and to do that they need more than skill and practice. They need money, approximately $20,000 worth of money. Although the AAU sponsors the teams and the tournament, each team must raise the funds for the trip themselves. Airfare, ground transportation, food, motels, food, team shirts, sneakers, warmups, food, entry fees and food.

The team is running an ongoing Shoot-A-Thon and signing up as many sponsors as possible. Each boy hopes to shoot a thousand free throws by July 4, and each sponsor can pledge a certain amount per basket. They also must find fans and friends who will donate any amount of money to help the team on its way.

In Cohasset (which has the largest group of players of any other town represented), the Bishop Family has agreed to be the contact for anyone who would like to pledge or donate to the team. They may be reached at 383-6944; and Coach Ford can always be reached at the high school, or you can come and see them play in a Round Robin Tournament this weekend at Cohasset High School. Call the Bishops for day and time.Note: Donations may also be sent C/O The Bishop Family, 208 Fairoaks Lane, Cohasset 02025. Checks payable to: Mass. AAU Club - Boys Basketball.

Dodgers clinch regular season crown

The Dodgers, dodging any hurdles tossed their way, have climbed to the top of the heap this season and will take a bye on the start of the 1992 Major League playoffs. They earned their glory and this brief rest by defeating the Pirates, Mets and Cardinals last week to claim the regular season league championship, and they did it with their usual recipe of hard work, discipline and heroic effort.

June 1, Big Rob Moody took the mound and pitched a gem of a game against the fearsome black flagged Pirates. Moody struck out twelve Pirates and produced two hits as did his teammates Matt Lewis, Jimmy O'Sullivan and Greg Bilton. Mark Equi and Dennis Rooney kept Dodger bats alive with one hit apiece. The Pirates hitters were Ben Smoot, Scott Van Hartsvelt, Colton Ralston, Andrew Kinch and Paul Michael Quintin who led his team offensively with a homer and a triple.

Returning to Barnes Field June 3, the dogged Dodgers gave Jim O'Sullivan the nod and he went the distance and defeated the Mets. His support in the field came from Brian Hurley, Bob Morgan, Bilton, Garrick Towle and Adam Leahy. Jake Motley, Chris Olney, O'Sullivan, Greg O'Keefe and Lewis had hits for the Light Blues. Mets hitters were Pat Leahy, Andrew Ross, Greg Taylor and Nick Herzog.

In their final game of the regular season, the Cardinals and the Dodgers provided a rematch of two of the leagues top pitchers. Matt Lewis allowed just three hits, had nine slo's and walked four to chalk up the victory. Steve Baker gave up seven hits, struck out six and did not walk a batter in this gripping game. The Dodger victory was sweetened by Dennis Rooney's career-first fence-clearing home run. Lewis had two hits and drove home the winning run and Equi, O'Sullivan, the two Gregs and Bob Morgan all had hits. The defensive player of the game was Chris Olney who snagged two flies in right field depriving the Cardinals of hits and runs. Adam Leahy also had a strong defensive game. For the Cards, hits came from Teddy Goff, Nate Cotter and Charlie Dean and some fine fielding from third baseman Alex Schwerin, Dean at the dish and field Mark Kupsc.

So it's on to the next challenge for the First Place Dodgers who have worked hard, come far and earned much. And for Cohasset Little League fans, it's Playoffs, hot dogs and ice pops - all at Barnes Field starting Monday, the 16th!

End of season picnic and All-Star Game will be held at Barnes Field Saturday, starting at noon.

Soccer playoff action set to begin this Saturday

For 1992, more teams then ever from Cohasset will be represented in post-season Coastal League Playoff action. So far we've heard that Boys 16-1 has had a super season but has kept a low profile in the press. We suspect they'll keep playing. Boys 14-1, having tied Hanover this past week, and taken Marshfield 2-1 May 23, is on its way to playoff action this week. Kevin McKenna and Brett MacQuarrie kicked in the goals for that game which brought their record to 6-2. It was a rough game against Marshfield marked with two red cards. Matt Belson was outstanding in the second half in goal and Jamie Kondrat and Schuyler Doten anchored the midfield.

The Hotspurs (Boys 12-3) are hot and hoping for playoff action. Detailed notes on their awesome season are published weekly by Coach Dean and make great reading for those who can get a copy. The latest release tells us the team has an overall season record of 5-1-2 and will assemble at Deer Hill at 6:45 a.m. this Saturday to be ready for an 8 a.m. rematch with Marshfield for a spot in the playoffs. Some say this team thrives on adversity. In 95 degree heat they played back to back games against Hingham 4 and Marshfield 7 Memorial Day weekend and won both, with Kevin DeVito a standout in goal and as a forward in the first game, and Mark Equi, Morgan Bigley and Ben Litauer stellar in defense in game two. The next week they shut out Kingston 3, 4-0. This past week, against a team that clobbered them in preseason play, the Spurs came up with a tie. The half-back line of Hunt Pile, Jay Whorisky, Mark Equi, Steve Sceery and Jake Motley covered the Marshfield B team's offense like a wet blanket and kept them smothered, Ben Smoot made the tying goal. Now the Spurs must face the guys they beat when they were hot and tired two weeks ago, Marshfield 7, so they can proceed to playoff action, and they look like a team that can and will.

BUICK'S BOYS, Team 12-2, is also packing up for playoff action. Having won their last four games, they lead their division. May 23 they took Scituate 2-1 with Colton Ralston scoring twice with help from Mike Rossi and Kyle Bunstein. Justin Maitland played well on the wing and the midfield duo of James Drybanski and Pat Leahy contested every loose ball. Adam Sheerin showed great versatility, playing any position without complaint and consistently well. May 30 against Duxbury, Bunstein had a hat trick and Rossi spurred the team on with his contagious enthusiasm. Ricky Mahoney and Patrick Ridge showed nifty footwork on wings, and Sheerin and J.P. Laugelle (also a star in goal) guided in two more goals for a 5-2 win. Nick Herzog and Devin Buick were great hustlers and Dave Payne and Jim O'Sullivan gave powerful defense. This week, the boys took a Marshfield team 2-1, clinching their triumphant season so they won't have this weekend at the beach. It's post season play for these kickers.

Boys 12-1 can't go to the movies Saturday night. They'll be in Duxbury. Playoffs, you know. The last three games tell the story. May 23, in the heat, two teams with 6-1 records battled for first place and Cotter's Boys held on to a mutual shutout until the last two minutes when Marshfield scored the only goal. Jamie DeMichele was notable at forward and All-Universe Defenseman Leigh Atherton was fine. Matt Verrochi put on an impressive display in a rare appearance in goal and Mike Baird was once again outstanding at the stopper position. The next week 12-1's own Department of Defense (Atherton, Brian Walsh, John Kasameyer and Andrew Laney) was the key to what was in essence a Cohasset victory. Officially it was a 0-0 tie, but it kept the blue and white in league standings. Outstanding goaltending included a heart-stopping out-and-out larceny of a Hanover goal by Nate Cotter and contributed mightily to the result. This week, the defensive capacities of this team already having been proven, they went on to demonstrate scoring style with a 10-0 romp of a respectful Kingston team. Eight different players scored and the assists were too numerous to count. Last week's Defense Department moved up to show the regular forwards how it's done with one apiece and two from Kasameyer, and Greg Bitton, Derek Bugley, Morgan Sandell and Patrick Hurley (2) rounded out the scoring.

Reports continue to pour in. As many as seven Cohasset teams may be keeping their uniforms on longer. Tune in next week for 10 and under and girls' teams reports. Meanwhile, it was the coaches looking for water and oranges last Saturday when about 20 of our finest G and B U67 players took on a similar Scituate team, well similar but better, for a coaches "All-Star" game. O'Donnells and Mangans made the game coed, as both parents played as well as many of the others who have only shouted from the sidelines all season. Cohasset lost 7-4 only making the team of coaches eager for a rematch, as soon as the kids teach them more about how to play their positions, cover their man, improve a bit...

Jones is skate champ

Raymond Jones, Cohasset's winter wrestling sensation, brought home another state championship to Cohasset this week. Saturday, June 7, at Bridgewater State College, Jones won the triple jump with a leap of 44 feet, 10-1/4 inches to grab the state championship. Track Coach/Coordinator Ron Emmons was ecstatic for Jones, and is thrilled that the season will now be extended even further. Next stop for the junior class phenom? The New England's.

With the fiscal year coming to a close, the Cohasset Council on Aging would like to take this time to acknowledge the many organizations, people, banks, etc. who have been so very cooperative and generous with their participating in helping to make it possible for our seniors to enjoy the many facilities and functions available to them.

A big "thank you" to all the banks in Cohasset for their generous contributions to our "Birthday of the Month" celebrations. The cakes provided to our Birthday Seniors were not only beautiful, but delicious as well. In addition, the representatives from these institutions who joined us at these luncheons, were most informative and interesting regarding current topics of interest to our Seniors.

To Rev. Edward Atkinson — for the use of the First Parish Hall for our regular Tuesday Luncheons and for the many other functions held there that were sponsored by the Cohasset Council on Aging.

To Rev. Clifford Cutler — for the use of the kitchen and hall at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church by the Gourmet Cooking Class.

To the following teachers at the Joseph Osgood School for their participation with their students at our Tuesday Luncheons: Mrs. Maureen Alcott, Mrs Marian Atkinson, Mrs. Dorothy Montuori, and Mrs. Susan Schadhauser. Our Seniors always enjoyed being with these children as it appeared that it was the highlight of the day to all.

To Bryan Marks who provided some wonderful entertainment with his students from the Cohasset High School Choral group.

To Jack MacGinnis, who also provided some very beautiful choral selections by the Deer Hill School students.

To some of our high school students who spent several hours with our Seniors decorating wooden spoons for "Santa's Kitchen."

To our many Craft Instructors who give so generously of their time, effort, and expertise.

To the many volunteers who work behind the scenes at our regular Tuesday luncheons, preparing and serving these meals, for a job well done.

To the many representatives from the South Shore Service League, Board of Health, Cohasset Historical Society, Cohasset Knoll, who have contributed so much in making our many programs both interesting and attractive to and for our Senior Citizens. All of this is so appreciated by all!!

To our many volunteers who keep the office running smoothly and efficiently.

To our volunteer drivers, always willing when available and needed.

To our many volunteers who contribute to our mailing of our monthly Vista and to those who have helped get our Real Estate Taxes, Excise Taxes, etc., when the Cohasset Town Hall has requested help.

And last, but certainly not least, to our Program Coordinator, Margaret Casey, for a job that is never ending. These programs have been and continue to be, the best Margaret. Thanks for a job well done!!!

HELPFUL HINTS

Strawberry season starts this month and you can keep berries several days longer than usual if you store them UNWASHED in a colander in the refrigerator.

When you chop onions and green peppers, make several cups more than you need. Freeze the vegetables in plastic bags for later use in spaghetti sauce and casseroles.

A sprinkling of dry baking soda before vacuuming will freshen carpeting as well as any commercial carpet deodorizer.

For smoother hand sewing, insert the point of the needle into a bar of soap every now and then as you work.

ANNUAL GOLF CLINIC

Friday, June 12, 1 to 4 p.m. and Saturday, June 13, 9 a.m. to noon at Braintree Municipal Golf Course. Individuals with physical challenges such as: amputations, back injuries, stroke, or head injuries can learn special golf techniques to compensate for their particular limitation.

FISH — DRIVERS NEEDED

FISH is a voluntary organization providing rides for Cohasset residents to medical appointments outside of Cohasset. It has been operating for over twenty years and has almost always been able to help with transportation on a neighbor to neighbor basis. It is used primarily but not exclusively by Seniors. If you need a ride, call the FISH Answering Service (545-7073) two to five days before your appointment and let us know where and when. The driver for the day will contact you and make arrangements.

There is no charge for the service, but donations are always welcome. Any parking fees are paid by the rider. We are a nonprofit group, dependent entirely on donations from civic groups churches and individuals. Even if you do not use our service, please remember FISH when making your charitable donations. Our service depends on our volunteer drivers, who, using their own cars, provide transportation on a specific day each month. Most of them have been doing so for years and deserve the hearty thanks of the community. Right now, because of illness, moving and other causes, we are short of drivers and really need some replacements. Do think about it and if you can spare one day a month, please call Doris McNulty (383-1886) or Gertrude Hooper (383-1111).

If you cannot commit to a specific day, but could be on call as an emergency driver, especially to Boston, please contact us. WE NEED YOU.

CREDIT CARDS

Don't forget, if you no longer want that credit card don't just throw it away. Cut it up and send it back to the Credit Card Company so your name will be removed from their accounts.

THE NATURAL NEED TO NAP

Researchers studying biological rhythms of sleep tell us that humans were meant to nap in the afternoon. Evidence from studies...using a wide variety of methods to track sleep cycles throughout 24-hours-have led to the conclusion that there is a strong urge to drowse in the middle of the afternoon, even for people who have had a full night's sleep. Does a heavy lunch lead to that afternoon yawn? The University of Ottawa states, "The mid-afternoon dip in alertness and intellectual ability occurs whether or not people eat lunch...it depends purely on the time of day." In a preface to a book of sleep studies published by Raven Press, it concurs that "It seems nature definitely intended that adults nap in the middle of the day...After napping, people not only feel better, but do significantly better on tests of mental performance".

WHAT'S NEW ON CABLE?

Something just for you — finally!! A network that caters to the interests and concerns of people 50 and older. Topics on the Golden American Network include everything from healthy lifestyles to women's issues. There are also programs giving news and information about Social Security and Medicare. For information call 1-800-255-8801.

STATE RELIEF

Four states go beyond federal limits and forbid any balance billing. Doctors in Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island may not bill for more than Medicare's approved amount - 80 percent of which is paid by Medicare and 20 percent by the enrollee.

EAT SMART AND FEEL GOOD

Test Your Crackers — Many crackers get about half their calories from fat. To test yours, rub one on a paper napkin. If it leaves a grease mark, try a new brand.

BRIGHT IS BETTER

When selecting fruits and vegetables, choose those with the most intense color. A bright-orange carrot has more betacarotene than a pale one. Dark-green lettuce leaves have more vitamins than lighter ones. There is more vitamin C in ripe sweet red peppers than in green ones.

Graduation '92

for the National Honor Society; School Committee Chairman Barbara Bliss awarded the diplomas as dozens of spectators armed with cameras and camcorders jockeyed for the best position to record the event.

The bulk of scholarships and awards were presented earlier in the week at the annual school awards night.

Friends and screamed or cheered for their respective graduates. One of the more usual salutes was an official "Fenway Wave" from the back row given to graduate, Bradford Patrick Morgan.

Reidy, whose father J. Russell Reidy gave his daughter a big hug along with her diploma, told her fellow graduates to remember they are special.

"Strive to be all you can be. Never be a copy of another, " she said. "Realize all the unique qualities that make you special."

In his address, Supt. Stephen Hart emphasized the process of achieving goals rather than the result.

"There's more to life than competition," he said. "....Remember life is a journey, not a race."

The members of the National Honor Society are: Nicole Lynn Bieryla, John Winslow Brister, Jr., Laurie Beth Bronstein, Cecilia B. Candia, Kathleen Theresa Conroy, Daniel Ryan DeMichele, Joseph Albert Gagliano, Christopher Tory Alexander Henderson, Jason Todd Hunter, Alexander Ellis Insley, John Benjamin Kisiel, Rebecca Anne Kirk, Jonas Kwong, Brenden James Murphy, Carole Jeanne Therese Smith, Patick Dirk Suhrbier, and James Patrick Yess, Jr.

Cohasset kids could get longer school year

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

Cohasset kids could go to school a little longer as early as next year.

School officials plan to investigate extending the school year to compensate for teacher in-service days.

School committee member Ralph Kidder broached the subject at Monday's board meeting after Supt. Stephen Hart said it was time to plan in-service days for 1992-93.

Kidder said one of the biggest problems in education nationwide is that children do not spend enough time on task.

Kidder said 12 in-service days add up to about six full school days.

"I propose this as one of our goals," Kidder said.

"I propose we eliminate all 12 days and add six days to the calendar," he said.

Kidder explained that he using "12 days" to make the point.

"It's a nice round number," Kidder said later in a telephone interview.

In actuality, in-service days are not half days. The kids are dismissed about two hours early; so they attend school for 5/7 of the day.

In Massachusetts, public school students attend school for 180 days. Adding the half-dozen days would not actually increase the number of days the kids are in school in Cohasset — but by

Karen McMorris and Cara Foley can't hide how much fun they're having at the annual Cohasset Little League family day Saturday. More than 40 cases of soft drinks, and 700 hot dogs and hamburgers were consumed by the 450 players and family members who attended the cook-out that capped off the regular season. Voke wants higher profile in Cohasset

By Mary Ford

A vocational education isn't what it used to be. It's a lot more technical.

That's the message that representatives from South Shore Vocational Technical High School brought to the school committee Monday.

But the school, which enrolls a total of about 400 students on campuses in Hanover and Abington, may have an image problem in town.

School board member Ralph Kidder said Vo-Tech is "fighting a culture" in Cohasset.

"You're peddling up stream ...if what you offer isn't high value-added, high standard-of-living, futuristic jobs, " Kidder said.

Admiral, omelets cook up $7K for lightkeepers project

A picturesque Cape, omelets made to order, and lots of good company were just some of the highlights at the "Show the Flag" brunch, a kick-off fund-raiser for the preservation of the Minot Lightkeepers residence Sunday.

Looking stunning in his dress uniform, a special guest Rear Admiral Peter Cressy, president of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, talked about the need for symbols.

Cressy reminded the 75 people in attendance of significance of Flag Day. He noted that the lightkeepers' project can be "like a beacon" at a time when the country needs to look at where its maritime industry is headed.

"It was easy to focus on the flag after our enormous victory in Operation Desert Storm," said Cressy, who served in the gulf war as Navy commander in the Mediterranean.

"..But with a whole new world order, it's difficult today to focus on what we're all about."

Cressy said the Maritime Academy is embarking on a marine environmental protection program and would soon have the nation's first oil spill simulator.

He praised the "entrepreneurial spirit" of those associated with the lightkeepers' project and said the country should not lose sight of its rich maritime past.

"We are an island nation, a trading nation. Our country, economy and national defense depends enormously on using the seas in an appropriate way," he said.

Polly Logan hosted the brunch at her Nichols Road home which raised about $7,200 toward the renovation

Cohasset shines on silver screen

By Joseph Mont
Mariner staff

Cohasset officials and merchants were treated to a special screening of "Housesitter," the new Steve Martin film which filmed in Cohasset last August and October.

Casting companies and government officials, including Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci were also on hand for the screening at Lowes Cheri Theatre in Boston. The film opened to the public on June 12.

Cohasset is featured in several important scenes, including the film's finale.

In August, hundreds of people gathered to watch actress Goldie Hawn film her scenes in Dobbs Mill, Cohasset's nom de film. Throughout Cohasset Center signs and window decorations disguised the town's identity. Cohasset Hardware became Dobbs Mill Hardware, thanks to a new sign. An empty shop on Depot Court became Dobbs Mill General store. Awnings were constructed over Hunneman Realtors and Liquors Unlimited and a fake Plymouth and Boston Bus stop was set up on Cohasset Common.

Education foundation plans Cosby kick-off

There's something new afoot, which coordinators hope will enhance educational opportunities for Cohasset kids.

Eighteen local citizens have formed a task force to develop an educational foundation in town, which would raise money for education.

The task force is selling 200 reserved seats at the August 29 Bill Cosby performance at the Music Circus as its kick-off benefit.

Cosby was chosen because of his personal commitment to education.

Task force member, John Larkin Thompson, who is president and CEO of Blue Cross/Blue Shield, explained that the concept is similar to that of the Boston Plan for Excellence, a foundation formed nearly a decade ago, to help the Boston Public Schools.

Thompson, who is a member of the board of trustees of the Boston Plan for Excellence, said charitable education foundations receive monies as tax deductible gifts which are used to enhance education.

Thompson said many medium-to-small sized towns across the state have started education foundations.

"This is something that would interest the citizens of Cohasset, I would hope.

"Education frankly is everybody's business. If the school system is more effective, everybody wins," he

Appliance fee set

Effective immediately there will be a $10 fee per appliance for all residents disposing appliances containing chlorofluorocarbons (CFC's) in their cooling units. Examples of such appliances are refrigerators, air-conditioners and dehumidifiers.

New regulations require removal of CFC's before they are sent to the scrap dealer.

Unemployment is down

Unemployment rate for Cohasset in April was down from the previous month.

According to figures from the state Department of Employment and Training, April's unemployment rate in Cohasset was 6.9 percent, down from the previous month's total of 7.8 percent.

Meanwhile, the state's unemployment rate dropped to 8.3 percent in May, down from 8.6 percent in April, and down over a percentage point from last May's rate of 9.4 percent.

Unemployment numbers for municipalities lag a month behind the state figures.

Employment and Training Commissioner Nils L. Nordberg said, "In addition to a lower unemployment rate, 39,000 more people are working this month than last month." Nordberg added that evidence of a positive trend can be seen in the 8.3 percent average unemployment rate for the first five months of 1992, down from 8.9 percent in 1991.

In Cohasset, 260 residents were out of work in April from a total labor force of 3,767.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Philip Murphy, CRS, GRI

RENT HOME OUT OR SELL?

QUESTION: I plan to buy a larger home. Do you have any advice on the merits of selling versus renting out our present home?

ANSWER: I would strongly consider selling over renting. To keep the house rented, you'll have to pay advertising costs or fees to a broker. Maintenance costs take a bite out of rental income. Each time there is a turnover the house will have to be cleaned and redecorated. A vacancy can result in a loss that could take years to recover. A deadbeat tenant could take up to six months to evict plus legal costs. You're better off selling a single-family home and using the money to move up to a bigger and better home.

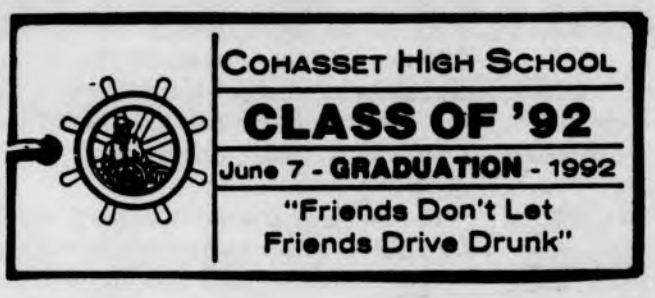
Keyrings carry reminder



A key ring may save a life.

And that's what the Cohasset Drug and Alcohol Committee is counting on.

During graduation rehearsal two weeks ago, each senior was awarded a commemorative key ring highlighting their membership in the Cohasset High Class of 1992.

In addition to the ship's wheel, the symbol of the Skippers, the key ring also carries this reminder:

"Friends don't let friends drive drunk."

Past committee president Keith Knowles said the idea for the key ring was a result of brainstorming among committee members and input from senior class officers.

"We had some money and we wanted to put it so some purpose," Knowles recalled.

The key rings with their brass finish and blue lettering were an immediate hit with the kids.

"They loved them," Knowles said.

Not only are they popular, but the rings send a positive message.

Committee member Ellie Waal said the key rings are "an expression of our interest in their (the graduates') future."

The 11-member committee, which is in its second year, is always on the look out to bring drug awareness education to the community, Knowles said.

An ongoing effort is the Safe Homes program. In Safe Homes parents sign a pledge not to allow alcohol at any teen parties held at their home. Parents, who sign up, receive a list of other Safe Homes in town.

The program saw a seven percent increase in participation this year, Knowles said.

The drug and alcohol committee doesn't just zero in on the young.

Knowles said the committee sponsored a seminar for elder care givers on substance abuse problems with seniors.

"We are always looking for ways to bring the message about drug use and abuse to the community," he said.

Knowles said the $240 for the key rings — paid through private donations — was money well spent.

"If one kid lives, the money is worth it," he said.

Longer school year . . .

eliminating the early-dismissal days, the hours on task would increase.

Cohasset schools currently have 12 in-service days — held mostly on alternating Thursdays — for staff professional development.

On in-service days, Osgood and Deer Hill Schools are dismissed about two hours early; and the junior/senior high school is dismissed at 12:20 p.m., rather than the usual 2:05 p.m. dismissal time.

Kidder explained that by adding six days "in some form" staff in-service could be full days, which may enable professional staff to accomplish more.

"It seems we are finding more and more ways to lessen the amount of time we have in classroom instruction," he added.

School Committee Chairman Barbara Bliss called the proposal "worthy of looking into."

Hart said "it is an interesting idea and should be investigated."

Kidder said full-day, in-service days and no early release days for kids is "a win-win" situation.

Not only would the kids' day not be cut short, but "we would get more quality professional development time for staff," he said.

"We have to find ways which we can increased the amount of time kids are exposed to learning," he said.

Dr. Michael Gill, director of health education for Cohasset schools, gave Kidder's proposal high marks.

"I don't think there's a teacher who wouldn't go for it," he said.

Gill, who attended Monday's board meeting, noted however that there were financial considerations and that teachers would need to be paid for the extra time.

But, he added, that "big blocks" of time where teachers can work together to develop curriculum are hard to come by under the current system.

"In general, I think the proposal would be positively received by teachers," Gill said.

He explained that in the past teachers have used full days for professional development of the peer education program, for example, which have been paid for through grants.

The grant money was used to pay for substitute teachers, he said.

Gill said he would welcome a longer school year.

In a telephone interview, Kidder explained that the increase in funding required to extend the school year "is a negotiable issue.

"But we would compensate staff if we add days," he said.

Kidder explained that he proposed the change in in-service days as one of the school committee's goals to study during the next school year.

But he added that if Beacon Hill comes through with additional funds for education, there is a chance the way in-service days are structured could be changed for the coming school year.

Currently there are two proposals for towns that would see no additional funding under the state education aid formula. Under the governor's proposal the non-qualifying towns like Cohasset would receive $50 per student; and under the House education plan, towns like Cohasset would receive $100 per student.

So that could mean $50,000 to $100,000 for the Cohasset schools — funds could go toward the addition of school days.

Kidder also thinks the plan would be a hit with families in which both parents work outside the home.

Kidder said no time should be lost in finding ways to improve American education; he noted that the business community backs efforts to increase the amount of time kids spend in school.

Cohasset shines on silver screen

Park benches near the common's pond were replaced to fit the director's vision.

Leaves and trees were painted orange to simulate the film's autumn setting and the common was dyed green to hide brown spots caused by a lack of rain.

The August shoot was far from smooth; two days were lost when Hurricane Bob swept through town, blanketing the town with rain and blowing away the painted leaves.

The cast and 100 crew members returned to Cohasset in October for a much smoother shoot.

As part of its agreement with the film's producers, Cohasset received $1,500-per-day of filming. Producers also rented the town hall auditorium for casting at a rate of $200-per-day and gave the town several Pear Trees that now line Main Street.

Director Frank Oz, perhaps best known as the voice of Miss Piggy, told the Mariner he picked Cohasset for its small-town charm.

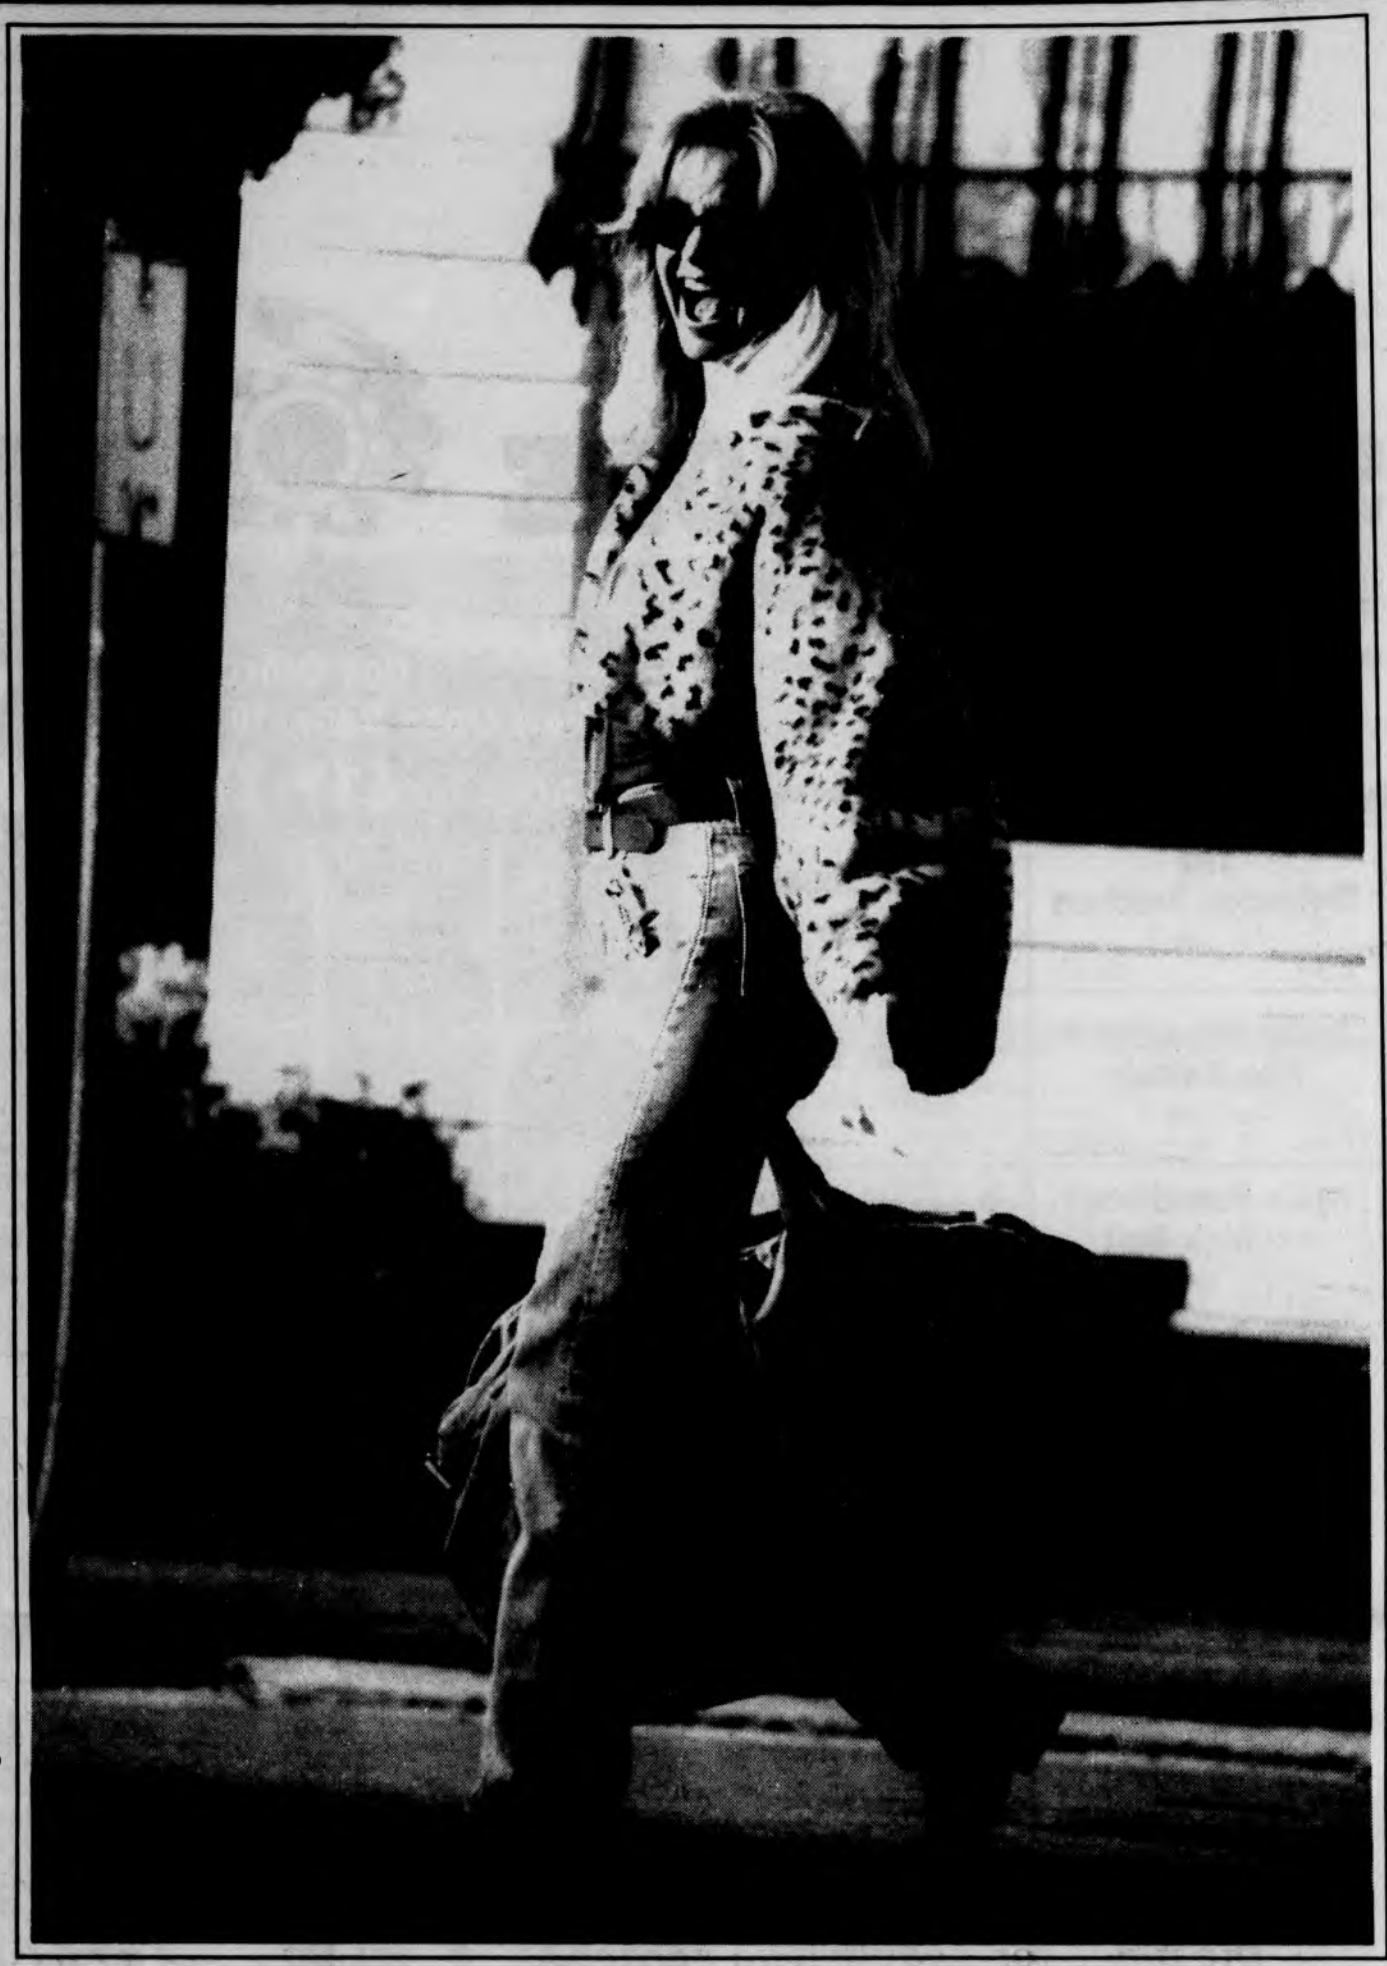
"The town has been great," he said, describing Cohasset as an "idyilic small town."

The film even made stars for a day out of several local residents.

When Hawn steps off the bus and gets her first glimpse of Dobbs Mill (Cohasset Common), Cohasset Junior High School students Bradley Potoliccio and Michael O'Hearn are seen riding by on bicycles.

According to Potoliccio, they were paid $55 apiece and worked from 6:30 a.m. to noontime.

Linda Peterson Warren, director of the Massachusetts Film Office, said the film generated at least $17 million for the state.



"And that is a conservative estimate," she said.

Peterson told the audience at the screening that 70 percent of the crew and staff were local hires, including 850 extras and 12 day players (people with speaking parts).

Warren said Cohasset, (as well as Concord and Boston where other scenes were shot), may be scouted for other projects in the near future. Cohasset was also the setting for Jack Nicholson's "The Witches of Eastwick."

She said Bernie Williams, the film's executive producer raved about how his people were treated.

"Testimonials in this industry you just cannot buy," she said.

Goldie Hawn calls Cohasset home for several days during last summer's filming of the movie "Housesitter" which recently opened in theaters nationwide.

Susan McNamara, another task force member, explained that funds could be used for many types of enrichment programs or for big ticket items like a computer lab.

However, she stressed, that the purpose is not to replace public support for education — but to provide grants to enhance the educational opportunities available.

To order tickets for Bill Cosby's performance, please call Supt. Stephen Hart's office at 383-6111 or Clark Chatterton at 383-0560.

Checks may be sent to the Superintendent's Office, 143 Pond St., Cohasset 02025. Checks should be payable to the Cohasset Education Foundation. Tickets are $45 and $50 and will be tax deductible in part.

❑ Congratulations go to Frederick Willshire Jr., who recently graduated from Babson College in Wellesley with two majors in Accounting and Computer Science. He made the dean's list several times and was part of the tennis team. He is the son of Frederick and Nelly Willshire of 240 Fair Oaks Lane.

❑ We also applaud Dennis Mulligan, whose efforts certainly paid off during his spring semester at Quinnipiac College. Dennis made the dean's list for the spring semester!!

Good work Dennis.

❑ Travis Coley, CHS class of 1991, was selected as a member of the Eastern New England All Star Lacrosse Team. Travis has just completed a post graduate year at Phillips Academy in Andover.

He will attend Lafayette College in the fall where he plans to continue his soccer career.

Matthew J. Morris recently graduated from Xaverian Bros. High School.

❑ Attention all tennis players, while you are filling out your August calendar, be sure to mark the first and second right now! Yes, it is tennis tournament time, played to benefit Children's Hospital. Last year they raised over $4,000 in spite of one day of bad weather, and they have lots of great courts lined up "around town."

Call Annie Abbruzze at 242-9242 or Joy Pratt at 383-1367 for more information.

❑ We hope that Stuart Pratt is at home and resting comfortably after his recent stay in the hospital. Get well soon, Stuart!!

❑ I had the distinct pleasure of walking Sandy Beach last weekend and never has it looked more beautiful! The sand is all in place, the ramps are in, the water is as clear as a bell, there are few rocks (the only obstacles were a few sand castles made by young and old). It is truly picture-perfect. No mean feat after last year's devastating storm, and a long winter... all of us got an appeal for a donation to help defray the rising costs of the well-maintained beach, be sure that you take the time to make a donation!

And, be sure to take a walk on our precious commodity; you will love it!!

❑ Had a nice chat with John Reidy this week. Did you know he is coaching a soccer team for 16-and-under boys? And that his boys are undefeated? After the same team went winless last year? And that the boys have scored 65 goals and are headed to the playoffs next week?

Stay tuned folks, and you will be informed as the wins mount up!

❑ Welcome Paul Olivier Newsome Forrer, born June 7 at 11:51 a.m., weighing in at 7 lbs., 13 oz. He is the son of Jane and Paul Forrer and we all wish them well.

❑ Kostas Roukounakis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Roukounakis, received a bachelor's degree in Financial Management, at the 27th Commencement ceremonies at Franklin Pierce College Sunday, May 17.

❑ Andrew Nawn, son of Mrs. Joanne Young-Nawn, also received a degree from Franklin Pierce College. Andrew received his degree in History.

We certainly congratulate you both for your winning efforts, and wish you luck in this tough job market.

❑ Congratulations to Alice Carter Bowdoin, who made the dean's list for her final semester at Beloit College.

But 10 times money is allocated to AIDS research

Breast cancer will strike one in nine women

By Patty Hayes
Mariner Correspondent

The incidence of Breast Cancer in the United States has reached epidemic proportions. One out of nine women can expect to develop the disease in her lifetime.

And its cause remains a mystery to medical science. Breast cancer research is so lacking that all women are at risk of developing the disease.

Yet the Federal government spends more money each year on defense research than it does on breast cancer research. And 10 times the money is allocated to AIDS research.

Congressman Gerry E. Studds sponsored a forum last Sunday at the Hingham Junior High School which addressed of women's health issues, including breast cancer, aging, diet and exercise, mental health, heart disease and reproductive health.

Studds, who is a member of the House Subcommittee on Health, said that he received a "major education" about women's health issues, and specifically breast cancer, from his women constituents in the 10th Congressional District.

Many men, he said, including himself, are unaware of the magnitude of the breast cancer epidemic in the United States.

"Last year, 175,000 women developed breast cancer and 45,000 will succumb to the disease," he said.

Equally astonishing, Studds said, is the fact that as the incidence of breast cancer is on the rise, more funding is not being allocated to researching its cause and treatment.

"Many of the methods now used to treat breast cancer are based on studies which were done on men, not women," he added.

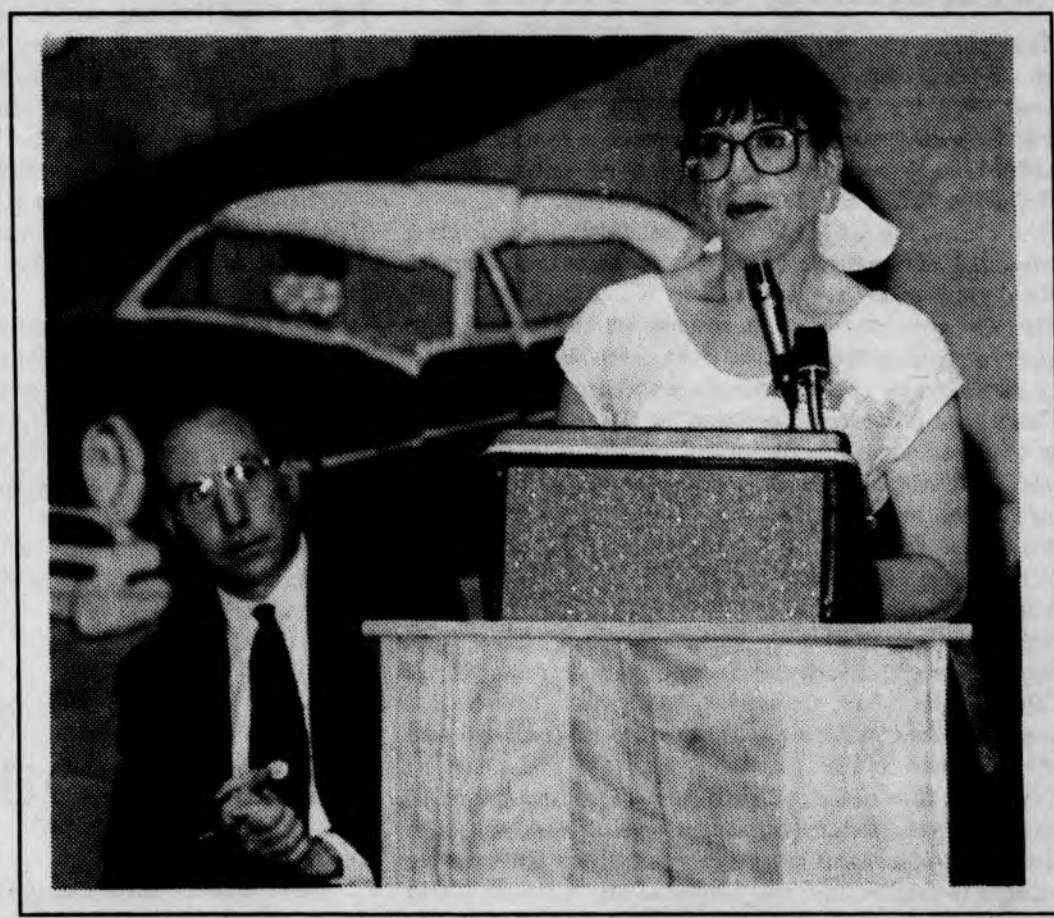
Studds said that women have been neglected in medical research, and not only breast cancer research. The study — which proved that taking an aspirin each day can prevent heart attacks — was done on men only.

"We still don't know if this works for women," he said.

As chair of the House Subcommittee on Fisheries and the Environment, Studds said he never expected to become involved in health issues. But it was his concern about the nation's health care crisis that prompted his sponsoring Sunday's forum as well as filing health-related legislation at the federal level.

Studds has filed the Breast Cancer Screening Act, a bill which will regulate quality standards for mammograms. According to Ann Maguire, the president of the Massachusetts Breast Cancer Coalition, there is currently no legislation mandating quality standards for mammography facilities.

Maguire, who was diagnosed herself with breast cancer in 1989, said that mammograms are performed with equipment which was intended for other types of tests such as hip x-rays, and that the technicians who perform the exams are not properly trained.



Maguire agreed with Studds that breast cancer research has not been a priority for federal funding.

"Most members of Congress don't fear breast cancer," she said.

"Many people say, 'What's the big deal, you lose a breast.' It's not women who are saying that."

Maguire pointed out that there is 10 times as much money allocated to AIDS research than breast cancer research, but added that "the question should not be taking money from one health area to another. My favorite place to look for more research money is the defense budget."

"Why are we spending more money on learning how to kill people than learning how to save lives?" she asked.

Congressman Gerry E. Studds listens to keynote speaker Linda Weltner, Boston Globe columnist, during a Women's Health Issues Conference in Hingham, Sunday. (Staff photo/Alan Chapman)

Although the amount of money spent on breast cancer research still does not reflect the epidemic proportions of the disease, Maguire said that the breast cancer coalition "has had tremendous success."

"A few years ago, I would have said that you can't change a government. But now I have come to understand that a few women can make a difference," she said.

"Women in this country are beginning to organize and want to know why we spend trillions of dollars on defense research and so little on breast cancer research."

Maguire credits Senator Edward Kennedy for leading the fight in the Senate and Gerry Studds for leading the fight in the House "to find the answers to the questions we should have had for years."

Tracking the future

Sometimes the only way to ensure progress is to—stop—turn around and repeat the past.

Last week the federal government took a giant step toward making commuter rail service a reality on the South Shore. Funds have been approved for the MBTA's Old Colony Railroad (OCR) rehabilitation.

Unfortunately, only two branches (Middleborough & Plymouth), of the three necessary to make train service truly region-wide, are approved.

The Greenbush spur is buried in the maze of a supplemental environmental document, brought upon by a coalition of special interests in Hingham.

The major concern expressed by these naysayers is fear of destroying the historical nature of Hingham's business district. Never mind that service on the South Shore dates to 1845 and was shortsightedly killed in 1959. Better than a century of Hingham's glorious past was witnessed by train service.

And this is not to make light of legitimate concerns; everyone is entitled to a point of view and a say. However, Hingham's decision effectively denies citizens in Weymouth, Hull, Cohasset, Scituate, Norwell and Marshfield their will to participate in this enlightened system for the future.

Concerns like noise, vibrations and pollution are all addressed in the federal impact studies. The conclusion is that state-of-the-art rail service is the best alternative available to relieve the congestion of our highways and help adjust to population growth and shifts.

As America faces a future of challenge from the Asian and European economic super powers, it is well that we attend to the infrastructure of our country. If our quality of life is to improve, the details of everyday life must not stifle our advances.

Commuting is a way of life for many of us and more to come. Boston and points north and west have become treks of near-nightmare proportion. The railroads will relieve congestion, reduce pollutants, encourage development and travel.

The North Shore has had continuous rail service to Boston, even though the South Shore has better than twice the commuter percentages to Boston and its environs. On the North Shore the railroad is rightly seen as an asset—it actually increases property values.

Noted author John Updike, whose North Shore property abuts the rail right of way, is a fan of the rods not only for convenience and economic reasons. He writes beautifully about what he and his neighbors know—going by train is a great option for the quality of life. The aesthetics of railroads must be considered by any region which has aspirations for a tourism industry.

It is time for the South Shore as a region to turn around and update the past for our future.

As constituted now, the OCR is a two-legged stool. Without Greenbush it totters and falls.

Nursing home residents honored

To the Editor:

The week after Mother's Day was celebrated at Ripley Road Nursing and all nursing homes as National Nursing Home Week. Ripley Road Nursing Home did a number of things to celebrate the occasion.

Tuesday of that week, the Amateur Gardeners of Cohasset came to the home and helped the residents make heart-shaped trinket boxes.

Thursday, six residents got all "dolled up" to attend the "Spring Fling" from 5 to 9 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Hall in Rockland, and Friday we had a presentation of the "Academy Awards."

This is the first presentation of Awards to residents at Ripley Road Nursing Home, in order to show our appreciation and gratitude to those residents who make a difference in the home.

Whether it is making sure the calendar is up to date, setting an example and motivating others, or being the resident council president.

Each of these residents are an asset to the home and we are thankful for them and their continued support and dedication.

Activity Director

Catherine Gavin, Sarah Nelson, Eva Fulkerson, Dorothy Ripley, and Theresa Guyette were honored recently at the Ripley Road Nursing Home.

More boat moorings are needed

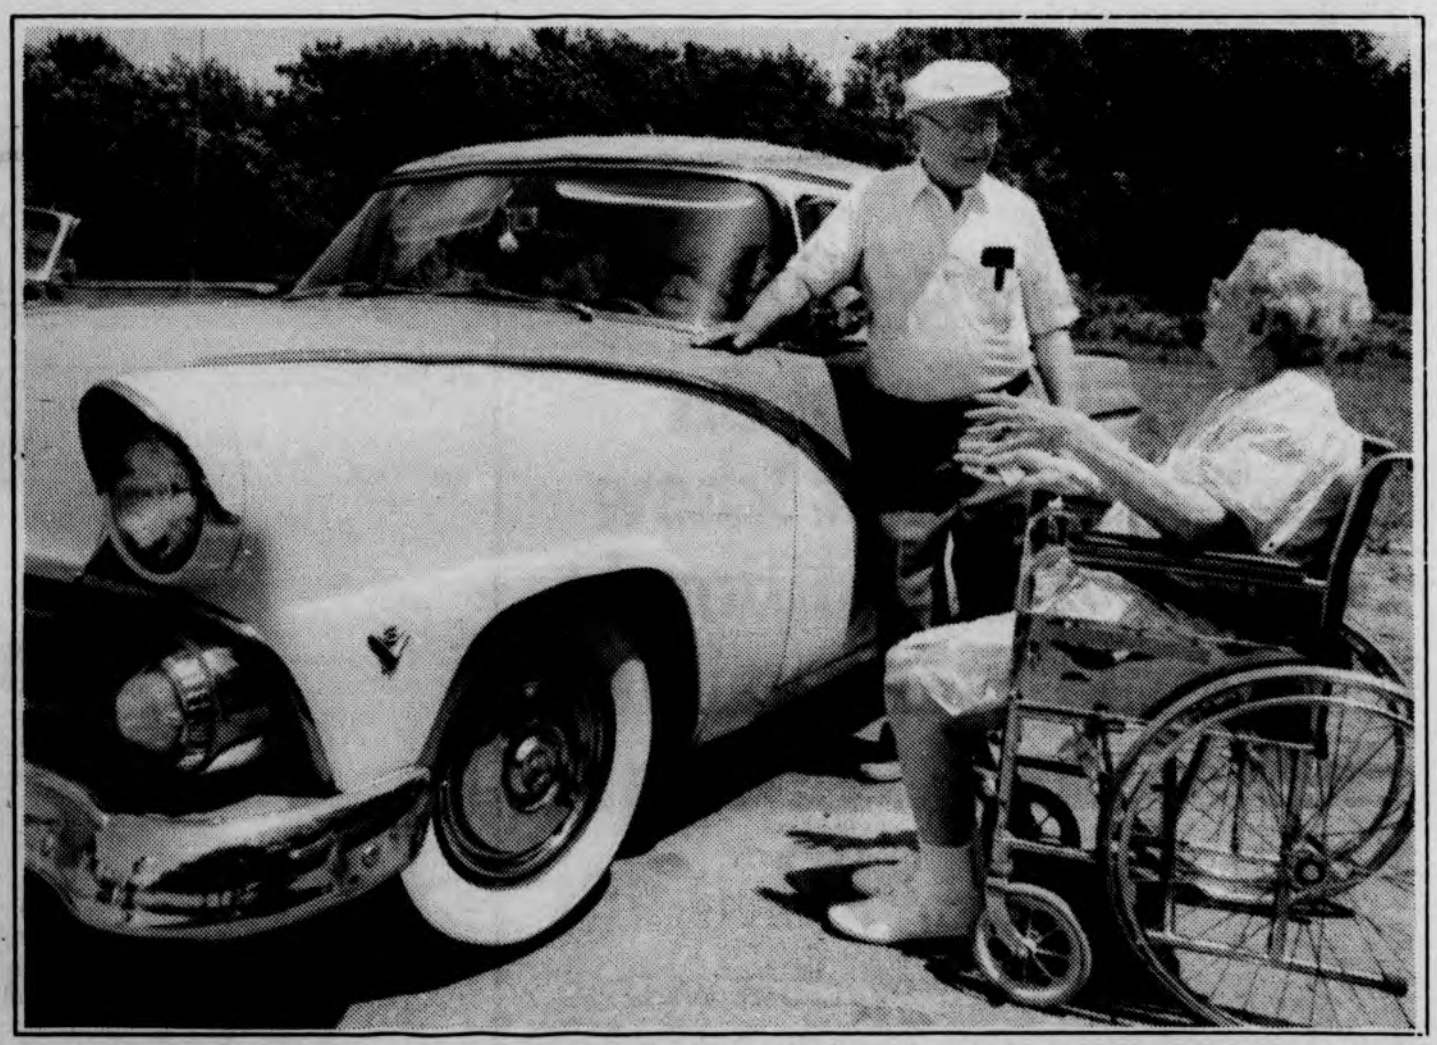
To the Editor:

There was an interesting quote in last week's issue in the article on the Harbor Study Committee meeting.

Charles Fink, in disagreement with those who would try to add more mooring spaces in Cohasset Harbor, says "We don't want to become Marblehead South."

Ironically, we moved from Marblehead almost five years ago, have been on the waiting list for a mooring for an equal amount of time, and can still see no hope of a mooring here any time soon. (In fact, according to the harbormaster in the same article mentioned above, the town lost three moorings last year to "silting and shoaling"—we are probably moving backwards!)

In Marblehead, we enjoyed the harbor and a mooring for many years. In Marblehead boaters seem to use their boats more, also; you often see people out on their boats for dinner or a "sunset cruise" around the harbor. There are concerts and fireworks that boat owners can enjoy from their moorings.



We like Cohasset and still want to be boaters, even though this seems to be mutually exclusive. The town should be making efforts to accommodate more people in boats, either by putting moorings closer together, or adding moorings in tidal areas (as they do in Duxbury) in addition to the dredging planned for the future.

Maybe people who have moorings and don't use them could make way for those who would!

In the meantime, we have taken our boat to Hull so we can be "on the water."

political notes

Hedlund hosts open house

State Senator Robert L. Hedlund (R-Weymouth) is hosting an open house Saturday, June 20, at his newly opened campaign headquarters located at 61 Water Street in Hingham.

The open house is scheduled from 10 a.m to 2 p.m. and refreshments will be served.

The senator is eager to meet and speak with many of his fellow citizens at the open house.

Daly stunned by Studds' vote

Dan Daly, candidate for Congress in the 10th Congressional District, said he was "appalled, but not surprised" by Gerry Studds' vote in opposition to the balanced budget amendment.

"The Democratic leadership called this critical initiative an 'election year gimmick.'" said Daly. "Seventy percent of American voters favor this amendment. This so-called 'election year gimmick' was begun by James Madison 200 years ago," continued Daly.

"This is one of the most disgraceful votes in the history of the United States Congress. Gerry Studds owes an explanation and an apology to every citizen in the 10th District."

Cohasset officials, among others, enjoyed a preview of the movie "Housesitter" filmed here last summer.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS

	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
THE HOUSE AND SENATE. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on two roll calls and representatives' votes on five roll calls from the week of June 8-12.
(House and Senate) SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGET (H 5747) — House 125-16, Senate 29-2, gave final approval and sent to Governor Weld a $350 million fiscal 1992 supplemental budget. Supporters said the package is a reasonable one necessary to fund programs through the end of June. Opponents said the $350 million price tag is excessive and unaffordable and objected to specific items. Two weeks ago the Senate had failed to get the two-thirds margin necessary for approval of this package. That version, unlike this one, included a provision requiring legislative approval before the governor can privatize or close any state facility, property or function. (A "Yea" vote is for the budget. A "Nay" vote is against it).	N	Y
COLA (H 5260) — House 144-1, overrode Governor Weld's veto of a bill giving a five percent cost of living increase to some 85,000 state, county and municipal retirees. The increase is retroactive to January and caps any individual's increase at $450. Bill supporters said these retirees have not had a raise in four years. Opponents said the hike will cost $75 million through fiscal 1993 and argued the state cannot afford it. The Senate will likely consider the veto next week. (A "Yea" vote is for the hike. A "Nay" vote is against it.) SEE HOUSE VOTE #2		Y
The next three roll calls are on proposed amendments to the bill allowing judges to consider the danger posed by a defendant when setting bail. Current law allows judges only to consider the likelihood that a person will flee. The bill also adds "whether a person has violated a domestic restraining order" to a long list on which the judge can base a decision. The House approved the bill on a voice vote and sent it to the Senate. (House) CONDITIONS (H 5772) — House 104-39, rejected an amendment allowing a court to make a defendant's release on bail subject to up to 16 conditions including complying with a curfew, not carrying a gun and undergoing psychological treatment. Amendment supporters said this is similar to a federal law and will help protect communities against freed violent offenders. Opponents said a judge already has the option of setting some conditions and argued the amendment is unnecessary. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment allowing the conditions. A "Nay" vote is against the amendment). SEE HOUSE VOTE #3		Y
(House) RESTRAINING ORDER (H 5772) — House 134-9, approved an amendment prohibiting a defendant accused of violating a restraining order in domestic violence cases from being released out of court by a court clerk or bail commissioner. Amendment supporters said this would effectively prohibit these offenders from being bailed out at police stations and allow them to be held for up to 48 hours until a judge can review the case and make a decision. They said this could prevent further violence and murders by allowing a judge to learn more about the defendant's history. Opponents said the amendment was unclear and is being rushed through the House without a proper explanation. They argued there were constitutional questions involved and claimed the amendment may result in defendants being held illegally for more than 48 hours. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it). SEE HOUSE VOTE #4		Y
(House) ANOTHER CRIME (H 5772) — House 98-44, rejected an amendment establishing specific jail sentences for anyone convicted of committing a crime while out on bail. The amendment provides up to a one year sentence for a misdemeanor and up to ten years for a felony. Amendment supporters said this will get tough with defendants out on bail who under the amendment could serve time for a specific crime and additional time just for committing the crime. Opponents said the creation of an additional offense goes too far and argued current law provides sufficient sanctions including revocation of bail. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment establishing the sentences. A "Nay" vote is against the amendment).		Y project.

Another special guest, Sarah Mann, head of Massachusetts Tourism, said Operation Sail, July 11-16, which features the tall ships parade would give the state a chance to show off.

"We can show who we are; what we do; and what recovery is all about," she said.

Also on hand was Capt. Robert Thompson, whose father served as an assistant Minot lightkeeper during World War I.

Thompson recalled that when his father was on duty at the light, he would flash 1-4-3 at the lightkeepers residence for 30 seconds at dusk to alert Thompson and his two sisters that it was time for bed.

He explained that lightkeepers worked shifts of two weeks on and one week off at Minot's light, one of the most isolated lighthouses in the country.

The Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation has a goal of raising $196,000 toward the renovation and restoration of the 140-year old structure. That figure could be trimmed by 25 percent if South Shore Vocational Technical High School agrees to take the project on.

CLC directors plan to meet with Vo-Tech officials later this month (see sidebar).

The next fund-raiser to benefit the project is the Blessing of the Fleet lunch, from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., Sunday June 28 during Harborfest. Tickets are $30 with $15, which is tax deductible, to assist the CLC.

Ira Stoughton, a CLC director, said he was pleased with the turnout at Sunday's brunch.

"There are some faces I don't know, and some I haven't seen for a while," he said.

"It's very nice and the food is delicious."

Mike Melch of the Borrowed Butler tosses an omelet. Omelets were made to order at the "Show the Flag" brunch.

Vo-Tech official praises project

If John Kosko has anything to say about it, the renovation of the Minot lightkeepers residence will get the green light from school officials.

Members of the Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation, Inc. plan to meet with officials at South Shore Vocational Technical High School next week to discuss the project.

Kosko, who is director of the school's Abington campus, came the renovation high marks.

"It is attractive because there are so many different aspects of the project," Kosko said.

He said it not only would involve carpentry but some new construction, renovation, remodelling, roofing and demolition.

"I've been down, the instructors have been down," Kosko said. "I'm favorably inclined to say that come September we'll be working on it."

Not only is the project sound educationally but the exposure would benefit both the town and Vo-Tech, Kosko added.

Cohasset, which is one of eight-member towns in the Vo-Tech region, currently has only one student enrolled.

"The project would give us more visibility and it would be an opportunity for the school and town to get to know each other."

Local artist comes 'full circle' at festival

Tom Lucas has come full circle. In 1955, the Cohasset artist became the first president of the newly-established South Shore Art Center. Now, 37 years later, Lucas is this year's SSAC President Keith Kretschmer's choice for the SSAC's 37th Art Festival Exhibition.

The exhibition of his paintings, appropriately entitled "Full Circle," opens with Art Festival Friday, June 26 at 1 p.m. A champagne benefit reception will be held Friday evening at 7 p.m. at the Art Center, 119 Ripley Road. Tickets to the benefit reception are $12.50 each.

Before Lucas helped establish the South Shore Art Center, he introduced the idea of an art festival through his Cohasset workshop for artists. The workshop, located at the harbor, was a school, gallery and shop for local artists. Lucas organized a one-day Art Festival on the Common in 1953 where artists hung pictures from clotheslines or propped them up against chairs.

Lucas left the area for a year and, upon his return, was asked by local artists to coordinate another art festival. He agreed, but only after an arts organization was established. In 1955, the South Shore Art Center, in its first year of operation, held its first Art Festival under the direction of Lucas who remained as Art Festival chairman for the next four years. Thirty-seven years later, the South Shore Art Center Art Festival is the oldest continuous-running art festival in the country.

A former chairman of the art department for the Cohasset Public Schools, Lucas garnered a prolific list of exhibition honors and awards from the Boston Art Festival, Rhode Island Art Festival, Gloucester Art Festival, and the North River Art Festival to one-man shows at various galleries including the Contact Gallery in Beirut, Lebanon. Winner of last year's Art Festival first prize for the SSAC Members Show, Lucas also captured Best of Show in the 1990 All New England Juried Exhibit, and a variety of awards from the Cape Cod Art Association, Quincy Art Festival, Scituate Art Festival, Mass. College of Art, Cambridge Art Association, and New Bedford Art Association.

"Full Circle" will remain on display at the Art Center through July 22. For more information about Art Festival or the President's Choice Exhibition, please call (617) 383-9548.

Vo-Tech wants higher profile in Cohasset

SSVTHS; John Kosko, director of the Abington campus, and Larry Mitchell, Cohasset's representative on the regional school committee, said Vo-Tech is preparing kids for the future.

Kosko said Vo-Tech graduates are equipped for both the workforce and college.

"The school gives kids an opportunity to attend high school and learn marketable skills to enter the workforce immediately or to attend post-secondary education," he said.

Vo-Tech sends about 15 percent of its graduates to two-or-four year colleges. Cohasset's percentage is about 90 percent, school officials said.

Kosko added that many students who might have "automatically" attended college five-to-ten years ago now think twice.

He said Vo-Tech can expand rather than limit a student's options.

Kosko also cited the school's ongoing partnership with Procter & Gamble.

In exchange for allowing P & G employees to attend the industrial technology course; the company pays the salaries of the instructors and supplied all the machines and materials needed.

Cohasset, one of eight-member towns in the regional district, only sent one student to Vo-Tech for the 1991-92 school year. Towns are assessed in the following fiscal year according to the number of students enrolled from that town in the prior school year. Cohasset's FY'93 Vo-Tech assessment is about $6,000.

For the 1991-92 school year, Scituate sent 17 students and Norwell, nine to the regional high school.

Hingham and Duxbury, which are out-of-district, each sent three students to Vo-Tech this year.

Kosko mentioned Vo-Tech's possible involvement with renovation of the Minot Lightkeepers' residence as a positive step.

"We hope our activities there will gain the kind of things that only come with visibility so the townspeople and parents can see the type of product our people are capable of producing," he said.

The Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation, a non-profit group, will meet with school officials next week to discuss the project.

The school board approved Mitchell's request to install and maintain bulletin boards about Vo-Tech's activities at Deer Hill and the high school.

"South Shore (Vo-Tech) is Cohasset, it's just another branch," Mitchell noted.

School Committee Chairman Barbara Bliss said the school system would like to see more Cohasset kids take advantage of Vo-Tech.

"We would certainly like to see greater participation. It benefits Cohasset to make sure students are getting what they need," she said.

Jack Leary, director of student services for Cohasset schools, said about five percent of every Cohasset graduating class would "profit from a Vo-Tech experience."

Cohasset school officials stressed the need for flexibility at Vo-Tech for students wishing to transfer into the school.

Titus, who is director of guidance at the regional school, said that many of the programs now are based on competency and not hours.

This allows a motivated student to enter the electronics and some other programs in the 11th grade, she said.

"If they accomplish competency in two years great," she said.

School board member Nancy Sandell said she thought field trips with Deer Hill students "would broaden their horizons" about what Vo-Tech offers.

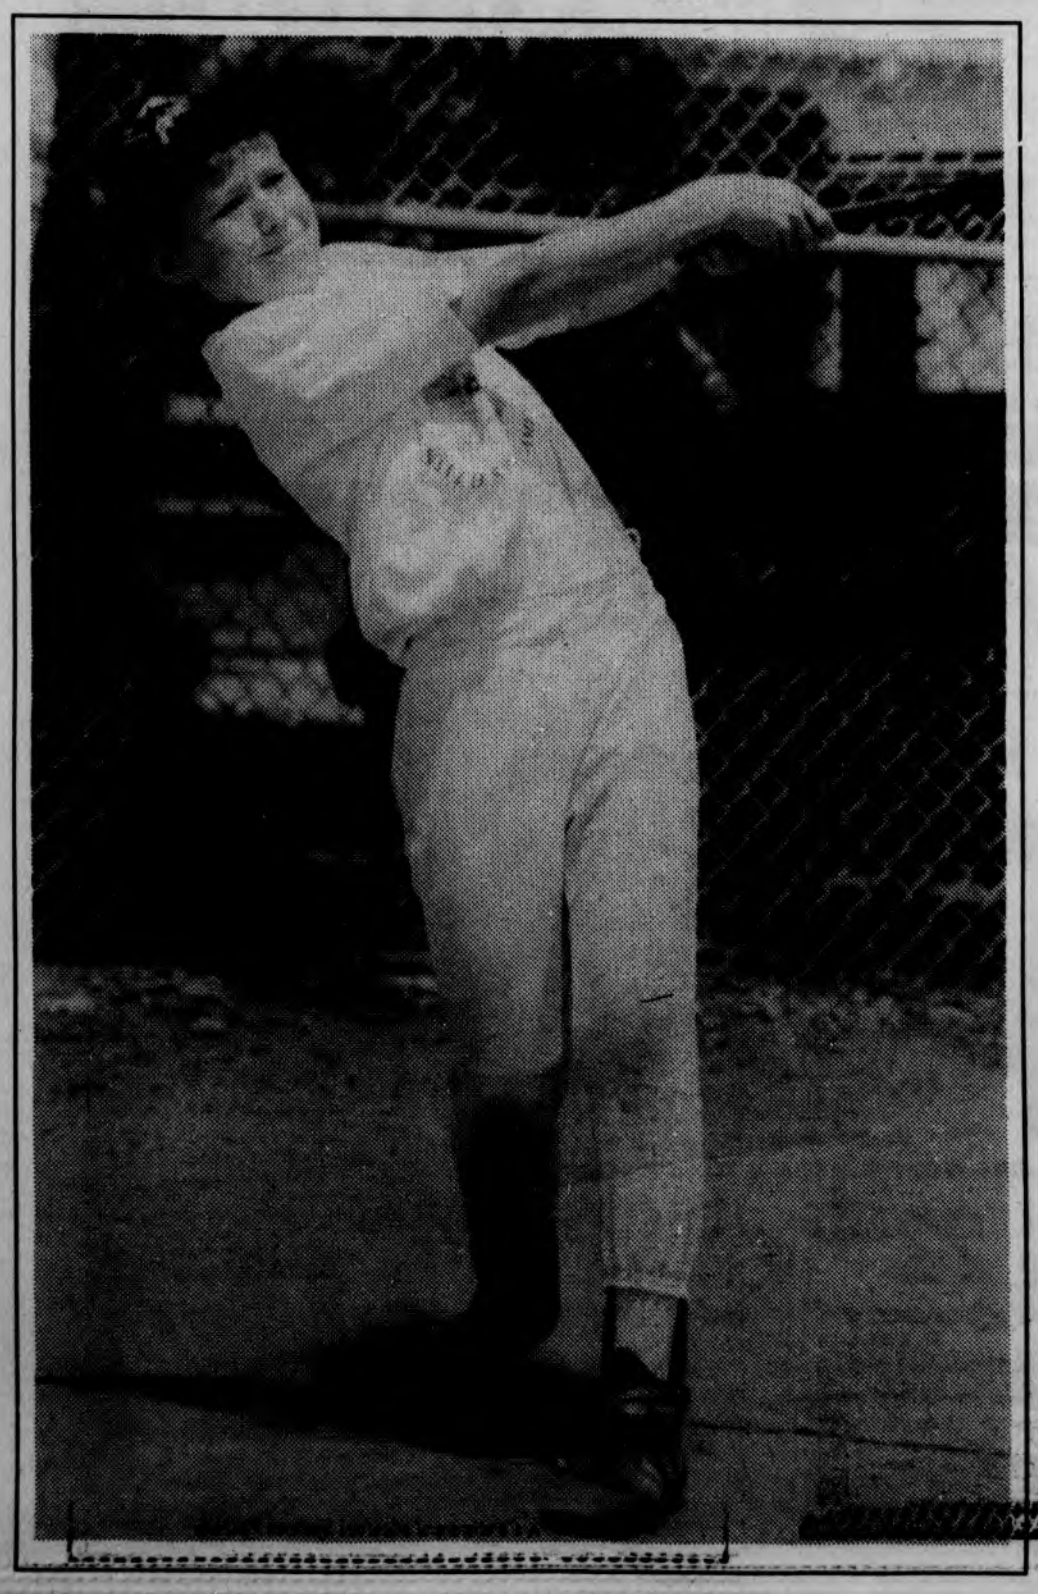
Little League feast heralds annual all-star game

The noon-time cookout put a cap on the regular Little League season Saturday as players and their families chowed down more than 400 hot dogs and 300 hamburgers and 40 cases of soda. The annual feast at Barnes Field was a preview to the Major League All-Star game featuring players from six teams.

Little League president, John Carr said more than 450 Cohasseters turned out for the cookout.

"It was a terrific turn out, we had a lot of fun," he said.



Greg Bilton throws out a runner during the All-Star game which followed the cook-out.

Charting the course of the Cardinals

The Chart House Cardinals were born in 1991 when the number of qualified major league players swelled enough to start up a new team. Coach Baker has documented their dramatic early season success and what follows is a continuation of that report.

In Game eight (May 22) the Cards and the Mets faced off in what eventually proved to be one of the highest scoring and suspense filled games of the season. The high flying Cards may have taken the Mets much too lightly, for the Mets mounted a potent 19-hit attack. They banged out five hits and five runs in the last inning to tie the ballgame at 19 apiece. As darkness began to settle in over Barnes field, Big Dave Payne provided a clutch single with two men out driving in Stevie Baker with the winning run, ending an exciting match with many lessons learned by both squads. Cardinal hits were supplied by Atherton (2), Schwerin (1), Cotter (1), Payne (1) and Kupsc (1). The winning pitcher was Baker who worked 2/3 of an inning and went to 4-0 on the season.

In Game nine a fired up Athletic ball team led by their star pitcher Ben Ketchum proved too powerful for a Card team that couldn't seem to shake the rust off their lackluster win over the Mets only two days prior. Ketchum put the Cards down in order in four of the six innings he worked while delivering five strikeouts. The Cards showed a little life in the top of the sixth when Steve Baker doubled, Nate Cotter singled, as did Alex Schwerin, Dave Payne and Ted Goff. Five runs were pushed across the plate. The rally proved to be too little too late.

History was made in Game 10 (May 25) when the second year expansion Cards realized their first ever series sweep of a ball club. Although the club got off to a slow start in the first inning defensively their bats were quite lively, pounding three hits for five runs. Baker got the nod for the Cards and worked four complete innings. He set the Sox down in order in the 2nd through 4th innings, recording three K's and two BB while giving up two hits for his fifth win. Ted Goff provided steady relief for the 5th and 6th innings. Big hitters for the Cards were Goff (2-5), Baker (1-4), Cotter (2-3), Payne (4-4), Atherton (2-2), Dean (1-4), Schwerin (1-2), Good (1-3) and Paul Sheerin (1-1). With this win the Cards moved to eight and two on the season.

The rubber match of the first and second place teams went to a very solid Pirate team. The Roger Clemens of Cohasset Little League — Mr. Scott Van Hartsvelt was the difference. Scottie Van mowed down eight Cards for slo's while walking none and giving up five hits and only one run. The Redbirds countered on the hill with one of their aces, Dave "the Mave" Payne. Payne pitched extremely well. He worked four innings recording four slo's and one walk. He ran into trouble in the second when with two outs, Paul Michael Quintin rapped a triple to right knocking in Wenmark and Bugley who had both singled. Smoot followed with a double driving home Quintin. St. John doubled to knock in Smoot. "JD" Drybanski pitched the final two innings providing excellent relief in a losing cause.

With the Pirate victory, a two-way tie for first place developed. The Dodgers were also in hot pursuit. Obviously the last 1/3 of the season would be quite exciting, with final placement and standing still up in the air. Cardinal hits were drilled by Teddy Goff (2-3), Payne (1-3), and red hot Leigh Atherton (2-2) including a double.

With the Pirates having lost a hard fought battle earlier in the week to the Mets, the Cards entered their 12th ballgame of the season in a tie for first place. The Dodgers were on their heals posting a 7-3 record.

The game proved to be a see-saw match as the teams traded leads throughout. James Drybanski started for the Cards and worked 2 1/3 innings while being charged with five runs. Ted Goff came in on relief and worked 1 2/3 innings giving up one run. Stevie B. came on to work the 5th and 6th. He was handed a 7-6 lead going into the bottom of the 6th. He struck out O'Keefe, gave up a double to Motley, then struck out Matt Lewis. Mark Equi followed with a clutch single to center moving runners to 2nd and 3rd as Equi advanced to second when Payne threw a strike to home preventing Motley from scoring. Jim O'Sullivan then came to the plate and drove a two-and -wo pitch at Ted Goff which eluded his grasp bringing home both the tying and winning runs. The loss was a tough one for the Cards. It was only the first time all season they suffered back-to-back defeats. Now three clubs were contending for first place overall, and the stretch run would be mighty exciting. Hit-getters for the Cards were Payne, (2-4), Atherton (1-4), Drybanski (1-1), Kupsc (1-1) and Kovach (1-2).

Game 13 May 31 and there would be no series sweep of the revitalized Mets this year by the Cards. Star catcher Charlie Dean stepped out from behind the plate and pitched very well for the first two innings, yielding two runs, three K's and three hits. Dean was followed to the mound by Big Alex Schwerin. The pesky Mets top of the order jumped on the Big Guy's offerings, hanging out three hits for four runs in the third. The game stood at 6-4, Mets, through three innings but Greg Taylor seemed to get stronger as the ballgame wore on. In fact Taylor recorded five of his nine strikeouts over the last three innings. Dave "the Mave" Payne came on to work the final two innings for the Cards. Payne threw extremely well giving up one unearned run, and five K's. His efforts were to no avail as the once-league-leading Cards went by the board 7-4 for their third straight loss. They dropped to third place behind the Dodgers (9-3) and Pirates (8-4). After going 8 and 2 over the first 2/3 of the season, the Cards found themselves needing the final two games to stay in the hunt for a bye in the first round of the playoffs. Cardinal hits were delivered by Atheron, (2-3), Cotter (1-3) with a triple, and the versatile Steve Kovach (1-1).

The Cards got out of the loss column in Game 14 against the A's June 14. The entire ballclub came back from a three-game losing streak and displayed the type of focus evident during the first 2/3's of the season. Dave Payne threw for the Cards during the first three innings while the team ran up a 12-1 lead. Big James Drybanski came on to work the final three innings for the save. Big hitters for the Cards were Goff (2-3), Atherton (1-1), Cotter (2-2), Slugger Payne (3-4), Kupsc (1-3) and Drybanski (1-1). This was a big game for the home team Cards putting them 9-5 on the season with one big game to go against the first place Dodgers. If they could defeat the Dodgers, they would claim second place in the regular season and a bye in the first round of the playoffs.

June 6, Game 15, and the earlier match up of Baker vs. Lewis is repeated, but this time Lewis and the reigning Dodgers battered the Cards, despite well-pitched games for both sides. Lewis was particularly tough on the Cardinals striking out nine while giving up just two runs on three hits. The Cardinals were winning this game through four innings by a score of 2-1. The only Dodger run was scored after a left field error turned a single into a double. The runner advanced to third on a fielder's choice and came home on a pass ball. The other big play in the game came about in the 5th when a throwing error allowed the tying run to score but with two outs and after a pair of singles, a ground ball to third went right through the wickets allowing the Dodgers to push across the winning run.

The ball team went 8-2 respectively through the first 2/3 of the season, but a stretch of six games in nine nights took its toll on the club and they went 1-4 down the stretch, finishing 9-6 and in third place. All in all it was a solid regular season with many positives to reflect upon.

The team was reminded that last year's playoff Champ the Red Sox finished in 4th during the regular season. They are still in contention to win it all, but will be an up hill battle. This team's ability to execute and desire to win will be tested to the max. Bring on the Playoffs!

Lady Skipper speedsters have bright future

By Paula Knowles
Mariner correspondent

Girls' Track Coach Ron Emmons thought he had been caught under an unlucky star this spring. Although 50 girls came out for the 1992 track season, the team was almost derailed at the start with Cohasset's top three returning stars, Kate Murray, Claudine Johnson and Faye Menis sidelined by injuries right at the beginning of the season.

Losing junior speedster Kate Murray to a broken leg just before the start of the season was "a real inauspicious beginning," said Emmons. "She was our captain and a real star."

Eighth grader Faye Menis, a record breaker in the hurdles, had to switch to other events on the orders of her doctor.

"She is in a real growth period right now, and her doctor felt that she should stay away from the hurdles for the next couple of years," said the coach. "But she made the move like the natural she is, and even set school records in the triple jump, 440, and 100 meters."

She and Caroline Delima competed in the Heptathalon (long and high jumps, javelin, shot put, high hurdles, 220 and 880) at the end of the season, and Menis should be able to add the hurdles back into her repertoire in a couple of years.

Junior Claudine Johnson, whom Emmons felt was headed for a record breaking year along with Kate Murray, suffered a badly pulled hamstring muscle at the first Hanover meet this spring, and although she was able to continue to compete in the discus and javelin, Emmons blames the loose cinder track at Hanover for derailing her season.

But the season had some really bright spots also, although some of them fall into the "good news, bad news" category. Senior captain Steph Eno had her finest season ever, and she was a real bright spot for Emmons.

"She is the best captain we have ever had." He raved. "I'm just sorry she wasn't able to go to the states."

Although she and her teammates qualified for the "states" in the relay, two of her relay partners were kept from competing by their weekend soccer commitments, so the whole relay team was knocked out.

"I told the girls that I would not make them choose between track and soccer. I never thought that any coach would forbid a player to miss a game to compete in a state tournament. But it happened, and Steph had to suffer for it. Unfortunately, she won't get another shot at it because she is a senior."

Low hurdler Corinna McMackin also missed out on her chance at the states, having injured her back in a soccer match just after qualifying. But she should be back next year and coach Emmons sees a bright future ahead of her if she stays healthy.

Another bright spot was junior Kathleen O'Brien who missed last year due to an injury, and came back this year to post the school best in the half mile.

"I was so impressed with her work, and can't wait to see how she does next year," said Emmons.

Ashar Williams posted school best in shot put, and first year runner Megan Rhodes first in 220 and second in the long jump. Eighth grader Tammy Maitland was a terrific surprise to coach Emmons, missing first place in the 220 by just .10 seconds, and earning third in the triple jump.

Seventh graders Rebecca Jenkins and Andrea Grew showed great promise in the mile and two-mile, junior, Christina Devaughn anchored the team in shot put and discus, and seventh grader Catie Campbell showed tremendous potential in the high jump and low hurdles.

Although both Kate Carroll and Martina Snyder were hampered by injuries throughout the season, they were still able to contribute to the team, and of the 50 girls who came out for the team, almost all of them saw it through to the end.

The prognosis for the future is good. Coach Emmons foresees record breaking seasons for next year's seniors Kate Murray and Claudine Johnson, and with Fay Menis, Megan Rhodes and Catie Campbell leading the way, the younger stars can only get better and better — barring any more injuries, of course. Coach Emmons just hopes that the injury train stops at some other station in 1993.

JONES NAMED ALL-SCHOLASTIC

State Track Champion Raymond Jones added another laurel to his wreath of honors this week by being named to the Boston Globe 1992 All-Scholastic Outdoor Track Team. Jones, a Cohasset High School junior, was honored for posting personal bests (in his first year of varsity competition) of 44 feet, 10 1/4 inches in the triple jump, 6-2 in the high jump, 15.8 in the high hurdles, and 24.8 in the 200 meters, as well as winning both the EMass Class D and State Championships with jumps of 43-9 and 44-10 1/4. Jones also won the EMass Wrestling Championship at the 145-pound weight class earlier this year.

Breast cancer research . . .

Weltner, whose column "Ever So Humble" appears on Fridays in the Boston Globe, addressed another issue important to women's health: the pressure that society puts on women to look good, which often causes them to neglect their health.

Weltner says that our society teaches women to look critically at their bodies, keeping them from caring from them properly.

"Do we eat to stay health or do we diet to stay thin? Do we stay out of the sun so we don't get skin cancer or do we tan so we can look good?" she asked.

Women's magazines, Weltner said, ask: what's wrong with looking good?

"What's wrong with looking good is that 99 percent of us are genetically doomed from the beginning." She used as an example a model search which attracted 40,000 applicants, only four of whom "looked good enough" to be models.

"Our futile search for the perfect body keeps us from loving ourselves; turns us against our best friend which is our body; wastes our money; and is demoralizing." she said.

The forum, entitled "Women's Health*Women's Lives: A Women's Health Issues Conference," consisted of six workshops on women's health issues which were led by area experts on each issue.

The conference was presented in cooperation with the Massachusetts Breast Cancer Coalition, the Massachusetts Bay Oncology Nursing Interest Group, the American Cancer Society and the South Shore Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

obituaries

Marie E. Marsden

Marie E. (Fitzgerald) Marsden, 71, of Cohasset, an employee of the Stone and Webster for 10 years, died at home June 1 after a long illness.

Born and raised in South Boston, she graduated from Nazareth High School and Burdette College.

She moved to Hingham in 1950 and to Cohasset in 1959.

Mrs. Marsden enjoyed gardening and was a member of the Cohasset Golf Club and the Cohasset Yacht Club.

Wife of the late William H. Marsden, she leaves two sons, Brian W. Marsden of Hingham and William H. Marsden Jr. of Cohasset; a daughter Beth Ellen Marsden-Gilman of Milton, and two grandsons.

A funeral Mass was celebrated in St. Anthony's Church. Burial was in Cohasset Central Cemetery.

McNamara Sparrell Funeral Home, 1 Summer Street handled the arrangements.

Donations may be made to the Hospice of the South Shore, 100 Baystate Drive, Braintree 02184.

Summer baseball camp

The South Shore Baseball Club of Hingham will conduct a one-week instructional baseball camp at Milliken Field in Cohasset from Tuesday, June 23 through Saturday, June 27, Jack Worley of the Cohasset Recreation Commission said.

This year's camp will include a special half-day program for youngsters five and six years of age to accommodate a growing number of parents who want to get their kids involved at an earlier age.

Daily sessions for seven to 18-year-olds will be held Tuesday through Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and for five and six-year-olds from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. rain or shine. Campers will be divided into groups according to age, size, and ability. Daily instruction includes batting and fielding practices, demonstrations, and games. There will also be appearances by Pawtucket Red Sox players as their schedules permit.

Cost for the five-day program is $120 per person for the full-day schedule and $70 for the half-day. For registration forms and information, please call the Cohasset Recreation Commission at 383-6791.

Spring into summer

Spring courses and summer planning are underway at the Community Center. Gym Dandy is being for children ages seven months to three-years-old. Tennis is ongoing for children and adults. Tennis lessons are given on a private court Monday and Wednesday afternoons and Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. The cost is $40 for four weeks. Call now to schedule time for July and August.

FutureKids Computer camp will begin June 30. These three week summer camp sessions will meet Tuesday and Thursday. Morning sessions are held from 9 a.m. to noon, and afternoon sessions will be held from 1 to 4 p.m.

Aerobics will be offered through the summer. Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings sessions are held from 9 to 10 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday evening aerobic workout is from 7 to 8:15 p.m. and Saturday morning class meets from 8:30 to 10:15 a.m.

To register for any of these programs or for further information, please call the Community Center at 383-0088.

Distemper hits raccoon, fox population

Three times in the past two weeks, Animal Control Officer William Quigley marked "sick raccoon" down in his ledger.

And last week, a fox staggered around the Cohasset Country Club.

"We had several reports of sightings that the fox was staggering and walking towards people," said Police Sgt. Brian Noonan. "We were up there the other day. It was caught and humanely put down."

On a wooded hill off in Norwell recently, a couple found what they thought was a tame raccoon that had wandered from its owner.

The animal sat on a stone wall and didn't move when approached by their dogs. Instead, it ducked its head and hid its masked face between its front paws. Later, it curled up on their front lawn for a snooze with the two dogs just a few feet away, barking madly inside the house.

The cases typify the actions of an animal stricken with distemper, local and state officials say. There may even be an epidemic of the cyclical disease in the area at the moment, commented a state official.

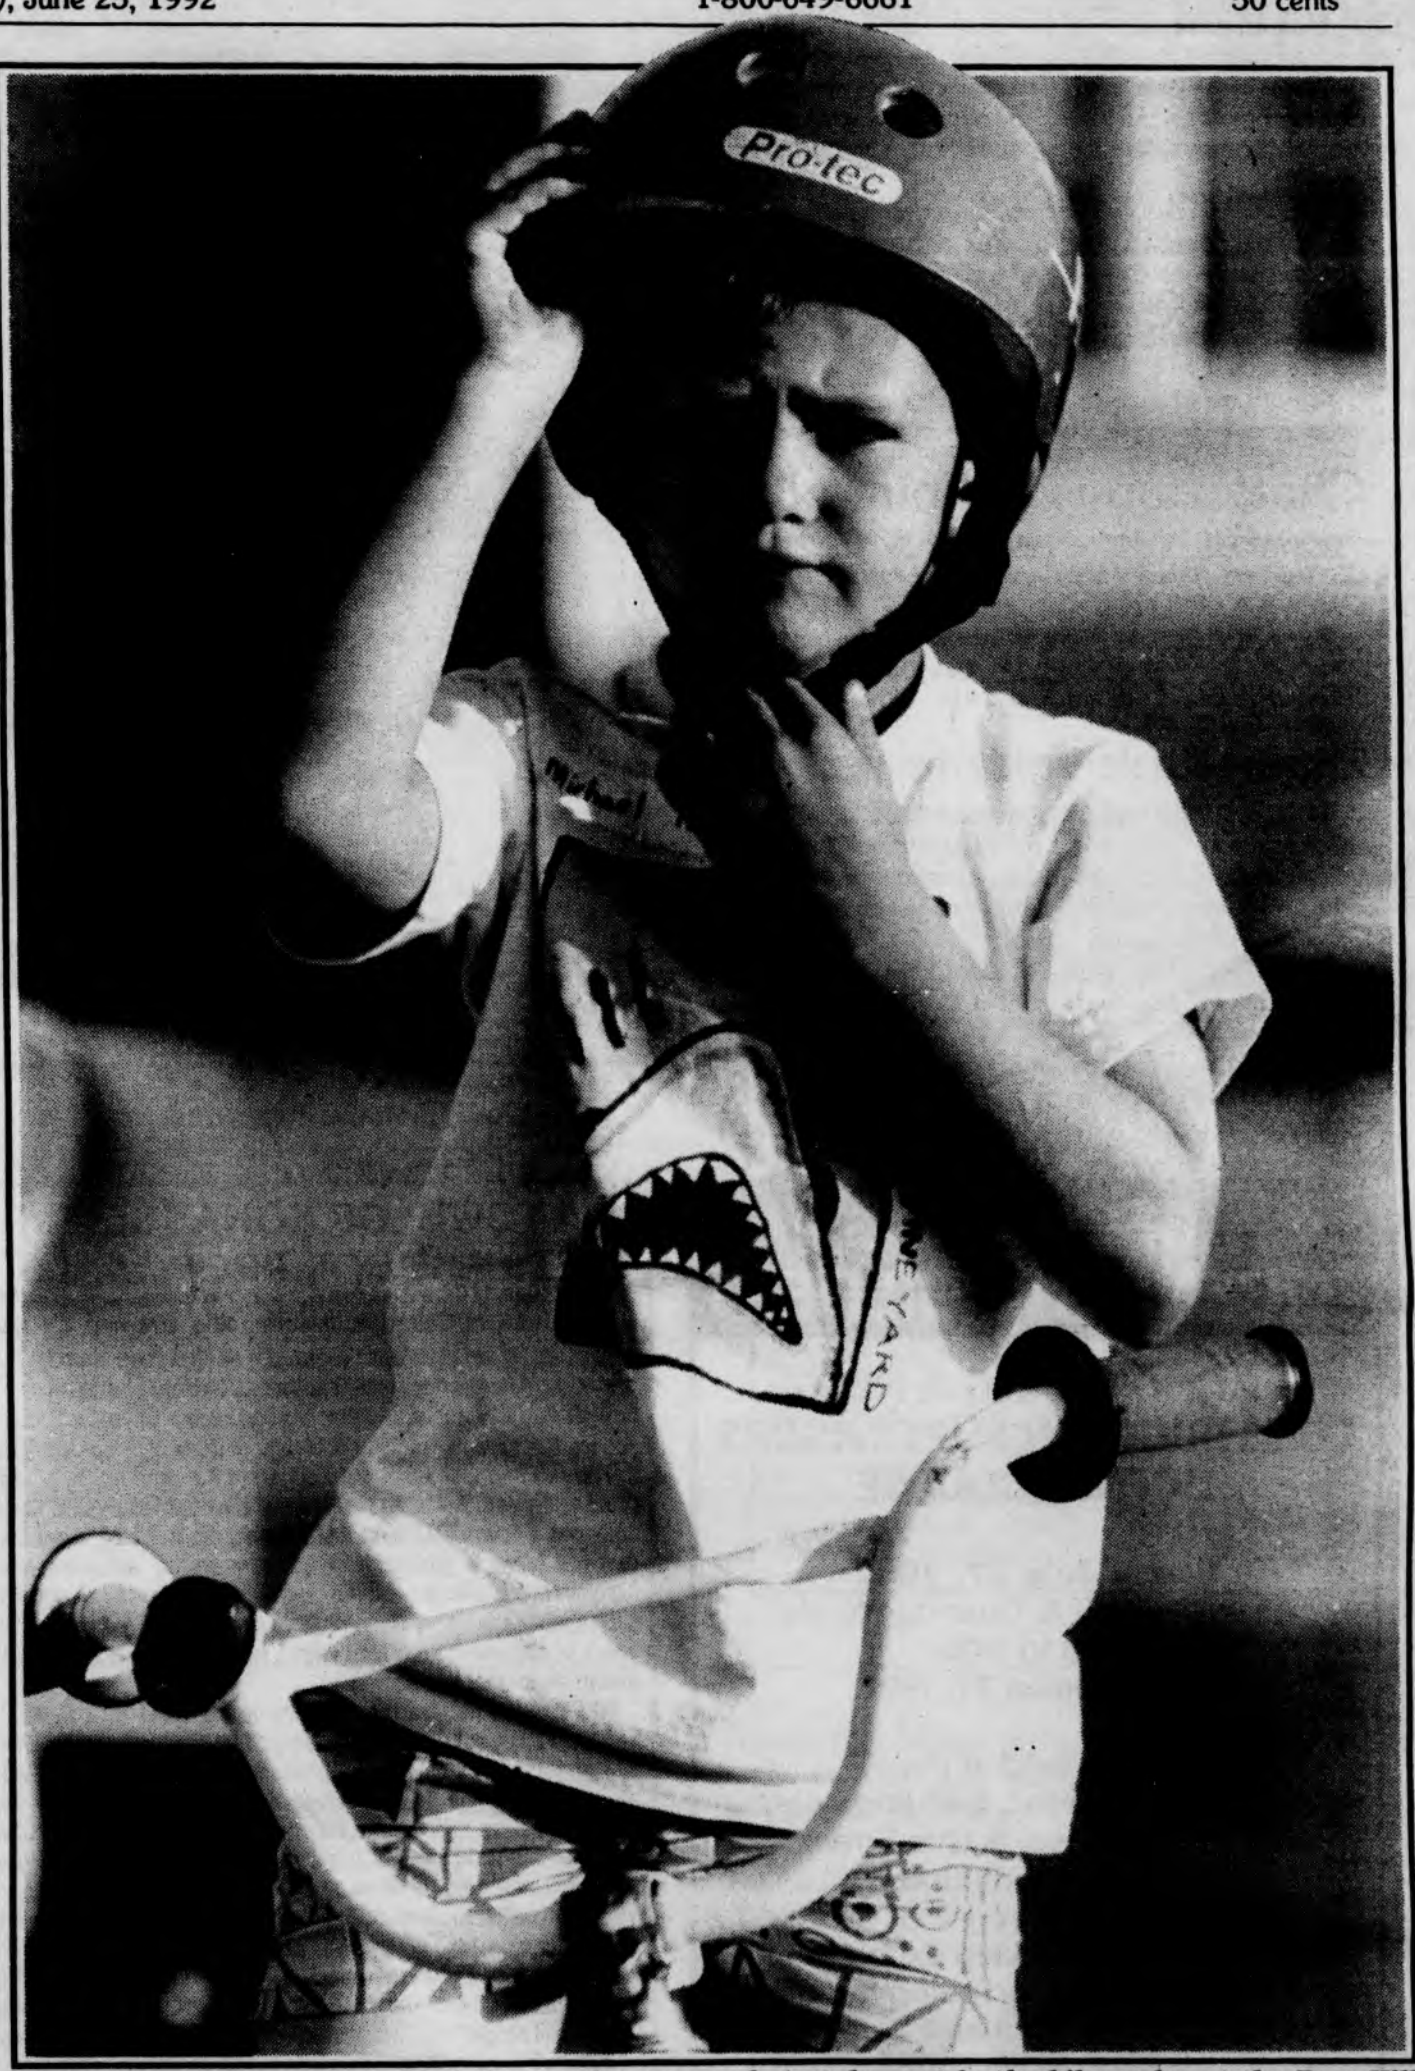
Cohasset to bill users directly for ambulance runs

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

The town will pass the headaches that go along with filing insurance forms back to the townspeople.



Selectmen decided to try direct billing for ambulance bills for a year rather than have the fire department send the bills straight to the the user's insurance company.

If the town stayed with third-party billing, it would have to raise ambulance fees to cover the expense of hiring a clerk or outside agency to handle the bills, selectmen said.

Fire Chief John Nadeau estimates it takes about "an hour's labor" to process a single ambulance bill from beginning to end through an insurance company. He said often the information provided by the user is incomplete and requires follow up.

Currently the town charges $125 per ambulance run plus $5 per mile. A trip from Cohasset to South Shore Hospital costs about $185. Although the town charges

Michael Rasmussen adjusts his helmet as he gets ready to take part in the bike rodeo at the Deer Hill School last week. Kids, like Mike, who wear their helmets are eligible to be awarded gift certificates this summer by Safety Officer Clifford Jones. For more photos of the bike rodeo, please see page 14.

Festival starts Friday

Cohasset is the place to be this weekend as the South Shore Art Festival/Harborfest takes over the town by land and sea.

Dozens of town organizations worked together to make this year's event the best ever, which gets underway at 1 p.m. Friday and runs through 5 p.m. Sunday.

And there's something for everyone.

Chinese eggs rolls, Greek pastries, sausage sandwiches, frozen yogurt, and a chowder fest are just a few of delectables to delight the palate.

Art, artist demonstrations, bagpipes and carillon and band concerts ought to satisfy all tastes.

And a grand parade and model boat building should catch the eye of young and old alike.

For a complete Harborfest schedule, please see pages 12 and 13.

A parking shuttle service for a small fee is available from the Music Circus to the South Shore Art Center and from Cohasset Hardware to the harbor, courtesy of the Council on Aging.

Spinnakers needed at town hall?

Short of taking elocution lessons to project their voices, town officials hope there's an easier solution to poor town hall auditorium acoustics.

In a letter to selectmen, Herbert Towle of Beechwood Street said a meeting in the auditorium at town hall is hard on the ears..

"I attended a recent meeting in regard to the harbor department. At that meeting, I became aware how very bad the acoustics are within town hall," Towle wrote.

"It is my opinion that a correction of this bad condition would make gatherings to deal with town problems better attended and better understood."

Selectman Merle S. Brown asked members of the Cohasset Dramatic Club at the board meeting Monday if they had any suggestions.

Club member Dwight DiBona said he would make inquiries "from some acoustical people" he knows.

Reached by telephone, drama club board member Angi Walsh said actors practice projecting their voices to compensate for the acoustics.

She said someone will stand at the back of the auditorium to make sure the actors can be heard from the stage.

Walsh said she was directing a performance at Harborfest Saturday that would take place outside.

Safety helmets get real cool reward

Watch out kids, you just might get busted — for being safety conscious!

And Safety Officer Clifton B. Jones hopes the kids who aren't as careful — will feel a little peer pressure when they see a friend lick a nice, cold ice cream cone.

Two hundred gift certificates for free ice creams at Strawberry Parfait will be handed out by Officer Jones — at his discretion starting July 1 — to kids who are wearing safety helmets while riding their bikes, roller

Town to ticket violators

Tickets aren't just for parking violations anymore.

People or businesses caught in violation of town by-laws will be required to pay fines of up to $50.

Town Executive Secretary Greg Doyon said the level of fines were "sufficiently painful to discourage someone from doing it again."

Fines for harbor offenses are $25; building and zoning offenses are $50 (each day is a separate offense).

Violations of the town's animal control law are $25 for the first violation; $35 for the second; $50 for the third; and there is a $50 fine for failure to vaccinate against rabies.

Public safety violations such as shovelling snow into the sidewalk or parking to block a driveway carry a fine of $25 with each day considered as a separate offense.

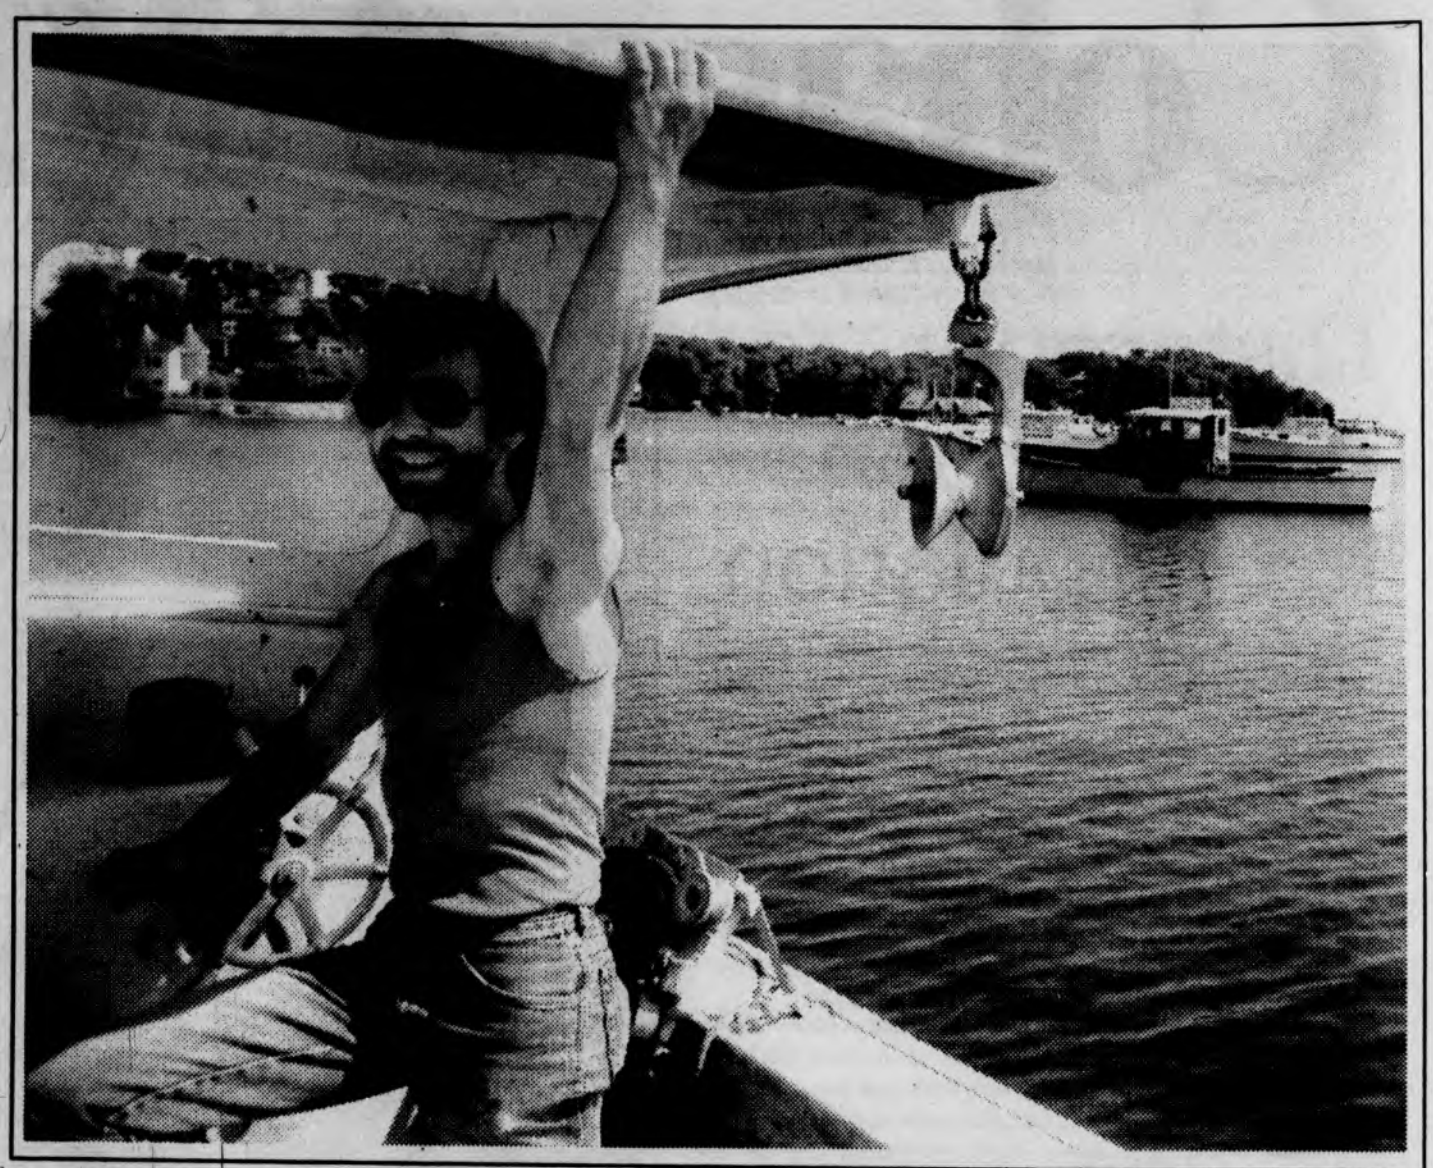
Building inspector/zoning officer Robert Egan has sent letters alerting businesses that the fines will soon take effect.

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said she didn't want people to expect a warning in the future.

Chatterton is appointed

Selectmen voted unanimously to appoint Clark Chatterton, 9 Red Gate Lane, to the Drug and Alcohol Committee.

"Even if he's not here I move we approve it (the appointment)," Selectman Martha Gjesteby said. "Everyone knows of his actions."



Dunk Tank volunteers

The Cohasset Firefighters Association is looking for a few volunteers who don't mind getting a little wet.

Firefighters need people to participate for an hour maximum who would be willing to get wet in the dunk tank for a good cause.

Proceeds from the dunk tank will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association and Cohasset Firefighters Association.

Anyone who is interested should call the fire department at 383-0616.

Jack Sylvia Jr. cruises around the harbor. Jack's boat was used during the harbor clean-up June 13. The clean-up day was sponsored by the Cohasset Harbor Committee.

GISC, ZBA reappointments

Selectmen reappointed Richard P. Barrow, 283 King St., and Hamilton T. Tewksbury, 81 Elm St. to the Government Island Study Committee.

The board also reappointed S. Woodworth Chittick, 98 S. Main St., and Barbara M. Power, 74 Beach St., to the zoning board of appeals.

Lobby to be painted

The town hall lobby will be re-painted, thanks to the Cohasset Dramatic Club.

The club will paint in lieu of paying rent for their performances and rehearsals.

They also offered to re-coat the auditorium floor for rental credit for the 1992-93 season.

"The total of the two jobs (painting and the hall floor) would be worth in the range of $2,700 to $3,320," club president Gayl Varallo said.

"We have already spent in the vicinity of $2,00 for refinishing the stage floor, the lobby floor, and painting of the backstage area. We hope you agree with us that these expenditures would cover our usage of the town hall for the present year and next year."

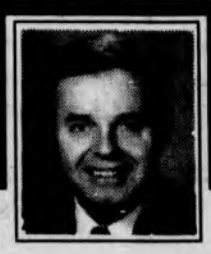
Selectmen approved the request.

Copy machine agreement

Selectmen approved an addendum to the town's contract to lease a copier at town hall which allows the town to back out of the agreement if the funds are not appropriated.

The town holds a five-year lease for a photocopier from Copelco Credit Corporation at a cost of $131 a month, which includes upkeep.

Selectman Michael H. Sullivan said leasing the copier is "a wiser management of funds" rather than buying the machine outright.



Inspection services $10K

Engineering inspection services during repairs to the Doane Street bridge will cost about $10,000.

Selectmen authorized Tibbetts Engineering Corporation to provide the bid phase and construction phase engineering consulting services contingent on final state approval of funding for the project.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

QUESTION: I'm trying to sell my house on my own and I'm being swamped with "curiosity seekers". How do you limit these intruders?

ANSWER: Curiosity seekers are on of the plagues which the do-it-yourself broker has to contend with. It's not only an inconveneince, but it could be a risk to open the door, day and night, to all who knock. The best solution is to place your home in the hands of a local REALTOR. He or she will weed out curiosity seekers from prospects at the office, visit you only by appointment, and will always accompany prospects. On top of that, you'll probably end up with more money than selling it on your own.

"Ouch was a familiar word around our house. My twin daughters were learning how to slide into second base, and my husband had decided he was going to become the next Jimmy Connors. So while we were used to regular aches and pains, I wasn't prepared for what happened to me. Between my family and running a busy catering business, I was on the go all day long. I thought I was getting all the exercise I needed. It started as a dull ache in my lower back. I thought it was just overwork. When the pain got worse, I called SportsMed. The therapy treatments and what I learned about lifting and carrying, has made a big difference. I now exercise at home using the very muscles that will be overworked on the job. Thank you SportsMed! No pain—that's sane."

Distemper hits raccoons and foxes . . .

"It's everywhere," said Tom French, assistant director of the Division of Fisheries and Wildlife, Natural Heritage and Endangered Species program. "Distemper tends to be fairly common and spotty."

It could hit Cohasset this year and another locale next year.

"There's an outbreak every year. It tends to move around," he said.

Dr. Mark Pokras, assistant professor of wildlife medicine at the Tufts School of Veterinary Medicine, said his recollection is that distemper was worse last year in the raccoon population.

But, Jack Bishop, Norwell animal control officer, hasn't experienced an outbreak like this in his three years on the job. Bishop says he's had some 10-15 raccoon calls in the past month. "I've never seen it like this," he said.

So far this spring, Bishop has taken the heads of four raccoons to the state Department of Public Health labs in Jamaica Plain for rabies testing. The rabies tests were negative, he said, but the animals all had distemper.

"I've put down five or six raccoons this spring," he said. "You have to put them down because they won't make it."

The Cohasset fox found at the country club was sent to Boston for testing. Rabies tests came back negative, Executive Secretary Greg Doyon said. Doyon did not know if the fox had distemper, which officials say also affects red foxes and skunks.

Dr. Pokras said distemper in raccoons is usually fatal.

"Very few survive and those that do are not 100 percent anymore. They may die of starvation or just die because they're not fast enough anymore to get out of the way of a car," he said.

Both rabies and distemper are viruses that affect an animal's nervous system.

Distemper is viral and, Dr. Pokras said, most commonly spread through mucus and saliva transmission when a raccoon, during the course of the disease, develops upper respiratory problems like runny eyes.

"It's spread much like a cold," Pokras explained.

Distemper is density dependent.

"We have greater numbers of raccoons, skunks, possums and red foxes now than ever in our history. There are more now than when the Pilgrims came. They do better in neighborhoods than in forests — they thrive," French said.

STAY CLEAR

Residents are cautioned to stay clear of raccoons that act tame or disoriented and ensure that their house pets have been properly vaccinated. They are also urged to keep pets and children away from the wild animals.

Distemper can be transmitted to dogs, Pokras said, but not to cats or humans.

"It's basically canine distemper," he said.

State officials said that calls for wildlife problems in populated areas have increased due in part to the cuts in town budgets everywhere. Animal control officers everywhere have had their hours and budgets cut back as towns tighten their fiscal belts.

Distemper and rabies present a good argument for people to keep their cats indoors.

Cats prowl nocturnally and are apt to investigate a sick animal out of curiosity. A sick raccoon could seriously injure a cat, he added, even if the cat didn't run the risk of contracting the disease.

The outward signs of distemper, French said, are similar enough to rabies that it will be troublesome when rabies finally reaches this area.

"So far there is no raccoon rabies in Massachusetts," French said, "and authorities expect it to come in through the southwest corner, near Egremont or Great Barrington or travel up the Connecticut Valley, a flood plain that raccoons find especially enticing.

"There's no doubt about it. It isn't a question of if it's coming; it's a question of when it's coming," French said. Once rabies arrives here, it won't go away, he added.

"Once it's here, it's here forever," Dr. Pokras said.

"It's only one county away from the Springfield area," he said, adding that his guess is that the first cases might turn up in this state later this summer.

"It's kind of like a wave," he said, reflecting on the numbers seen in other areas. "The first year it might be 10, 15 or 20 cases. The second year, maybe a couple of hundred, then 600 to 800, then a couple of thousand. By then the raccoon population will have been thinned out and the disease will level off after it peaks."

There are several strains of rabies, French said, including bat rabies which already exists in this state but doesn't transmit easily to other animals. There is another strain that affects red foxes and a Midwest strain that affects skunks.

The mid-Atlantic strain of raccoon rabies is worrying officials now, French said. It started in Florida and spread in 1977 to West Virginia "artificially, probably by a coon hunting club. We think it came in with animals that were physically moved."

It spread a year later to Virginia and since then "has gone up the coast." Thousands of positive rabies tests have since been reported as far west as Ohio and in Connecticut and New York.

Rabies is carried and transmitted primarily by raccoons, he added.

There has been one rabid raccoon found in Rumney, NH, but the animal was wearing two flea collars when found and authorities suspect that it was a pet and brought into New Hampshire from elsewhere.

NOT PETS

Raccoons, Pokras added, are not meant to be house pets.

French said that since 1974, it has been illegal to keep raccoons as pets without a state permit. The animals may be adorable when young but become snappy when they reach about nine months to a year. Those turned loose at that age "have a terrible track record" for survival, he said, primarily because they don't know how to hunt for food and are so accustomed to humans and dogs. He said the problem of people keeping the animals as pets will "become a lot more serious with rabies as an issue."

Many people who find a baby raccoon "do what they think is best for the animal, but frankly the survival rate is pretty dismal."

"Having no fear of people, cars or dogs," an Audubon newsletter says, "and little or no experience finding their own natural foods, most of these former pets meet tragic deaths."

French added that another issue with raccoons is round worm which is common to most but can cause disease and even death in other animals and people. He said he knew of two children who had died from the worms. (Pokras said he knew of four cases.)

In one case, a family in Pennsylvania had a pet raccoon that lived in a woodshed and used the wood as a latrine. When wood was brought into the house in the winter, a teething toddler chewed on it, contracted a massive dose of raccoon round worm and died. Even though no feces were evident on the wood taken indoors, French said, "the eggs stay viable for 10 years."

He added that the state also forbids trapping raccoons and moving them to another area. "We try to give people advise on how to co-exist with these animals. If they have to be removed (from a house, for instance), we insist they be destroyed."

Furthermore, unless taken well over 20 to 30 miles from their home territory, relocated adult raccoons are likely to make their way back to their original home within a few days or weeks, according to the Audubon newsletter.

"At first glance, live trapping and relocating the nuisance animal seems the humane alternative," the newsletter says, "but in reality this is usually as much a death warrant as if it were shot, and with additional stress tossed in for good measure."

Alice Upjohn, veterinary technician at the New England Wildlife Center in Hingham, said the center has also seen an increase in raccoons with distemper this spring.

"Keep dogs away even if they've been vaccinated," she warned about the contagious disease.

Upjohn said residents should call the animal control officer or the wildlife center at 749-1248 if they see any wild animal that appears to be sick.

Accounting services voted

Selectmen agreed to hire Don Jenson at the rate of $35 an hour as temporary town accountant.

Jenson, who is the Weymouth town accountant, will close the books for FY'92; file the necessary accounting forms with the state; and act as temporary town accountant.

Recently the board interviewed four finalists to fill the town accountant position but could not agree on an appointment. The position will be re-advertised.

The town's previous accountant, who left to accept a position in Scituate, was paid about $34,000 a year.

Executive Secretary Greg Doyon has been paid a stipend as acting town accountant. About 15 percent of his time has been spent on accounting matters in the absence of a town accountant, Doyon said.

CCC's 50th anniversary

Next year is an important one for the Cohasset Community Center — it turns 50.

In a letter to Executive Secretary Greg Doyon, center president Glenn A. Pratt said the center's plan is to produce, sponsor, or host a community activity each month during 1993, starting with a "First Night" celebration Dec. 31, 1992.

Ambulance . . .

an additional fee for oxygen, it does not charge for use of the defibrillator or anti-shock trousers.

For the past several weeks, Cohasset residents Elaine Coyne, Mary McElroy, and Jane Henderson, volunteered their time to help the fire department deal with the substantial backlog of ambulance bills.

The women, who all have substantial computer or accounting experience, put in 100 hours and managed to go through every ambulance run from November 1989 through July 1991 and looked at what was billed and what wasn't, Nadeau said.

The fire department is now ready to start mailing out those bills, said Nadeau, who inherited the backlog when he became fire chief in January.

He explained that the industry average is a 70 percent collection rate on ambulance bills.

Cohasset's track record is less than half that.

In a memo Coyne said the town collected only $34,000 or 32 percent of the 535 bills issued in the 21 months from Nov.'89 to July '91.

But Nadeau said things are looking up.

In his May ambulance billing report, Nadeau said there were 25 billed calls for $4,860; the town has collected $2,550 or about 52 percent.

"We're still way below the industry average but things are moving along. We are making some headway with Medicare," he said.

Nadeau said he does not have the resources to handle third party billing which requires that the fire department bill a user's insurance company directly.

The chief will provide selectmen with a six-month update on the department's progress in collecting future bills through direct billing, which gets underway July 1.

Selectmen also decided to hire an outside agency to mail out the backlog and do the followup on upaid bills.

The town has to create specifications for the job and may have to go out to bid, a process which could take two months, Executive Secretary Gregory Doyon said.

Several agencies have already expressed interest including the Cohasset Council on Aging in handling the backlog on a percentage basis.

Selectmen Chairman Jane Goedecke said she was concerned about confidentiality issues and the level of expertise with the "in-town group" that offered its services.

"People would be dunning their neighbors and that's hard," she said.

Selectmen also approved a policy of sending out ambulance bills within 24 hours on all calls including those for town employees and their families.

"All write offs, if any, are appropriately made by the board of selectmen," the policy states.

Greenbush rail project delayed by 18 months

By Marilyn Jackson
Mariner staff

The reconstruction of the Greenbush line of the Old Colony Railroad has been delayed by 18 to 24 months as the result of the federally-ordered 4-F study for alternatives to rebuilding the line through the Lincoln Historic District in Hingham Square.

And, according to officials from the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, this study has cost about $1 million.

John E. Powers, assistant director of design and construction of the Old Colony, and Peter Calcaterra, project manager, told members of the Scituate Chamber of Commerce Monday at the Minot Light Inn it was not a question of if but when the third branch of the Old Colony would be rebuilt.

The problem, Powers conjectured, is the NIMBY (not in my back yard) syndrome.

Hingham residents, he said, "have enjoyed 30 years of solitude, with no bells, no whistles.

"If the protesters went away, we could be laying tracks right now."

"The statutes today make you go through some hoops," added Calcaterra, noting that it took only 14 months to build the Empire State Building in New York City.

U.S. Transportation Secretary Andrew Card came to Boston about two weeks ago to present local transportation officials with the federal record of decision which commits $240 million — 50 percent — for the reconstruction of the Plymouth and Middleborough lines.

Calcaterra noted there is a four-year construction time line for those two lines, and it is high likely the MBTA can accelerate the Greenbush project once the 4-F study is completed.

The major component of this project, Powers noted, was the construction of the Neponset River Bridge. Bids should be advertised before the end of the year.

The bridge burned down about a year after the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad halted passenger service on the Old Colony Line June 30, 1959. The new bridge will be a one-track.

Calcaterra detailed the alternatives to building the rail over the existing right-of-way:

- No build.
- Expanded commuter boat service. This is most probable, with the expansion of service in Hingham and some at Nantasket Junction. Scituate is not conducive to commuter boat services, he said. Expanding feeder buses and more frequent service could be viable.
- Tunnel. There are four cut-and-cover tunnel options, including three on the existing right-of-way. The fourth would use a different alignment and travel through the South Shore Country Club and meet on the west side of Hingham.
- Expanded bus service with park and ride.

Calcaterra said the MBTA is putting together its technical memorandum of pros and cons about the alternatives to submit sometime next week to the Federal Transit Administration.

After its review, the alternatives will be given to the citizens' advisory committee for study.

"Hopefully, about a year from now, all issues will be resolved," he said.

Other issues still be be resolved include the siting of the Cohasset station and the layover facility in Greenhush.

Calcaterra said he had conducted a feasibility study for the rehabilitation of the Old Colony Railroad in 1983 and 1984, at which time project manager Stephen Polechronis came in. Last year, Polechronis resigned and accepted a position on the West Coast.

Calcaterra and Powers said the timetable calls for the Plymouth and Middleborough lines to be built by 1996. "The earliest the Greenbush line would be built and be in 'full revenue service' would be in late 1997."

Paula Graham, a real estate agent for Jack Conway and Company, asked how many cars would be eliminated from the commute to Boston with the restoration of the trains.

Powers replied that with the three lines in operation, an estimated 10,000 cars would be removed — 2,000 tons of air pollutants.

Selectman Richard Blake said he was concerned Hingham will challenge the MBTA's decision and further delay the project.

Powers and Calcaterra emphasized that the MBTA has been diligent throughout the process of bringing the Greenbush project to reality and probably there would be little merit in a challenge of the process.

An injunction, however, is a different story.

"You live in the swampiest, marshiest place," said Powers. "It's not an easy place to build, and every time 10 citizens don't like something, they can hold it up."

"It's a nice place to live," interjected Calcaterra.

"One thing," Powers continued, "we have the staff and the resolve and the backing of the feds telling us . . . to build.

"Personally," he added, "I have a good track record for (working) in environmentally sensitive areas," citing the Harvard-Alewife Red Line extension and the South Station rehabilitaion project.

"We are going to build the job," said Powers who was assigned to the Old Colony project last February.

Asked what the financial impact would be of the trains, Powers replied that there probably never would be a public transportation service that would pay for itself.

Safety helmets

blading or skate boarding.

"There are very few kids wearing helmets," Jones said. "We'll try anything to help.

"Kids don't realize what can happen to them without a helmet," he said.

The Osgood School Parent/School Organization (PSO) purchased the certificates for the summer safety helmet reward program.

Jones said the reward program is "an excellent idea." He noted the Boy Scouts recently held a bicycle rodeo to encourage safe biking practices.

Often one child in a group will wear a helmet while others do not, Jones said.

"Maybe if one gets a certificate — it will be an incentive for two or three to put helmets on," he said.

Jones added that skate boards and roller blades should be kept off the roads.

"The kids should go up places like the high school parking lot," he said.

Jones explained that roller blades require a side-to-side motion.

"The kids wind up in the middle of the road," he said.

Spinnaker . . .

That performance requires voice projection to overcome interference like traffic noise, she said.

In his letter to selectmen, Towle said "a sound, or word or series of words carries in the air (in the auditorium) like a wave when a stone drops into a pond. The sound wave reached a hard flat surface, the wave rebounds like an echo. As people sit in the hall, they hear the spoken word, and the rebounding word echo at the same instant. When one's ear hears two different sounds at the same instant, that is bad acoustics."

Towle suggested the town could greatly improve the acoustics by having soft cloth tapestries placed close to but not solidly against all flat, bare, vertical surfaces.

"I suggest a trial test. hang up spinnakers or mainsails close to each wall, to see how much it will overcome the problem.

"I do not like to see worthwhile efforts applied when very little is understood from the many spoken words expressed," he said.

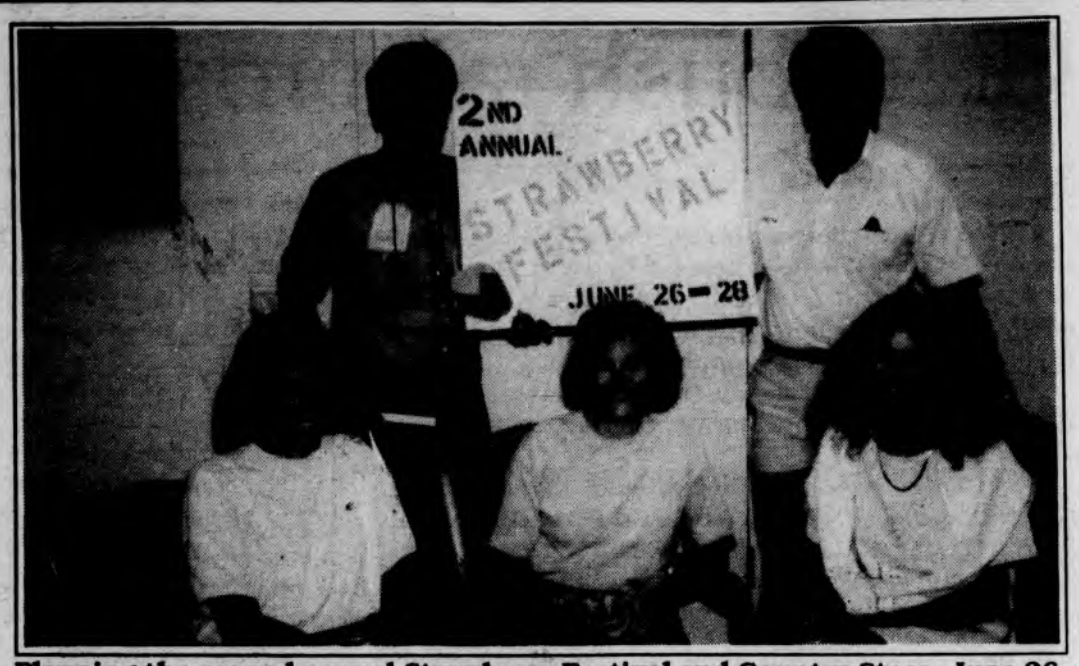
❑ Chartis Langmaid spent two busy weekends last month running from one end of New England to the other to see both of her sons graduate from college. Son, Bill, received his B.S. in Forestry from the University of Maine at Orono, College of Forest Resources, and two weeks later, Jamie graduated from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut, with a major in Economics.

Both of them will spend the summer juggling work for Chartis's State Senate Campaign with job search activities.

❑ Congratulations to Lisa Recce-Carbone who recently received a Child Life/Primary Education degree from Wheelock College in Boston.



❑ Everyone is looking forward to this weekend, and the fun that is promised during the Harborfest Activities!! Fine art, many festivities, good food...want to be a part of it? The Fire Department is looking for volunteers for their dunk tank, a fun part of the festivities, and a sure money raiser.

Adults and kids alike have fun with the dunk tank, whether they are throwing the balls or getting dunked, so help the firefighters out on June 26 and 27! Call 383-0616. And, have a fun-filled weekend!

❑ Cohasset has its own Bo Jackson, his name is Ray Jones. Ray was named to the Boston Globe All-Scholastic Outdoor Track Team. Ray is a junior at CHS, and one to be proud of. ❑ Barbara Seura recently received a special education, (teaching young children with special needs) graduate degree from Wheelock College, and we salute her!

❑ Boston College High School had its commencement recently and two Cohassetites were among the grads. Hats off to D. Ross MacLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLeod of 26 Cedar Acres Lane, and John P. O'Leary III, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Leary of 711 Jerusalem Rd.

❑ Attention all of our readers...many of you must have been in the CHS Auditorium on June 3 and we are now hoping that one of you might have found a small black Esprit clutch purse. It belongs to Stephanie Hardwick, and her nurses license is in it, something she really needs. If you found the purse, or know anything about it, please call the high school.

Here's hoping I can write about finding it next week!!

❑ All of us on Red Gate Lane are watching for Brad Ketchum to stroll down the street again...hope you are up and about after your recent surgery, Brad.

❑ Congratulations to Kathryn Tolini who received her BA degree in English/writing & communications from the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth.

❑ We heard exciting news about Peg D'Onofrio of Colpitts Travel Agency. Peg is the in-coming president of Boston Women and Travel; they belong to the International Federation of Women's Travel Organization. Peg has just returned from Australia for their yearly convention, and last year she went to Hawaii.

You probably know that Colpitts is now located at 115 Ripley Road, so be sure to congratulate Peg on her election.

❑ Harriet Jane DeLima makes the news this week. She received the Joseph Arthur Coolidge Achievement Award from President John A. Curry at Northeastern University's 1992 Honors Banquet. She is the daughter of Richard and Sarah DeLima, and will graduate in 1995 from the College of Arts and Sciences with a degree in biology.

❑ Tucker Hansen, a Denison University freshman, has earned his first varsity letter with the DU men's lacrosse team. The 1991 graduate of Belmont Hill School contributed to Denison's success as an attack player on the Big Red varsity squad. This spring Hansen scored eight goals and recorded eight assists for 15 points and a 1.3 points-per-game average, placing him sixth on the 1992 DU scoring chart.

❑ A round of applause this week goes to Erin M. Hunt. Through all of her hard work Erin made the Dean's List at Massasoit Community College, and all are proud of her and her efforts.

❑ Finally in college information for the week, Theodore Michael Jones made the Dean's List at Wentworth Institute for the spring semester. He is a computer science major.

Hat tricks highlight soccer season finale

Girls 14-1 finished their season June 6 surprising an undefeated Plymouth team with a 4-0 shutout. Tammy Maitland had her second hat trick of the season, with assists from Catie Campbell, Amie Theriault and Megan Fahey. Danielle Nohe had a goal assisted by Katie Ross. Fullbacks Dawn Meehan, Stephie Lubitz, Lauren Devito and Caitlin Connolly did a fantastic job directed by sweeper Malinda Johansen. Not enough can be said about goalie Emily D'Urso who had her best game of the season.

May 31 in a double header against Carver this team took both games. With Connolly, Rebecca Jenkins and DeVito as wings, and Johansen and Nohe as sweepers, the ball didn't spend much time near the Cohasset net. Campbell, Maitland scored with Ross and Fahey the driving force behind the goals in half one. Game two was Maitland's original 1992 hat trick, and Catie Campbell also scored. Theriault and Ross were in assistance.

Girls 10-1 took a 1-3 loss from Hanover May 16 which featured Jessie Zerondow's first breakaway goal, a goal that brought the team to high spirits but was then disallowed. Midfielders Lily Maltz, Brie McKenney and Emily Coyne played a tough game. The team came back May 23 with a 3-1 victory over Duxbury. Halfback Kelly Lordan scored with her first break-away. Her strong kick sent the ball over the goalie's head. Erica Dean, a fast player known for her assists finished the season with her first goal. Caitlin Donovan played her usual aggressive game, stealing the ball many times and finally leaving the game with an injury. Defenders Maura Duffy, Kate Henderson and Ashley Van Hartsvelt kept Duxbury on their toes.

In more late May games, Kahn's Kickers (U8-5) took Whorisky's Boys in a close 5-4 match. Troy Cannistraro, Alex Berg and Ross Lieb Lappan were outstanding on defense and essential to stopping their opposing team's Kevin Hanian. Paul Previte had two goals in the first half, and Curtis Kahn had a hat trick in the second.

The gung-ho "Greg Gang" of 8-1 (Smith and O'Connell) once again gave the fans their money's worth with a combined three goals in their game vs. 8-7 May 23. Jimmy French also tallied for the victors, while Paul Cotter and Robbie Carpenter showed their own ability at keeping the ball out of the net at goalkeepers. Wings Jeff Barrett and Philip Strazzulla rounded out the team effort with their work on the wings. Cotter's 8-1 team then took 8-8 with the strong performances of the "kindergarten korps" of Strazzulla, Carpenter, Barrett and Cotter showing its usual verve. Smith (2), O'Connell (2), Evan Pestone and French kept rolling the ball into the net in their final outing. This team is ready for the beach, but cannot wait for the fall season to begin!

Boys 10-1 ended their season intensively with four games in three weeks including the Jamboree. On May 23, in the now famous sweltering heat of Memorial Day weekend, the team stayed cool even after falling behind by a goal early on. Andrew Kinch evened the score in the second half after hard work by John Cotter and Doug O'Brien who got assists on the play. Billy Good showed his usual hustle at defense and halfback and Will Moody joined the ranks of the nimble netminders with a dazzling display of sensational saves in goal.

The next week, a picture perfect instructional video quality set-up by assisters Geoff McWilliams, Greg Donovan and Good resulted in Kinch knocking in the lone Cohasset goal in the bow to Duxbury. Despite stonewall defense by Chris Golden and Mario Bruzzone the well-coordinated Duxbury attack managed several quality chances. Showing particular hustle and desire at midfield were Moody, Ronan Buick and Cotter. Down at the Jamboree in Hanover the 10-1 side played to a 0-0 tie against Pembroke with excellent goaltending by Billy be Good and deft defensive work by McWilliams and Golden. Chris Caron provided a big spark of offense as did the pinpoint passing plays of O'Brien and Cotter.

Against Scituate, the blue and white had another great defensive showing with the game's only goal coming on a Scituate penalty kick. Buick, Bruzzone, Moody and Joshua Durant all showed great hustle in the match.

Jamboree set

The Cohasset Girls' Softball League will hold an old fashioned "Jamboree" at Barnes Little League Field Sunday, June 28. About 75 team members will be marching in the Harborfest Parade and to be joined by family and friends for an afternoon of food and fun.

Girls should call their individual coaches for parade time and assignments. For further info call Lisa Smith at 383-2510 or Rose Collins at 383-0760.

Enjoy!

There's no doubt that Cohasset's at its best this weekend as the South Shore Art Festival/Harborfest gets underway.

For months an incurable case of 'festivitis' has taken over Cohasseters.

Groups and organizations including the South Shore Arts Center, Cohasset Dramatic Club, the VFW, the Cohasset Lightkeepers Corporation, the Chamber of Commerce, the Community Center, the Council on Aging, the Social Service League, the South Shore Music Circus, the historical society, rotary club, firefighters, churches and many, many more have pitched in to turn the entire town into a happening.

The event, which has been written up extensively not only in the Cohasset Mariner but in the daily papers is sure to attract some out-of-towners to our lovely town.

Events get underway at 1 p.m. Friday when tents, crafts booths, and the South Shore Art Center open to the public.

And the activities continue all day Saturday and Sunday.

So come on down!

It's time to show off and to enjoy the place we call home.

Good ideas

This week we give bouquets to the Cohasset Drug and Alcohol Committee, Cub Scouts, the PSO and Safety Officer for a couple of great ideas.

The key ring with the 'friendly' reminder that friends don't let friends drive drunk given out to all Cohasset High graduates by the Drug and Alcohol Committee may seem like a small thing.

But somewhere down the line, a young Cohasset adult may look down at the key ring in his or her palm and make the right decision.

The Osgood PSO also has the safety of its students in mind with its helmet reward plan.

Kids who wear helmets while riding their bikes, skateboarding or roller-blading and are stopped by Safety Officer Clifton B. Jones will receive a gift certificate for a free ice cream.

Officer Jones says "kids don't realize what can happen to them without a helmet."

A free ice cream may not sound like much — but if it encourages even one more child to wear a helmet — then it's not a little thing.

The Cub Scouts also held a bike rodeo to promote safety and to raise awareness among Cohasset kids, recently.

Bicycle safety and helmets can prevent serious injuries. Making the decision not to get behind the wheel of a car can saves lives.

We commend the PSO, safety officer, Cub Scouts and Drug & Alcohol committee for making the little things count.

Spayed, neutered pets less costly

letters

To the Editor:

One every 1.5 seconds. By the time you finish reading my letter the total will be 160. What are we counting? We are counting deaths, for in this country a dog or cat or puppy or kitten is put to death every second and a half. According to the Humane Society of the United States, 13 million companion animals are turned in to US shelters every year. Nearly eight million animals are destroyed. There just are not enough homes for all the animals born yearly in this country.

Most of the cats and dogs put down at shelters are adoptable. On the average, eight out of 10 adoptable animals are destroyed. Half of the animals euthanized at shelters are puppies and kittens. Of all dogs coming into shelters, 25 percent are purebreds.

What can you do to change these statistics? The only way to control pet overpopulation is to lower the birth rate by surgical sterilization: spaying and neutering. Every day in the United States more than 70,000 puppies and kittens are born. When this number is compared to the 10,000 human births each day, it is clear that there will never be enough homes for all these pets.

Surgical sterilization is performed by a veterinarian. The ideal age for sterilization is 5 to 7 months, before the first heat for a female and before the male becomes mature. However, no animal is too old to be sterilized. In fact, many older whole dogs and cats must be spayed or neutered in emergencies where they have developed health problems such as reproductive organ cancer or infection.

Spayed and neutered pets are healthier. Spaying female dogs and cats eliminates the risks of uterine or ovarian cancer and greatly reduces the risk of breast cancer. Neutering male dogs reduces the incidence of prostate cancer and infection.

Sterilized pets are more affectionate and have fewer behavioral problems. Spayed dogs and cats devote themselves to their owners. The owner in turn does not have to worry about heat cycles and a yard full of aggressive males. Neutered cats do not spray — unneutered male cats spray a strong smelling urine to mark everything, including the inside of the house. Neutered males are less likely to roam and fight.

Spayed and neutered pets are less expensive than their whole counterparts. The owner of a spayed female does not have to worry about feeding a pregnant animal and her litter or paying for possible veterinary complications related to pregnancy and birth. Neutered males are less likely to fight, with resulting abscesses and veterinary bills.

Some people use as an excuse for having a litter the fact that they find homes for all their kittens and puppies. Maybe so, but for every animal that is placed from a private home, another at a shelter is put to death. There are only so many homes no matter how hard humane societies and shelters try to increase adoptions.

If you are thinking of adopting a companion animal, call area animal shelters and pounds. These pets desperately need homes.

If you need assistance with spaying and neutering, please call Standish Humane Society at 617-834-4663, 617-335-7214, 508-291-2251 or 508-224-7373. Standish Humane Society has a reduced-cost sterilization program in which 18 veterinary hospitals participate. In 1991 we helped 1,683 owners sterilize their pets.

Parker Avenue boat ramp is okay

To the Editor:

Just a brief note with a correction in the Mariner article "Boat ramp, parking needed" (June 11, 1992).

I did attend the (Harbor Study Committee) meeting on June 4, but did not advocate (or discuss) the boat ramp on Parker Ave. Actually I think it's fine the way it is—with minor exceptions. Mr. John Muncey (Cohasset) was the fellow who brought up the Parker Avenue ramp and those changes mentioned in the article.

I did bring up two other ideas that I feel should be looked into. Specifically: a connecting road from the Sailing Club lot directly to the "Ed Young Parking Lot;" and a launching ramp at the Sailing Club. These two ideas will be looked into by the Government Island Study Committee.

Blood drive is successful

To the editor:

The Cohasset Red Cross Blood Drive June 2 was a great success. The Cohasset community once again rose to the occasion. The drive produced 102 productive pints of blood. Our goal was to reach 95 pints.

A heartfelt thank you goes to the Cohasset community and any others that helped make this drive successful.

May we all look forward to our next drive in September and continue to be a leading community in this effort.

Once again, "the gift of life" thanks each and everyone of you.

chamber chatter

by Paula Knowles

Another beautiful summer in paradise is upon us. School is almost out, weather has been just perfect lately, vacations are being planned, camps are being searched out and booked, and Betty Marie's paddle boat has been seen in the harbor! What a day, what a season. Now all we need is time to enjoy it. For those whose days are full of stuff, nonsense, work, kids, cars, traffic, daycare, and general chaos and running around — A few hints to add an hour or so to each day.

1. Don't cook. That's right. Forget it. Take a walk with the family. Lay on the chaise. Read a book on the porch. Have a squirt gun fight or sneak a run on the kids' slip'n slide. But first pick up the phone and dial one of these numbers for great summer food at a great price.

2. Cohasset Cove Seafood — (383-6226) fish and lobster specialties ready to pop into the oven or microwave.

3. Koko Island — (383-1505) a PuPu platter or egg foo young to break up the usual cook-out habit.

4. Strawberry Parfait — (383-9681) fried fish, buffalo wings, sandwiches and fries. That's summer!

5. Olde Salt House — (383-1340) a new addition right on the harbor...with a dock to tie your boat up to an an outdoor patio. Great if you or your friends are cruising the harbor.

For sandwiches, shakes, etc., don't forget: Bergsons — 383-1942; Village Gourmet — 383-2195.

For pizza, subs, salads call on: Aegean Fare — 383-6575; Cohasset House of Pizza — 383-6262; Victorias II — 383-2777.

And if you are out walking and just need a pick me up or a snack for the kids, don't forget Judy's Candyland in the harbor, or ice cream at the Strawberry Parfait, JJ's, Bergson's, or the Olde Salt House. Enjoy the summer at a relaxed pace.

Take it easy, let Cohasset's fine food establishments do the work and take the heat. That's why they are in business!

And don't forget our other fine restaurants if you are in a "sit down" mood. The Chart House, Kimballs by the Sea, The Red Lion Inn, and With Richard are all ready and waiting to welcome you back.

Coming up for Harborfest: Golf Tourney, June 24. Pancake breakfast, chicken barbecue, water games, teen depot photo booth, crafters, vendors, dunking booth, blessing of the fleet, brunch at the Chart House, the parade and chowderfest, June 24-25. And the annual Arts Festival starting June 25. Don't miss it!

If you did not get a copy of the Chamber of Commerce Business Directory — contained in your last week's Mariner — call us at 383-1010 and we will get one to you. And businesses who want to be included for next year need only join the Chamber for 1993!

Local Color. Your Mariner newspaper. Call 1-800-649-6661 to subscribe.

The Chamber of Commerce has just agreed that the town must do more to market itself to tour groups.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7957 Room 134
THE HOUSE AND SENATE. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on three roll calls from the week of June 15-19. There were no roll calls in the House.
SEXUAL ABUSE (H 2107) - Senate 24-13, rejected an amendment to the House approved bill extending the time period during which a minor victim of sexual abuse can bring a civil suit. Current law allows suits until the victim turns 21. The bill permits suits within three years of the act or within three years of the time the victim discovers emotional problems caused by the act. The amendment would prohibit any suit after 20 years from the time of the act. Amendment supporters said an open-ended period is unworkable and will further clutter the courts. They argued that after 20 years it will be extremely difficult for judges and juries to sort out allegations and evidence. Opponents said it often takes more than 20 years for victims to acknowledge this abuse and argued the amendment weakens the bill and takes rights away from victims. Further Senate action is expected next week. (A "Yea" vote is for the amendment prohibiting suits after 20 years. A "Nay" vote is against the 20-year cap).	Y
(Senate) COLA (H 5260) - Senate 32-2, refused to postpone action for one week on the question of overriding Governor Weld's veto of the bill granting a five percent cost of living increase to 85,000 state, county and municipal retirees. The raise is retroactive to January 1 and caps any individual increase at $450. Postponement supporters said the raise will cost millions and urged the Senate to consider it next week when members will debate the fiscal 1993 state budget and can look at the state's entire financial situation. Opponents said this was just another attempt to delay the bill and deny moderate hikes to these retirees. (A "Yea" vote is for postponement. A "Nay" vote is against postponement).	N
(Senate) COLA (H 5260) - Senate 36-1, agreed with the House and overrode the veto of the five percent cost of living increase for 85,000 retirees. Supporters of the hike said these retirees have not had a raise in four years and have waited long enough. Opponents said the increase will cost $75 million through fiscal 1993 and argued the state simply cannot afford it. (A "Yea" vote is for the five percent increase. A "Nay" vote is against it).	Y

Society museums to open for summer

In conjunction with Cohasset's 2nd Annual Summerfest celebration the Cohasset Historical Society's two summer museums at Elm Street, Cohasset center, will open for the season Saturday, June 27.

The Maritime Museum, an 18th century building once housing Samuel Bates' ship chandlery, today holds a large and varied collection of tools, equipment, charts, pictures and ship models relating to the town's long seafaring era.

For two centuries Cohasset was a center of fishing, shipbuilding and maritime mercantile activity. Nineteenth century Cohasset seafarers journeyed to all parts of the world on large merchant vessels and Cohasset lads often went to sea on family-owned mackerel fishing schooners by the time they were ten years old. Some grew up to become fishing and mercantile shipmasters and shipowners. The days of the mackerel schooners and the square riggers is gone, but their world is represented in the Society's Maritime Museum.

Other maritime themes also are pursued in the old ship chandlery museum; for Cohasset also was the scene of numerous 18th and 19th century shipwrecks. The loss of ocean-going sailing vessels along Cohasset's shores and on the dangerous "Cohasset Rocks" just off our shores led to the establishment of volunteer lifesaving stations manned by Cohasseters, and to the construction of a world-famous lighthouse at Outer Minot's Ledge, just two miles from our harbor.

The story of the Massachusetts Humane Society volunteer lifeboats is portrayed at the Maritime Museum, as is the history of both first and second Minot's Ledge Lighthouses.

The second floor of the Maritime Museum holds an extensive collection of general historical nature relating to the early years of Cohasset as a small New England village.

The first arrivals in the area called Cohasset came from Hingham in the 1670s, and the earliest farms and homesteads date from that time. Before the English settlers there were Indians living here. Stone tools of early Indian tribes, found in Cohasset, are on display at the Maritime Museum, as are 18th and 19th century artifacts representing life in the developing community.

Early school desks, carpenters' tools, cordwainer's equipment, and many other aspects of the town's early times are on display at the Historical Society's Maritime Museum.

Adjacent to the Maritime on Elm Street is a 19th century Cohasset Sea Captain's home, the Capt. John Wilson House. Built in 1810 by housewright David Nichols, this historic dwelling has been maintained as a museum since 1936. Many artifacts found in early Cohasset homes are displayed; antique furniture, kitchenware, furnishings and children's toys are featured.

This season the Historical Society's Costumes Committee will use the Wilson House for a series of exhibits using materials from the Historical Society's extensive costumes and accessories collections.

Starting the summer's special displays will include a showing of 19th century wedding gowns and other items.

A museum shop also is maintained at the Capt. John Wilson House, carrying sales items created by the Society and related to the town's history. Included this year will be the Society's new tee shirts having Cohasset motifs, tote bags, coffee mugs as well as Cohasset coloring books and the three definitive history books about Cohasset; Bigelow's Narrative History vol . 1, Pratt's volume 2 of Narrative History and Collier's biographical Cohasset's Deep Sea Captains.

The Cohasset Historical Society's two summer museums on Elm Street at the village will be open through the end of September, Tuesday through Sunday afternoons from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Admission is free for all visitors; donations are gratefully accepted at each of the two buildings.

The Historical Society's telephone is (617) 383 - 6930.

These are just a few of the hand-made items shoppers can find at the 37th South Shore Art Center Art Festival's artisans craft market place on Cohasset Common, June 26-28.

Over 75 booths wind around the grassy common during the three-day Festival. Cohasset kids stay on course for bike safety Dozens of Cohasset youngsters took part in a bicycle rodeo to promote safe biking habits last week at the Deer Hill School. The event was sponsored by Cub Scout Pack 38, the Deer Hill School After-School Enrichment Program, the Osgood and Deer Hill PSO, the Cohasset Police Department, and Cohasset Cycle Sports.

There were lots of skills games and contests. Kids could also take part in a police anti-theft bike registration program.

This summer Safety Officer Clifton B. Jones is continuing the safety program by awarding gift certificates for a free ice cream cone at Strawberry Parfait to kids who wear helmets while biking, roller-blading, or skateboarding.

Cubmaster Jeff Forsdick registers Ryan Tufts bike with the police department.

Ben Bixby gets 10 points for not knocking down any cones.

Ready, aim, fire!

Fire Chief John Nadeau gets into the Harborfest spirit as he takes his turn in the dunk tank, Saturday. Despite the fact that Nadeau is ready to retaliate with a water pistol, he is successfully dunked by one of his own men, an ace softball pitcher. (Staff photos/Mary Ford)

South Shore Arts Festival: a visual smorgasbord

By Alison Cohen
Mariner correspondent

Since its inception, the South Shore Art Center has celebrated the diversity in the ways artists see their world. The center continued that tradition in the 37th annual Art Festival.

The big tent on the Meetinghouse Common offered a visual smorgasbord with nearly 150 entries in the juried exhibition and an 54 photographs in the juried photograph exhibition spread out to feed the soul. Back at the center, festival goers were treated to a feast for the eyes in both galleries. The main gallery featured a one-man show of works by Tom Lucas. The center was also the venue for the annual members show.

The paintings, drawings, sculptures and photographs ran the gamut from picturesque rowboats dancing on waves or hidden in the midst to more abstract renderings.

Best of show went to Scituate resident Suzann Gaitings for her oil painting, "Oshima." Gaitings presented a richly textured painting featuring an antique couch with ornate carving and lush brocade fabric. She chose a palette reminiscent of Rembrandt for a dark and mysterious air of ancient glories.

Texture also ruled the roost in John

First quarterly tax bills sent out this week

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

This week Cohasset residents receive the first of four property tax bills for fiscal year 1993, which began July 1.

Bill payment is due at the treasurer's office by 4:30 p.m., Monday, August 3. Postmark dates will not be accepted, Treasurer/Collector Elizabeth Ripley said.

In other words, interest on late bills starts to accrue August 4.

The recent tax bills that were due May 1 were for the second half of fiscal 1992, which ended June 30.

At the April town meeting, voters approved switching to the quarterly tax billing system, which officials say, will improve cash flow and save the town from paying interest on short-term borrowing.

A flyer, explaining the new system, is included with the property tax bills mailed this week.

"This way with four payments, it's going to help us with our operating budget," treasurer Elizabeth Ripley said.

She explained that under the old, two-bill system the town operated with "no" money until December or five months into the fiscal year — when the first bills were sent out.

Ripley estimates the town will realize $9,000 net savings in the first year of quarterly billing and $14,300 in the second. First-year figures are lower because of a one-time software charge, Ripley said.

Labor costs and the one-time software charge are offset by a $20,000 estimated annual savings in short-term borrowing costs figured at .035 interest, she said.

Ripley said her office "can't afford any more labor" and doesn't see the quarterly bills — which are printed outside — as adding to the office's labor costs.

"Borrowing is time consuming in itself. You have to go out to bid and there's a lot of paperwork," she said.

"I see quarterly billing as a plus for the town."

Surprise festival storm keeps firefighters busy

Saturday afternoon was one that defied the law of averages.

As thousands of people clogged Cohasset to enjoy a day at the South Shore Arts Festival/Harborfest — "It hit the fan," Firefighter/EMT Tom Finegan recalled.

Over the course of a year — fire/medical calls in Cohasset average three a day, firefighters say.

But at 4:18 p.m., Saturday, the dispatcher's switchboard lit up with the first of nearly a dozen calls.

Dripping wet, Fire Chief John Nadeau coordinated staffing by radio. From 4-to-4:30 p.m., Nadeau was the volunteer in the dunk tank in front of the community center.

No sooner had he come out of the tank, then two fire engines roared past on their way to town hall.

The abrupt change in weather was caused was a severe "localized" thunderstorm, according to David Taylor, a climatologist at Boston-based Weather Services

Police: more melee = more arrests

Police warn there will more arrests if they see a repeat of Monday night's melee in Cohasset center.

"We plan to put a stop to it right away," Sgt. Brian Noonan said.

Noonan said a fight erupted with 150-to-200 Cohasset and Hull youths ranging in ages from 16-to-20 at about 9:30 p.m. Monday on South Main Street outside Tedeschi's.

Police said they arrested two youths; and are seeking charges against a third.

Arrested were Montgomery Willard, 20, of Porrazzo Rd. Hull and Joshua Muir, 17, of 122 Forest Ave., Cohasset. Willard was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on Michael Reynolds, 17, of 364 Beechwood St., Cohasset. Police charged Muir with disorderly conduct and threatening to do bodily harm.

Both Muir and Willard were arraigned in Quincy District Court, Tuesday.

Police are seeking charges against Kevin T. Healey, 9271 #7 Phippe St., Hull for allegedly assaulting Earl

South Look will return next week

Cohasset's week

What's open, what's not

Because Independence Day lands on a Saturday this year, many businesses will close Friday, July 3.

Readers should consult their local banks, post offices, retail stores and supermarkets for July 3 hours.

Just about everything will be closed on July 4 except for liquor stores and taverns. The post office, banks, the stock market, state and municipal offices and libraries, will be closed for the holiday.

Advertising deadlines for the Mariner Newspapers will remain the same with with some exceptions.

Advertising for the South Look section must be submitted by Thursday, July 2 at 5 p.m. The advertising deadline for the service and professional directories will be Wednesday, July 1 at 5 p.m.

The Marshfield office of Mariner Newspapers will be closed Friday.

No stipend given

The Mariner inadvertently gave town Executive Secretary Greg Doyon a raise last week in an article about the town's hiring a temporary town accountant.

Doyon said he is not paid a stipend for the accounting duties he has performed as acting town accountant since the town's full-time accountant resigned to take a position in Scituate.

Effective July 1, the town hired Donald N. Jensen of Weymouth at the rate of $35 an hour to act as temporary town accountant until selectmen hire a full-time accountant.

An article on Jensen's appointment as temporary town accountant incorrectly stated that Doyon received a stipend.

Tides at all ports from Annisquam to Wellfleet are within 10 minutes of the above.

These hardy recruits lugged the Konohassett antique fire engine, property of the Cohasset Historical Society, during Sunday's Harborfest parade. They include: (names are not necessarily in order) Michael Bleakie, Matt Salerno, Cesar Emanuello, Tim Salerno. Glenn Pratt, Claudio Andjur, Rudi Jiminez, Danilo Romero, Neftaly Cruz, and Tate Purrington.

Taste buds tell all at chowderfest

Sunday's chowderfest was not the place for the calorie conscious.

But it was just the place for chowder connoisseurs like Ann Leonard and Libby Pompeo.

Four restaurants competed for local bragging rights in the annual Harborfest chowder-taste competition Saturday.

Tops with Leonard was the traditional Chart House chowder.

"It was consistent," she noted. "And it had just clams in it."

But Pompeo couldn't disagree more.

"It's not traditional New England," she said. "It's thickened.

"It's not the way we used to make it. It's not authentic," Pompeo said.

Louis Sineone said to heck with tradition.

"I'd rather chew a scallop than a clam any day," he said. Tops with Sineone was Kimball's chowder that included shrimp and scallops.

Nearly 600 hungry folk paid $4 each to chow down the various chowders with 484 opinionated enough to cast their ballots.

Kimball's edged out Star's of Hingham Harbor; and tied for third were the Red Lion Inn and Chart House, said Don Harrold, who collected the ballots Saturday.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

PRINTED FROM FABLE

QUESTION: Why should I use the services of a REALTOR when I can buy all the real estate forms I need at the stationery store and just fill them in myself?

ANSWER: These printed forms are only a starting point. There are dozens of varieties of deeds, leases, and mortgage forms. Which ones are to be chosen to best protect yourself is a good question for openers. Then, it's what goes into the blanks, what is crossed out, and what is added that gives you the value, security and protection that you pay the experts for. Believe me, some of the largest financial losses and legal entanglements have resulted from printed forms being incorrectly used.

Crowds flock to Cohasset's annual festival

Nearly 10,000 folk from near and far crowded into Cohasset over the weekend to enjoy the town's 37th annual South Shore Arts Festival and second-annual Harborfest.

As things wound down late Sunday afternoon, Chamber of Commerce President and Harborfest steering committee member Bob Martin pronounced the event "terrific."

Fellow committee member James Lagrotteria, who said planning for 1993's event begins almost immediately, put in an order for the future: "no thunderstorm surprises — only good weather" next year.

There was something for everyone.

For those who love a parade — this year's featured the Hingham Militia, color guards from Fort Independence in Hull, an antique fire engine, kids with decorated bikes, bands and much more.

Floats of note were one of Columbus' vessels, a boy scout float honoring the history of scouting, and a recycling float entitled "Stay afloat."

Ben Litthauer, 11, was the brains behind the ingenious recycling float.

He tied detergent bottles to an old door to make a floatable raft.

"When kids see inventions in it (trash) not problems, there's going to be solutions in this," said Alix White of Jerusalem Rd.

Several hardy men pulled an antique fully restored fire engine, which belongs to the historical society, the old fashioned way — by hand.

In addition to Sunday's chowderfest on the common and Blessing of the Fleet benefit lunch at the Chart House, there was food galore from a variety of vendors.

Fried dough, Chinese egg rolls, Italian sausage, and fresh squeezed lemonade were just some of the highlights.

The Second Congregational Church added strawberry shortcake to the list of sweets offered.

Dozens of crafters displayed their wares, making the near common resemble a tent village.

There were quilts, clocks, dolls, jewelry, frames, silkscreens, baskets, wood crafts, wind wriggles that spin, and canvas bags on offer.

Lagrotteria said he got the idea for Harborfest at Sunfest at Palm Beach.

"I thought, 'what a great idea'," he recalled. "So I talked to Bob (Martin) and we started talking to some people in Corporation.

He said because storms of this type only hit some towns severely, it's difficult to warn people.

"Only 10-20 percent of Eastern Massachusetts may have seen a storm that heavy," Taylor said.

Nadeau said alarms can be set off by a power surge during thunderstorms.

While firefighters investigated the alarms sounding at town hall, a medical call came in that a woman was down at the community center. Finegan said the woman had a broken elbow.

Then at 4:34 p.m., the Paul Pratt Library came in.

At 4:41 p.m., lightning hit a home on Red Gate Lane; calls followed at Joy Place and Linden Drive. The fire department also responded to a call for mutual aid on Gannett Road in North Scituate.

The home at Red Gate Lane sustained minor damage, Finegan said.

"Things had calmed down by 7:30 p.m.," he added.

Brad Johnson, spokesman with Easter Edison, said 12 homes in the Beechwood section of Cohasset were without power for 1-3/4 hours during Saturday's storm. There were scattered individual outages throughout town, he said.

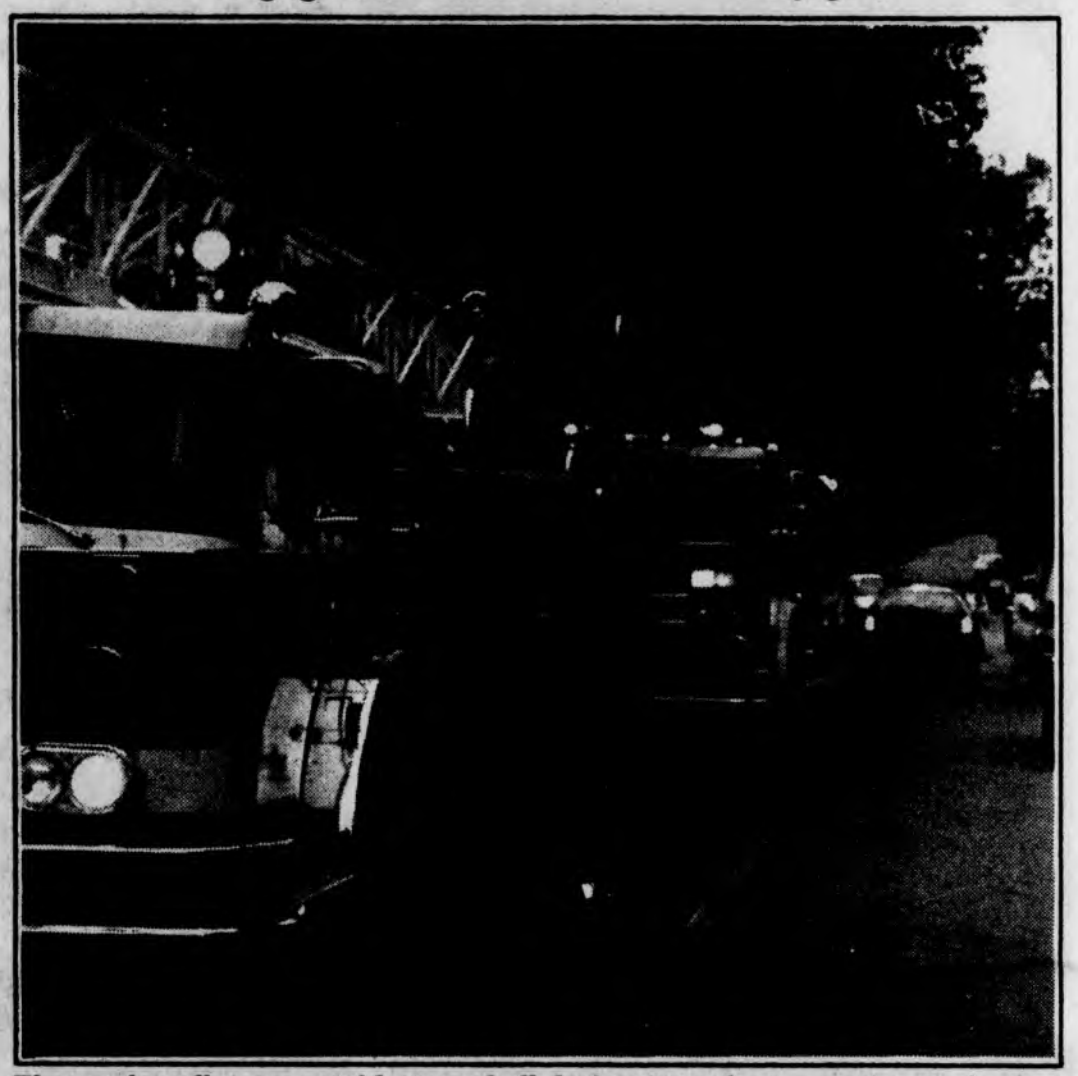
Johnson said Cohasset outages were minor compared with some other towns.

East Bridgewater had the most power outages; and homes in Hanson and Plymouth were hit by lightning, Johnson said.

The storm cut short some of Saturday's Harborfest events.

The model sailboat races, which were cancelled due to the storm, will be rescheduled for this weekend, Recreation Director Jack Worley said.

The long boat race was also cancelled.



"All water-related activities were stopped," Worley said. He said the water-balloon toss set for the harbor was also cancelled.

"We had to pop all the balloons," he said.

While Sunday — the final day of Harborfest — brought clear skies and no surprise thunder storms, firefighters kept busy with three medical calls.

Cohasset firefighters provided aid to a Cohasset man injured in a bicycle accident in Hull in the morning; a seven-year-old Scituate boy who collapsed at Stop&Shop in the afternoon; and a Scituate man injured in a motorcycle accident on Border Street.

"Sometimes it's quiet and sometimes we work our tails off," Finegan said about the weekend.

Fire engines line up outside town hall during Saturday's surprise Harborfest thunderstorm. An electrical surge set off fire alarms all over town.

town."

Lagrotteria said the arts festival had been losing money and there was a chance it wouldn't be held.

"That cannot happen—the arts festival is the one big cultural event Cohasset has.

"So we thought of combining the Harborfest with the arts festival," Lagrotteria recalled. "And the townspeople, selectmen, and organizations have been more than cooperative."

And one of the side benefits of the combination may be that more people are exposed to art.

Lanci Valentine, South Shore Arts Center director, was amazed Sunday with the crowds.

"Have you ever seen so many people look at art?" she said. "It's mind boggling."

Tom Sharpe came all the way to the Harborfest from Saratoga Springs, N.Y. Here he helps anchor the tent sheltering the dolls created by his wife as the storm broke out Saturday. (Staff photo/Mary Ford)

Quarterly tax . . .

Under the quarterly system, the first two bills (due Monday, August 3 and Nov. 2) are preliminary and are based on the tax paid in FY'92 after abatements and exemptions.

The balance of the tax remaining after credit for the two preliminary tax bills is payable in two, equal installments, due Feb. 1 and May 1, 1993.

The first actual bill will be sent out on or before Dec. 31 (and is due Feb. 1). This bill reflects the assessed valuation of the property; the tax rate; and amount of property taxes owed for the fiscal year including any betterments, special assessments, or other charges added to the tax.

Joseph A. Divito, Jr. of the assessor's office said the switch to quarterly tax bills will not affect abatements and exemptions.

Property owners must file for abatements within 30 days of the mailing date of the first actual bill, which is usually the third bill (due Feb. 1), he said.

Those applying for exemptions such as veterans, the elderly, and surviving spouse, must apply within three months of the mailing date of the first actual tax bill.

Ripley praised the senior citizens from the Council on Aging who volunteered their time to stuff the envelopes for the first billing.

They "were a tremendous help," she said.

Helping out were: Maria Perroncello, Elizabeth Abell, Olga Sawchuk, Tilly Nardo, Ann Leonard, Pauline Keating, Jacqueline Moore, Sheila Kelly, Mary Migliaccio, Mary Coffey, Libby Pompeo, Mary Keating, and Mary Andracchio, Ripley said.

More melee = more arrests . . .

Bestick of Beechwood St., who was taken to South Shore Hospital, where police said he was treated for a head injury and released..

Noonan described the incident as "worrisome."

"It's been brewing for weeks," he said.

Noonan said Cohasset police have received reports from Hull police about Cohasset youths stirring up trouble in that town and visa versa.

Noonan said youths injured in the melee appeared to be innocent bystanders.

Police said in an unrelated incident the same night, Paul Bilodeau, 17, of 75 Doane Street, was struck by a car, driven by Sean C. Milligan, 17, of Linden Drive, in the police station parking lot off Elm Street. The incident occurred at 10:43 p.m. Bilodeau was transported to South Shore Hospital where he was treated and released.

Police are citing Milligan for operating to endanger, failure to yield to a pedestrian, and having no license in his possession. Noonan said police will seek complaints through court against Milligan on the three charges.

Visual smorgasbord . . .

Donovan's first place oil painting, "Thompson's Island." His landscape rendered in dark green and brown tones was set of by a pale aqua sky.

Becky Haletky's name popped up in several places during the course of the festival. Haletky took first place for her watercolor, "Nantasket Beach."

She turned her focus on Al's, a steakhouse on the main drag, which she painted in a realistic and highly detailed style. Al's neon lights were echoed by the rose-colored sunset reflected in the restaurant windows. Haletky received a special award for her acrylic work, "In the Modern Diner" and earned third place for photographic special effects in an entry entitled "Soho Quilt #1." Despite its name, the photograph shows multiple views from different perspectives of a cityscape.

Obviously as prolific as she is talented, Haletky also had a mixed media entry in the juried exhibition and another acrylic work hanging in the members show.

Exhibit visitors couldn't miss "Mary." The eyes in this incredibly detailed giant charcoal portrait compelled you to take another look at this elderly lady. Mary Good gave us an elderly woman of tremendous beauty, seemingly oblivious to the wrinkles earned in a lifetime of living. The festival judges awarded Good first place in the drawing and pastel category.

The prize for graphics went to Elaine Mann for "Scituate Harbor." Mann showed us moored dories at nightfall in the harbor. In the background, the lighthouse at Cedar Point can be dimly seen through the dusk. Mann, who also had a mixed media entry in the exhibition, is preparing for a summer-long show of her work in the south of France.

Stephanie Roberts took first place for her study of birds in the mixed media division. Roberts entered at least two other works in the exhibition.

Don Wesley Alger's sculpture, "Karizmatic Killer," defies description but drew crowds of fascinated art lovers. Alger used tree-shaped mesh forms shot through with what looked like a cross between an arrow and a paintbrush. Unable to find Alger to discuss his work, all we can say is viewers found it intriguing and fun to speculate about.

The sculpture category demonstrated the strong contrast and diversity that marked the festival exhibit: In strong contrast to Alger's piece, second place went to Tom Mahon for his shadow box display of two realistic blue birds mounted on a tree branch entitled "We Have to Fly South." Third place was shared by Gil Coyle for her painted and feathered stick horse and Michael McNabb's voluptuously curved, albeit abstract, untitled granite work while honorable mention went to Nancy Connolly for her version of the Russian fairy tale witch, Baba Yaga.

Reviewer's privilege allows us to single out Jane Bregoli's honorable mention for special notice.

Bregoli's oil painting, "Goat Lady Series #2," drew smiles from nearly every passerby opening night. Bregoli showed us a chubby old lady with a cast on one foot, a baseball hat advertising Hawaii on her head and a leash in her hand. Tethered at the other end was a goat. Both goat and goat lady had great smiles.

The only bad feature about this painting was the NFS notation on its identifying placard, indicating it was one of the few works in the exhibition not for sale. Everybody needs Bregoli's goat lady to cheer them through tough times.

Some critics still carp about photography and art. Each photographer in this exhibition turned his or her focus on a particular subject matter and chose the composition, perspective and lighting to best present it to the viewer. The skill of the photographer dictated the success of the work.

Julie White manipulated exposures to create the special effects in her award-winning photograph of Minot Beach bather entitled "July 4th."

First place for color photography went to Lynne Layman for "Kurfursten Damm-Berlin." Layman turned her lens on a highway from an aerial vantage point. Shadows and lights stretch out below the camera's eye as bicyclists and cars whiz by. A building and its billboard draws your eye toward the street scene.

The prickly textures of desert plants fills the frame of Mary Violette's "New Mexico." The sharp detail of the tree trunk in the foreground could draw splinters if handled. Violette earned a first place ribbon for her skill.

The photography exhibit also displayed a wide range of subject matter. The three people behind bars in J. Paul MacDonald's Central American photograph stood in lonely contrast to the bouncing giant parade balloons of Uncle Sam, the Statue of Liberty and a liquor bottle in Kathy I. Chabot's "Inflated Americana." M. Tuitt focused on a hand dipping into holy water while Beverly Rippel gave us an "American Icon" — a Nike hightop on its athletic shoe store pedestal. That merely scratches the surface of the photographers' art.

Those who left the glories of art in nature for the trip down the street to the art center found other treasures in store.

Tom Lucas filled the main gallery with the brilliant colors, light and texture of Mexico's landscape, architecture and crafts in an exhibit entitled "Full Circle." Lush vegetation, terra-cotta pottery and colorful figurines filled many of the canvases.

Lucas frequently displayed a playful or whimsical sense of humor. "Aloe — Mischievous" showed a water fountain causes a potted plant to drip water out a crack along its pot and drip down a table. Among the offerings of fruits, vegetables and the religious icons and candles on the "Day of the Dead Altar" is a Pepsi bottle. Colorful Mexican folk figurines and statuettes run riot on a tabletop in "Creatures Great and Small."

Lucas moves easily from intimate settings to inviting garden paths and sweeping panoramic views. Still, it is the strong play of light and bright colors that suck the viewer in to his world.

Just when the festival of Mexico fills your eye and dazzles your senses, Lucas switches gears. "Ron's Garden" brings us to the more restrained and orderly world of Anglo formal gardens. "South End Window" hides its interior behind a lace curtain and window grille.

Lucas ends the exhibit with the playful point-counterpoint of "Victorian Iron." A riot of vegetation threatens to escape the proper Victorian wrought iron fence that guards the brownstone steps and a face peers out at us from the garden.

Even when Lucas switches from bold hues to pastel tones, his colors remain lush. He doesn't overwhelm the viewer with detail or manipulate the emotions. He lets the beauty and warmth of his scenes invite you in to discover more.

All but three of Lucas' works are available for sale. Prices range from $600 to $1900.

Beyond the main gallery lies the members show where diversity continues to reign. Tom Lucas drew the unenviable task of singling out four works for special awards.

Esther Maschio's charcoal drawing of a man's shirt on a hanger, affectionately title "Honey, Is My Shirt Done," took one award. Susan White's camera captured a woman sitting on a flight of stairs marching up a graffiti-covered city wall and won a special award for her pains with "She Saw the Writing on the Wall."

Janet Blagdon took another award for her acrylic painting "Smoke Bush" with its pouffy pink blossoms. Her tree is suffused with light while the background lies in deep shade. Marcia Cannistraro's mixed media work, "Icon" rounded out the list of award winners.

If you missed the art festival, all is not lost. The Lucas exhibit remains on display until July 22. Although the members exhibit has been dismantled, visitors will find a treat in store with Virginia Avery's exhibit of "Impressions of Costa Rica" which opened June 30 and also continues through July 22.

The art center invites you to come and visit these dueling exhibits of life below the Rio Grande.

❑Congratulations Commander ...Commander Tom Wigmore that is! Tom attended the American Legion Convention last weekend, and won the post of Commander of the Sons of American Legion...his Dad, Steve Wigmore, pinned the Commanders Pin on him. It all took place June 27 in Marlboro, MA. Tom wants to thank Larry Souza and Brian St. John for their presence during the election, and we all know that Tom will do an outstanding job at his new post.

Again Tom, we salute you!!

❑ A group of students from Cohasset High School are in the process of completing a series of mural paintings depicting the four seasons. They have completed spring and summer and will continue with fall and winter next year. Each painting has a different feel and style. The murals are on the side wall of Tedeschi's Market. The wall is owned by the Pilgrim Cooperative Bank and Ed Mulvey has been very encouraging and supportive.

Jackie Dormitzer of the Cohasset Renaissance Group has also been a great art supporter. She and her group are dedicated to the beautification of the town of Cohasset. Beth Christoffel worked with various civic groups and businesses to fund the paints for the mural. Beth contacted Colleen Lucas, the art teacher at Cohasset High School with the idea to create a series of murals. Lucas and her students were eager to work on a project of this size. They also enjoyed being a part of the Cohasset Renaissance.

Hats off to the Mural Painters from CHS, Simone Carlisle and Cindy Fletcher, Ann Dane, Julie Workman (designer), Candice Buckley, Liz Corcoran, and Colleen Lucas, the dedicated art teacher who spent numerous hours to work with the students to make our downtown more beautiful!

❑ We have to give a round of applause to Stephen Pozatek, son of Zig and Ellie Pozatek! Steve certainly made a name for himself during his freshman year at Middlebury!! He made the dean's list, which is great, and he also played on Middlebury's tennis team, where he was number one on the varsity team, and number one on the doubles team! All of that and he is a freshman folks.. he is bound to make the circuit if he continues, we sure wish him the best. And, we sure are glad he's on the top, he always has been in our book!

❑ Speaking of tennis, Cohasset has another budding star in the works! Nick Bollettieri is at the tennis academy in Bradenton, Florida, a world-famous tennis school. Nick will be there for two weeks, getting ready to face the South Shore League and be a member of the CHS tennis team next year, as a junior.

We will be reading the "ink", and we sure wish you well, Nick!

❑ What is this we hear about Jim Curley and his hats? We hear that his dog eats them as fast as Jimmy takes them off! Perhaps a cage is in order, at least until Jim's baby can control the pup!

In the meantime, hide those hats Jim!!

❑ The residents of Bates Lane extend their thanks to Danny and Judy Cellucci for the beautiful rock garden and the rock, that was engraved with Bates Lane. It looks grand, and everyone is so appreciative and thankful!

For the ages

So often the demands of everyday life deprive us of the opportunity to reflect on issues below the superficial layer of the daily circus.

Fourth of July, is of course a hometown and national celebration that has significance to all Americans.

Ironically its deeper meaning is often overshadowed by the celebrations in its honor.

In the third quarter of the 18th century a group of wise, but certainly not perfect men, joined together as representatives of their disparate colonies. They pledged their collective fortunes, their sacred honor and their lives to an ideal vision, tempered by knowledge of human nature.

This gathering was in defiance to the status quo. Their act, from the British perspective was treason and they were traitors—to us they are heroes.

The Declaration of Independence was the first fruit of their labors. It produced the seed from which the Bill of Rights and the Constitution grew.

The Declaration recommends radical action after detailed documentation of the Crown's abuses. The founders believed that the seriousness of the act of rebellion—a capital offense—required justification by closely reasoned argument. As such it is carefully constructed, yet the passion of its claims to freedom echoes down to our times. It is a challenge to each generation of Americans, to reaffirm and refine these freedoms.

The prose of the document, written by Jefferson, is precise and modestly elegant without being saccharine. It speaks of ideals but these ideals are not based on naivete. Rather, the entire premise of democracy is based on the realization that humans are prone to abuse of power, QED no one should hold too much authority over another.

Wisely, these men posited ultimate authority in the hands of a higher being so that no person could deprive the God-given rights of another. Equally wise, the founders did not define the nature of the deity and left the definition and worship, or not, as another unalienable right of individuals.

The logic of the Declaration was not fulfilled until the abolition of slavery and the enfranchisement of women.

And still today, much remains for us to live up to its hopes of social justice. It stands, even now, as a challenge to our will and vision as a people.

This Fourth, the Mariner recommends a re-reading of the Declaration of Independence. The few minutes it takes will be enlightening and refreshing amid the clutter of yet another election year.

The Declaration of Independence

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776
The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitled them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among [illegible] their just [illegible].—That [illegible] governments [illegible] les and [illegible] governments [illegible] ged for [illegible] disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they [illegible] that when a long train of [illegible] pursuing invariably the same object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security.—Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighbouring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

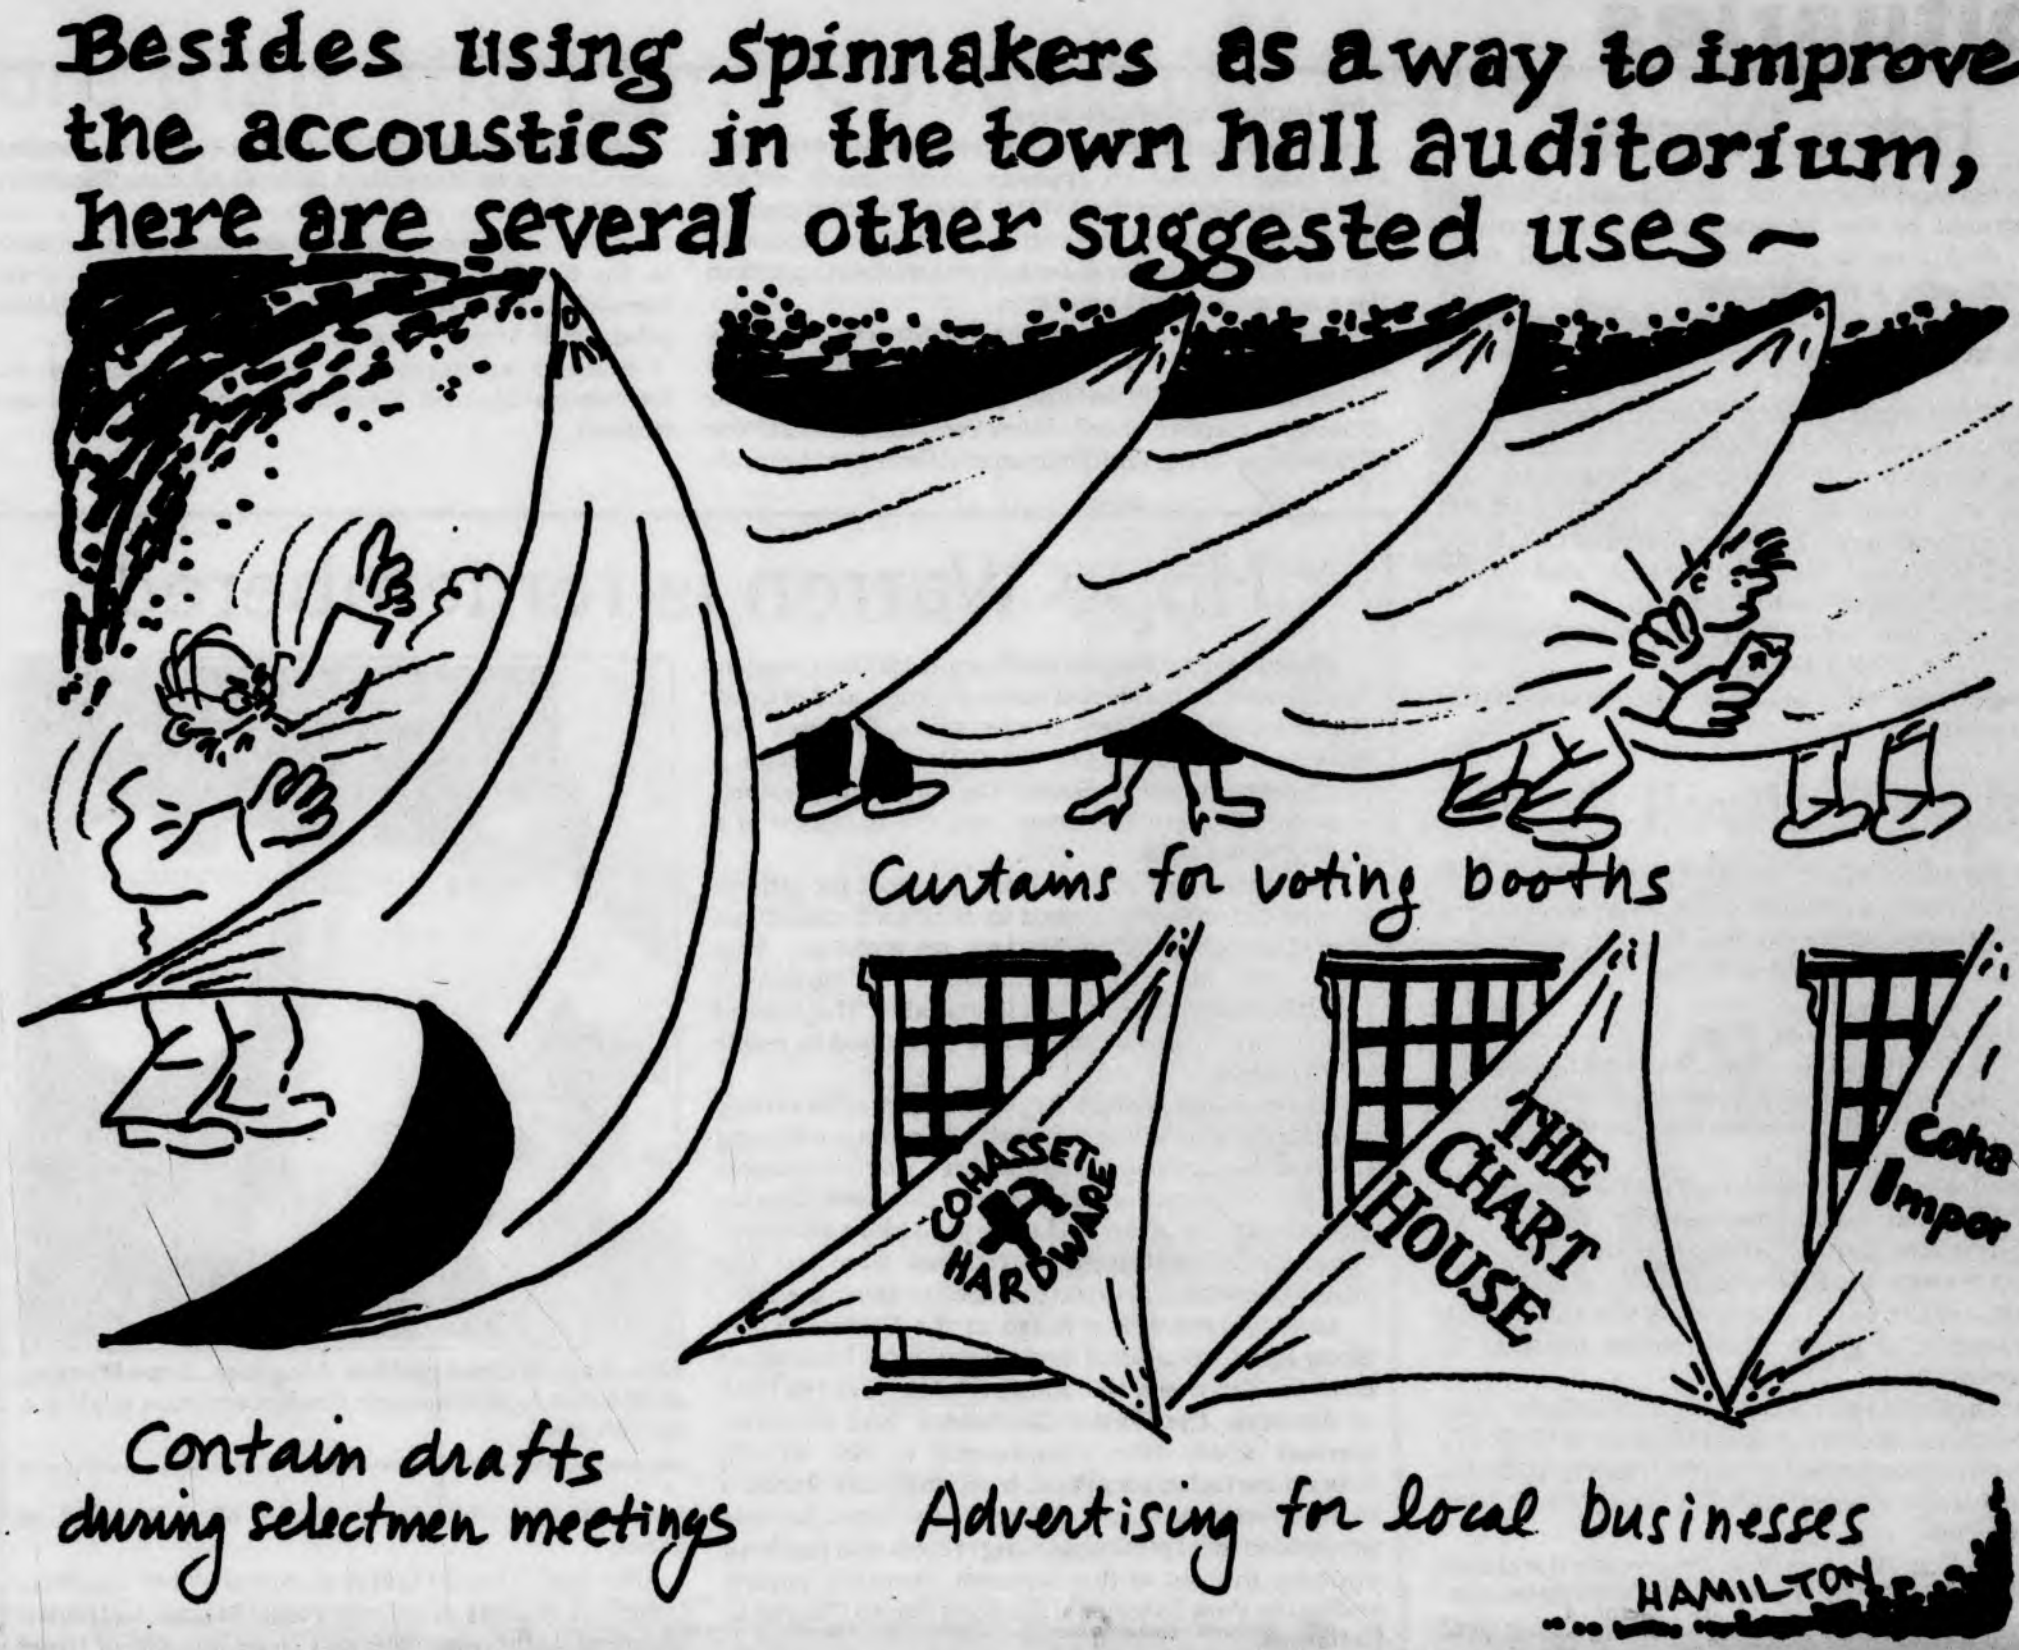
For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy of the head of a civilized nation.



He has constrained our fellow citizens taken captive on the high seas to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

WE, THEREFORE, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by authority of the good people of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as free and independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

QUESTIONS

	Senator Robert Hedlund (R-Weymouth) 722-1646 Room 416B	Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset) 722-2800 ext.7067 Room 134
	VOTES
THE HOUSE AND SENATE. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on eight roll calls from the week of June 22-26. There were no important roll calls in the House.
(Senate) MICHAEL KELLY (S 1636) — Senate 19-17, refused to suspend rules to allow immediate consideration of an order establishing a special committee to investigate the circumstances surrounding the release of accused murderer Michael Kelly from the Dangerous Persons Center at Bridgewater State Hospital. Kelly is accused of committing two murders after his release. Supporters said it is time to examine the outrageous problems of releasing people while they are still a threat to society. Opponents said the Post Audit Committee is already addressing the issue. (A "Yea" vote is for rule suspension. A "Nay" vote is against it).	Y
(Senate) SEXUAL ABUSE (H 2107) — Senate 20-17, rejected an amendment to the House approved bill extending the time period during which a minor victim of sexual abuse can bring a civil suit. The bill extends the current period of up to age 21 and permits a suit within three years of the act or resulting emotional problems. The amendment prohibits suits after 30 years following the act. Amendment supporters said any suit beyond 30 years is a stretch and will make a trial difficult and unfair. Opponents said it can easily take more than 30 years to acknowledge such abuse. (A "Yea" vote prohibits suits after 30 years. A "Nay" vote allows them).	Y
(Senate) NEEDLE EXCHANGE (S 1498) — Senate 20-13, refused to discharge onto the Senate floor for action a bill establishing a local option one year pilot program for the exchange of hypodermic needles and syringes. The program would only be implemented in communities which agree to participate. Bill supporters said this controlled program will provide clean needles for drug users and help stop the spread of the HIV virus. Bill opponents said it is wrong to distribute needles and encourage drug use. Some opponents of discharge said they supported the bill but opposed discharge until the committee chair has had time to study the bill. (A "Yea" vote is for discharge onto the floor for action. A "Nay" vote is against discharge).	Y
(Senate) APPROVE BUDGET (H 5700) — Senate 38-0, gave near final approval to its own version of a $14.4 billion fiscal 1993 state budget. This version is estimated to cost hundreds of millions of dollars less than the House approved one. Supporters said this package is a balanced and fiscally responsible one which eliminates the red ink in the House version and continues fiscal stability. (A "Yea" vote is for the budget).	Y
(Senate) VIDEO POKER (H 5700) — Senate 22-13, approved an amendment establishing a commission to institute video lottery games in the state. Amendment supporters said this would raise millions in revenues by allowing video poker and blackjack type machines in Massachusetts. Opponents said the games are unnecessary and will lead to more gambling while making the state the Las Vegas of the East. (A "Yea" vote is for the video games. A "Nay" vote is against them).	N
(Senate) CLOTHING (H 5700) — Senate 28-10, rejected an amendment reducing from $150 to $75 per child the proposed clothing allowance for Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients. Amendment supporters said the reduction will save $15 million and argued since there are no controls over the money some families spend it on drugs and alcohol. Opponents said this is a mean spirited cut and argued $150 is a tiny amount to provide a basic need for poor kids. (A "Yea" vote is for $75. A "Nay" vote is for $150).	Y
(Senate) MBTA (H 5700) — Senate 22-16, rejected an amendment raising MBTA subway fares from 85 cents to one dollar and bus fares from 60 cents to 90 cents. Amendment supporters said state funding of the T is excessive and argued these modest hikes will properly put more of a burden on riders rather than other taxpayers who don't use the T. Opponents said a hike should not be imposed without a public hearing. (A "Yea" vote is for the hikes. A "Nay" vote is against them).	N

She was a lyricist who wrote the music and words to many of the shows performed annually by the Vincent Club. She was instrumental in writing the Vincent history for their 100th anniversary show.

In a 1984 interview in the Marshfield Mariner, Mrs. Poor talked about an appearance she made on the Steve Allen Show in the 1950s. Mrs. Poor had penned the words to a song she entitled, "My Night To Howl." She submitted it to the show and was invited to perform the tune on national television.

Mrs. Poor was the wife of the late Stearns Poor. She leaves two daughters, Eleanor Poor of Cambridge and Hope Poor of Marshfield Hills; three sons, Stearns Poor of Georgia, Harris Colwell of New York and Bennett Poor of Brookline, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Memorial services will be held at the North Community Church in Marshfield Hills at 11 a.m. Thursday, July 2. There are no visiting hours.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the North Community Church, Old Main Street, Marshfield Hills, 02051, or the Vincent Memorial Hospital, Fruit Street , Boston, 02114.

Funeral arrangements were completed by the McNamara-Sparrell Funeral Home of Cohasset and Norwell.

Hope Warren is remembered

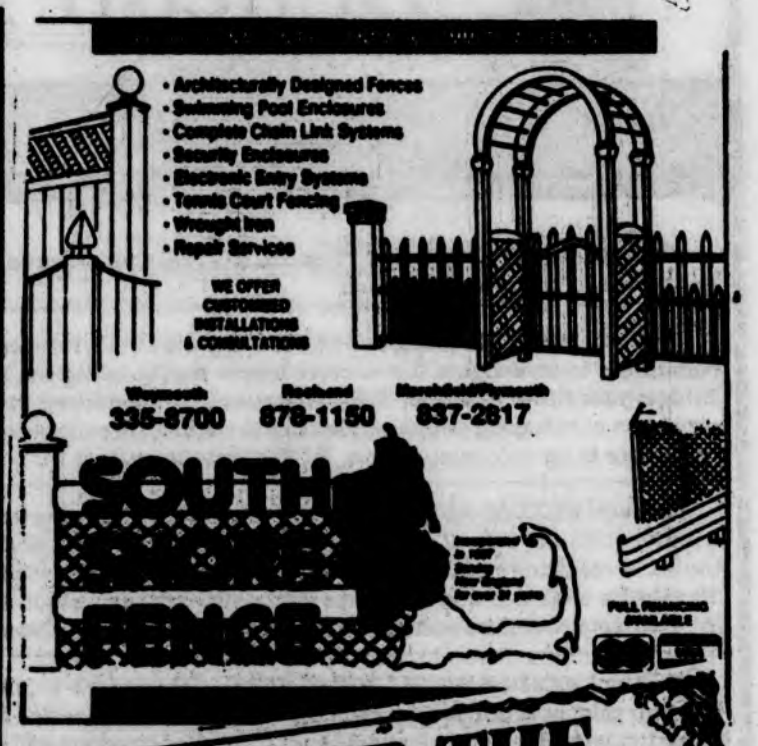
Hope (Savage) Warren was born in 1900 in Camden, S.C. She was the oldest of seven siblings, and of those she is survived by her younger sister, Florence. Her father, a coffee broker from Boston, became a plantation owner in South Carolina. Her mother, from St. Augustine, Florida, was the daughter of a Civil War surgeon.

Hope attended Ashley Hall, a school for girls in Charleston and was raised in Southern traditions. She married Langford Warren, an architect, from Cambridge, MA. She met him while visiting Beacon Hill relatives summering in Barnstable. They raised a family in Cohasset, where she continued to reside for 65 years.

She was always a culinary enthusiast. After raising her family, Mrs. Warren was able to pursue a lifelong interest in gardening. She almost single-handedly converted the yard of her home in Cohasset from an ex-contractor's repair and store yard into a botanical "shangri-la" which in 1974 was awarded the Massachusetts Horticultural Society silver medal.

Mrs. Warren was a judge at the Boston Flower Show for Horticultural Society and later became an advisor. She was also a member of the Garden Club of America, the Winter Gardeners, and Cohasset Garden Club. She volunteered at the Arnold Arboretum in Jamaica Plain, from which she obtained many specimens donating them to the town. She was involved in local public planting of trees and gardens, such as, in front of the Cohasset Historical Society and at the Parish House of the First Parish Church in Cohasset.

She enjoyed the hands-on work of beautifying the landscape of the world around her, and accomplished much of this while being legally blind the last 30 years.



Mrs. Hope Warren and her daughter, Hope Morgan of Montana, share some fond memories during a recent visit.

She died June 20 and is survived by her children: Langford Warren of Kittery Point, Maine; Catherine Moore of Cambridge, MA and Hope Morgan of Great Falls, Montana; seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

"That's the sound my back made when I threw it out. It wasn't loud and it wasn't dramatic. All I knew was; I couldn't stand up straight, and the pain was almost unbearable. You know the kind of pain I mean—where it's so intense, it's all you can think about. I tried a couple of over-the-counter pain relievers, and they were no help. Then my next door neighbor suggested I call SportsMed. So I made an appointment. When I got there the therapists could see I was in obvious pain. Within half an hour, the sharp pain was gone, I walked out standing straight up and three weeks and a lot of exercise later, I went back to work—full time and pain-free."

Quigley: destroying fox was wise decision

By Mary Ford
Mariner staff

Responding to complaints that a fox acted strangely at on the grounds of the Cohasset Country Club, animal control officer Bill Quigley went to have a look for himself, June 19.

"For approximately 30 minutes, I watched the fox roam from the North Main Street side of the course to the Lamperts Lane end of the course and back to the North Main Street side," Quigley wrote in a memo to selectmen.

He said the fox approached people running lawnmowers and driving golf carts.

"Normally, foxes are terrified of machinery," Quigley said in a telephone interview.

At that point, Quigley said for public safety reasons he decided to destroy the fox. He used a shot gun.

Greg Mertz, director and veterinarian with the New England Wildlife Center, performed the necropsy (animal autopsy) on the fox.

He said it appeared the fox was suffering from mange, a parasitic disease. Because the fox was frozen at the wildlife center for several days before the necropsy was performed, it could not be determined if the fox had with distemper.

There is currently a distemper epidemic among raccoons in the area; foxes can also be affected.

"The fox's stomach contained four shrews so it was eating well," Mertz said. "My guess is if it had distemper, it wouldn't be eating so well."

The animal was tested at a state lab in Boston for rabies.

Mertz said he cut his finger while performing the necropsy.

He said the fox was tested for rabies "on the outside chance" it was infected.

Mertz explained that foxes are not nocturnal, like raccoons, but are crepuscular meaning they roam at dusk and dawn.

Mertz said in his opinion trapping the fox would have been a "better course of action" than destroying it.

But, Quigley said, there were three reasons behind his decision: the fox was out in the daytime which is not normal; it was disoriented; and half its fur was gone with mange.

"If I left and it had bit someone — then I open the town and myself up to real problems," he said.

Quigley added that he doesn't have a trap large enough for a fox.

"And it's tough to trap them," he said.

Quigley said he will approach selectmen soon for money so he can obtain a vaccination against rabies as a preventative measure.

State officials predict rabies will enter the state and start to infect the raccoon population by the end of the summer.

The state department of public health recommends that all people who are exposed to wildlife on a regular basis be vaccinated against the disease.

Dr. Alfred DeMaria, state assistant commissioner of communicable disease control, said the pre-exposure vaccine, which requires three doses, costs between $60-$100.

Treatment for someone exposed to rabies, which is more involved, costs about $700, he said.

In anticipation of the rabies epidemic, a bill requiring cats be vaccinated against rabies is currently being viewed by the the state senate. State law requires all dogs be vaccinated. And many states, including Connecticut, require cats to have rabies vaccinations.

Quigley says cats are more likely to contract the virus.

"They are out there roaming and are more likely to come in contact with a raccoon or fox," he said.

Quigley noted that "animal control is not taken seriously in New England.

"We are pretty much in the dark ages," he said.

Quigley is paid $381 a month to work about nine hours a week in Cohasset, although he says he puts in about 15 hours a week.

The town of Hull has no dog officer because of cut backs.

Quigley explained that the position could be self-sufficient if the dog officer had the time to pursue unpaid licenses and fines.

Cohasset has a "full" leash law, Quigley said. A dog must be under the owner's control at all times. He said the animal does not have to be on a physical restraint but the owner must be with the dog.

"If you say you can see your dog from the kitchen window — that's not enough," he said.

Quigley, who uses his own garage to hold dogs overnight, said dog owners pay fines for not licensing their dogs; and pay a reclaiming fee when they pick up a dog.

Dogs that are kept longer than overnight are sent to a kennel in Dedham, he said.

Vo-Tech okays lightkeepers

The school committee of the South Shore Vocational Technical High School officially approved the renovation of the Cohasset lightkeeper's residence as the school's outside project for the upcoming year last week.

"It's going to be a win-win situation for the town and the school," said Larry Mitchell, Cohasset representative on the regional school board. "This is going to be very welcome by the community and it's a significant project for the kids."

That was good news for the Cohasset Lightkeeper's Corporation, the force behind the project.

Herbert Towle, the CLC vice president, shared the news at Saturday's Blessing of the Fleet benefit luncheon at the Chart House.

"With donors thoughtful help the corporation will give back to the townspeople a permanent, beautiful exposure to Cohasset's historical and maritime heritage at the former Lightkeeper's residence at Government Island," Towle told the 76 people in attendance.

The CLC, a non-profit organization, formed about a year ago to take on the renovation. When complete, the structure will contain two apartments and a large community room, available for town or group functions.

In March, the CLC obtained a ten-year lease from the town at $1 a year to take over the 140-year-old structure.

Towle said CLC volunteers began some removal work at the site this week.

At the luncheon Ed Fox of the Cohasset Rotary presented the CLC with a check for $10,000. The Rotary promised a $10,000 matching grant if the CLC could raise $50,000 within six months (starting April 1).

The group had more than $40,000 in contributions and Vo-Tech's donation of labor put the group well over $50,000, CLC officials said.

Vo-Tech student labor will save about $50,000 of the $140,000 estimated cost of the renovations. The entire project, including site work and a contingency fund, is estimated to cost $196,000.

Mitchell said the benefits of the project for Vo-Tech are two fold.

"There is a lot of diversity of skills involved in the renovation. And I'm interested in the exposure. It will definitely make people in town aware of the quality of work the kids are capable of putting out," he said.

"I'm very excited about it. I think the town is going to be pleasantly surprised. We're going to be able to show what we can do, rather than just talk about it," Mitchell said.

The project was reviewed and recommended by school staff and administration, Mitchell said. The school committee just gave it's seal of approval, he added.

The community project will involve the carpentry, heating and ventilating, and electrical departments of the school, according to Acting Superintendent Richard Burgess. Students will follow the architectural design provided by the Cohasset Lightkeeper's Corporation.

Festive Stratford, Canada

All The Town's A Stage!

Sunlight dancing on the tree-lined river.

Tranquility.

A stroll past some of the most attrative period buildings in Canada.

Applause.

A chance to chat with the most accomplished actors in North America, in the most famous theatre on the continent.

Stratford: nobody does it better.

It is the best classical repertory theatre this side of the Atlantic, in a setting so congenial, so imbued with the spirit of civilized adventure that over half a million people annually come to this town on the Avon River to savour the work of the greatest playwright in the history of our language, in some of the most winning productions ever staged, of Shakespeare, yes, but of the modern classics, famous and not so famous, as well.

The Stratford Festival is not only a world-class theatre operation whose magical backstage prop shops and underworld production facilities are always rave weekend tour venues, but the hub of some of the best motorcoach destinations in Ontario, Canada's largest, most diverse province:

Festival Theatre

metropolitan Toronto, long an American favourite as one of the best-planned, most human cities in the the world; the Mennonite heartland of Ontario's richest agricultural region, with its horsedrawn carriages and marvellous farmer's and crafts markets; and the summertime lakeshore towns along Lakes Huron and Ontario -- all just a daytrip away from an afternoon or evening of extraordinary theatre.

Stratford is not simply an international arts crossroads, counting among its past summertime residents, hard at work on the Festival's three stages, the likes of Sir Peter Ustinov, Jessica Tandy, Hume Cronyn, Christopher Plummer, Kate Reid, and Dame Maggie Smith: the city and its greenbelt are crisscrossed with some of the most charming walkabout parklands anywhere. One can order a picnic lunch at one of the superb restaurants or self-catering gourmet spots and dine on the riverbank, watching the gamboling swans, or take a few extra steps across a footbridge and enjoy lunch in the pine glades on Tom Patterson Island.

Stratford boasts three superb parks: Shakespeare Garden, a riverside herbarium and topiary garden under cultivation before the Festival was a glimmer in founder Tom Patterson's eye; Queen's Park, in the lee of the Festival Theatre, with its swaying waterside willows and weekend Art in the Park; and Confederation Park, a footbridge away from the Festival, a glorious sanctuary featuring a Japanese rockpool, whose waterfall will lull you.

It is a city of surprising quiet and privacy, where one can make one's own day in one's own way. This season marks the Festival's 40th year to be celebrated by four Shakespeare plays on the Festival's famous mainstage and a July 12th celebration day of Elizabethan rousting and jousting, roasting and busking, right on the river's edge, highlighted by film histories of the Festival. Or browse the book stores and antique shops, stopping in for a real ale in the same pub where the actors cool their thirst nightly.

Strraftford is emphatically a coordinated destination, with experienced restauranteurs and accommodation ranging from relaxed bed-and-breakfast to the luxurious, where the restaurants are so inspired there's a wintertime chef's school here, which continues to produce culinary talent second to none. Over 100,000 motorcoach patrons come to Stratford each season, and 100,000 student playgoers -- and they come back.

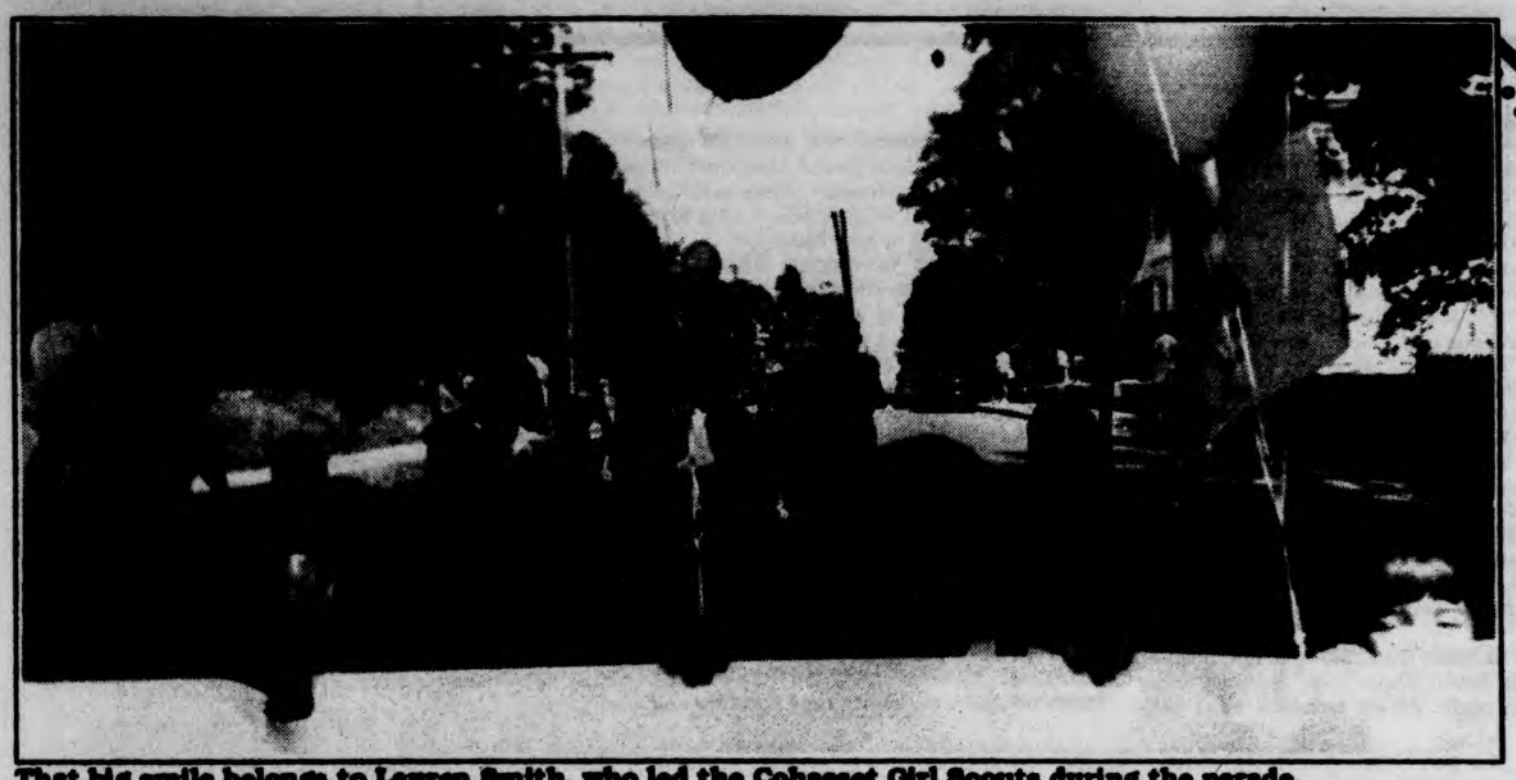
They come back because the Festival specializes in group packages featuring discounts for 85% of its total performances, performances which are superb value for one's arts and entertainment dollar versus any other theatre venue in the world.

And they come back because that dollar goes even further, with unparalleled free admission to events such as the Festival Orchestra's Saturday morning Workshop Concerts, where one might hear Brahms for breakfast or new works composed by Festival composers, not to mention the Meet the Festival chat sessions, where Festival actors, production, and technical people share the secrets of assembling a world-class production-- for free.

There's also a blossoming Fringe Festival, where the events are as offbeat and individual as the writer-performers can make them, with new play readings, actors' workshops, and Talking Theatre, a forum where one can relish debates on such topics as Shakespeare's ghosts or comedy in French-Canadian theatre with other Festival aficionadoes.

All this in service of the word -- because the Stratford Festival's forty years have produced startling theatre, true, but the plays themselves come to life here, first and foremost, because the Festival's playgoers know Shakespeare knew life and the living.

And Stratford is a place where all of a summer's day, life can be lived, both in the senses and in the imagination Shakespeare so stimulates. Nobody does it better.



For a Visitor's Guidebook to the Stratford Festival season and surrounding region, contact the Stratford Tourism Office at 1-800-561-SWAN or the Stratford Festival at 1-800-567-1600.

Musings

By John H. Cutler

❑ Today's quiz: At a formal dinner party, when may one drink from a silver goblet? Answer below.

❑ Ross Perot is so dedicated, he must feel like a cornerstone.

❑ Stop making fun of the VP just because he can't spell putatoe. Consider how eloquently he reads his teleprompter.

❑ Controversy equalizes fools and wise men and fools know it. This is called the hydrostatic paradox of controversy.

❑ No more positive brinking with Russia. Now let's finance a friendship with the other 14 Republics in the former Soviet Union.

❑ If you want to get anywhere in life, you've got to think ahead of the mob.

❑ Answer to quiz: When there's a beverage in it.

❑ The next President should name Carl Sagan as his Secretary of the Exterior.

❑ A legislator separates the wheat from the chaff, then enacts the chaff into law.

❑ I haven't seen a movie in years which has an actor putting ice in drinks.

❑ Music does not soothe the savage beast. It soothes the savage breast.

❑ Ron Reagan speaking: "Recession is when your neighbor loses his job. A depression is when you lose yours. A recovery is when Jimmy Carter loses his."

❑ A snob will admit you're as good as she is, if you'll admit that she's better.

❑ "In music, one must think with the heart and feel with the brain." George Szell said it.

❑ President Bush didn't keep his promise to give the Rio Summit a symbol of our contribution. He forgot to donate two tons of styrofoam coffee cups.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 -April 19) First, absolutely know what it is you want and need to exist. Once your "wish" list is complete, get out there and go for it. You are a winner, whether your focus is on work or on play. You'll find yourself bouncing and busy the whole holiday weekend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Explore all your options before even attempting to make a decision, which could still be put off for another week or so. You fall into the wild and crazy pace of the holiday weekend. There could be fireworks and passion mixed through next week. Expect a hot Fourth of July!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Money matters dominate this week. You think, live with, and talk about them until you decide it isn't worth the hassle. Nevertheless, you opt for a quiet, stay-at-home Fourth of July with just a friend or two. You're ready to handle things next week after this rest.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Know when the "force is with you," which is right now. A solar eclipse in your sign heralds new changes and new possibilities. Recognize just how much you are worth. By the way, be careful what you wish for—you may get it. Snap, crackle and pop all weekend long!

LEO (July 23-August 22) Kick back at the beginning of the week and reassess your situation. You pop out of the doldrums by the weekend to be a force on the scene. You want to go here and there, want to be with that special person, and just want, want, want. Proceed with care: this could be costly.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Your emotions seesaw all week long. Hold on tight as you flip from "just wonderful" to investing in tissue stock. You're back to yourself again by the weekend, without a care in the world. This one could be wild, very wild. You are the fireworks at all the holiday parties.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You are definitely a force to be noticed this week. You go for what it is you want, and (surprise!), you are likely to lasso in just that. By the way, even if you don't, you don't care, because something new, fun and wild occurs.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Creativity is stimulated to the "max" this week. You're able to put in one of your best work or play weeks—perhaps, both at the same time. This could be one of your all-time memorable Fourth of July weekends. Start smiling right now, because you get just what you want.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Renegotiate a contract as you find the solution that has eluded you up to now. Take some time out by the weekend to handle a very important phone call. Consider planning a special vacation for two very soon. You are the major focal point as far as the weekend celebrations go.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Be more direct dealing with a partner who may be putting out difficult and ornery vibes. Listen to your inner voice concerning how to handle a money matter. It could make a big difference. You take the "magical, mystery tour" this weekend and learn what true contentment is.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Get your work done quickly this week and express your freedom-loving side. Between business meetings and fun engagements, you get on the social calendar a bit early. What a close encounter the weekend brings—phew!

PISCES (February 19-March 20) You have a hard time getting into work this week. Once you start, however, you may have an equally hard time getting out of it. Firecrackers, rockets and cartwheels are all in the works, all weekend long, and possibly way past then, too. The heat is on—the kind you like.

King Crossword and Chess Quiz will return next week.
